Hundreds of local fifth and sixth grade students who participate in the School Safety Patrol program at their school will be treated to the San Diego Police Department's annual holiday party and carnival for their work throughout the school year. They are tasked on a daily basis with the safe movement of pedestrians and vehicles at nearly 90 schools throughout the city.

The highlight of the day will be the promotion of fifteen specially selected members. These students were chosen for their leadership and contributions to their school and community.

Chief Lansdowne will present awards at the ceremony which will take place in the Serra High gymnasium. Following the awards ceremony, all participants will enjoy a day of carnival games, food and a raffle.
