SCAM ARTIST WITH $1 MILLION WARRANT ARRESTED IN LOS ANGELES

(San Diego) Raymond "RC" Anderson was arrested on January 5, 2008 in Los Angeles after an anonymous caller gave the LA County Sheriff's his location. He is currently being held in a Los Angeles jail and will be brought to San Diego for arraignment within a few days.

Detectives say Raymond "RC" Anderson, 49, (pictured below) portrayed himself as a businessman and inventor to get victims to invest in his projects. He then spent the investor money on himself and tried to find new investors. Anderson's scams have spanned four or five years and have cost victims nearly $700,000.

If you believe you have been a victim of Anderson, SDPD Financial Crimes detectives want to speak with you. Names of the false projects he has set up include: Traffic Alert, Select One Technologies, Helmet Alert and Global Technologies. Anderson operated throughout California and in Nevada.
