FYI, Dave. The other editors will be Andrew Donohue (talking about the beach booze ban proposal), and Chris Reed (talking about SD's water supply issues, and the federal judge's ruling last week to cut the water supply deliveries from the Bay Delta to protect an endangered fish).

Well - we're getting closer. How about talking about the march to Iraq by all those members of Congress and the President to get their own assessment before the Petraeus report comes about and whether the signs are we'll have a troop cutback. You could also throw in stuff about the GAO report that came out this week showing that the Iraq government has barely touched the benchmarks. I think this is preferable to overtly pummeling the prez again. OK? I've sent you a piece of research by email to get your juices flowing.

Gloria,

I have not been following any of those stories, and today I'm slammed with work on our soon-to-be-launched website.

What are the other two editors covering? Does anyone have George Bush? I'd love to talk about the waves that the Draper book is making.

Hello Kent,

I understand you have returned to the North County Times - so let me extend my best wishes to you on resuming your position. On behalf of the Editors Roundtable producers (and myself, of course), we hope that your life will be filled with the happiness that you deserve to help balance your tragic loss of Joel. When you are ready to return to the show, please let me know. We are eager to welcome you back to KPBS.

Subject: More ideas for our noon meeting

1. Good for John: this week, the national convention of the Community Action Partnership (poverty-fighting agencies) meets in San Diego. A national poll in June showed that poverty is high on the list of priorities for Americans. Yet today's news says the nation's poverty rate has dropped. So is the news good or bad re poverty?
2. So what's with sex scandals and Republican legislators? David Vitter, Mark Foley, Bob Allen, and now Larry Craig. Plus all the other scandals - Cunningham, Jack Abramoff and so forth.

3. What will we do without Wonder Bread. Are twinkies next? Is the American diet really getting better and, if so, will some in the food industry suffer financially?
4. $20,000 Quick Shipper bonuses to convince new and prior Army recruits to ship out for training within 30 days. Some recruiters believe the extended tours of duty and the age limit raised to 42 are helping to fill the ranks, but some local Army recruiting commands see their numbers short of the yearly goal. Some recruits could tally bonuses up to $40,000 with enlistments of 4 years or more. So - are we becoming an army of mercenaries?

Hi Gloria, Hank, Ena and DJ-

Due to fundraising using ERT on October 12th for their pledge efforts, we have been asked by Cox to move the tape date to either October 5 or 19th.

Gloria, are you available both those days?

DJ, which date works best for scheduling?

Thanks everyone!

Shawn

PS- Claudine, regardless of our re-schedule, we are releasing the October 12th date from the television tape date schedule. Thanks for the heads up!

Hi Gloria and Hank-

Cox has inquired about changing a couple tape dates to the ERT schedule.

They would like to eliminate the September 28th taping and add a November 9th taping. Would that work for both of you?

Let me know, and I will update the schedule. Also, they are going to hold off another month on making any scheduling decisions past the November 9th date.

Thanks!

Hello,

I met with Jack and Alison from SDSU about their plans for SDSU month. Editors Roundtable came up as an option for an event that might be co-hosted by SDSU. Given our conversation about live events a few weeks ago, I took the opportunity to tell them that we'd be very interested in organizing a live ER event during March of next year.

That's all there is to it right now. Just know that this is on the horizon.

I would be happy to talk about this. Aguirre is right that the mayor has totally mishandled this. But he goes beyond that to flatly say the mayor is corrupt, which I think is a crazy and destructive thing to do unless you have hard proof.

JW and Chris,

We are on radio this week, so no need to dress up for TV. We still haven't settled on a once-around topic yet. We may decide to just go with the two topics we already have. I have some good suggestions for the once-around, and will let you know what we decide in the morning. If we do choose a once-around topic, I'll have a research article for you to read. We will have some extra time before the show because of the fundraising campaign.

Here's the topic order for tomorrow's show:

-Hunter Defends Earmarks for Jet- JW August

-County Health Benefits- Chris Reed

See you guys tomorrow!

Thanks,

Subject: June is National Homeownership Month

June is National Homeownership Month. With the high cost of real estate, the challenge for Californians to purchase their first home has never been greater. The California Housing Finance Agency, the state's affordable housing bank, offers downpayment assistance and affordable mortgage programs structured to help first-time home buyers.

One of the most innovative and helpful downpayment programs is CalHFA's Extra Credit Teacher Program. The ECTP is intended to help high priority schools attract and retain education professionals by offering an incentive in the form of downpayment assistance for the purchase of a home anywhere in California. Interest on this second loan is forgiven entirely if the borrower stays in a high priority school for three years.

Another great program is the School Facility Fee Downpayment Assistance Program. This assistance comes in the form of a grant, not a loan and it can be used to purchase newly constructed homes throughout California. The average grant is about $3,600 and it can be applied toward a downpayment, upgrades, closing costs or any costs associated with the purchase of the home.

There are many more downpayment programs through CalHFA. All have one thing in common - the payments are deferred, so the borrower doesn't have to really think about the second loan until the first loan is disturbed.

In addition, CalHFA offers fixed 30 and 40-year mortgages as well as the interest only PLUS loan. What sets interest only PLUS apart from other interest only loans is that there are no surprises -- the borrower knows what their interest rate will be for the entire term of the loan.

If you are planning any stories about National Homeownership Month I would be happy to set you up with someone from CalHFA who can talk about not only these programs, but the state of homeownership in California.

Best,

Jennifer Sweeney for CalHFA

CalHFA Celebrates National Homeownership Month

SACRAMENTO, June 5, 2007 - A home is more than a roof and four walls. It is a home to call your own; a place to raise your children, build your family and enhance your community; a way to provide financial security for the future. A home is a source of pride.

Homeownership is the cornerstone of the American Dream.

As America celebrates National Homeownership Month this June, the California Housing Finance Agency (CalHFA), the state's affordable housing bank, is helping Californians fulfill that dream by expanding its portfolio of products to make first-time homeownership more accessible than ever.

"We continue to seek out new, responsible options for first-time homebuyers," said Theresa Parker, Executive Director of CalHFA. "The challenge today for people trying to buy their first home in California is considerable. As we celebrate Homeownership Month, we encourage people to examine all the opportunities available to make the homeownership dream a reality."

Thanks to California's voters, CalHFA is receiving an additional $200 million as its share of Proposition 1C. These funds will ensure that the agency can continue to help make the dream of homeownership come true for California families for years to come.

"In celebration of National Homeownership Month, the Department of Housing and Community Development is proud to say that through the largest housing bond in California's history - Proposition 1C - there will be more affordable homes for Californians than ever before in the state's history," said Director Lynn L. Jacobs. "The $2.8 billion in funding will generate over 118,000 affordable homeownership and rental opportunities for our hard working families and neediest residents."

CalHFA has an amazing portfolio of loan products designed to help Californians afford their first home. In addition to a traditional 30-year fixed mortgage, CalHFA offers interest only PLUSSM, which reduces mortgage payments by hundreds of dollars per month, allowing borrowers to pay interest only for the first five years of a 35-year loan - and that low interest rate is fixed for the entire 35-year term. The unchanging interest rate means there are no surprises for CalHFA borrowers.

Another benefit is HomeOpeners®*, a Mortgage Protection Program. The program provides a benefit for borrowers who use CalHFA's mortgage insurance on any of CalHFA's first mortgage loans. Borrowers have their monthly mortgage payments covered for up to six months if they lose their job. The payment protection is automatically included with most CalHFA-insured loans and does not add cost to the borrower's mortgage insurance.

Last year, CalHFA introduced a 40-year, fixed-rate loan product. The low interest rate combined with the longer term gives first-time buyers a realistic chance of buying their first homes.

Loans from CalHFA are available to low and moderate income first-time homebuyers who meet CalHFA income limits and who are purchasing homes that fall at or below CalHFA sales price limits. Sales price and income limits vary by county.

CalHFA also offers seven different down payment assistance programs which provide the first-time borrower with a second loan to be used for a down payment, but payments on this loan are deferred, meaning there's no need to repay it until the home is sold, refinanced, or paid in full.

Two innovative down payment programs are the Extra Credit Teacher Program (ECTP) and the School Facility Fee Program (SFF). The ECTP helps high priority schools attract and retain education professionals by offering an incentive in the form of down payment assistance for the purchase of a home anywhere in California. Interest on this second loan is forgiven entirely if the borrower stays in a high priority school for three years.

SFF assistance comes in the form of a grant, not a loan, which can be used to purchase newly constructed homes throughout California. The average grant is about $3,600 and it can be applied toward a down payment, upgrades, closing costs or any costs associated with the purchase of the home.

CalHFA services only the prime market for mortgages and continues to be a safe, responsible option for first-time homebuyers. That means CalHFA provides high-quality mortgages that meet the standards set by Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac. Prime mortgage loans have low default risk and are made to borrowers with good credit and a monthly income that's approximately two and a half times their monthly housing expenses (mortgage payments plus taxes and other debt payments).

"Even in the best of circumstances, buying a home is a scary undertaking, but with a little extra research, first-time homebuyers can find resources to help them meet the challenge," Parker said. "Even when National Homeownership Month ends, state and local programs will continue to do everything they can to make sure the dream of homeownership stays alive for all Californians."

National Homeownership Month was initiated in 1997 as an effort to increase the number of homeowners throughout the United States.

Created in 1975 as the state's affordable housing bank, the California Housing Finance Agency has invested over $14 billion in non-taxpayer funds to help more than 146,000 California families live in a home of their own with a mortgage they can afford. For more information and a complete description of CalHFA's Homeownership, Multifamily, and Mortgage Insurance programs, visit www.calhfa.ca.gov or call toll free 877.9.CalHFA (877.922.5432).

Good time for a discussion on the war funding bill. I'm writing an editorial on the subject for tomorrow. This is always a red meat issue for left-leaning KPBS listeners. Bis Freitag.

Hello Editors,

I'm just checking in to see if you are all available for the Editors Roundtable this Friday (4/27). We are on TV this week. Please let me know if you are available, and if you already have a topic idea in mind.

Thanks,

Hank Crook

I'm available.

The U-T editorial page took on the hotel industry's effort to self-tax itself. I'd like to talk about that, and take the other side.

The City Council Rules Committee takes up the tax idea today and it is scheduled to be heard by the full council on Tuesday, so there should be some news coming out.

Promo:

The nation was shocked and saddened by Monday's shooting at Virginia Tech. Could the university have done anything differently to prevent the tragedy from happening? The editors at the roundtable will discuss what was learned from the Virginia Tech massacre. Also, SDSU was on high alert following a threat of violence that later turned out to be a hoax. Will the shooting at Virginia Tech, and the news coverage that's followed, encourage "copycat" incidents? And, if San Diego's police officers get a pay increase, should the firefighters get a raise too?

Tony Perry, San Diego Bureau Chief for the Los Angeles Times .

Andy,

I still don't know what the topics for Friday's show will be. Gloria has been out of town for the last couple days, so I haven't had a chance to talk with her about topics. I would imagine that we will want to discuss the school shooting that happened at VA Tech, and something SD City Budget related. Since the time for the show will be squeezed a bit because of the pledge schedule, we may only discuss two topics.

I think this is a good, general description of the show (this came from the website, and is very brief):

Local editors gather at the roundtable for opinions on the week's news. Gloria Penner hosts a lively discussion on controversial issues. The agenda ranges from local news to state, national and even international topics.

As far as other pitch points and mission statement type-stuff, let me think about that a little bit more. Gloria might have some interesting ideas or things to add about the show.

Here's a list of some of our main editors:

*Bob Kittle, Editor of the San Diego Union-Tribune Editorial Page.

*Tim McClain, Editor of San Diego Metropolitan Magazine.

*John Warren, Editor and Publisher of San Diego Voice and Viewpoint.

*Ruben Navarrette Jr., a member of the Editorial Board of the San Diego Union-Tribune, and a nationally syndicated columnist.

*Scott Lewis, co-executive editor for voiceofsandiego.org.

*Andrew Donohue, co-executive editor for voiceofsandiego.org

*JW August, Managing Editor for 10 News,

*Tony Perry, San Diego Bureau Chief for the Los Angeles Times,

*David Rolland, Editor of San Diego CityBeat,

*Alisa Joyce Barba, Western Bureau Chief for National Public Radio,

I hope this info helps you out. Let me know if you need some more info from me. Once I get the topics lined up, I'll let you know.

Thanks,

Hank

Andy,

Can I get back to you about this stuff on Tuesday? I can answer all these questions for you tomorrow. With Tom's situation this morning, I don't have much time to think about ERT today. Please remind me again tomorrow, and I'll give you all this info. As far as the usual list of Editors and the show's mission, some of that info might be available on the Editors Roundtable portion of KPBS.org.

Hey Hank,

I assume the answer is "not yet," but do you have any idea what the topics for Editors Roundtable will be on Friday? I'm preparing to write the pledge script for it.

Also, are there any pitch points about the show that you think I should make? Is there anything specific about ER's mission, value, goals, etc. you've been talking about in meetings in recent months?

Finally, will you send me a list of the usual suspects among the editors (names, job descriptions, and strengths or areas of interest if you have that)? I could probably name several of the off the top of my head, but I'm sure I'd miss somebody important.

Let me know.

All active-duty soldiers serving in Iraq and Afghanistan will see their deployments extended to 15 months. That's according to Secretary of Defense Robert Gates, who said the longer tours-of-duty are neccessary in case the on-going troop surge needs to be prolonged. The editors at the roundtable discuss the deployment extension. Plus, the National Association of Realtors is predicting a decline in home prices for the first time in decades. How low will home prices go? And, San Diego Mayor Jerry Sanders released his 2008 budget proposal. How can the City maintain the same service levels after laying off hundreds of employees?

Shawn,

I know we have ERT on TV this week, and I was thinking it might be a good idea to talk about using the ENPS system. Maybe on Tues. or Weds.? I just want to make sure we are all good to use the new system this week. Also, Gloria is out so Tom Fudge will be hosting. The Editors should be John Warren, Bob Kittle, and Tim McClain. Please let me know what day and time is best for you.

Thanks,

Promo:

Chula Vista wants to demolish its bayfront power plant. The Editors at the Roundtable will discuss the effort to create a new kind of South-bay waterfront. This week Chula Vista got the ball rolling by voting to get rid of the LS Power plant. Also, should Stephen Cushman be elected to a third term on the Port Commission? The editors discuss the push to keep Cushman. And, we'll talk about some new evidence that beefing up border security CAN help prevent illegal immigration. All that's next time on the Editors roundtable.

Hello All,

Here's the gameplan for the show. John will discuss North Korea disarmament, Bob will discuss the Wilkes-Foggo indictments, Tim will lead an expanded local discussion that focuses on the housing market and Mayor Sanders influence at City Hall. So, we will discuss a total of four topics. We will give Tim a little bit of extra time to discuss his topics. I will work with Gloria to make sure that we give everyone adequate time to discuss their topics. If you are thinking these rotarians are going to get a heck of an Editors Roundtable. You're right.

Thank you to Tim for expressing his concerns, and thank you to Bob for offering to take on the Wilkes-Foggo story. I think we are all in agreement that two international stories is too much for the show. We should discuss the Wilkes-Foggo indictments since it is the hot local story of the week. Hopefully, these are topics that everyone is interested in discussing. I will gather research on the local housing market and the Wilkes-Foggo story and send it your way soon. I will also e-mail some directions and the arrival info for the event shortly.

Please dispose of the Iraq research, we will not need it this week.

Hopefully this will be the final solution for the show.

Here's the topic order we've come up with:

-North Korea- John Warren

-Wilkes/Foggo Indictments- Bob Kittle

-Local Housing Market- Tim McClain

-Mayor Sanders Influence- Tim McClain

Is everyone cool with this gameplan? Please let me know if you have any concerns. Sorry to rearrange things so late in the week, but I think this plan will make the show a lot better.

Cheers,

Hank

Hi Hank,

Sure. I'd love to lead the discussion of housing. I've reviewed the January numbers from the San Diego Association of Realtors and am pasting below the latest news from Dataquest on housing. I expect the U-T will have an article about this tomorrow.

My thumbnail analysis is San Diego was ahead of the rest of Southern California in entering the residential real estate retreat. You can see evidence of that in San Diego's prices falling the farthest January-to-January while its sales figures are not down nearly as much as the rest of the region. What that means is San Diego home owners who chose to sell have recognized the reality of accepting a lesser price, so homes are moving, albeit slower than 12 months ago. On the contrary, sellers in other markets are holding back, so the volume is way down but prices are stable or even slightly up in most markets, because if folks can't get their asking price they aren't selling. Eventually, however, they will. The good news here is San Diego may lead the way out of the market, eventually.

Southland home sales: Slowest January since 1998, stable prices

eye each other without doing much last month, resulting in the slowest January in nine years, a real estate information service reported.

A total of 18,128 new and resale homes sold in Los Angeles, Riverside, San Diego, Ventura, San Bernardino and Orange counties last month. That was down 25.1 percent from a revised 24,209 for December, and down 17.2 percent from a revised 21,895 for January last year, according to DataQuick Information Systems.

A sales decline from December to January is normal for the season. The year-over-year decline was the most moderate since sales fell 14.8 percent last May. Last month's sales count was the lowest for any January since 1998 when 17,692 homes sold. Since 1988 the average January has had 18,610 sales.

Starting with the January numbers, DataQuick has changed the way it identifies so-called "arm's-length" transactions - normal deals with a buyer and seller and money changing hands. The change, the first since DataQuick began publishing statistics in 1989, takes advantage of significant data enhancements the past 18 years. While the revised numbers increase historic monthly sales counts by about ten percent, trends over time remain virtually unchanged. More about the change can be found at www.dqnews.com <http://www.dqnews.com> .

The median price paid for a Southern California home was $485,000 last month, down 1.0 percent from a revised $490,000 for December, and up 5.0 percent from a revised $462,000 for January last year. The overall median always declines from December to January because of changes in market mix. December's median matched the peak reached last June.

The revised historic monthly median prices have changed little - about one percent, on average.

DataQuick, a subsidiary of Vancouver-based MacDonald Dettwiler and Associates, monitors real estate activity nationwide and provides information to consumers, educational institutions, public agencies, lending institutions, title companies and industry analysts.

The typical monthly mortgage payment that Southland buyers committed themselves to paying was $2,263 last month, up from $2,242 the previous month and up from $2,130 a year ago. Adjusted for inflation, current payments are 6.9 percent above typical payments in the spring of 1989, the peak of the prior real estate cycle. They are 6.1 percent below the current cycle's peak last June.

Indicators of market distress are still at a moderate level. Financing with adjustable-rate mortgages is declining slightly. Foreclosure activity is rising but is still in the normal range. Down payment sizes are stable and flipping rates and non-owner occupied buying activity is down, DataQuick reported.

Hank and Gloria, between us and the world, doing Iraq and North Korea on the same program is ridiculous. Isn't there anything local we can talk about besides City Hall? Of course there is. Health Care. The Chargers. Declining school enrollment. The Port pushing ahead with a major waterfront plan that is contrary to the Peace/Roberts vision, more indictments in the Cunningham case, today's housing figures that show prices in San Diego dropping another 5.9 percent, the most in Southern California with the exception of Ventura, sheesh. You get the picture. They used to call this kind of journalism panel chat "Afghanistanazion," or something like that. That was before we had tens of thousands of Western troops in Afghanistan of course. But you get the picture.

The unraveling situation is Iraq is ALWAYS a compelling topic. I'm happy to discuss it and to discuss the UT editorial page's growing discontentment with a war we once supported. Bis Donnerstag. (Until Thursday.)

Hi Hank,

Good ideas.

For City Hall, how about a look at how Mayor Sanders is doing in influencing the agenda. We know what he has been unable to do: complete the audit, redo existing labor agreements, get the City Council to agree to let him change programs if necessary, end the DROP program, fill all the vacancies on the pension board and get this appointees (Davis anyway) to stay, get the city attorney in charge of the pension board and, insert himself as a player in the Charger's new stadium hunt and, what else?

What Sanders has done is advance a water and sewer hike that now looks to be the initial rate boost with other, meaningful increases to follow -- this can't be good news to businesses or citizens, so how is he selling it? -- convince the public he is mostly above the fray and is bringing honesty, stay real popular with voters, carry the water on an agenda of "less is reality," put his name behind the idea of raising water/sewer fees, possibly overhaul Park & Rec and more.

The Chargers are another idea. I bet this audience has lots of season ticket holders and lots of people who have served the the Holiday Bowl committees, etc., and have participated in the upside of professional sports. Where will the team go? Does the Steve Peace/Ron Roberts bayfront plan open the door again to a Downtown stadium? Should Sanders be more involved?

For the state, how about a look at the governor's health care plan. Wow. Where did that come from? Presuming a bunch of the Rotarians are businesses owners or executives, they have a financial interest in this grandiose experiment. Curiously, you are not hearing great outrage from the business community over mandatory health care. We just published an article where we talked with half a dozen insurance agents, and none of their clients are unduly concerned. Hmmm. Maybe most businesses are already providing insurance, so at this point they see no big deal? But there certainly could be bid deals. Such as making it mandatory, even for the employee who doesn't want it. And lots of businesses now pay 75 percent of the fee while the employees picks up the rest. Will the governor's plan make that a 100 percent payment? Then will businesses either lower the available coverage to get their costs back closer to Day One, or perhaps simply require their employees enroll in the state insurance program that will be created with this.

If we do Iraq, the politics is fun. It seems like stalemate, or un-meaningful resolutions are going to carry the day. Even weakened, the president is more than a match for this Congress. He is daring them to cut war funding and they won't.

Anyway, those are my ideas. I'd take City Hall, Chargers or the governor's health care plan.

Hello Editors,

I wanted to remind you that our Editors Roundtable on the Road event with Rotary Club 33 will take place this Thursday (2/15) at the Sheraton Harbor Island, West Tower-Bel Aire Ballroom.

Here's a link to a map:

<http://www.starwoodhotels.com/sheraton/property/area/map.html?propertyID=127>

I'm hoping that you guys can be at the event shortly after 11am, so that we can do a mic check promptly at 11:15am. We want to do the mic check before the Rotarians arrive at 11:30am.

I'm hoping to get the topics confirmed by tomorrow afternoon. So, if you have a topic in mind already, please let me know. If you don't have a topic yet, please start thinking about one.

Here's a couple ideas I came up with. It is still early in the week, so I'm hoping that more quality stories will surface tomorrow. Please let me know what you guys think.

Topic Ideas:

-2003 Audit Delays (Two weeks ago KPMG said the audit would be ready on Friday 2/16. Now both KPMG and the City Council say that won't happen. What's taking so long to get these audits completed? We could combine this into a sort of City Hall update and discuss a couple other stories) I think we should to something that relates to City politics.

-Water-Sewer Rate Increase (it looks like there could be 2 rate increases in the next year or so)

-Rady burglary- Has there been too much coverage of the Rady burglary that happened last week? Will the incident have a negative impact on the charities his family funds? Will wealthy philanthropists opt to stay anonymous for fear that they might be victims of the same kind of crime?

-2008 Presidential Candidates. So many candidates have already jumped into the race for 2008. We can talk about the latest announcements, the frontrunners, who's still expected to declare their intentions to run, and we can also talk about the impact of California moving the Presidential Primary to February. I think this will be a fun topic for our audience

-North Korea Nuclear Disarmament (this story is just breaking today, could be something to talk about by Thursday)

War in Iraq: Here are two topics that could be combined into an Iraq topic.

-Iran's involvement in Iraq (this story is getting hotter. US says Iran has supplied weapons to Shiite militias in Iraq. Iran says no we aren't. US says they will use force against Iran if they have to. Iran says they're ready)

-More Iraq Debate (we've covered this topic so much over the last few weeks, but it is still a hot story. With the House now taking up the debate, it may be worth talking about again)

Thank You,

Hank Crook

Has the San Diego City Council drained the strength from Mayor Jerry Sanders? The Editors at the Roundtable will discuss the council's decision to restrict Sanders' ability to cut city programs, and how that decision will impact future budget discussions. Also, how did a private company with no experience in treating waste water get a no-bid contract to build and operate sewage treatment plant in Tijuana? The editors wade through the muck, and bring us the truth about the Bajagua wastewater treatment plant. And, President George W. Bush released his budget blueprint this week. Who were the big winners and losers in the three trillion dollar proposal? All that's next time on the Editors Roundtable.

Dear Gloria,

I just checking to see if everything is proceeding for the February 15th Editors Roundtable. I spoke with Chet and he doesn't have the bios on the 3 speakers. I believe Chet will need a short blurb to place in the newsletter about the speakers. This is usually a short statement about who they are and what they do. Chet also needs to know what type of set up you would need for the discussion.

Let me know if I can be of any assistance.

Hi Gloria,

I am assuming there will be details regarding this program that will need special attention. I would like to start to get a picture of how you would like to see the day organized. We will need to start the program early and I want to be able to announce what time that will be at our next meeting on February 1 if possible. I would like to give our members 2 week's notice so as to avoid, hopefully, a lot of members coming in just as the show is starting. I would hope to have all settled in well in advance of 12:30 p.m.

Also, are there special arrangements that will need to be made with the hotel with regard to the sound, or anything else? If so, would you like Rotary to help coordinate that?

I want to help in any way you might need Gloria. Just let me know.

Have a great weekend.

Did President George Bush say anything in the annual State of the Union speech that will help him gain more support for his Iraq war strategy? The Editors at the Roundtable will discuss the State of the Union, and the domestic agenda that the president laid out for his last two years in office. Also, the field of 2008 presidential hopefuls is starting to get crowded. Who are the Republican and Democratic front-runners, and why are so many people jumping into the race right now? And, the City of San Diego will be selling off some of its real estate assets soon. What kind of real estate is for sale, and how much is the city hoping to earn by selling it? I think Tim might be good at talking about where the city is getting all its money now - from private financers. Is this a good thing? How much interest are we paying? What's in it for the banks and brokerage houses. What exactly does the attached info mean - that we need money for what? And what happened to the money we already paid for water and sewer.

I'm sure Bob will want to talk about Carol Lam - see editorial in U-T.

John might want to talk about reaction to Bush's plan and Bush's reaction to the reaction. Last night's interview with Jim Lehrer was revealing.
Or he may want to talk about the Gov's plan for universal medical care. I know plenty about that.
