ARRESTS MADE IN DECEMBER 2006 DOUBLE MURDER

San Diego Police Department Homicide Unit detectives have arrested two suspects for the December, 2006 murders of Brandon Hammond and Marcelles McElvaine in Bay Terraces.

On December 6, 2006, Hammond and McElvaine were standing in the 7600 block of Deep Dell Court when a suspect approached on foot and shot both men to death.

After an intensive six-week investigation by the Homicide and Street Gang Units, detectives identified Anthony Torian, 21, and Deeshawn Broadnax, 20, as suspects in the murders. On Friday, January 19, at 3:40 p.m., Torian was arrested in the 4300 block of Logan Avenue. Later that evening (7:30 p.m.), Broadnax came to police headquarters and was arrested as well.

Both suspects were booked in County Jail for two counts of murder.
