Bernard R Koen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The officer who shot Leslie Furcron in the face this past Saturday should be charged with attempted murder. Even if we were foolish enough to believe that he had not intended to shoot her in the face, the gross incompetence required to accidentally discharge a weapon while it is pointed at a someones face is grounds for charges. Please behave as if you believed that black lives matter and indict this monster.
Michelle Kim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Duncan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Leibowitz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aurian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please ban profiling on law enforcement activity. Invest in community policing programs. Remove the quota model for tickets and arrests
Laura Chinchilla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Zack Dowdy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Zack Dowdy, 32 year old San Diego native. The current CRB structure in San Diego has failed our community since I've been on this planet. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I demand we have a subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. One of our own community members was shot in the eye when she was literally just watching the protesters in La Mesa last Saturday, and now she's in a induced-coma yet we, the people, have absolutely no legal jurisdiction - how is this even possible in 2020? If we're going to consider ourselves the finest city we need seriously revalidate our expenses and put the police budget towards our future, education, mental health, and others that so desperately need!
KATELYNN SLOSS	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to defund the SDPD, especially when it comes to military grade equipment. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. I am appalled at the tactics being used by SDPD against peaceful protesters.
Christine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nick Calderon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We Have been failed by the current CRB regarding law enforcement. Law enforcement has had a history of policing themselves and not been held accountable for their actions. We need transparency which includes independent investigators, and independent legal counsel. We need actual reform and leadership to represent the people rather their own interests. Police should not be allowed to use accessive force against the people that pay them to protect them. I recommend the CRB support your fellow San Diegans in a Justice ballet proposal.
Courtney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES! STOP POLICE BRUTALITY!!

Chad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bonnie Ludka	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Using data on police stops, searches, uses of force, and arrests, obtained through public records requests, Campaign Zero finds evidence of harmful discriminatory policing in San Diego against people of color. The Community Review Board on Policing Practices must be independent and community-led. The San Diegans for Justice propose a measure that would require independent investigators and legal council who do not answer to or represent the police. It would have subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents. It would be independent from the Mayor's Office to protect it from political influence. I urge you to use your position to advocate that this gets added to the November ballot. Finally, there is still time to change how we fund our communities. The California Legislature is considering Assembly Bill 2054, The Community Response Initiative to Strengthen Emergency Systems. The CRISES Act would create a pilot grant program where community-based response would replace police response for local emergencies. San Diego should consider that social workers, addiction and mental health councilors provide a safer response than police and should distribute funds accordingly. "Budgets are our moral documents" as Brittany Packnett Cunningham reminds us. Use your position to fight for an anti-racist budget.
Paolo Reveles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The city of San Diego does not need to strengthen the police, seeing as it already feels like we live in a military state with how often I see them. Never in my life have I felt as though I am safer around SDPD, on the contrary, I feel as if I'm in danger. SDPD flexed their muscles these past few days when they chose to tear gas peaceful protests and shoot them with rubber bullets. Yes, peaceful protests, because there are several videos of the event and I know people who went who backed this claim in real-time. Since 2013, SDPD has killed 29 people, and even though Kevin Faulconer and David Neiselt did not get in their positions until 2014 and 2018 (respectively), nothing has improved since then. I vote that instead of creating funds for housing during COVID-19, we reallocate some of that $556 million you plan on using for police for housing, or to hospitals, because 1 riot gear suit costs the same as 55 PPE suits for doctors. If neither of you feel like you can handle and improve SDPD with a lower budget, then resign, as you have failed the city of San Diego.

Ron Toland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	On May 31, San Diego Police used tear gas and rubber bullets on residents protesting the death of George Floyd. The irony of using excessive force against protestors of police force should not obscure the fact that these tactics have no place in a police force. Chemical weapons are banned from use on the battlefield. They should be banned from use on our streets. I'm calling for the Community Review Board to push the San Diego police to cease and desist using any and all military gear and tactics against our residents. Black Lives Matter. No Justice No Peace.
Jessica Ramos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Pamela Elguezabal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the San Diego Police Department! Allocate funds towards your communities instead. THE POLICE ARE INSTIGATING VIOLENCE ON OUR STREETS. DEFUND THEM.
Richard Neves	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex Lievanos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police currently receive 1/3rd of the city's budget. We ask to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million. We ask to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. We ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to re-distribute the funds where needed.
Aurian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Change the model that requires a quota on police ticketing and arrests. Invest in community policing programs. Invest in police de-escalation trainings. Hire chief of police with experience in this. Ban profiling.

Cristal Arevalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The black and brown communities of San Diego have had enough. Police terrorize our neighborhoods, our families, and lives. We remember the lives of Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, James Lacy and Earl McNeil that were victims of racist police. So instead funding police, we demand to invest in community. Our communities need access to health care, housing, and food. We need to invest in libraries, public parks, and access to housing. We demand the power to subpoena officers, witnesses, and records. We ask that police oversight be independent from the mayor's office. We also demand to defund the Boards and Commissions that allow SDPD to hold zero accountability. We need an independent review board that is community led and hold police accountable.
Jennifer Aardema	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosemary Leonard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I fully support the San Diegans For Justice’s recommendations for an independent review board to investigate police misconduct. Please approve establishment of a truly independent review board.
Andrew Schwartz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	- Do not approve a $27 million increase in SDPD funding - Defund the already 1/3 of our general fund budget that goes to the SDPD - Reroute these funds into community relations with our police, as well as healthcare, housing, education, and transit - Re-envisioning how police misconduct is investigated (and by which department). - Significant changes to how police are trained, with a stronger focus on de-escalation techniques and community-building. - Reducing or removing funding for military-grade equipment for city police forces (and redirecting those funds towards COVID relief or education). - Greater and more consistent consequences to using lethal force, or failing to use body cameras appropriately.
Samantha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!

Evi Ashenbrucker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gloria Porotesano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Abrams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We request subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office for the CRB. We urge members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yadira Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Claudia A	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Don't just make an agreement. Time and time again it's shown police don't care about fairness, even when it's law or justice. Defund, and put that money in places that help the community.
Mudita Tiwary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lily Pearson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to radically reform the police department. Immediately, the police department should enact policies that are proven to decrease police violence, such as: require de-escalation, ban chokeholds, require a duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles and require comprehensive reporting when force is used. Our city budget should not go towards militarizing our police especially when they are not held accountable for their actions.
Jennifer Saucedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Moore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a requirement to become an officer one should spend a year of public service volunteering in marginalized neighborhoods and make personal connections. Also, remove the burden of the code of silence cops have #see something Say something.
Kenneth Jaquish	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD have a tough job no doubt. Officers for better or worse are only as good as they system they have to work in. There are always good members and bad members in any group of people or in an organization, the main issue is the overall architecture of the system. People/organizations in a position of power should be held to a higher standard then the people they have power over (doctors and teachers for example). Police organizations are systematically held to lower standards than even the citizens they serve. My recommendation would be to come up with a system that allows SDPD to be held to a higher standard much like other positions of power, and built within that a system that allows the laws they are charged with implementing to be applied to not only the public citizens, but themselves since they are citizens as well, and are just people, not above the laws society has created.
sandra magallon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around Police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. The police department is incapable of fairly arbitrating its own force. As one example, SD still has officer Richard Gonsavles, a 21-yr dept veteran, working for them after sending obscene photos and lewd requests to his SUBORDINATE officer and her partner. During the lawsuit she filed, multiple other women came forward that were also harassed by him. His only punishment? Received a demotion. With such outstanding police accountability, he was able to keep his job so he could shoot and kill and unarmed black man a year later.

Joseph Nicholas Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosa Olascoaga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I need the mayor to listen to all the people calling for an independent community review board. We need to get rid of this current board structure and create an independent community-led review board. This board must have an independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses. Without this the CRB caters to the police and there is no justice.
Margaret Applebee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need stronger mechanisms for accountability when cops use violence against residents. We need to address the fact that cops target poc more often and more violently, and need to give them the same respect white people receive. The incident with the young black woman at OB dog beach comes to mind. Police activity without visible badge numbers should not be considered legitimate.
Paige moreau	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police should not police themselves. They need to be help accountable for their actions. Doing their best is no longer good enough. Something needs to change!
Rosa Olascoaga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Also we need to stop funding the police and start reallocating money to our communities! Crime is preventable you just need to invest.
Kristine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is a photo of Leslie after being shot in the head with a plastic bullet by police, while she was practicing her rights as a citizen to organize and protest. This is a huge misuse of force as bullets of this type are intended to be shot at the ground, to then ricochet to someone's leg. This needs to be addressed, the police must be held accountable for their crimes against humanity

Shannon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jillian Janairo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. An INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds.
Stacey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This board is appointed by the mayor and no policies for true change have ever been adopted. You've had time, patience, and money to get it right, and you haven't. We don't need de-escalation or reform, but a complete defunding of the police and any board that is not made of community members. In December 2019, the ACLU provided you with the Campaign Zero Report. YOUR DATA shows that 1) Black people were more likely than white people to be stopped in 85 percent of police beats throughout the city and in every area of the Sheriff's Department's jurisdiction. 2) Black people were 130 percent more likely to be stopped than white people. 3) Once stopped, Black and Latinx people were also more likely than white people to be searched, arrested and to have force used against them. 4) Sheriff's deputies were also more likely to arrest or search people perceived to be LGBTQ and gender non-conforming, and 5) People with perceived mental disabilities also faced more severe disparities during San Diego Sheriff's deputies stops than people without perceived disabilities. You did nothing. You're still doing nothing. No more second chances, it's time for an independent, community-led review board now.
David Jay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am heartened to see the sudden shift in the Mayor and Police Chief's stance on an independent review board that will have full authority to initiate and conduct investigations into complaints against SDPD. Now it's time to make sure this is no half-measure. The requests from members of the community that the City has ignored for years must be heard and acted upon FULLY, without watering it down either before it goes on the ballot or when Council moves forward the enabling ordinance next year. The leaders in our community - especially Women Occupy San Diego and San Diegans for Justice - have worked too hard for lukewarm symbolic action. I will expect my elected leaders to tackle this directly, in an honest way, with integrity.

mcmurraymadeleine@gmail.com	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Falcouner's proposal to add another $27 million to the police budget is racist and reactive. The money should be allocated to education, healthcare, environmental services, and other community building, rather than community policing, sectors. Please do not support this proposal.
Max Roshensky	Community Review Board on Police Practices	When the police respond by escalating force—wearing riot gear from the start, or using tear gas on protesters—it doesn't work. In fact, disproportionate police force is one of the things that can make a peaceful protest not so peaceful SDPD needs to change it's Protest policy to a De-Escalation Policy like the Madison Model. Qualified Immunity needs to be eliminated. Police officers that abuse their authority need to be disciplined. More training on how to de-escalate any detaining or arrest. So many times Police initiate physical contact this must stop. Even minor physical contact needs to be ignored. The Police should be the Adults, and also admit when they make a mistake and back down.
Grant Rabjohn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	1. MINIMIZE: Employ a "liaison" force of professional intermediaries that are called to any tense arrest situation immediately to monitor police behavior and the behavior of those being arrested. If an officer can call for back-up, why not include a professional intermediary with no bias towards either side? Their role will not be to judge whether a crime has been committed, but to minimize the potential conflict and to make certain that the emotions at play don't escalate into harmful and unlawful force. 2. RE-TRAIN: I currently hold a brown belt in Hap Ki Do, a Korean martial art that teaches moves and hand holds to stop and control rather than injure an opponent. I strongly suggest the teachings of Grand Master Moo Kang, a 9 degree black belt and inductee into the Grand Master Hall of Fame - United Martial Arts Federation. There are countless hand holds that offer very quick (and safe/non-life threatening) control of any individual. Please seek a better and more consistent training for all SDPD officers. http://solanabeachtaekwondo.com/taekwondo/instructors/grand-master-moo-kang/ 3. TRANSITION: Allow any person arrested under circumstances such as this (i.e., subjected to freedom forall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	1. please advise all police that the bill of rights still exist. Too many times I have been stopped and at times cuffed just because I am filming in public. No crime was ever committed and I was not free to go until the supervisor instructed the officer that violated my civil rights to release me. 2. more training is needed on de-escalating encounters/situations with the police.

April Isaac	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I oppose Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police's already overly-substantial funding. We must defund police and instead, invest in services that make us, the San Diego community at large, SAFE. We need to spend more taxpayer dollars on 1) housing protections 2) physical and mental healthcare 3) accessible public transit and 4) quality education.
Murray Andrews	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the Police Department immediately. There is absolutely no justification for giving the department a half billion dollars when that money could be better used for environmental protections and resources for the homeless
Madeleine Conrad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joanna Besley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Han Trang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Blair Stiner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Stop police brutality.

Matthew O'Connor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Singer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia Sparkman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly Derouin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Courtney walters	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Elizabeth black	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hannah E Baughman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Courtney Moltzen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The Mayor announced that he heard us, and is investing in projects to improve relations between the community and the police. This isn't hearing us. This is again, our money being spent on PR instead of invested in the community.
Colleen FitzSimons	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth Schalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Elaine E Gingery	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex Jarman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meredith Mauzé	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Victoria Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. The current system DOES NOT WORK. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these REFORMS are being taken seriously. It is time for REAL CHANGE and ACTION from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Zina Gorin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
krijn van der raadt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jonathan Markovitz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB has not provided the police accountability and oversight our community needs. We need a new structure providing subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. This is a time of crisis locally and nationally, and we need serious action from our government officials that can meet the gravity of the moment. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and members of the current CRB should publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgen McCarty	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sara Barrett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Trust cannot be built this way. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Elena Blanco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa Sepinwall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you!
Katie Craig	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caroline Keeler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.

Connie Unger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Madeline DeLoria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan M. Moore, JD	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our community. The police cannot police themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association cannot continue overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rhys Wheatley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sara White	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. It has not made ANY significant change. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the PUBLIC. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Please hear our voices! We need more from you and expect BIG, structural change. This current CRB structure does not serve our community in any impactful way. We need CHANGE.
Brooke Donner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Grace McGuirk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniel Madamba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

gabriela arriaga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jack Whiteley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lori Thiel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krista Martinez-Trimlett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
SARAH SANGER	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Amelia Coultas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annie Gorden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jordan Santos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tina Schopp	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Erin Glass	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kien Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael J Melton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anders Helgeson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that a police oversight board is created that is entirely separate from the mayor's office. I demand that San Diego's police oversight board have access to independent legal counsel. I demand that San Diego's police oversight board have the power to subpoena. I demand that San Diego cut the police force's budget and divert funds to homeless and mental health programs.
Reid coultas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Margaret B McCann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicole Lipschultz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Howland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police have been a destabilizing force in our communities of color for decades. It is unacceptable for the police to not have accountability and meaningful oversight given their long track record of violating the civil rights of members of our community. I demand that the police be given oversight that includes subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. For that reason, I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle McKinney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a voting resident in the city of San Diego, and I want to encourage the members of the CRB to continue to move forward with transparency, accountability, and reporting on police matters in my city. I encourage you to publicly support the ballot proposal as proposed by San Diegans for Justice. Thank you.
Kathleen Schoeneweis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Stacy Eckels	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lucia Rose	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caity Hall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charis Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Heather Melone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed to community too long! We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves! Nor can we continue to allow the politics of City Hall and the police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being take seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Tricia Sykes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aron L Israelite	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Seusy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chance Dunbar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nichole Loyd Janlov	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed our community for far too long. We can no longer allow police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Office Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and that we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current Community Review Board to publicly support the San Dieagans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniel Jimenez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counselors and independence from the Mayors office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing

Julia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cheryl Robertson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaitlyn Cohen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In light of current events, it's more clear now than ever that San Diegans deserve an independent and transparent Police Review Board. The San Diego Police Department must be held accountable for all use of excessive force, discrimination, and citizen complaints. Please show you are committed to policing reform by supporting the San Diegans for Justice Ballot proposal, and allowing subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and political independence. Let our city be an example and hold our officers accountable for their actions.
Shannon A Wineman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Now is not the time to stand by and not take action where action is truly required. We cannot be on the wrong side of history on this matter. These changes will make police safer in the long run as trust is rebuilt in the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carolyn Glockhoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nick Riggle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Priscila Ortiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We demand independence from the mayor's office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, independent investigators and staff.
Kelly Dick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mayra Chaidez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maria Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cathy Marlow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sara Marciniak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you very much - Sara Marciniak, concerned San Diegan
Zaquia Mahler Salinas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jena Golden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police should not be allowed to keep policing themselves. We cannot allow the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and not just given lip service consideration only while it is currently trending. The current CRB has failed the community. San Diego deserves transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emma Rucker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Gisal Mendoza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Willie Gaebler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Erin Graff Zivin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angelica Rivera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long.. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall. We cannot allow the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San diegens deserves transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Support proposal
Amanda Rader	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Yvonne Elkin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Given recent events in San Diego and nationally creating an independent Commission is the very least we need to do.
Julia Guazzo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gianina Contin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, or the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kayla Brayman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Biundo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Michael Patterson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jessica Coronado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dawn Stackhouse DIckerson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarahi sandoval	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our current CBS system is failing our community We cannot allow the police to have no accountability, no oversight we demand City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. we demand action to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Megan Callen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kendra Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amber Sheriff-Crow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena order, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support San diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Celena Barone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amber Sinclair	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Gemma SerrNo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In solidarity with our Black community and San Diego County residents, in police oversight I demand the following: 1) independence from the mayors office 2) independent legal counseling 3) power to subpoena officers, recorders, and witnesses 4) independent investigators and staff 5) introduction of restorative justice practices 6) social worker to be dispatched with all non-emergency calls
Alexandria Hopson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elena Gutierrez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cynthia Rich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I totally support the San Diego for Justice demands for significant change in the CRB to bring transparency and accountability to that board, including: subpoena power, independent investigators and independent legal counsel as well as independent from the Mayor's Office. This is past time for significant and visible change. Thank you, Cynthia Rich
Maria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Richard Kacmar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the San Diego community. The police are not capable of and must not be permitted to continue policing themselves. The current arrangement encourages the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. A truly effective structure requires subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Only then can there be the hope that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. All communities, including San Diego, deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zachary Colombo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosa Vargas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community is hurting. We demand a community-led independent Commission on Police Practices, created and controlled by the people. We want independent legal counsel. We want subpoena power. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jeanell VanDusen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

kerianne quick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need real accountability!!! Your constituents demand it. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Claire Conklin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kimberly Parra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anthony Diomino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Richard Kacmar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the San Diego community. The police are not capable of and must not be permitted to continue policing themselves. The current arrangement encourages the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. A truly effective structure requires subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Only then can there be the hope that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. All communities, including San Diego, deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Fiona Mares	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lillian Glenister	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, My name is Lillian Glenister and I am a third-year law student at California Western School of Law. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Julianne Mackey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Trileen Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allison Estaris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabel Francis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yujia Ge	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amy Bryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kassidy Christlieb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charles M Sevilla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I presented to the CRB in July of 2019 (see attached memo) and ask that the CRB join the Mayor, the District Attorney and many others in supporting placing on the ballot the Charter Amendment creating an independent police review board. The tumult we now experience across the nation demonstrates the urgent need for effective mechanisms to insure community trust in policing institutions.
Margaret Borinstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Claudia Salinas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue "investigating" themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the safety of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. It is NOT okay to use forceful tactics against peaceful protesters as they did on Sunday afternoon and during the vigil. The city was not listening for a long time and you see the result. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecca Kuntz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lisette Jimenez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. In police oversight we demand: independence from the mayors office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records & witnesses, and independent investigators and staff.

Janice Kim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sydney Sheng	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mariana monasi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police departments continue to request more money in their budgets and continue to fail in providing equitable protection and safety to every resident. We need an outside auditor to investigate how the police is allocating funds, review this for efficiency, cut out the entire budget for paramilitary gear and shift it to racial bias and deescalation training. We need independence from the mayor, independent legal council, power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses and independent investigators and staff!
Lily weiss	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We demand choke holds be a fireable/criminal offense when used by officers, as in the case of the recent killing of George Floyd. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Joshua Piedra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Abby Barbrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Natalya Gallo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The recent ACLU Campaign Zero report found that the SDPD has an egregious record of over-policing along racial lines; this needs to stop and an independent review board would be a step in the right direction. The review board should be representative of the racial and ethnic diversity of San Diego. All members of our community need to feel like they can trust the police force that their tax dollars are supporting.
Jack Morrill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Deborah Klingenberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San DIegans deserve independent investigations of policing practices including independence from the Mayor's Office! I support San Diegans for Justice Ballot Proposal. Deborah Klingenberg

Allison District 1	Community Review Board on Police Practices	California is one of only FIVE states that doesn’t decertify officers for misconduct. All hiring and firing choices are made internally with zero oversight, and officers have stolen from the city (San Jose), plead down multiple domestic abuse charges (San Diego) and allowed a child access to their loaded weapon (Compton), all while maintaining employment. Allowing these behaviors to remain unchecked erodes what trust the police force has left in the community, which, in light of recent events, is already at an all-time low. Police are clearly unable to hold themselves accountable, and I am requesting that the planned November 2020 measure to create an external oversight committee be promoted and supported both by the SDPD, Mayor, and city council.
Annelise Arevalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
McKenna Boyce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa Jaramillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabe W	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police officers Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we are just getting lipservice from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability and policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.

Patrick Huber	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, I wanted to called for major reform to the current CRB structure and it clearly has been ineffective in adequately holding our law enforcements accountable. The police and not clear police themselves, and we are allowing Cit Hall politics and orgs like the Police Officer Association to stand in front of the needs and DEMANDS of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office.
Eric rulona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephenie Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicole A	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We are demanding subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Schuyler Adkins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Olivia Ensalata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Missy Gurga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Noni Romero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In addition to the requests from San Diegans for Justice, I request that the mayor, city council, and police chief review the Use of Force Report https://static1.squarespace.com/static/56996151cbced68b170389f4/t/57e1b5cc2994ca4ac1d97700/1474409936835/Police+Use+of+Force+Report.pdf (also attached) for analysis of meaningful policies that can reduce use of force and death.
Arturo Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Sarah Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Annika Nabors	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police cannot be allowed to continue policing themselves, with past misconduct records expunged, violent officers rehired in other departments, and San Diego DAs declining to press charges on even the most blatantly racialized extrajudicial killings. The CRB is toothless and has no ability to hold killer officers to account. We demand an oversight board independent from the mayor's office with subpoena power and independent legal counsel, one that can ensure transparency and true accountability when officers abuse their power. Lip service is not enough. We encourage the current members of the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandra Fen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and put into action by City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Holly Kegans	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tristan Dickinson-Hiatt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kate Yavenditti	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is now time for the CRB to publicly and vocally support the establishment of an independent Commission on Police Practices. The Commission is supported by Mayor Faulconer, DA Summer Stephen and even the Police Officers Association. More importantly, it is supported by the community which has been calling for an independent Commission for years. Stand with the people and support the Commission on Police Practices

Kaelyn Kappes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT COUNSEL, and INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. I have capitalized those items to ensure they stand out. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mana Barari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Especially in the current climate, I implore the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. While well-intentioned, the current CRB structure has proved inadequate to face the current challenges of police oversight. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Independent oversight is essential; as a civil rights attorney, I strongly urge the CRB to take these reforms and requests seriously. There is mounting groundswell of interest, support, and pressure locally to put this ballot proposal into action.
Megan Blom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tiana Garbett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jordan Kohl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current structure of the CRB has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow police to police themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chloe Freeman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We will not rest until there is justice, and safety for our communities, and these demands are essential to making that happen.
Kimberly Kishon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Johanna Brandsen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jenny Solano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lexi Epley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from CityHall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chelsea Leonard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The community review board in its current form is vanity at best, purporting to placate the public while continuing to allow the police to police themselves. We need a true community oversight counsel that has subpoena power, independent investigators & legal counsel, and complete independence from the mayor's office. Community oversight boards have proven effectiveness when implemented correctly. Holding police accountable is no different than accountability for any other profession. We should all welcome this.
Katrina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. BLM.
McKenna Wecker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SD City Councilmembers must break the cycle of funding a department that brutalizes our Black, Indigenous, People of Color community members, and divest from policing and invest in the community. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The protests won't stop until change is in sight. I'm begging stop the aggression, the violence, rubber bullets and tear gas and listen to your community that is suffering and actually start change.
Joya Saxena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sophia Conti	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to see that our demands for police reform are being taken seriously and not just given lip service. We have seen how the current CRB structure has failed the community for too long, and the police cannot continue to police themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. San Diego deserves transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Pam Clark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police must be policed by independent investigators and independent legal counsel with the power to subpoena. We deserve transparency and accountability and believe the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal should be supported publicly and privately.
Madeline Barr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL
Veronica Brawley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melinda Szkaradnik	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Stephanie Stenlund	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To Whom it May Concern: The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank You, Steph Stenlund
Selina Eadie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to know that City Hall is truly willing to walk the walk. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The current CRB structure has failed the community for TOO long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office.
Wendy Steinman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michaela Berenson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Andy Alcindor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gretchen Stewart-Disch	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Linsey Silverstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiley Rucker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emily Saunders	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, My name is Emily Saunders and I live in District 3. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you for listening, Emily
Paige Schmeling	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shelby Carswell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Armin and Rhea Kuhlman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Wendy Gracia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Jewell Karinen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED REFORMS TO BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY. WE WILL NOT STOP AFTER GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE DEMAND THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Janel Portillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
andres perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Leandra Baldwin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Doug Dunphy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The City of San Diego Police Department MUST set up a new review board that is: 1) Independent of the Mayor's office. 2) Independent of Legal Council 3) Power to Subpoena Officers, Records, and Witnesses 4) Independent Investigators and Staff They SDPD must also: BAN Chokeholds and Strangleholds Require De-Escalatin Exhaust all Alternatives Before Shooting Require Warning Before Shooting Duty to Intervene Ban Shooting at Moving Vehicles Establish Use of Force Continuum! Require All force to Be Reported. Thank you for your time, Doug
Leslie Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jenny	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Monora Seth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paloma Ronis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Milli	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Madison Bear	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our current system IS NOT WORKING and is failing the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mason Conrad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. DEFUND THE POLICE AND DIVERT THOSE RESOURCES TO OUR COMMUNITY.
Bill Young Greenwald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katherine Hentrich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
McClaren kennedy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily seitz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Madeleine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nikki Pebley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kendall Lord	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Eve Lambert-Fliszar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zarina m comaduran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Devon Decker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jetzabel Angulo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joseph Wainio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charlotte George	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelsey Brill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a lifelong resident of San Diego, I am ready to see change in the way San Diego is policed. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office especially as they continue to display their allegiance with the police force by suggesting more funding instead of investing those dollars back into the community services we need most: healthcare, housing, food, and transportation. Show us you're taking this seriously and that this isn't just lip service. We want changes and we want them now.

John Conde	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot afford the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of San Diego residents. We need subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nikki Creamer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mitchell Lecrone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you
Colleen Stevenson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Loren Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As the topic of conversation is on police brutality and racial inequality, I urge you to reconsider how money is being allocated. Clearly the money being spent on the police department is not going towards proper training, so it's time for a change. Put more money towards public health, libraries, and departments that are actually FOR the community. Effectively put the money BACK IN TO THE COMMUNITY.
Derek Butler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa Antonio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Audrene	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jackie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting empty promises from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I am asking the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kelsey L Howard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carlos Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Elizabeth Davis Hynd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Brooke Anderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To quote Campaign Zero's Police Scorecard that compiles statements based on data reported to the CA DOJ RIPA board, "When civilians came forward to report police misconduct, it rarely led to accountability in San Diego. Of 226 civilian complaints of San Diego Police Department conduct in 2016 and 2017, only 11% were ruled in favor of civilians. Moreover, complaints alleging the most serious misconduct were never sustained. For example, of 21 civilian complaints of police discrimination, 75 use of force complaints and 2 complaints alleging criminal misconduct, none of these complaints were sustained... The current San Diego's Community Review Board on Police Practices has the power to review internal affairs investigations but cannot independently investigate complaints of misconduct or subpoena witnesses. This board should be replaced with an independent community structure that has the power to conduct independent investigations, subpoena witnesses and documents, and impose discipline as a result of their findings." San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Breanne Ferrara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a social worker in the community, I deeply believe in a CRB that is entirely independent of the police system. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Summer Webb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. LISTEN TO YOUR PEOPLE WE DEMAND TO BE HEARD!!
Brooke Farnum	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Keely Shawn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Frances	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
TIFFANY TRAN	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Dominic	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Eadie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kayla Blincow (Israel)	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a committee and San Diegans, please acknowledge the findings of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data by admitting that we have a problem in our city. When citizens don't trust those who are meant to serve and protect them, then there is clearly something terribly wrong and Police and committee members such as yourselves are not doing your jobs. I advocate strongly for an independent police review committee which can hold those that violate their call to serve and protect accountable.
Michael Kelley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Whatever we have for a Community Review Board on Police Practices is not working. Law Enforcement in San Diego has not been kept in check by their own policies, by the Chief, Mayor, City Attorney, nor District Attorney – all offices that have countless conflicts of interest with the LEOs they are supposed to police, from long-term professional working relationships to personal connections over politics and extracurricular activities. By circling the wagons to protect their own instead of holding them accountable, the SDPD, the Chief of Police, Mayor's Office, and City Attorney , and District Attorney have shown that they care more about "law & order" and "Blue Lives" instead of creating safe neighborhoods. Police still terrorize and kill. To my knowledge, the officers responsible for the January 24 shooting death of Toby Diller, who was unarmed and alone when officers attacked him, have not been disciplined. We cannot have murders and terrorists on the force, but we do. An independent, civilian-led CRB, with subpoena and investigatory powers, is the only way to have effective oversight. Justice for Toby Diller. Black Lives Matter.

Ella Kim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay Sakata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we can encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Wallin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalie A Knuth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecca Similuk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Laura Kishaba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bella Spies	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joanna Brooks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Adding my voice to the many in this tragic moment who are calling for independent review and oversight of the police. Please support and endorse the ballot proposal.
Rosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Salma Zinabidine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Whitney Antrim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We need subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Danielle Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren’t receiving lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Justine L Wang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and not just lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maria Bolt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex Godina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. Allowing the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public cannot be tolerated any longer. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jay Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kristen Melelani Walker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brent Beavers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maura Duffey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you for listening to the public and understanding the importance of the voices of your constituents.
Arleen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecca Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Andrew Matschiner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Astrid Hsu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The recent ACLU Campaign Zero report found that the SDPD has an egregious record of over-policing along racial lines; this needs to stop and an independent review board would be a step in the right direction. The review board should be representative of the racial and ethnic diversity of San Diego. All members of our community need to feel like they can trust the police force that their tax dollars are supporting.
Peter Fen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kady	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Darin Gong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christian Gutierrez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Samantha Schwimmer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am outraged because this board has failed our community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Grace Chen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SD police cannot be allowed to police themselves any longer; independent oversight power must be granted to the people of San Diego. True public safety stems from investment in communities and the services they need to thrive. Those very communities are best equipped to hold police accountable and keep SD safe. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office.
Paris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Javiera Sobarzo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Becca Gold	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yali Bair Ruiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have never had any connection to law enforcement. I know some people who are in law enforcement and they are good people who work hard for their communities. But I see that organizations that police themselves leave a lot of room for abuse of power. We've seen this in the financial sector, in politics and in law enforcement. San Diegans deserve accountability and transparency in our law enforcement agencies. Lives depend on it. As a small business owner and engaged member of my community, I am writing to encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Whitney Orellana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justine Bandstra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Carmen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Margie Lord	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds.
Ciera Landry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jazmin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I live in district 4 grew up in district 3 I've grown seeing police brutality abuse of authority racial profiling of Hispanics & blacks & nothing has changed!!! In years! Now as I have kids they are witnessing no change & fear the police because they have seen it for themselves!! 2 years ago the San Diego police department came into my gated yard Searched my vehicles actually opened them! Searched my yard WITH OUT A WARRANT I HAVE VIDEO!!! With our no one in the house on porole or probation!!! Yes I have i complained & Nothing happened! Your ur site makes it difficult to submit Video! Reach out to me so I can submit my video.The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency! Justice!

Cameron Barrett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Gomez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. This is a threat to public safety. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiana Benavente	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachele Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Macy Samin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Roy Silverstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gianna Casanova	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sara Kennedy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board's lack of substantial action to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice's ongoing push to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the board is not independent, it defeats the purpose. The mayor's public statements are a start, but are empty if there is no follow through. If the mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Izzad Loh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

zack riley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Courtney Huff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jamie Wilson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB is familiar with me and my son's case. I filled out my first of two complaints against SDPD in 2016. When I filled out my first complaint with Internal Affairs, one of the Sergeants that my complaint was against showed up to my house to investigate my complaint. I had to demand another investigator be assigned. Although the incident with my then 16 year old son resulted in a civil settlement in his favor and a law change in the state of California, somehow the complaint against this Detective wasn't supported here in San Diego. My family has continued to suffer but I will never fill out another complaint form again. The police, the City and the CRB failed my family in ways that we will not recover from.
Sophie Shevick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Committee Review Board on Police Practices is failing our community and disproportionately impacting our black and brown residents. The police have shown us that they cannot police themselves; reform is urgent and necessary. Our citizens' lives depend on it. I ask that current members of the CRB publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal that will establish independent investigators and legal council who have subpoena power. This independent council is the only way to ensure transparency and accountability in policing.
Raymond Guerra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mark Dhillon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In a fair society, the police should not be allowed to police themselves. Truly independent investigations into police misconduct are the only way to ensure justice is served for victims of police brutality, assault, profiling, sexual harassment, and wrongful death. Sadly, this is not an option for the citizens of San Diego. Our only recourse today is to sue the city, which needlessly wastes millions of dollars on lawsuits instead of going towards housing, fire departments and improving the city we call home. I urge the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans For Justice ballot proposal, which outlines 4 major reforms: independent investigators who do not answer to the police chief; independent legal counsel (an attorney who does not represent the city or its police department); subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents to get to the truth; and independence from the Mayor's Office to shield it from political influence.
Jessica Yambao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you from a San Diego Native.
Cassandra Fullerton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgan Altenhoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego county, I urge the city of San Diego to lead by example and set the standard for all cities of San Diego county. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Siobhan DeBlasio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Stoch	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Luqmaan Bokhary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn’t. We are paying attention.
Sher Altenhoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego county, I urge the city of San Diego to lead by example and set the standard for all cities of San Diego county. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda Young Greenwald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Marie McDonald Hulen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Hagemyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand REAL POLICE REFORM. Honestly we need to defund and demilitarize the police. No more half tries
Carla Grossini-Concha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long and aided in perpetuating the systemic oppression of the Black community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we implore the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lara Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Sincerely, Lara Garcia
James Rauch	Community Review Board on Police Practices	On behalf of the San Diego Chapter of the American Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, I urge the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Arab Americans stand in solidarity with other minorities, above all African Americans, in demanding truly accountable policing.
Andrea Cubitt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Elizabeth Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cameron Wadstrom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
madeline russell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Karen Kohl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Griffin Danninger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Dominique Boley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Grace Eclevia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alina Chong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amaris Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Martha L	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. SIGNED MARTHA HARBER

Janel Jacob	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexis Barros	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken SERIOUSLY, and we aren't just getting BS jargon from City Hall. San Diegans DESERVE transparency and ACCOUNTABILITY in policing, and we encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandon Hensgens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Athena Hsu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Noelle Bohlen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Olivia Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Noelia Ferreyra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chelsie Sabrina Dang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am an Education Specialist in City Heights pursuing my master’s in Special Education. We need to sever SDUSD’s ties with SDPD in favor of student-centered, restorative practices. According to the ACLU, the school-to-prison pipeline disproportionately affects Black students and students with disabilities. In order to protect and heal the next generation, we need SDPD removed from our schools. On a broader note, SDPD needs to end their participation in the 1033 program which hyper-militarizes the PD. Participation in the 1033 program shows that SDPD is more concerned with punishing communities than serving our communities. In addition to ending participation in the 1033 program, we need to defund the police, Boards, and Commissions in favor of community aid and accountability. Research from UChicago and University of Minnesota shows that non-carceral approaches to alleviating crime (more streetlights, access to housing/food/healthcare/etc) dramatically reduces street crime by at least 37%. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police.
Kelley Cartwright	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Reagan Yenewine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Diamante Cintron	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I, Diamante Cintron, from district 53, ask that Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget be rejected. I ask that the 27 million dollars proposed for the Police be repurposed to programs that impact the communities directly like the Emergency Renters Relief Program and education. The police have shown that they are a racist money pit that has not made any true progress in changing racial bias ingrained in the policing culture in San Diego towards Black people and POCs. Black lives matter and until that is recognized and changed in police Mayor Faulconer should STOP trying to bamboozle the system.
Marisol	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Abigail Libbin Cannon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The recent ACLU Campaign Zero report found that the SDPD has an egregious record of over-policing along racial lines; this needs to stop and an independent review board would be a step in the right direction. The review board should be representative of the racial and ethnic diversity of San Diego. All members of our community need to feel like they can trust the police force that their tax dollars are supporting.

Kellen Latimer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Celina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to change the way cops do this around here
Harpreet Gill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Robert Matawaran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the San Diego community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rory Morison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I Rory Morison demand sweeping changes to be made regarding police oversight. 1. It should be separated from the mayors office 2. We should have the ability to subpoena officers, records and witnesses 3. Conduct investigations with independent investigators and staff
Alex Crane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Caitlin Cobb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you for your time.
Mariana Tousi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tess Thaler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jenna Anderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Eddie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am tired of being harassed by officer Areola & the sdpd I am not on porole or probation I have video evidence of the harrasemt I have complained I'm writing & nothing happens just a oh sorry about that I don't want my kids to continue fearing the police. Reach out to me so I can submit my videos The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
George	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Silva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mike Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.

Sadie Lipman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Claire Stone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Candace Chu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need more accountability and improved measures for justice. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amy Leyenaar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Sheila Veronica Madrak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Danielle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	You have a huge responsibility to the public, and the current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Makena Catlett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dillon Chapman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Reagan Barnett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Eureka Uno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, REJECT Mayor Faulconer’s proposal to increase police budget and redirect those funds to the communities!
Summer Valentine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police or police involved entities to be investigating and policing themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We ask that you take on the following policies that can decrease police violence by 72%. San diego has yet to: require deescalation, put a duty to intervene on partners of officers who use force or may be temporarily unstable, require reporting for every use of force, and ban shooting at moving vehicles. We also demand that you redirect funds away from policing and empower social worker intervention when needed instead of police response. Direct funds for education and housing to prevent crime. Enable other communities to tackle crime at the root instead of funding the entities that respond to them. Lip service won't do any good this time. We are watching. We are waiting for ACTION. Thank you for your time.

Derren Lechuga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please consider defunding the police and moving those funds to schools, infrastructure, and community programs.
Juan Banuelos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angela Tidmore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the actual needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kailey Diebold	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. In the same way that society would never let a criminal defendant police themselves, we cannot allow the police to police themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Collin Pachow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Elleney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
SUSAN ZYPHUR	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is failing our community. The police are not immune to law, and they cannot continue to act as though they can act with impunity. The citizens of San Diego refuse to allow the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Blake Cox	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a San Diego resident, I demand independent oversight of all policing in this county. CRB's across the country have failed their constituents by allowing internal bias and police to police themselves. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia Anna Adrian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jasmine Chang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power , independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ramon Burris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tatum Bottomley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carissa Reyna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We Demand in Police Oversight: 1. Independence from the Mayor's Office 2. Independent Legal Counsel 3. Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses 4. Independent Investigators and Staff THANK YOU!

Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carol Huntsman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please support the BALLOT PROPOSAL OF THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ami Hooker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We can't let the police to themselves. They need true public oversight that the Community Review board has not provided. We need subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We hope the members of the current CRB will publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Noaly Godinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brooke Downey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jorge	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police is San Diego is long overdue for a review. They have for years, abused their power to strike against lower income communities, especially our black community. We demand to be heard on the social injustice and abuse of power that our so called protectors have done against our communities.
Caley Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tori	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emmet Hollingshead	Community Review Board on Police Practices	While the current CRB has made progress, it is not enough. Our community needs a citizens' police oversight body with far more authority to hold police accountable for misconduct. We demand an oversight body with: 1) Authority to initiate investigations 2) Independent investigators and legal counsel 3) Subpoena power We desperately need the CRB to be able to do the job that you were intended to do. The police have lost the trust of much of the community, and the community needs to know that reforms are being taken seriously. Please publicly support the ballot measure proposed by San Diegans for Justice, which would implement the three items listed above and would provide San Diego with serious accountability in our criminal justice system. Thank you for your consideration, and thank you for the work that you do on the CRB.

Brooke Hallisey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Heidi Thompson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm Heidi Thompson and I live in District 3 and I am writing to demand action be taken to enact the policies within the https://8cantwait.org/ campaign to reduce police violence by 72%. These measures are extremely reasonable and have such a large reduction of police violence it'd be a no-brainer to enact them if you truly do care about this issue. I plan to support elected officials who support this 8 Can't Wait policy framework and vote exclusively for those that do. This is such a simple action that can be taken to reduce police violence in our city. You've already gotten rid of carotid restraits, now finish the job and implement these other policies. I urge the mayor and board to review this study on the use of force from Campaign Zero: https://static1.squarespace.com/static/56996151cbced68b170389f4/t/57e1b5cc2994ca4ac1d97700/1474409936835/Police+Use+of+Force+Report.pdf (also attached)
Katelyn Kivett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brian Dickerson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lott Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laurel Carothers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Laurel Carothers and I live in State Assembly District 78. I'm writing to ask that the City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Instead, I request that the police budget is decreased, and the money is spent investing in the San Diego community. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist and militant policing. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Please invest in housing, youth, and community needs, not police.
Athena Joseph	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sophie Thompson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Marian Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lexi Gunvaldson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kellie Livingstone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zack Simmons	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jenna Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Camellia Zadeh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need independent oversight of police now more than ever, and we must further San Diego as an equitable city that to all of its residents,and in particular to our BLack and Brown communities.The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Evan Ilija Andersen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marisol Alvarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Current CBR structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand 1) the oversight be independent from the mayor's office, 2) legal counsel provided be independent counsel not affiliated with the city, 3) provide power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and 4) hire independent investigators and staff all to ensure there is no conflict of interest in determining wrong doing from Police Officers. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the member of the current CBR to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Proposal.
Donald Gersonde	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police brutality must end. The police must be held accountable for their actions. We need care not cops
Jashery R	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Russell Masa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must not allow the City Hall politics and bureaucracy continue to ignore the injustices in our city, America's Finest City! The Police Officer Association regulates under prevailingly loose regulations and must be held accountable by the citizens that they are sworn to protect. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chloe Delehanty	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Inez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dana Sisitsky	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we are not just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Masena Sadeghi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kayli Camille Dela Vega	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Orion Bylsma, Esq.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Davetta Gholson-Nubia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Benjamin Adam wells	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jessica Vaughn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emily Windham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sebastian Montes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diana Alcocer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I, like many others are calling for independent legal counselors, independence from the mayors office, independent investigators, and power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses. Please do not continue to ignore the people and their demands, lives are at stake please make a change, time after time the people demand action and many of our comments are denied, what's the point of public commenting if we are ignored?
Trevor Malone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cristian Mayorga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police departments in san diego county need to be checked. Their duty is to protect and serve our communities by being fair and just.
Morgan Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Brooke Pickett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Overton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Goudie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kayla Patnaude	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Robert Kidd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ty McHenry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Victoria Carrillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is inadequate to community needs and police accountability. We need independent review in the form of the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. This ballot promises much needed independence and power needed for an effective CRB: subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office.
Mick I Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I was in law enforcement for over 14 years. I feel my service to my community was honorable and I'm very proud that I never hurt anyone; I tried to serve ethically and with compassion. I was both commended and ridiculed for my patience with suspects and I know my ex co-workers would say I was a sub-par officer. I was never perfect and now realize I was still part of the problem. I became a cop because it paid way more than working with troubled youth. I stayed because because it over 100k and the time to provide a life I never had to my children. Although I can be ok with my service, I never spoke up when my fellow officers took an 'extra shot' while a suspect was 'resisting' arrest on a trumped up charge. We need a separate board because, officers like me are afraid to speak up
Kevin Faulconer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kathleen Rooney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexus Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Samantha Kostaras	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelsey Atkinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Thomas Kratofil	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diane Barao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Erika Reece	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meghan Roll	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalia Ravelo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cindy H.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kirstin Jensvold-Rumage	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mahan Chitgari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katherine Penninga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of the City Hall and the Police Officers Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shana Sobel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Checks and balances such as these enable our country and our cities to practice in living reality the values this country was founded upon, by holding us accountable to them.
Samantha Gundy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to remind Mayor Falconer where this money comes from? Who pays your salary? This money is created by the work of working class San Diegans like me. Why are we having to convince Mayor Falconer of what to do with -our- money? Remember, this is not the hundred some commenting, but the thousands marching outside currently. Right now we are blaming Trump, we are blaming the police, but the people are waking up. We voted you in to represent us, and to fight for us. If you do not listen to our desires and cut your police budget by at least half, this blood is on your hands. And it will come to your doorstep.
Wendy T.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We WILL remember your comments and decisions made here.

Rolaine Castro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Martina Penalosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrew Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diane Barao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
sarah zhou	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Eric Locquiao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sattwik Chakraborty	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The time for justice is now.
Negin Khalifian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego community has been asking for an independent community-led commission on police oversight for years now. Nathan Fletcher just voiced his support for this measure on Monday and I look forward to it seamlessly making its way to the ballot in November. The community needs a way to hold SDPD accountable. We want independence from the mayor, independent legal counsel, the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independent investigators and staff. We demand this now.
Shenica Snowden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krystal Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have personally attended the demonstrations and protests in La Mesa & Downtown San Diego, where I've seen first hand police abuse their power. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Naseem Bazargan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Desiree Alvarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed a community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and a Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office we need to know that these reforms are being taken serious, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. The San Diego’s deserve transparency and accountability and policing and we encourage the members of our current CRB to publicly support the San Diego’s for justice ballot proposal.
Brooke Berish	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diana Benavidez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from Mayor’s office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Aguilar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB has completely failed our communities. We cannot allow the police to keep policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just gettin lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Roshdy Soliman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a concerned citizen of color who has been profiled and held at gunpoint by the San Diego Police Department, I endorse the message hereafter, "The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal."
Ashley Hughey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda Wheatley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for FAR too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence form the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Jeznach	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Imahni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
CARMEN MORA	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Vanessa Godoy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gretchen Mallios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Greetings, As a concerned community member, social worker, and licensed mental health practitioner, I write to you to respectfully request a review of the structure of the Community Review Board. The current CRB structure allows the police to 'police themselves'. We have seen in national news recently proof that without public review, cases of excessive force are buried and excused in paperwork and institutional protection. Excessive force against George Floyd, outright murder against Ahmaud Arbury are only two of hundreds of cases in recent years that were only reviewed and saw the light of day due to arduous public outcry. The public should not be forced into demonstrations, protests, and street riots to demand a review of police actions when someone has died at the hands of an officer or protected community member. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ashley Cordero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Eikermann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Saibeth Guzman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jackson Mitz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary Winters	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mario Agsaulio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carl Schmurr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Susan Yarber	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to see IN DEPTH psychiatric evaluations of officers and then every 5 yrs. Its a very stressful job and can change a person. The majority officers are good. They know who the bad cops are and should give them up. If they remain silent the blood is on THEIR hands.
Colin Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kat	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chelsea Storrs	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Helene mayer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jazzmin T.S.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Brandi Paniagua	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The pain, violence and horror I watched LMPD unleash at the protest last Saturday is the basis for these comments: The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
William Neil MD	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please support San Diegans for Justice ballot initiative on police oversight. We deserve independent oversight on police.
Kim Nguyen-Ta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I am a concerned resident of 30+ years who needs to be assured that our local leaders are doing everything in their power with actionable policies to make our community safe for everyone.
Cecilia Rangel-Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kahla Oteo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public - We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we arent just getting lip services from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we NEED the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.

Desiree Marsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mackenzie Fuller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Myles Luneau	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabella Passentino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has FAILED the community for TOO long. We CANNOT allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We DEMAND subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Bunnell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Andrea Ceballos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lester Aslarona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sydney South	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. We must protect and support our communities. We must be free of unchecked police corruption and violence. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Clay Myers-Bowman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The structure of the Community Review Board needs to be changed. We can no longer allow the SDPD to continue policing itself and let politics overshadow the needs of the wider public. At the very least we must require subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. The people of San Diego deserve transparency and accountability in policing. I encourage current CRB members to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Joel Arriola	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. :)
Scott Tetzner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mia Angelina Ottobre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Matthew Looney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kathryn O'Nell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Marly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rithy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Henry Maxfield	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nico	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sana Jodayri	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Oscar Montiel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To diffuse means to alleviate situations, our police have done a fine job the last few days, but there is so much more that can be done. Invite the public to these forums past an online comment, for one. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Eric Durbin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniela Romero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	the current CRB structure has failed for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of the City Hall and Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independent from the mayors office. We need to know these reforms are being taken seriously and not just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members from the current CRB to publicly support San Diegans for justice Ballot proposal
Carly Truscott	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Edward Estrada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Wendy Gelernter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am in full support of the proposed Commission on Police Practices. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We must have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julianne Pineda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Larry Stowell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am in full support of the new Commission on Police Practices. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adrienne Van	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We the people of San Diego implore you to see what damage has been caused by the police force. While I understand that not all cops are bad, the ones that are doing harm MUST be held accountable. Police brutality cannot continue. We must focus on care, not cops.
Stacey Edelstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the POA to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. SD deserves transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Armelle Gueye	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
ashley du	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shannon Long	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jenn French	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Courtney Brown	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is so important.

Jenna Ho-Sing-Loy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB situation has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jacqueline Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kimberly Ferrari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda Streiter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Olivia Curry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB Structure has failed this community for too long. The police cannot continue to behave without consequences. In police oversight we demand independence from the Mayor's Office, Independent Legal Counsel, power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independent investigators and staff. I encourage members of the CRB to listen to the citizens of San Diego and to show their public support

RayLynn Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joslin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I also implore the council for the decrease in police funding and using existing funding for TRUE reform, education, psychology, and ethical practices
Melissa Canales	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah campos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police and relocate found the community ! We need money for Healthcare, housing, food access NOT TO GOVE MORE POWER TO THE POLICE
Lindsey Wilhelm	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Joz Vammer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed and we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, or the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office as, at the least, a balance to any internal initiatives or investigations. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously; San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura Fragomeni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allison Sabers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brendan Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of City Council District 3, I just want to enter into the public record my belief that while the long overdue ban on cartoid restraints is a useful, small step towards reforming the SDPD, true reform cannot come without full independent, nonpartisan oversight. I want to encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal, which would allow for independent investigations into misconduct, independent legal counsel, the ability to subpoena law enforcement and non-law enforcement witnesses and their records as part of any investigation and would remove current conflicts of interest with the City Attorney and the Mayor's office. Enshrining true transparency in investigations into law enforcement, and increasing the role of those communities being policed in the work towards Justice makes San Diego a safer city for everyone living in it.

Johanna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mat Wahlstrom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Devon Meyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bryan Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carrie Schneider	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I request that an independent Commission on Police Practices be set up with the following attributes: •Subpoena power •Independent investigators •Independent legal counsel •Independent from the Mayor's Office In addition, I request that the findings of the commission be binding and not simply advisory. Thank you.

Rhiannon Reed	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jonathan Dutton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alec Terrana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christine Oriol	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Esther Gerrard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sandra Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Becky Scheible	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kasey Branam	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for your time. As a citizen of San Diego living in City Heights, I demand that the Community Review Board on Policy Practices: 1. Have independence from the Mayor's Office; 2. Have independent legal counsel; 3. Have the power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses; and 4. Have independent investigators and staff.
Terrance Loewl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marcy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.

Edoardo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christy Street	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa Weiss	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meghan Lumsden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sierra McGovern	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, We cannot in good conscience allow the police to continue policing themselves. The current CRB structure has failed our community by allowing the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the people of San Diego. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Actions toward reform, not just one meeting and lip service from City Hall, are urgently needed. The people of San Diego deserve transparency and accountability in policing. I implore the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you for your consideration, I wish you the best in these times of change. Kindly, Sierra
Meah Mapp	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The actions of the police department in San Diego over the past week, while people have been protesting the unlawful treatment of Black people in America is abhorrent. There use of "less lethal" projectiles has put a woman in the hospital with a coma. People are grieving and hurting and the use of force during these protest are not helping anything.
Denise Pena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krista Cuellar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura Walsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm in District 1 and I support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Time for a change.

Emma Bray	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the San Diego police. They are in no way protecting our community. They are intentionally harming us and preventing our first amendment rights. Defund them.
Shannon crowley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandy Hackett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kyle Knoebel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is Kyle Knoebel in Chris Wards 3rd District. I am writing to demand that the portion of the city budget allocated to the police force be redistributed to services that will better help the community such as housing, healthcare, public transportation and mental health services. Any community review board associated with the police department must be defunded, and an independent citizen advisory board created to better protect all citizens, especially those of color.
Scott Szikla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tyra Callaway	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emily Aust	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cody Sloan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Veronica Contin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Heather Gugin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current lack of accountability within the police dept has led us down a dangerous path. I want to trust the police but for that to happen I need to see oversight from an organization independent of the mayors office/police dept. too many times we see police on paid leave then found no fault without an independent investigation. This is unacceptable, they hold our liberty in their hands. They should be held to a higher standard.
Madilyn Majillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marely Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please consider the outcry from the Racial Justice Coalition of San Diego. It's time for Change!

Juli Becker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ana Montiel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Aadil Rehan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cooper Lecza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	If the events of the past few days have demonstrated anything, it's that excessive use of force, systematic racism, and a dangerous abandonment of the duty to protect and serve the interests of the public are endemic in police departments across the country. This does not have to be the case in San Diego. We cannot allow the police to continue to policing themselves, because they've proven to put their own interests above the communities that they purportedly serve. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Carrie Anne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jesan De Leon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Fatima El-Tayeb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Effective oversight of police practices requires an independent board, chosen by the most affected communities, with subpoena powers. It also requires the defunding of police and the immediate channeling of these funds to communities that continue to suffer from structural racism, including police violence and lack of access to basic resources.
Arthur S. Moreau IV	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community it is intended to serve for too long. We can no longer allow the SDPD to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. City Hall and the Police Association has failed us. And continues to fail us. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anna Black-Hogins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and getting away with wrongful acts that strip away basic fundamental rights that humans should have. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Deann Riddle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kambui Bomani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia Anker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Perry Schoulten	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shandy Carlson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Wall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Jazzmyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Therese Hymer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs a truly independent police review board. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. The ballot proposal asks for subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Katrina Buensuceso	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaira Borunda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Wells	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Whitney Cartwright	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of the City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know these reforms are being taken serious. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage members of current CRB to publicly support San Diegans for justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Paige Geary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Antonette Hrycyk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Michelle Yuan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ariana Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anthony Benitez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nate Bayless	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Coleen Cusack	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What has been made abundantly clear in the civil unrest raging throughout the city and nation is that the people police have sworn to protect and serve do not feel like they can trust the police to protect and serve THEM. This did not happen in a vacuum or overnight and this isn't the first we've been heard to complain. A Citizen's Review Board that represents the COMMUNITY's INTEREST, that is wholly independent, not just on paper but in reality, and that has power to investigate with SUBPOENA and the power to make decisions impactful on the police and the policies of the agencies is essential to restoring that trust. There is no other workaround and anything less than transparency and collaborative cooperation will add to the continued mistrust. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously.
Bianca Miles Marquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katie Tarver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justine Cudal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Daryl Daley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Graciela Negri	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chance	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and reinvest that money into our communities. We need mental health care, food, safe housing, and rental assistance. Not riot gear, not tear gas, not rubber bullets. No more money for a racist police force!
Alli Perlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Trish Tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicole Phillips	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot

Seraphina Solders	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cali Olson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Evan M. Hanna Y.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	An independent community based task force to review policing practices would go a long way towards inspiring more public confidence in the police force and establishing greater accountability for individual officers and the department as a whole as they perform their duties to protect and serve the community.
Bryna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Pfledderer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Briana Estolano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Flavia D'Urso	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiira Avina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tia Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Leslie Luna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Darbi Berry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rich Sypeck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a concerned member of the San Diego community, we need to be an example to other local governments The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Let's lead the country in this area.
Drew witte	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sophia Cromarty	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Naraly Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Gabriela Masuda Ambata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Casey Ta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Transparency and timeliness of reviews and open communication are critical for preserving the community's trust in both the police force and the community review board. The review board must also be free from bias and appearance of bias and influence from the organization which they are charged to oversee. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura Leen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Renelle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Allison Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Castro-Pilar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Faithe Thogode	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and that we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Louiemark Ambata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brittney Isaacs	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mackenna Kull	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police budget and make reforms to the way police interface with black people. Banning the chokehold is not enough. Please require comprehensive reporting, officers duty to intervene, and mandate de-escalation of police encounters. Use funds to help the community instead of Funding poorly trained policeforce
Jennifer Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shanna vachal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sabrina Morando	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krista Feallock	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Henry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kira Brashears	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Frida Refanidis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lesly Gallegos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As an active lifetime member of this city, I acknowledge that our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. These are INHUMANE acts of violence against our citizens. I ask that we defund the police, and invest on what our communities really need.
Jaclyn Albright	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The lack of trust for law enforcement is largely due to lack of ACCOUNTABILITY & TRANSPARENCY. Too many failures to INDICT officers and too many ACQUITTALS have left communities feeling that there is NO JUSTICE. When someone is KILLED and no one is held RESPONSIBLE, it leaves people of color feeling vulnerable. To build trust, there must be consequences and the public must have FREEDOM OF INFORMATION. Police departments should not investigate themselves, nor should justice depend on prosecutors who rely on local law enforcement for evidence in cases they bring. (Who's scratching Who's back while Someone's family is grieving a DEATH?) Instead, ACCOUNTABILITY SYSTEMS SHOULD BE DIRECTED BY THE COMMUNITIES that police departments are supposed to PROTECT AND SERVE.

Grace Dove	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Choi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Catubig	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aurora	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Virginia Salcedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Raphael Umphres	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jeffrey Sypeck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jonathan Decastro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Jennifer Avina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The community has been asking for reform of the CRB for years. Transparency and a strong, independent review board are the very least that we demand to increase confidence in our law enforcement and ensure protection of rights of the public. The CRB must have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Without those elements, the public will never feel that the CRB is anything more than an arm of the Police Officers Association. Please take these demands seriously, don't try to water down the reforms, and publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal as is.
Stefanie Sackrider	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sona Radhakrishnan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continued policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adam Guzzon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Take what happened to Breonna Taylor in Louisville, KY or example. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexia Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
rebecca gibson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mariana Vazquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Toni Burgos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecca Salcedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Miles Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Oscar Benedek	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lilian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sharon Nichols	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I hope that the CRB recognizes the need for independence in review of police actions. Accountability needs to be outside the chain of command and responsibility of those whose actions are being reviewed. The outrage gripping our country regarding police treatment of black individuals across multiple jurisdictions emphasizes the need to gain the public's trust regarding handling of these incidents. This trust will only come from truly independent and transparent review of incidents, along with commensurate actions taken in response. Independent investigators and legal counsel, along with subpoena powers, are needed for reviews to be meaningful.
Elsa Salcedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cori Dunton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jesse Cox	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a veteran, a poll worker and a San Diego volunteer. On Sunday I attended a peaceful protest when the young man next to me was hit in the forehead with a nonlethal round while he had his hands up. I administered first aid which included wiping blood and tears from his face, and applying pressure to a wound that was literally flapping open to reveal his skull. Two inches lower and he would have lost his eye. But wait! Seconds before this happened, someone from an ENTIRELY SEPARATE part of the crowd had thrown a half-filled water bottle at the police. In your mind, does this make it ok?? Why are we holding the people to a higher standard than the police? Why do you expect the people to endure more pain? How do you think the public feels to see you spend half a billion dollars on weapons to shoot a young man in the forehead WHEN HE HAD HIS HANDS IN THE AIR? Until you respond adequately. I won't be voting in November, and as a veteran, that fills me with dread. Black Lives Matter. Defund the police. Please immediately resign and find God.
Daniela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Marquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Please defund the police as they are harming and arresting peaceful protestors even before curfew. They are instigating our community members and are a danger to our diverse San Diego family. Thank you.

Samantha Munoz-Rios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rory Rogan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth Rooklidge	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Breanna McKinley Johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officers Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Kaila Domingo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alisa Shorago	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need a new commission structure. An effective police review board that instills confidence in the public is one that is independent of the mayor's office, has independent counsel, and has the ability to investigate independently, including subpoena power. Transparency and accountability demand no less.
Ryan Zimmerman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and invest in the communities!
Christopher Leber	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand police oversight via an independent review board: - Independent and insulated from the Mayor's office - Independent and insulated from the police department and union - Comprised of independent investigators and legal counsel with the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses We need a review board that holds police accountable more than 11% of the time, and that does more than simply review what internal affairs sends them. [https://www.policescorecard.org/sandiego]
Tilak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police brutality
Yinka Odofin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosa Mitsumasu Scotti	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support my fellow San Diegans demanding Justice through Police Oversight by advocating for: -Independence from the Mayor's office -Independent legal counsel -Power to subpoena officers records & witnesses -Independent investigators

Yasmine Khatib	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marissa McGee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Independence from majors office Independent legal council Power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses Independent investigation and staff
Jasmine Washington	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allison Lindblom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sofia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrea Towns	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly Dembicer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In a fair society, the police should not be allowed to police themselves. Truly independent investigations into police misconduct are the only way to ensure justice is served for victims of police brutality, assault, profiling, sexual harassment, and wrongful death. Sadly, this is not an option for the citizens of San Diego. Our only recourse today is to sue the city, which needlessly wastes millions of dollars on lawsuits instead of going towards housing, fire departments and improving the city we call home. I urge the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans For Justice ballot proposal, which outlines 4 major reforms: independent investigators who do not answer to the police chief; independent legal counsel (an attorney who does not represent the city or its police department); subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents to get to the truth; and independence from the Mayor's Office to shield it from political influence.
Arlette Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am respectfully asking that the proposal to increase the police budget is rejected. Increasing the police budget will not do anything to address the issues that we are currently facing such as, racism, health, and economic crisis. This budget is RACIST! Black, indigenous, people of color are already impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes us even more vulnerable to violence. Reinvest funds in vital services for our communities. DEFUND THE POLICE.
zoe dorman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Savannah Baker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alissa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand subpoena power from the Mayors office.
Jorge G Arriaga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. There is no reason that the police should be prioritized in funds as they continue to terrorize innocent citizens who are practicing their rights
Jordin Shannon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelli	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maya Alagha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cassandra Henderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In recent events, it has become clear that CRB has been failing the community. The police have been allowed to only police themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association are overshadowing the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
William O'Nell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marko Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and spend more on communities!!
Roger Velasco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Jessie McIntyre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed the community for far too long. We need an independent Commission on Police Practices controlled by the people, not politicians and certainly not the police. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and that the needs and safety of the people are placed first. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current Community Review Board to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Deborah Streett-Idell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia Benson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay Rattner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves - they must be held accountable directly by the public they have sworn to protect and serve. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association cannot overshadow the needs of the people. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Only then will we know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jacob Newbom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As we watch our own police brutalize, has, flashbang, Pepper spray, pepper ball, and insult our community, many things have become clear. Make it illegal to turn off body cams, a fireball instant offense. Ban tear gas, flash bangs, choke holds, and pepperguns. Work WITH community to prevent crime, not punish. Lessen the armament of the SDPD. Arrest And charge every officer involved in racial profiling, police brutality, or murder. Every one. Pressure the rest of the PDs across the country to do the same.
Elyse Walk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jared Dillon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgan Wurtzler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan O'Flaherty	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Ben Kington	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Effie Sandoval	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Josh Belisario	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Isabel Sanchez Hodoyan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cassidy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arwa Zakir Kakavand	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephan Hoyt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office for the CRB. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charlotte	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and fund communities. We cannot spend more on a corrupt system
Jessica Erlich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Danielle Pompeo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The militarization of the police force in San Diego is unacceptable. The use of tear gas on peaceful protests in San Diego is unacceptable. The right to a peaceful protest is so important it is literally the 1st amendment. First. Police need to be trained in de-escalation policies, there are so many options before shooting and tear gas. Unacceptable. Training.
Molly Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dr Risha Marszowski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Noah P	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kheana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Terrin Linderman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mallorie A King	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalie Mitchell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anoushka Bose	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alisa Miller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Evelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Spencer Camarda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paloma Monesi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jodie Lorea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of La Mesa, I am appalled at the response of law enforcement to the recent unrest. I have always believed that, but for occasional bad actors, the police are here to serve and protect. I no longer believe that is the case in San Diego. We have seen police across the country respond to demonstrations by deescalating and connecting with the community, but we did NOT see that here. I am ashamed of us. It is unacceptable that the current board has done nothing to seriously address police accountability in San Diego. I fully support the San Diegans for Justice effort to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability becomes reality rather than just lip service.
Adrianne Renteria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mary Del Mundo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Terri S. Leyton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth P.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lacey Stockton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Agathe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Madison W	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The actions of the police have caused the community to lose faith in their ability to protect and serve the people which have fallen victim, in many cases, to excessive force through their right to peaceful protest. The police budget should be decreased to allow more funding to the communities suffering from systemic racism on top of a historical pandemic. In order for faith to be restored in the police and the community to heal from their actions, police need to be held accountable and the use of rubber bullets discontinued. The police should show the community that they have used their taxpayer dollars in good faith by exercising restraint in the face of provocation, as they are trained and sworn to do.
Ben Merrill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sean Thielen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bilal Mohamed	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Rosalinda Gomez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Iviana Villanueva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our community for far too long. The police should no longer be able to police themselves because of the lack of humanity behind a police force. The politics of City Hall and Police officer association constantly overshadow the needs and wants of the public. We demand the ability to subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the Mayor's office. We as San Diegans demand transparency. The current CRB needs to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Black lives matter
Jamie Doheny	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In a fair society, the police should not be allowed to police themselves. Truly independent investigations into police misconduct are the only way to ensure justice is served for victims of police brutality, assault, profiling, sexual harassment, and wrongful death. Sadly, this is not an option for the citizens of San Diego. Our only recourse today is to sue the city, which needlessly wastes millions of dollars on lawsuits instead of going towards housing, fire departments and improving the city we call home. I urge the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans For Justice ballot proposal, which outlines 4 major reforms: independent investigators who do not answer to the police chief; independent legal counsel (an attorney who does not represent the city or its police department); subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents to get to the truth; and independence from the Mayor's Office to shield it from political influence.
MADISON Riley NEES	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cassidy Stockwell Cardoso	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carolyn Shadle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The recent death of George Floyd has gotten my interest in policing in my own city. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Juan Carlos Mendez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
MADISON Riley NEES	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jonathan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kenneth Reinstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and that we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need system change to end system racism, help us change the world for a better future. It's long over due.
Roxy Condotta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa DelTurco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Kayci Nosal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jae Rim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police brutality and excessive force on minorities, specifically African Americans must end. Please move forward with proactive ways to help with education and ethical practices. Please cultivate department that stands with the values of the BLM movement. This should not be a police vs humanity issue, and the department needs to step up and exhibit their support so that we are all on the same team working toward the same goals
Lauren Dockweiler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Please listen to this public outcry for reform.
Dulce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Shapiro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kaitlyn Summers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Faith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Wick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal and believe the review board should have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's Office. There needs to be transparency and accountability in policing.
Jessica Park	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Catherine Sclafani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jasmine Tavarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer L Wilczynski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Oloughlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Miriam Allsop	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jessica McPeak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am commenting to advocate for the defunding of the police. The CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need to invest in our communities through universal education, accessible transportation, mental health services, drug rehabilitation programs and affordable housing NOT a militarized and brutalizing police force that brings nothing but fear and violence to our communities. Listen to your people. Thank you.
julianna plum	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Esther Klijn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly MacDonald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR’S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN’T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.

Glenna Clifton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is not sufficiently regulating the police with the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadowing the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annika Jimenez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal yannis perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sunniva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary Lehman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jessica Spung	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Karol Miller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brittany McCline	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabella Molina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Do it for San Diego.
Aaron Samudio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police are meant to serve and protect, but left unchecked by an independent review system it becomes a force that looks out for the interests of its members rather than its community. Change the CRB, stop letting the police privilege themselves.

Amelia Clayton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daria Tomsky	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Evelyn Walker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandi Weinstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julie Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alicia Salgado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kimberlyn Velasquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dan B.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brittany Bradley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Independent authority assessments must be implemented. No internal policing. #blacklivesmatter
Waldo Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Violet Navarrete	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Vandervalk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. You cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. You must demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. The community needs to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and is not just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support major reform.
Chitchanok Phiukhao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to hear us and publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Dan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Elaine Flores	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Luke Roethler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As someone who yearns for justice for our black and brown fellow community members, it is sickening to see how our police officers have responded to the recent protests. The SDPD need to be held accountable for their abuses of power.
Nicole Jackson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annalysa vasquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current crb structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to over shadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we just aren't getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT the san diegans for justice ballot proposal
Kristen Mihalko	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sabrina Van Zuiden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chloe Dore Gomes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly Lampron	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
A. S.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow our police to continue policing themselves, and we cannot allow the existing policies and practices of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of our city's residents. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being implemented to protect both our citizens and the officers who serve and protect those citizens. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justine Biner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We will NOT stand for the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. PLEASE vote NO on bill #AB2261. DEFUND THE POLICE STATE. STOP CURFEWS. LET THE PUBLIC BUSES RUN PAST 8PM. Keep our ESSENTIAL working class safe.

Cintya Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaitlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jayne Friscia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gina Powers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. This is the least you can do to ensure instances of police brutality is properly handled and punished. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniel Patrick Barnes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sterling Bax	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB has failed victims of police misconduct over and over again. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Josh Pal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a local physician. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carlos Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carmen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa Magdaleno Valdez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Maher Alsakkaf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police should not be allowed to gun down innocent people period, let alone without repercussions . We need a community review board as a means of keeping those in the police in check. We have seen this week and over the last decade the need to, at MINIMUM, check and minimize the power of the police. We need to defund the police entirely but this is a great start.
Quintin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Helen Jannke	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. In addition, I ask that you take immediate action to defund the San Diego police department. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities through expanding access to health care, housing, and food, rather than investing in the police. Finally, I ask that you defund the Boards and Commissions that serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable! Thank you, Helen Jannke, District 52
Jillian stewart	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Carl Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a high school educator I find it repellent that so much of the budgets is going towards the police departments and not towards education. Me, and several other educators cannot find jobs but I constantly see advertisements for police officer positions. I believe funding educational institutions is far more worthwhile for creating a better San Diego than dumping money in riot gear and pepper spray. We need more teachers not more cops.
Theresa LeBlanc	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our San Diego community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I want the people in our community to be treated fairly and for them to feel safe from racism, violence & discrimination. Our current structure needs to change. I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sebastian Palmer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Josephine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
McKenna Gaughan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Vivian Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Griffith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is not enough to require our police officers to be well- versed in de-escalation techniques- that is the bare minimum that the community expects of a force meant to "protect" and "serve" us. Enough is enough- we must stop funneling a ridiculous portion of the city's general funding into the police department and stop allowing the police to police themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Soumika Guduru	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Oswald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caitlin Wion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police! Invest in communities!

Alex Pourfard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Travis James Butler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Neha Sharma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lisa Keeley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police officers association to overshadow the needs of the public. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We need change NOW! We need subpoena power, independent investigations, independent legal council and independence from the Mayor's office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing.
Alex Hall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emily Knapp	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I want the community review board to consider the proposal of San Diegan's for Justice to create an independent review board with subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need police transparency & accountability and I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Additionally, we should adopt stronger Use of Force Policies as suggested in the evidence based studies from Campaign Zero which demonstrate a decrease by 72% in police violence.
Madonna Linares	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nancy Stagg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I write to encourage the members of the CRB to publicly support the ballot proposal put forth by San Diegans for Justice. A fully independent review board with subpoena power and independent legal counsel is a necessary part of real criminal justice reform. The time is now! Thank you.
Angelica Schroeder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kirsten doud	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Chavis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My family and I are concerned. We demand a civilian review board with actual power that will hold bad agents accountable. They need to be equipped with subpoena power and independent counsel.
TeaRessa M. Marquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristen Ryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, my name is Kristen Ryan and I live in District 3. I believe the current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Give the people subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I also hope to see alternatives to policing implemented, like sending social workers/counselors in response to mental health emergencies, NOT armed police officers. Other cities across the US are already doing this (e.g. Dallas). Homeless people, veterans, and other San Diegans who are experiencing mental health issues need help and resources, not violence. We remember what happened to Alfred Olango and Raul Rivera. We need you to do better for the people you represent. Our lives depend on it. Thank you for your time.

Ryan O'Connor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emma Bloom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jessica Shen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maxwell Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police brutality has gone on too long in San Diego. We cannot allow police to continue to be accountable for themselves and hold the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association above the needs of the people. We demand subpoena power, independent investigations, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayor's office. These reforms must be put into action and not merely "talked about" or "discussed." San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa Visalli	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Allan Ramsay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristina Bazargan-Forward	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Glenna Sheaer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we are not just getting lip-service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cheryl Hagar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ben	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Robert Boyce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lucia Pasquale	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Margaret Webb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Conner Swartout	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Amanda Granberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tracy nolan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shannon Campbell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aned	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Katie Rogan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda Riddle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Srishti Prasad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we are't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Victoria Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	ACAB
RICHARD RAM	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Travis Dean Chamberlain	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Statistics released about SDPD practices are galling and indicate the need for significant reform. Too long has this been covered up; the time to act and work to heal deep wounds in the structure of our social order is NOW. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. There must be civic oversight and TRANSPARENCY if there is to be justice, and, indeed, if there is to be social order.

Grace Rojas-Jimenez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Ludovise	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
elizabeth diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Certain communities in this city have faced unbelievable loss at the hands of racist police. I say CERTAIN COMMUNITIES, because we know how polar communities are in San Diego. Some white-dominated communities with unlimited resources and opportunities, while other minority communities are harassed and killed at the hands of those designed to "protect". The people deserve to place resources/money in ways that will actually benefit humanity like equal access to housing, education and healthcare, rather than funding millions of dollars into the police which have little training on actually keeping people safe and large amounts of training on use of deadly force. We as people cannot even protest PEACEFULLY in the streets without being harassed by the police and border patrol for stating that Black Lives Matter. This was proven when I along with hundreds of other 100% PEACEFUL protesters were tear gassed and shot with rubber bullets on Sunday 5/31. After this was when things took a turn, but who gets the blame - the people. If the goal is to keep people safe, not only are the police not helping - they are absolutely contributing to problem.
Melissa Tuomi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Best, Dr. Melissa Tuomi

Charlotte Benson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paul Schumacher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. Out of a total of 300 civilian complaints between 2016 and 2018, only 14% ruled in favor of civilians. 0% ruled in favor of civilians on use of force complaints. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kimberly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kimberly Weinberger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sara Wilson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexia Yorba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Helen Keating	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Troy Ardon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need a totally new system for police transparency and accountability. If the city believes the police behave appropriately then there should be no objection to forming a new system to satisfy the populace. If they aren't behaving appropriately, all the more reason to have a new system.
Natalia von hausen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need to offer resources to our community that don't result in violence and trauma, this includes but is no limited to mental health sources, community building techniques and initiatives, education on how to build tighter know neighborhoods, non violence communication. The police department in our city should not be getting the majority of the city budget.

Ivy Chester	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandro Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please read outload-This is from me and my wife and for the future of our children and our community at large. I am strongly opposed to the current board. It needs to be replaced IMMEDIATELY-It is obvious that they have done NOTHING to resolve the police brutality in our City! Step Down! There so much we do not know about how far officers are willing to get away with because they have not been caught! They need to understand that they are here for the people "Community Policing"! The Chief has only been talking about but never enforced! They ALL need to be re-trained and reminded of why they have a badge! TO SERVE AND PROTECT! NOT TO KILL orABUSE! There needs to be policy in place that officers who abuse their power and take a life are double penalized because they hold the guns! They need to be treated like civilians and be charged to the fullest of the law. They are trained militarize; this is not war on our community. They are here to "Serve and Protect" ! All they are is a legal gang. They only back each other up. END THIS! For the Love of God!
Amberlyn Dinh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dorka Hegedus	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support a police oversight that is transparent and is accountable to keep the community safe. I support an alternative to current overspending on police misconduct lawsuits.
David Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego, I demand independence from the mayor's office when it comes to police oversight, as well as independent legal counsel. I also demand ability to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, as well as call for independent investigators and staff. We need to prioritize the health, well-being, and safety of our communities. We need to limit the power of the police, that frequently results in racialized violence against the black community, as well as other working class people.

Sandra Rickon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the CRB to remove itself from the mayors' office and to allow independent investigation and counsel to take place. What is happening in this country is incredibly sad. It is a reasonable request. San Diego needs to set an example for police reform.
Darby Doolittle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in our communities, not the police. During a pandemic our communities need access to healthcare, housing, and food, not racist policing.
G Trupp	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan Edwards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maddi Baird	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lucero Barragan Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Abigail Grable	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stacey Wright	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anshul Birla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Valerie Belloso	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Felipe Andrade	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Reggie Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand more accountability for the men and women who protect this city. Including but not limited to independent legal counsel, the power to subpoena officers, witnesses and records, independence from the mayors office and independent investigators and staff. Thank you.

Ashley Hyman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laurel Reidel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
daisy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caryn Josepher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable!
Amanda Alcantara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan Tankersley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the San Diego police to keep policing themselves, and the Politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage and we encourage the members for the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Samantha Anderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Crystal Kay Pualani Gora	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Enough is enough!
Jaime Brown	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Abey T.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current Community Review Board to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Richard Bentley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Barbara Ferreira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Malease Taing	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anya Cloud	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like my voice as a San Diego resident to be heard. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ian M Cooper	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs to establish a balance of powers to ensure that the police force and the like work for the people rather than against the people, especially for those people of color. I would personally like to see independence from the mayors office, independent legal councels, ability to properly investigate suspected crimes by police (including subpoena of officers, records and witnesses), and establishment of independent investigators and staff.
Stephanie Galaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lillian P.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police need to be defunded. The lack of funding going towards education, public health and homelessness is an embarrassment to the community of San Diego and contributes to the systematic oppression of the black communtiy. To continue funding the police means continuing the funding of deaths in the black community. DEFUND RACISM.

Alan Cervantes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Delara Taie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lili Muskal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Karina Araiza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabel Costantino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Halei Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current structure of the CRB has failed our community. We will no longer allow SDPD to continue policing themselves, with the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadowing the needs of the public. We demand police reform in four majors ways: 1) independence from the mayor's office, 2) independent legal counsel, 3) the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and 4) independent investigators and staff. San Diegans deserve true transparency and real accountability in policing, and we encourage the current members of the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal in the same vocal way that Mayor Faulconer, Supervisor Fletcher, Council President Gómez, Councilwoman Bry, Councilwoman Montgomery, Rep. Scott Peters, Assemblywoman Weber and Assemblywoman Gonzalez have already done. If you truly support police reform and are serious about police accountability, then please actively support this measure. It's time for change in San Diego.
Celia Glezer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Liliana DeRossi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ryan Luong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Megan Hicks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shannon McLaughlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
CHRISTOPHER W ROWLETT	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure must change. The police have proven time and again that they cannot police themselves. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association consistently overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. The City must take these reforms seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Genix Vigo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must put an end on police brutality
DANIEL KANG	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE SDPD AND REDIRECT THE FUNDS TO AREAS THAT NEED IT, SUCH AS PUBLIC HOUSING, ENVIRONMENTAL, ETC.
Louis Canlas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Elias Malouf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Reyman Bada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taryn Bordeaux	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sahar Shakoori	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jonard Talamayan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chris Carter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Then when you have reformed the CRB I'd like you to open investigations on every excessive force complaint the citizens protesting peacefully file. It's clear they feel entitled to assault the very citizens they have sworn to protect simply for expressing their 1st amendment rights. Hold them accountable or yield your position.
Anthony Provencio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angela Zagami	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalie Allen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shannan May	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This can't keep going on. How many of us POC have to die before changes will be made? I shouldn't fear for my life when a police car drives by or when I'm near any officers because I haven't done anything illegal! Make the police academics more rigorous! It is way too easy to become a cop! They must be subject to Marine-like training and discipline and show they have an adult IQ!
Matthew Silva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We can't allow the police to act the way they do towards unarmed black civilians and toward everyone else

Margo Sedano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Torromeo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tchanavia Lastie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The community needs to be able to trust their police. The community needs to know that if there is police misconduct, they can trust that justice will be served.
Sarah Karver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Also, Black Lives Matter.
Riza Clave	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Matt Vasile	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jazmin Vega Caldera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Duncan MacPhee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Haley Leverton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexa Hornedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Asking to Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. This is a racist budget. Asking to decrease police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen them. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes then even more vulnerable to violence.Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olago, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. As issues of police brutality against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Community safety is equitable access to health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Invest in communities, not police. INVEST IN COMMUNITIES, NOT POLICE.
Stephen Randall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Robi Foli	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Deanna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anna Popova	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Barbara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justin Washabaugh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julien Barthelemy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I want to make sure that all people no matter their race are treated equally by police. From what I have heard throughout the community is that there are still too many people based on the color of their skin that are being stopped by the police for no good reason.

Natalia Sevilla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabel Rosado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Thomas Hughes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Camille Harrington	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Helen Zeldes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support the establishment of an independent police review board .
Annabel Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jared DiPrima	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lytia Lai	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay Nicole Ball	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Madison Oxandaboure	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to raise the issue of police brutality and urge police departments to crack down on their police force. Police brutality needs to be addressed and punished in an appropriate way.
Jemery Laguna Alvarado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we demand: 1) independence from the mayors office 2) independent legal counselor 3) power to subpoena officers records and witnesses 4) independent investigators and staff
Isabella hiller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	.

Carolina Suno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caitlin Colvin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaila Mellos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Giovanna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cynthia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Charlie Vergara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecca Rojas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	At the bare minimum, we need a truly independent Commission on Police Practices. It does not make sense for the police to police themselves. There is little accountability in the current CRB structure, which has failed the community for too long. The recent and past murders of African Americans at the hands of the police and the discriminatory, abusive policing in neighborhoods of people of color demonstrate the need for a truly independent CRB structure. Power must always be checked; otherwise, a community and society cannot experience justice and fairness. In police oversight, we demand the following: 1) Independence from the mayor's office; 2) Independent legal counsel; 3) Power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses; and 4) Independent investigators and staff. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Do the right thing.

Hannah Karraker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay Adams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
JAMES p LEONARD	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I've been a member of the greater San Diego Community since 1992, and a homeowner since 2013. I would like to see significant changes to the current CRB structure. The idea that police should (or can) police themselves is a fallacy - if the police were able to uphold an impossible ideal of objectivity, they would not need to police themselves in the first place. As adult humans, we know this level of objectivity is not the case in any profession or walk-of-life, even those less integral or stressful than policing. The expected politics resulting from self-regulation (and undoubted favoritism and likely unfairness) is the opposite of blind justice. The current "system" puts the needs of the public second, at best. The needs of the public must come before all else. To that end, the public should be provided an advocate with the necessary tools - subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. An independent Commission on Police Practices is needed, now. Please publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Holly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our police and police across the country have failed the people and enacted sexual and physical violence for too long. The current CRB structure has also failed us. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of power overshadow the needs of the public. I demand independent investigators (not chosen by the mayor), subpoena power, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that people's safety is being taken seriously; lip service is not enough. I encourage the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal, without restriction. No one else should be killed or traumatized by police in our city. Thank you.
Lien Phung	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa Alarab	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Leonardo Alcala	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
LUIZA KHAZANOVSKAYA	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

anna zeltins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristina Nakao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Pamela Barajas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jake Johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Grace Chen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Dvaunee scott	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need to defund and decrease policing power.
Diana Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Josie tuthill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Duncan Ugland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
McKayla Howie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Martha Adame	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Darin Marlow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Monica Calcagno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	POLICE OVERSIGHT MUST INCLUDE: Independence from the mayor's office Independent legal counsel Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses Independent investigations and staff
Susan Duerksen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Recent events should finally make it clear to everyone: Police cannot continue to police themselves. The San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal is a common-sense reform and I strongly urge all CRB members to publicly support it. I have lived in San Diego for 35 years and I'm a homeowner and taxpayer. I'm ashamed that my city still doesn't have independent, accountable review of police practices. Support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal TODAY! Thank you in advance for doing the right thing.

Serena R. Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Here are 8 policies that must be considered that can decrease police violence by 72%: 1) Ban chokeholds and strangleholds 2) Require de-escalation 3) Require warning before shooting 4) Exhaust all alternatives before shooting 5) Duty to intervene 6) Ban shooting from moving vehicles 7) Establish use of force continuum 8) Require all force be reported Details can be found at www.8cantwait.org Our community is hurting and we demand action.
Alec Clark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniela Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicholas Fennell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ramon Mendoza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jessica Postma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dawn Barr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Derek hyman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Stop police brutality; hold everyone accountable for the same offenses. Equal playing field for all!
Rena Sugarman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kayla Soumountha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Megan Pynes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Danielle Wimberly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa Diano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police brutality is a systemic issue and we are foolish to think these issues do not apply to San Diego. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's Office. I urge the current CRB publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Black lives matter.
Charina Madrid	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Grant	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Michael Sakasegawa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB does not have sufficient power or authority to provide adequate oversight of the police department. It is necessary to replace the CRB with a new independent Commission on Police Practices that is independent of the mayor's office or the police department, and which has independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and subpoena powers. The current CRB, mayor, and city council must all publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal, and it must pass.
Chase Jordan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aili	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marin Cross	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Prioritize housing and resources for at risk youth and mothers. We don’t need a bigger police budget! We need to see our community leadership taking a stand and supporting people of color and minority groups, especially in this moment, and especially in San Diego which represents such a diverse population.
Rafal Kopacz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Charlie Reed	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marleigh Jenkins-Morse	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Overall, but especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to housing, food, and health care. Not racist and violent policing. Please stop investing in violent practices and create preventative programs.
Areli Zaragoza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Valeria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police brutality targeting the black community is unacceptable. This needs to change.
Emily Songvilay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Doreen Govari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Katie Hallett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Thierry Denis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Eric Sanschagrin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ronan Andrew Nelson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. It is incredibly dangerous to allow police to continue policing themselves, and for the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Head	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Madeline Rojer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we need: (1) independence from the mayors office (2) independent legal counsel (3) power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses (4) independent investigators and staff
Elisa Maginnis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Monica Banuelos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD needs to immediately ban the use of rubber bullets at peaceful protesters/shooting into the crowd. There is absolutely no need for SDPD to be tear gassing, beating, and shooting people that are trying to exercise their free speech rights. People are rightfully protesting for this country and all police departments to take accountability for their history of anti Blackness and over policing and using excessive force on communities of color. White protesters were not met with this violence weeks ago when they were protesting stay at home orders but people of color are being attacked for protesting the lost lives of Breonna Taylor, George Floyd, Tony McDade, and countless others. SDPD needs to hold their police officers accountable and stop using the carotid neck restraint techniques
Lindsay Banuelos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brooke Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Luisa Dones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Desiree Cuizon Fejeran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandra Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Breonna's Law must be passed nationwide to protect our citizens!!! The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Atalia Domingos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We are particularly sickened and outraged at the killing of 31 year old Toby Diller who was shot point blank in the back of the head by police during an open container stop. Our community needs equitable access to housing and healthcare not tear gas, rubber bullets and more police violence. Our cities budget needs to go to investing in our communities, not the police.
Emily Jackson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The events that have unfolded over the last few days between the police and protesters has shown us again, how urgently we need police reform. The current CRB structure is not effective and it needs an immediate overhaul. Police cannot police themselves. We have witnessed the SDPD committing acts of horrific police brutality in response to police brutality! Cops using their cars to run through crowds of protesters should alarm you. Cops shooting rubber bullets directly at San Diegan's faces and inflicting permanent eye damage should alarm you. Cops using tear gas during a pandemic for a virus that attacks your lung tissues should alarm you. We demand subpoena power, independent investigation, legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. The public needs transparency NOW. The current CRB needs to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nathan Rieck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary Bandar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. There are multiple videos depicting the SD police department to abuse their power. This is NOT OKAY. Listen to the people.

ANNA Z	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear San Diego City Council, This past week San Diego has seen SDPD use aggression towards peaceful protesters exercising our first amendment right resulting in violence and harm. SDPD utilized tear gas, concussion grenades, rubber bullets and more. These actions have resulted in rioting, looting, arrests of peaceful protesters, the harm of children, BIPOC, disabled folks and supporting members of the community. This is not okay. The police currently receive 1/3rd of the city's budget. We ask to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million. We ask to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. We ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to re-distribute the funds where needed. We demand the funding go towards social services, physical and mental healthcare, accessible public transit, housing, quality education, parks, access to food, and support to underserved communities instead of placing police directly into communities with a majority of BIPOC causing a vulnerability to violence. Nurture your communities and keep those at risk safe instead of targeting them. Break the pattern police departments have followed for years resulting in systematic oppression and racism.
Kathryn Stevens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Liliya Khazanovskaya	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Danielle Hankins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Ashley Yuhm	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joseph McMullen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chloe Ulrich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nathan Elliott	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Valentina Valenzuela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Additionally, let it be known that the La Mesa Police Force. KNOWINGLY tear gassed and shot rubber bullets into a PEACEFUL protest filled with children and elderly with out providing any warning. Instead, of exiting to speak with protestors they would rather harm them. They should be held accountable for the injuries both emotional and physical of these ppl. A PUBLIC APOLOGY AND ACTION IS NEEDED TO DEFUND THIS SYSTEM THAT CONTINUES TO INSTIGATE VIOLENCE IN OUR COMMUNITIES.
Leila Assadian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	KNEEL WITH THE PEOPLE! STAND IN SOLIDARITY WITH OUR COMMUNITY! SHOW US THAT WE ARE ALL IN THIS TOGETHER!!! PLEASE! THE COMMUNITY NEEDS THE POLICE TO SHOW THAT THEY CARE, OTHERWISE THE ANGER WILL CONTINUE TO BUILD AND WE DO NOT WANT THAT! WE WANT OUR VOICES HEARD! WE WANT UNITY. RESPECT. GIVE US THAT. KNEEL WITH US!!!!
Lyssa Woo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Pamela MacLeod	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
jean-huy tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Shay Kawanomiller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Tahmina Habibzada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sophie Podeswik	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. It is time to DEFUND the police and invest in community safety, such as access to housing/healthcare, NOT tear gas/rubber bullets. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Reed Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have been outraged at the department's response to recent events. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Remy Bautista	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Kathryn Tam Poeschel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Yriarte	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sophia Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We deserve a place where people are not afraid to grow up, and by grow up, I mean everything from playing on the streets to developing as a human being. We deserve a safe place to find our identities and find our voices and use those. Effect change now for those in the future.
Katherine Grant	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Gina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sally Ganley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lydia Thompson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Blake Logan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Liz Bui	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mary Church	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chantal Wnuk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The structure of the current Community Review Board is not effective in protecting our community. Because it is not an independent entity, it cannot act without bias to keep the SD Police accountable for their actions, which are too often violent, unjust, and rooted in systemic racism. The needs of the public should be paramount, and we demand subpoena power, independent investigators, and independent legal council - disconnected from the mayors office. We need full transparency in policing and we encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katie Manning	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I join my community to demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Benjamin Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kailoni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Shannon Quick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annie Kaufman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mark Ferreira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Claudia Watts	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Pearl Hoeglund	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is unacceptable and has failed the community for too long. How can we say we are a part of this community while allowing our police to police themselves, while City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of the public? We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that our community's needs and safety are being taken seriously. We deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Michelle Morgan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There is a clear need to implement independent oversight of the City of San Diego Police department in order to improve our overall relationship and trust between the community and protective services. I ask the current CRB members to publicly support the coming ballot measure to publicly support the San Diegans' for Justice ballot proposal.
Yanet	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and invest in our communities! The police budget should not receive 1/3 of the city's budget. We need to reallocate resources, funds, and responsibility away from police and toward community based models of safety, support and prevention. Reinvest in our community and stop the violent disruption of low-income and/or minority communities. This is SD Police rioting and not keeping San Diego Citizens safe. https://twitter.com/greg_doucette/status/1268028872404217857?s=21 Leslie Furcron is in a medically induced coma because of police. https://www.nbcsandiego.com/news/local/family-calls-for-removal-of-officer-for-shooting-rubber-bullet-at-womans-face-in-la-mesa/2338554/ Rubber bullets are lethal!
Jeanne Zheng	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jasmine Gentry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Crystal Cadet	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Why do Doctors and medics lose their entire license and job when they misdiagnose a patient. But when cops fail to protect their citizens over and over again they seemingly get to walk away Scott free? Are citizens and patients lives not equal? It doesnt make sense The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Madeline Silver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jenny	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Stephanie Lugo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for allowing our voices to be heard. In light of all of the protests and pain from American citizens from ALL around the country, it has become clear that reform is necessary regarding the investigative and corrective powers of county police departments. San Diego County could be a leader in this necessary reformation. The San Diego County Community Review Board currently reviews and investigates complaints from the public and gives suggestions to the SDPD. Suggestions are not enough. The CRB should be given independent investigative and corrective powers to create a checks and balance system that exist within our federal government. Through recent events, it has become evidently clear that police officers in this country are NOT held accountable for their actions by their county departments. The amount of African American lives that have been taken in response to racial profiling, escalation of situations by the police department, and quite frankly, lack of training is TOO HIGH. This is unacceptable. San Diego County needs to do better. The United States of America needs to do better. We need to hold our police officers accountable for their actions.
Stephanie Oweka	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diego G	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elle McCue	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayors's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Christy Johnston	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Briton Saxton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nadia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgan Tucker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lilah Jung	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Karelle Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We can no longer allow the lack of community oversight over our police department, or the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously by City Hall, reflected by tangible action taken to address these concerns. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we strongly urge the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Frances Chai	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Proposal.
Kevin Lohmann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Robert Laymon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I agree with the four points outlined by the San Diegans for Justice. 1. We demand subpoena power 2. Independent investigators 3. Independent legal counsel 4. Independence from the Mayor's Office

April	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In order to protect all people in San Diego, including the police, we need to implement police oversight that is independent of the mayor's office that includes independent legal counsel and has the power to subpoena police officers, records, and witnesses. We need independent investigators and staff. We also need all police officers to wear functioning body cams at all times. In the event a body cam is turned off, the police department should be fined heavily. The footage for body cams should be stored in an independent location. Police officers should be fired when they assault or kill civilians, not moved to other departments. They should also face the same consequences legally for their actions that us civilians do. Police should be better trained to deal with developmentally disabled people. These changes and others need to take place ASAP.
Laura Dimeling	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Heather	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Patty Robbins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Rachel Xu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalia Zorrilla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ky Robinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Yadira Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Benjamin Wanicur	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angela Contreas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I am also demanding for defending of the SDPD and for that funding to instead toward community outreach and support. They do not use the funds for the good of the people. They use their resources to instigate violence and terror on San Diego communities. WE ARE TIRED. I am also in support of the RENTAL ASSISTANCE PROPOSAL.
Riley Stenehjem	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Deny the mayor's budget proposal and defund the SDPD. I urge you to redirect this money to the communities of San Diego. Instead of giving even more money to racist, violent police forces, let's invest in education, youth and community programs, public housing, and free and improved public transport. We want care for the community, not cops. Community safety must include equitable access to housing and health care, not increased policing. Defund the SDPD. Say their names: Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.

Hannah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long and I feel that that is even more clear every day as we see the police violence in our own town. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ky Robinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Madeleine Burgett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia Luo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ashley Min	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
John Inniss	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura Mendez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Trixi Agiao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Carol Taira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, Please DEFUND the police and invest in our communities instead. We have experienced catastrophic loss at the hands of racist police. We will never forget Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, James Lacey, and many others. We need equitable access to housing, healthcare, and food—not racist police with their tear gas and rubber bullets. In police oversight we demand independence from the mayor's office; independent legal counsel; power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; and independent investigators and staff. Please listen to your constituents. Thank you, Carol Taira District 3
Anne Park	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia Sullivan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Silvia Alvarado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Denise Natividad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Hoang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Erika Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and that we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adam Accorsi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	he current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marissa Brooks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Margaret Pham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Erin Bank	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yvonne Estime	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gina Villanueva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Sweeping change needs to be implemented. Monthly trainings, webinars, classes, meetings on systemic racism, privilege, individualized racism, trauma. When hiring new officers, demand that they carry a personal liability policy so that the tax payer funds are not at risk when an officer acts is such racist and unprofessional manner
Melanie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Katie McPherson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Naya Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arturo Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. A police department that killed 19 people between 2016 and 2018 cannot police itself. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from a mayor aligned with a literal fascist party. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I add my voice to those demanding that the members of the current CRB publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
elizabeth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adrianne Trovato	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing I'm tired of seeing our citizens get tear gassed

Carlos E Mendez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cassandra Torrez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am calling on the city of San Diego to DEFUND the San Diego Police Department and invest into resources that will directly benefit our communities. Our communities have had too many lives lost at the hands of our racist police. We will always remember: Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.Reform is NOT enough. We want investment into resources that provide our communities with housing, healthcare, mental health assistance, food, and more. I have witnessed too many injustices at the hands of our racist, ableist police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. If you are in support of the police you will never hold them fully accountable.
Anjelica Arevalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amber Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello Barbara Bry, Jennifer Campbell, Chris Ward, Monica Montgomery, Mark Kersey, Chris Cate, Scott Sherman, Vivian Moreno, and Georgette Gomez. You have heard from us, your constituents, now we want to hear from you. Will you support the citizens of San Diego by demilitarizing law enforcement and reject mayor Faulconer's 2021 Fiscal budget by redirecting funds from the police to mental health services, rent assistance, homeless rehabilitation, small business and services that support our local communities?
Kendra Lee Hines	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has REPEATEDLY failed the community. We must not continue to allow the police to police themselves, and let politics overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Wendy Sigler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krystal Ayala	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Enough is enough. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Cohen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laurie Pina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brook Ogle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nils-Erik Rundquist	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need a truly independent review board for police practices. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Oguz Sayim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we demand the following: Independence from the Mayor's Office, Independent legal counsel, Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, AND Independent investigators and staff!
Olivia Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa Pickard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justin Morrison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sarah McGovern	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Timothy Baker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Becky Free	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Scott Massey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We request subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office for the Community Review Board. We urge members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annabelle Noland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. They are here to serve and protect us, and yet we are put in a position of distrust. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't being placated by City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, we deserve to feel safe with the people meant to protect us, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jangwoo Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tyler Wentworth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brett Dovman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB needs to take a different approach to police oversight in order to protect the citizens appropriately and ensure that the police do not abuse their power. The CRB should be a completely independent body from the Mayor's office and the SDPD, they should be able to hire independent legal counsel, investigators and staff as they see fit. Additionally, the CRB should have the power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses. It is essential that the CRB be able to conduct completely independent investigations into police misconduct so that wrongdoing officers can be held accountable. This will also benefit all the great SDPD officers that we have in this great city. Thank you.
Emily Stangland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shaina Flesser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Maura Friedlander	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Timothy im	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelsey Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our system is unbalanced, unjust, and broken. The BLM movement needs the chance to make its voices heard to our community can move forward.
Natalie González	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sina Govashiri	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Patrick Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The relationship between the people and the police would greatly benefit from a strong Community Review Board. The people, for a long time, have not trusted the police to hold themselves accountable for the unlawful and immoral actions police continue to commit, which the District Attorney's Office has been complicit in. The Community Review Board needs some form of an independent prosecutorial function—delegated to them by the people—in order to achieve real justice by investigating and prosecuting those police officers who break any law. They hold us accountable to the law, we need to make sure that they are held to account, too.

Gabriel Contreras	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a Army Combat Vet I want to voice my concern for the current CRB structure. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I support the defunding of SDPD and for those funds to move to community support and outreach. I am disappointed in the police tactics that are used against low income communities like, South bay, Palm ave, Chicano park, Logan heights, and so on. I have witnessed the SDPD racial profile and have been a victim of that behavior as a child. This is not what I served in the military for. The actions the SDPD is taking on peaceful protesters are disgusting.
Jessica Sorrell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Safia Yusuf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dennis Ygnacio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jay Varela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ezekiel Samatua	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adriana Echeverria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Avila	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Samantha Wise	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!

Lauren Pham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CBD structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Huang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meredith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicole Oga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katy Moore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Flor Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maria kathleen quiambao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Manh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tiffany Chau	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amber Johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kamilah Cunanan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kate Bartkiewicz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am encouraged that the mayor wants to establish an independent review board with subpoena power tasked with reviewing police practices and complaints about the police. I urge the mayor and the city to follow through with this promise. The city and its voters are watching this issue closely. I support the recommendations that activists have been making regarding this issue for the last 7 years.
Jasmine Vines	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Danielle Nouriazad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Be on the right side of history.
Joseph Tull	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has continually failed the San Diego community. This cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association cannot overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Bettina M Heitmann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gilberto meza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Beth Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Manuel Medina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexis Sarinana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We can't allow the police to police themselves. The Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need these reforms to be taken serious. We don't want lip service. We want cops to be held accountable. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Briauna Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bernardo Ignacio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Geoff Wilkins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We DEMAND subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Priscilla Blas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alicia Kemmitt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kathleen Dengerink	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sierra Erdem	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diego	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we demand independence from the mayor's office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independent investigators and staff
Tama Becker-Varano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is beyond time that our City and County address the systemic problem of police/sheriff accountability. As cities across the country review their policing culture and structures, let San Diego be a leader by instituting a community-led INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with the powers to implement change based on their findings. Citizens of San Diego will accept nothing less. This is a pivotal moment to be on the right side of history. No one, especially our communities of color deserves to live in fear from the police.

Jennifer Daelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I believe that Black lives matter, and that there need to be reforms to protect Black San Diegans from police brutality. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Skyler McCurine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello , I am a first generation south east San Durban my grandfather integrated the first fire station in this country, station 19 off of Ocean View and my father is a retired federal judge. As an integral community leader, voice and human, the current CRB structure has failed We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Vivien Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The community review board does not truly reflect the demographic of people who are disproportionately effected by law enforcement. On top of that this needs to be an independent board free from influences of the mayor in order to increase transparency and accountability. Defund the police department.
Carrie Geremia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Marriah Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabriela Miramontes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Erin Cornford	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office.
ELIZABETH VASQUEZ	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a comminity we have been failed by how law enforcement has handled situations. Proper recognition of these problems need to be addressed. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. WE NEED to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. THE POLICE DO NOT MAKE US FEEL SAFE
Andrea Feeney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sean Abrams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is time for change and needs to start today. I call for the defunding SDPD and the SD Sheriff's Dept. and also for the prosecution of any officer who has harmed/killed a protester seeking justice for George Floyd. Black Lives Matter
Aimee Wong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabrielle Root	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand defunding of the police in light of inexcusable and unrepairable current events. As a lifetime resident of San Diego and more specifically La Mesa, disappointment does not even begin to describe my thoughts and feelings regarding the police force handling of the current protests occurring throughout our city. I demand defunding of the police and encourage a redistribution of funds and investment in community resources, specifically those which will aid marginalized populations.
Margaret R Lindeman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Black and brown communities in San Diego are harmed by systemic racism which causes them to be disproportionately impacted by the health and economic impacts of the ongoing covid-19 pandemic. Racist police brutality has inflicted devastating losses on these communities. To be safe, communities need access to health care, housing, and food, and our city budget should invest in strengthening these resources -- NOT policing. Defund the police, demand independent oversight, and invest in strong communities.
Leslie Lucas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing
Stephanie Tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Money needs to be allocated towards more important community needs like healthcare, housing, and food access. We do not need a bigger budget for the police. We need to work against police brutality not for it.

Rosalie Rose	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kylie Funchess	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ileen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniel Song	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Brett Hall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly McDaniel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elyse	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello. My name is Elyse Casillas. I am a resident of San Diego. This is what I have to say. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiona Daelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB and policing across the city and country have failed to protect and serve the community, and have cultivated unsafe and terrorizing environments for Black citizens. I demand the CRB adopt independent investigators (not chosen by the mayor), subpoena power, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. I encourage the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal, without restriction. No one else should be killed or traumatized by police in our city. Building trust and community means officers must be held to a higher standard of accountability.
Erica Ashkenasi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Grace Jun	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Justice and equity demand victims of police misconduct have access to forums of accountability and fair redress of grievances. Such a forum cannot be controlled by political interests from the Mayor's Office, the City Attorney, or the police unions. A fair and functioning investigatory body focused on police accountability requires CRB to be adequately funded, with subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
William Heineken	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jeff Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police Officers ID should be clearly identifiable with their name and badge no in very LARGE font as to be easily readable by the public. They should NOT be able to hide any misconduct by merely turning their bodies.
Michelle Consunji	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marriah Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Graham Davis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Erica Dierkes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Erica Nicholas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Colette Hamilton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tristan Stidham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nicole Wriedt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Nicole Wriedt. I am Program Director in CA for Peace Catalyst International. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. The recent protests and uprising in San Diego speak to this. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We firmly yet humbly request subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, it is a life or death matter. People are becoming more aware of the issues by the day. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I believe this is the kind of justice needed to move us in the direction of peace. Thank you.
Marie Clark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need reform. We need to see, to listen, to change, to love. We must act, rather than slow the train down. We must become better. We must be accountable for the past, to change our common, collective future.
Angel Milan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cristal tejeda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosanne Bangalan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Michelle Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure had failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to pubilcy support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sam Howell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caleb Kang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Iris Grace	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jamie Churchill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosanne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anonymous	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What steps are being taken put to these current practices in place since they are not currently? 1. Require De-Escalation 2. Ban chokeholds and strangleholds 3. Restrict shooting at moving vehicles 4. Duty of other officers to intervene
Abby Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Christine Liu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Community Review Board has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christine Liu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Community Review Board has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Sartor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maria Camitan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jillian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Stark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adriana Giammarinaro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Terri Olson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amelia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Enrique	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police need to checked and reminded they are "of" the law and not "above" it. People with anger issues are given a gun and a badge and decide who lives and dies. They need to be held accountable for all decisions they make! They need more training! And more consequences when they fail to act responsibly!
Marialena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christopher Cameron	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Misha Trombley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall.
Desirea Johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Madison Beck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants. #PoliceAccountability #DefundThePolice
Patrick Canler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello there, I am writing in support of the independently run community review board on policing matters in San Diego. Impartial review of internal matters is a key asset to any strong policing organization, and an overhaul of this board is required during these times. We must not let another life be lost due to policing matters and this Committee shall review in an unbiased manner It would also be important for this committee to devote some of its resources to community oriented policing to better investigate how to bridge the often tension between officers and community members of color. collaboration, along with integrity, shall be the pillar of this effort
Jonathan Stephens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alissa Swauger-Curtis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi my name is Alissa Swauger, and I live in District 3, and work in District 4. Our city budget, during times of a pandemic and otherwise, should always go towards investing in communities and not police. Equitable access to housing, food, education, jobs, and healthcare including mental health services would provide community safety in a way that supports and uplifts our residents. Community safety is not rubber bullets, tear gas, and board meetings that do not result in policy change. An independent, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds. Having both the Citizens Advisory Board and Community Review Board be Mayor appointed is unacceptable. I, along with many other San Diego residents on Tuesday, yesterday, and today ask for support to not only defund police but to also defund these boards that are Mayor appointed and have zero accountability. We need to invest in communities first and foremost. Thank you and Black Lives Matter.

Juan Carranza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabriel Seemann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Fick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yae Lin Choi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adrian del Riego	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Given the Clear disdain the police have shown to black Lives and the communities they serve, and the urgent need for healthcare during this pandemic I implore the board to immediately reject the proposed budget increase for the police department and instead invest it in the community with programs that improve their well being such as Housing, Healthcare, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people.

Jacqueline M. Witt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support its Citizens!
Ellen Robinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarai Knowles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christine Chang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Gilbertson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nikita Sam	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalie Smerdon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mulu Abineyru Assefa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bella Heilbrunn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katie Walsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Independence from mayors office Independent legal counsel Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses Independent investigators and staff
Kelly McFarlane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we demand: independence from the mayor's office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independent investigators and staff.

Meghan White	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Suranee Ockletree	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police should not get anymore funding. The practices that they are doing to "ensure safety" are violent and in humane. To watch police run over nonviolent protestors. To see police START violence in the streets where people are peacefully protesting is ridiculous! The police need to be held to the same peaceful standard that us angry citizens of oppression are.
rebecca reiser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Normandie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maggie Kozman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kenneth Santos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Good Afternoon, I am a resident of Chula Vista but spend most of my day working in San Diego. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Oanh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Baker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal involvement. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and will be upheld. . San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Megan Wilcox	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for your prompt, immediate and consistent attention to this matter.
Emily Luckie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Andrea Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jessica Benitez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cayce Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ana Ontiveros	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaho Ishizuki	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dagin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There is police brutality in San Diego aswell. In police oversight, we demand independence from the mayors office. Independent legal counsel. Power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses. And independent investigators and staff.

Trevor Cruse	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserves transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Proposal
Candyce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kerry Rogers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Barker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daniel Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Pattaya Arunrung	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Janice Han	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annika Jimenez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would respectfully like to know what the CRB and SDPD are doing to swiftly adopt the reforms advocated by Campaign Zero and 8 Can't Wait. (https://www.joincampaignzero.org/solutions#solutionsoverview) (https://8cantwait.org)
Sheamarie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caitlin Hickey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and use the funds for communities. Divert the $27 million from the CARES act to communities and not police brutality. I pay for your service and I demand you stop killing American citizens and with weapons that break the Geneva Code.
Roma Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Estefani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexa Hornedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Asking to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. This is a racist budget. Asking to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. Increasing policing makes our communities more vulnerable to violence. Our communities have experiences devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Black, Indigenous, People of Color are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing police funding makes them even more vulnerable to violence. During a pandemic , our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Community health is equitable access to health care and funding, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Invest in communities, not police. INVEST IN COMMUNITIES, NOT POLICE.
Taylor Steele	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I am writing to demand more from the CRB. Clearly, the current CRB structure has failed the community and something must be done. I demand the following: 1) The CRB should operate independently of the Mayor’s office. 2) Investigations should be independent and with independent legal counsel 3) Transparency and accountability in policing 4) Force Continuum should have 6 levels with clear RULES & REQUIREMENTS for escalation. 5) A ban on the use of knee holds and choke holds as an acceptable practice for law enforcement I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Stacie Somers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. Subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office is imperative. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Breytenbach	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amy Cheng	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rolan Diaz Bangalan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daejah Anderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chris F	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we can encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nhu Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Harrison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Michelle Harrison. I would just like to voice my concerns regarding the excessive force that many police officers have used against so many black peoples and other minorities. I would like to see defunding, reform, strict accountability, and discussions regarding WHY these riots are happening. Change is needed to the current system because it reinforces systematic racism towards black people. Thank you.
Mackenzie Leighton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tyrone Tallie Jr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Mona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. DEFUND SDPD!
Johnna Weddle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jesse Ross	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of a racist police system. I was one of many San Diegans, and Americans in every state, that were gassed and shot at for peacefully demonstrating our right to free speech. The thought of expanding the police budget is not only dangerous but insensitive and racist. We have the power to change this and now is the time. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maggie scholle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Karla Olivas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayors Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Katie Wood	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ana Castaneda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Monique	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Alanna Jordan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Courtnie Ly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aleena Jun Nawabi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kenya Alvarado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ali Altany	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In a fair society, the police should not be allowed to police themselves. Truly independent investigations into police misconduct are the only way to ensure justice is served for victims of police brutality, assault, profiling, sexual harassment, and wrongful death. Sadly, this is not an option for the citizens of San Diego. Our only recourse today is to sue the city, which needlessly wastes millions of dollars on lawsuits instead of going towards housing, fire departments and improving the city we call home. I urge the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans For Justice ballot proposal, which outlines 4 major reforms: independent investigators who do not answer to the police chief; independent legal counsel (an attorney who does not represent the city or its police department); subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents to get to the truth; and independence from the Mayor's Office to shield it from political influence.

Janneiry Fernanda Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anastasia Makarenko	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue to policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police officers association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from the city hall. San diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren M	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE NOW. As a lifelong San Diego taxpayer I am disgusted and ashamed that Mayor Falconer and SD City Council would give so much of OUR tax dollars to the police, who have done nothing to protect us and have only attacked, tear gassed, and brutalized us. You're all disgusting and you're complicit in police violence and racism. WE ARE ANGRY AND WE WILL NOT BACK DOWN UNTIL WE GET JUSTICE. FUCK YOU.
Andrea Ada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Norine Leverton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Marisol Flores	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jackson Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand Independence from the mayors office, independent legal counsel, Power to subpoena officers records and witnesses. we also demand independent investigators and staff.
Allison Hathaway	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicole Wells	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent community commission to review police practices, hold them accountable when necessary, and employ policies and training to eliminate the systemic injustices that disparately impact people of color and provoked altercations during the protests.
Kelica Barrett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Gabriel Bates	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angela Zappia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Changes are needed to the current CRB structure to ensure that police are held accountable to the communities they serve. I recommend instituting independent legal counsel, independent investigators and staff, the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independence from the Mayor's Office. These measures will help provide proper oversight and create community cohesion. As members of the CRB, I ask that you publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Especially during this time of the COVID-19 pandemic, I also advocate that budget increases towards policing be cut to help in-need San Diegans access basic needs like health care, housing, and food.
Matthew Lamkin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND DIVERT THESE RESOURCES TO THE COMMUNITY. WE MUST ALSO DEFUND THE BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS THAT ONLY SERVE POLICE AND THEIR IMAGE WITH ZERO ACCOUNTABILITY. WE NEED AN INDEPENDENT REVIEW BOARD THAT IS COMMUNITY-LEAD AND WILL HOLD POLICE ACCOUNTABLE.
Kaitlyn Moore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amber Haddad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Voicing my support for the San Diegans for justice ballot to provide police oversight, require subpoenas and to eliminate police brutality in the city
Patricia Leverton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Mike Lohmann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
rebecca Mojica	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Genesis Barbosa-Padilla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CBR structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the current member of the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Sydney Flint	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
lauren senko	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Michelle Harrison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	(I would like to retract my previous comment) Hello my name is Michelle Harrison. I would like to echo other voices to show my support for: Independence from the Mayor's Office, Independent Legal Council, Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independent investigators and staff.
Haley Leverton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Crystal Brandan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angelica De Alba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ron Douglass	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defend our police and redirect those funds to building up our communities!
Draven Romero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police are out of control and they need a form of QA, by the people and for the people. The entire structure of their promotions is letting heinous people grow to power. Promotions should be solely based off of evals and reviews. Police should be protesting with civilians, not defending GUILTY criminals who are hidden amongst themselves. Threatening peaceful protesters and causing them anger is wrong. This is killing/harming more innocent people, causing MORE rioting and property damage, and WASTING tax payer money on riot gear. Instead of gearing up, holding all those accountable would cost a fraction of what is being thrown towards futile/pointless/triggering actions. Stand with and for the people, NOT against.

Brandon John	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I came to law school after spending years perplexed at how the police could continue to kill black people without consequences. Since starting law school, I have interned at the public defender for two semesters. As interns, we are often asked to review body worn camera footage and summarize it. IN EVERY SINGLE CASE THAT I HAVE REVIEWED BODY WORN CAMERA EVIDENCE, THE EVIDENCE FROM THE CAMERA CONTRADICTS WHAT LAW ENFORCEMENT WROTE IN THEIR POLICE REPORT. They cannot be trusted to police themselves.
Chanel Mize	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dylan Winn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yvette Steineman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sharon Ann Duncan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB policy has failed the community. We demand subpoena power, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability from their police force. We urge CRB to publicly support San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

natassia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is not working. The police are policing themselves. We demand: subpoena powers, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayor's office. We need you to take these seriously and not just give us lip service. We encourage the current members of the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jordan Romig	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tanya Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mandisa Reed	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
James Contino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ellie McConville	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandro Cabrera-Salazar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Khue Tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The response of the police in San Diego this weekend was irresponsible at worst and proof that our nation was built on a foundation of racism through systemic oppression at best. I am demanding that the city hires independent parties, unassociated with the Mayor's office, to provide legal counsel and independent investigation of the police force of San Diego, in order to show to the people that our requests for reform are actually being heard. We deserve transparency and respect, respect that was clearly not shown to the crowds gathered to protest the treatment of the black community. The respect that was shown to the crowds that were protesting the coronavirus lockdown is the least of what should have been expected. We demand accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ben Cragoe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cody Gallo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Demand that the San Diego Police Department and Prosecutors end the practice of invoking Qualified Immunity. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The recent ACLU Campaign Zero report found that the SDPD has an egregious record of over-policing along racial lines; this needs to stop and an independent review board would be a step in the right direction. The review board should be representative of the racial and ethnic diversity of San Diego. All members of our community need to feel like they can trust the police force that their tax dollars are supporting.
Jennifer Roland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Annie Price	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As is apparent from recent events, we need increased police transparency and oversight more than ever. This includes subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. Promising broad "reform" means absolutely nothing without concrete action, and we San Diegans SEE your inaction and WILL hold you accountable. We ask the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alisha salas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Police do not need to enforce such harsh restraint on people who are voicing their hearts. They need to be better trained to do what is right which hasn't been happening. And cannot cover badge numbers. They wouldn't be covering badge numbers if they knew what they're doing is wrong
Dina Daglas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rimma Levina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

T	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Jessica Crotts	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jordan Krimston	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justice	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Tatiana Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to review the practices used by the police in the county and keep them accountable for their actions. I suggest we create a separate board that will review and advise police policies/actions for a more fair system here in San Diego.
Taylor Marvin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabrielle Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Griffing	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Hoang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan McBrian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Isabella Amansec	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I reject the increase in police budget, as it is incredibly racist aimed to target Black people! The increase does nothing for the community but to THREATEN and HARM them. The government should instead reinvest that budget back to the community to fund for more job opportunities, accessible healthcare, affordable housing, education, for the residents of San Diego at large. It is incredibly frustrating how much money is being wasted on Law Enforcement that FAIL to do their job as protectors, and perpetuates the very inclinations of a slave patrol (with police being the contemporary word for slave patrol). Do better San Diego, REINVEST that money back into the community who need it more than your incompetent police force.
Tia Aumoeualogo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dolores	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charles A	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Andrés Worstell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police force needs greater oversight when it comes to the use of deadly force and violence against members of the San Diego community. Police officers are supposed to keep people safe, but myself and many others do not see the police as a force for good. We must have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, for legal recourse against corruption and violence on the force. These reforms must be taken seriously, it is incumbent upon local government to keep the safety of their constituents. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Please do not see this large public outcry as politically motivated, but rather, a community in fear right now, hoping for action to be taken by the officials who are supposed to work on their behalf.
Chelsea Basirico	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Haneen k	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hayley Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Thao Pham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. San Diego residents need to be able to call upon police and trust them to perform their duties without racist, discriminatory, or ill-informed intent. The police are suppose to act as public servants. If they want respect from the people they're protecting, they need to stop police brutality, unlawful stop and frisk, "shoot first" mentality, and ultimately allow the system to change without resistance. This battle has been fought for too long and until we see real and tangible change within police establishments, these protests will go on.
Maya	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Maya Little-Sana of District 6, and I believe the current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Leslie de la torre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand independence from the mayors office. Independent legal counsel. Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses. As well as independent investigators and staff.
Ariana Carrion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.

Monique	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kylee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa Wendell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to Defund the San Diego Police department and have those funds go towards the following: Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Haneen Khater	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cianna Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jann Biascan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize communities
CLAIRE ACOSTA	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND DIVERT THESE RESOURCES TO THE COMMUNITY. WE MUST ALSO DEFUND THE BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS THAT ONLY SERVE POLICE AND THEIR IMAGE WITH ZERO ACCOUNTABILITY. WE NEED AN INDEPENDENT REVIEW BOARD THAT IS COMMUNITY-LEAD AND WILL HOLD POLICE ACCOUNTABLE. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS & STAFF, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE.
Annette Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sydnie Stocks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND INVEST IN COMMUNITIES!
Josh Fulks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our city and people for too long. We cannot allow the police to police themselves any longer, and the politics of city hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the people. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayor's office. We demand that these reforms are taken seriously. We don't want empty promises from city hall. The people of San Diego deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the member of the current CRB to publicly support The San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Colleen Robinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kelly Klein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	ur communities have experienced a devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Give San Diego's Community Review Board the power and mandate to independently investigate police actions. Give the Citizen's Law Enforcement Board the power and mandate to independently investigate use of force by Sheriff's officers. Reintroduce Bill AB-3131 in its original form. Introduce legislation to establish a permanent state-level office to independently prosecute police misconduct. And reform Bill AB-392 so that the verbiage and requirements within the Bill be changed back to "necessary deadly force", as it was worded in its original form. Lastly, the law needs to include sections of extensive step-by-step de-escalation techniques prior to resorting to their "necessary deadly force".
Jennifer pahua	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Mitchell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carly Sbicca	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Andrea Tinoco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Ted Kardash	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the mayor's office. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christine Lachance	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long! We cannot allow Police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independent from the Mayor's Office. We need to know these reforms are being taken seriously. Police are using teargas during a global pandemic for a virus that attacks lungs and respiratory system, police are shooting rubber and pepper bullets directly at protesters faces inflicting permanent eye damage and head trauma, and police using their vehicles to drive through crowds of protesters. San Diego deserves better!
Norma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Justice
Jeremy McLaurin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The violent unprovoked actions by the San Diego police department sickens me. I demand the resignation of the chief of police. I demand an independent investigation into the actions of San Diego police officers who have assaulted citizens. I have seen mounds of video evidence showing officers engaged in illegal acts of violence. This includes an incident with a police SUV running into a crowd of protesters on broadway in downtown San Diego. I used to hold the local police in high regard but now I see them only as faceless, lawless monsters that I have no faith in or any respect for. This is a sad sad day for our city I had so much pride to live in and call my home. You, as our elected officials have the power to restore that faith with your actions. If not you will be as inhuman as the violent action our police department has shamefully engaged in. Do the right thing. Do your job. Thank you.

Gabriella	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, prioritize communities!
Brandee Joyner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It's time for change with all police departments in San Diego. I have witness a number of racists incidents with San Diego police officers. For example I was driving through Pacific Beach and was pulled over by a white cop and asked " Why am I in this area?" As if I do not belong in the area. CHANGE must be down and I will use my media platform to help make this change!
Czeska Cabuhat	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Almary Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CBR structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to over shadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigations, and independent legal counsel and independent from the Mayor's office. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Miriam Vega	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Spenser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Yena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Miranda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary Tobin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristen Baldino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Azniv Zeronian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Andrea Tarabay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allen Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a physician and community member; I think an increased role in CRB (funding and independence) would benefit the community at large; please make this an urgent part of the budget.
Fatimah M.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Miguel Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Louise Sy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caroline Battey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Diana Cuevas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, While I respect the majority of our local police officers, the current CRB structure is not meeting our communities needs. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Petrine McShane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. It is a mockery for police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Constituents demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Constituents need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Victoria Childers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

John Shaver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I am writing to demand more from the CRB. Clearly, the current CRB structure has failed the community and something must be done. I demand the following: 1) The CRB should operate independently of the Mayor's office. 2) Investigations should be independent and with independent legal counsel 3) Transparency and accountability in policing 4) Force Continuum should have 6 levels with clear RULES & REQUIREMENTS for escalation. 5) A ban on the use of knee holds and choke holds as an acceptable practice for law enforcement I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Siri Collins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joshua Graff Zivin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charmanay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Anna Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY
Jennise corcoran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a native San Diegan I am disappointed. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cindy Dickinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed to protect our communities from illegal, harmful police practices. Police cannot be expected to police themselves. The policies of City Hall and the Police Officer Association do not support the needs of the public in this area. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's office. For too long harmful police practices have been allowed to exist with lip service that this would change. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Alejandro Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, divert these resources to communities. Communities need access to health care, housing, and food. We must put a stop to police brutality.
Erin Xavier	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dorian Edler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meli Apone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!!

Hector Esquivel Jr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CBR structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to over shadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigations, and independent legal counsel and independent from the Mayor's office. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marissa Gardner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melinda Forstey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability.
Quinn Wilson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we demand: Independence from the mayor's office; independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; and independent investigators and staff.
Isabelle Landers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. We are demanding to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Joseph Cain	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alondra Cardenas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in the community, not police. Especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not discriminitory policing. Aiding the needs of our communities is the real way we will fight crime.

Louis Tauber	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charlee Soumountha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elaine Aguayo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Elaine Aguayo and I live in District 7. First most, demand for the 8 use-of-force polices be implemented here in San Diego. These include a ban on chokeholds/strangleholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all alternatives before shooting, duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, establish use of force continuum, and require all force be reported. These past couple of days have shown that police practices have been out of line and will no longer be tolerated. Thank you for your time.
Jordan Brownlee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabriela Zappia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Gabriela Zappia and I am a native San Diegan living in district 3. Our communities have experienced devastating losses at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul, Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in our communities, not the police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. DEFUND POLICE INVEST IN COMMUNITIES!

Jaewoo Bae	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue to abuse their power on the citizens of San Diego. We demand subpoena, private investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously! San Diegans deserve transparency, and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the citizens of San Diego.
Avia rose	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgan Clark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a teacher in San Diego County, I see the police on my campus every day. Police presence on school campuses contributes leads to punitive actions against black and brown students that contribute to the school to prison pipeline. Police presence makes our students feel less safe and welcome. Police presence on school campuses does not make them safer; in fact, it has been linked to worse student outcomes. The police in San Diego County need to withdraw their presence from schools so that educational funds can instead be used for more psychologists, counselors, and social workers. Police do not belong in schools.
Katherine Bunda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Samantha Gundy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I fully support the police oversight ballot proposed by San Diegans for Justice and urge you to consider putting this on the ballot. Additionally, according to the most recent data chart by the FBI, San Diego's biggest crime factor is property crime which attributes to 30,000 of the 72,893 crimes committed in San Diego. This is almost seven-times more the rate of violent crime. This is very telling as property crime which includes vandalism and theft is a symptom of a larger underlying issue, which is a lack of social services. Of the reports of vandalism in San Diego county, many are committed by those under the age of 18, and the San Diego City has moved forward age-restrictions for buying and selling spray paint. Vandalism is a symptom of lack of after school programs, and community programs which keeps young people off the streets. Additionally, shoplifting and theft are the repercussions of lack of educational and job prospects, as well as community development and funds for social services like relief funds. By keeping the budget for the police at half a billion dollars, you are attributing to our largest category of crime in San Diego. You are persecuting the
Dylan Sparks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Offier Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. We also cannot allow the police budget to increase, as it already constitutes 1/3 of the entire general fund. Invest in our communities and their safety, which the police are not providing.
Kelsey Venter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
David	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jeremiah Kim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I strongly ask that the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. As seen throughout the country, independent governance is not only the path towards better policing, it is the only way that the police and local government can build trust with the communities they serve.

Nora Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Fion Hui	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christiana casto	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Byron Maltez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sharon Wylie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Trust between the police and the public has eroded due to a lack of accountability by the police. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall.

Nic Ma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Coleen Ockletree	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current San Diego Police Structure has failed our community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Riley Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello to all. I wanted to address a few different things regarding the brutality of policing going on in San Diego. First of all, these protests aren't just about the murder of George Floyd, they are about the systemic racism that is embedded in our culture and his murder is a product of these systems. Our elected officials continue to treat the lives of black and brown people as less than. Remember Chicano Park? Remember when our city officials decided to DESTROY AND DISPLACE the homes of human beings so the city could profit off of building a fucking cement road. It is clear that the city didn't care about its constituents then. Fast forward to this week, where I was present at the peaceful demonstration in La Mesa, where without proper warning La Mesa police officers began throwing tear gas and shooting rubber (potentially lethal) bullets at a nonviolent crowd of men, women, and children. Each and everyone of you have a moral obligation to defund the police and reject the proposal for increased budget for the police department. The streets will be filled until you listen to your people and restructure institutions that have always been rooted in.
Ker Cleary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Now is the time to do the right thing. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexis Strauss	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Puja	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am deeply concerned that our city's CRB structure does not have the independence and authority it needs to be truly effective in its mandate to ensure that all communities have safe, just, and unbiased policing. The current structure is failing our community. I stand with San Diegans for Justice call for the CRB to have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. As a citizen of this city, I request the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Dylan Patzi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	CRB has failed the community, its that simple. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and acting with impunity when they continue to murder and brutalize communities of color. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. This is the compromise. And if no action is taken then you are not only complicit in the brutal treatment of the Black community in San Diego but also collaborators with the racist system in this country.
Penelope Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund SDPD and prioritize funding for at-risk communities!
Joshua Pickney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emily Belle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand that we immediately change our city's financing of violence perpetuated by the police. We demand, deserve, and expect : 1) fully independent civilian oversight of police departments (financed by police budget but zero police involvement) 2) all body cam footage is to be completely inaccessible to the police department. It must be a continuous recording that they cannot turn on or off. They also cannot access it once it is recorded. 3) eliminate all military grade weapons provided to police departments, we are not in a war zone and these do not keep the peace, they escalate tensions. 4) immediate training and social work licensing requirements for all staff of San Diego police department. 5) not one penny more from our budget should go to the police. We should Instead invest in education, counseling, housing, healthcare, and mental health access for those in need. 6) one strike rules for police who break the law. Prison time must be guaranteed, including the loss of badge, pensions, and the ability to be hired by other departments. These are common sense steps towards demilitarizing the police and enriching our communities.
David R	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Dylan Schneider	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katia Hollis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angelle Adams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is broken. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We are long overdue We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandra Morales	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a community who is suffering because of our current system we demand that our city ensure: -independence from the mayor's office -independent legal counsel -Power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses -independent investigators and staff -and that our mayor pledge to join 'my brother's keeper'

Tamara Watson-Foster	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Celina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Karen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
An Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kate Bristol	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Yumira Pedroza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight there should be; Independence from the mayors office Independent legal counsel Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses Independent investigators and staff
Andy Trimlett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In San Diego, I have protested war, social inequality and injustice in our country and abroad. In years past, I have felt that the police were there to protect me, those around me and, most important, our right to free speech. Even if they disagreed with me, they would generally greet me with a smile or a nod. Now, with little to no warning, they greet protestors with tear gas and rubber bullets. The police should represent America, our values and our freedoms. And they should greet black men and women with the same respect and courtesy they have shown me, a white man. Something has gone terribly wrong. And it can not be fixed with minor reviews or small changes to the rules. It is time for subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. I strongly urge you to support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you for your time and your service to the community.
Natalie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiran kaur	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Allex Raines	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police! Invest in COMMUNITIES!
Ysabelle Anzures	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Abby Nguyen Dyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrea Willett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alison Hranek	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yelennia Palacios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Rafael Silva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, I'm a citizen from Chula Vista that is concerned by the clear inefficacy of the CRB. The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. In other words, I am demanding a truly INDEPENDENT system of police oversight. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jorge	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thanks!
Tony Felix	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caitlyn Webster	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public! We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Claudia Carrion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Megan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. If you have any sense of duty, integrity, and responsibility towards your fellow citizens and communities, PLEASE uphold your duties and help us facilitate real social change for the better. Every single human being deserves justice and equality.
Angela Camodeca	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing, healthcare, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Laura Price	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marta Haile	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Defund the Police! Prioritize Community!!
Lindsey Bergh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Stelpflug	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of the city of San Diego, I am emailing to ask that you decrease the police budget. Issues of police brutality continue to harm black and brown communities, which call attention to the mismanagement of our resources in ways that generally do not act toward the safety of minority groups. As the police already receive 1/3 of the city's general budget, please consider that it would be more beneficial to the community to allocate the city's resources to public safety, including equitable access to healthcare, housing, food, free public transportation services, and education

Leatrice Goodson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalie Schoenbrunner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB has been wholly inadequate in dealing with policing practices. An independent committee which is accountable to the public and community must replace the CRB. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. If you ever want to rebuild community trust in police and this city generally these demands must be met.
Oscar Carrion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.

Rosalind	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I stand with the demands of SD for Justice, and urge the Community Review Board to listen critically, listen with humility, listen with intention to protect and serve all the members of the community. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. This issue is rooted in years of racist history across our nation and systemic racism built into every institution we encounter, that we acknowledge cannot be solved overnight. With these realities at the forefront of your mind, we appeal for real action, for more than lip service. We need your strong, unequivocal action. We need it now.
Bria Hamlet	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jalyn Gonsalves	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristi M	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Keri Strehle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anthony Felix	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katrina DeRoche	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adriana Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Celina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexandra Ricketts	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Pamela Basurto	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jasmine Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Vahan Hartooni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Anna Harley-Trochimczyk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	For real change to occur, the police need independent civilian oversight. We need an oversight body with subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda Alcantara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. This system has failed African American citizens for far too long . "A threat to justice anywhere (OR TO ANYONE) is a threat to justice everywhere (TO US ALL)." Black Lives Matter Yesterday. Today. Always.
Garrett Tingus	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Samantha Barlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police police and divert those resources to our communities. Defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. I would like to see an independent community-led review committee that oversees police action. Thank you for your time.
Shanon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Olivia Pardo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Luke DeRoche	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kathryn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Trevor Mast	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Terrance C Patrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paulina Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Becka Palter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image, rather than focusing on accountability We are in the midst of a pandemic. We need that money spent on housing, food support, mental health services, not rubber bullets, tear gas and more poorly trained officers. Do better. Defund the police now.
Michaela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Lilliana valdovinos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Siena Ward	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexah Jade Neri	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaivan mohsenzadeh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must defund the Police and allocate funds to prioritize community services that will strengthen our city and not give a paramilitary force over half a billion dollars in funding. During this pandemic, our communities must have access to housing, health care, and good, not increased funds to a police force that HARMS your citizens.

Daniela Anchondo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexis Morabe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am appalled by the multiple attacks on peaceful protests and black San Diegans I have witnessed by San Diego law enforcement. How are we supposed to build trust in our communities with officers when there are not structural changes being made to hold "the bad ones"accountable? I come from a family of law enforcement and am disgusted by the unchecked actions of many of their colleagues. The harm to Leslie Furcron is just one of the several cases of injustices happening in San Diego, our home. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lisa Zangerl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Heather Boles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the police Officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. I demand a subpoena power independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support he San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I want to make sure my tax dollars aren't being used for violence.
Rianna Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natalia Henriquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yessenia Bejarano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Mattea Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Madison Dingsdale	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. As a life long resident of San Diego, I'm ashamed that the lack of accountability has gone on for so long. It will take years of work to even begin to right the wrongs. So let's start.
Bonnie Ludka	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Using data on police stops, searches, uses of force, and arrests, obtained through public records requests, Campaign Zero finds evidence of harmful discriminatory policing in San Diego against people of color. The Community Review Board on Policing Practices must be independent and community-led. The San Diegans for Justice propose a measure that would require independent investigators and legal council who do not answer to or represent the police. It would have subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents. It would be independent from the Mayor's Office to protect it from political influence. I urge you to use your position to advocate that this gets added to the November ballot. Finally, there is still time to change how we fund our communities. The California Legislature is considering Assembly Bill 2054, The Community Response Initiative to Strengthen Emergency Systems. The CRISES Act would create a pilot grant program where community-based response would replace police response for local emergencies. San Diego should consider that social workers, addiction and mental health councilors provide a safer response than police and should distribute funds accordingly. "Budgets are our moral documents" as Brittany Packnett Cunningham reminds us. Use your position to fight for an anti-racist budget.
Rex Bautista	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. Police conduct over the past few days is clear evidence that the police ARE NOT on the side of the community. Oversight needs to be truly independent without the influence of SD agencies and needs to have actual TEETH to enact change. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve large scale reform in policing, not least of which is transparency and accountability in all policing practices, otherwise the police will never earn the trust of the community.

Trevor Gerzen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hannah chiu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand police oversight in recent light of the corruption that has been made clear by the actions of the San Diego police department.
Christine Chan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hannah Majeski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing that the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Kristen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Quis custodiet ipsos custodes? I respectfully urge the Community Review Board to institute an independent commission on police practices. I know and have worked with good and honest police officers. They have nothing to fear from transparency and accountability. However, police departments throughout the country are subject to a growing militarization and hostility toward the citizens they are meant to serve and protect. San Diego has an opportunity to stand strong and set an example for the rest of the country, as it so often has in the past. Please meet your public's need for subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Please show us that City Hall is serious about reform and support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Very Sincerely Yours, Kristen Gilleon
Monica Bell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What has been the status quo on police practices is missing the mark, with too many stakeholders unable to be unbiased and independent. Now is the time for action. Let us stop talking about reform and take swift action. We need an independent oversight Committee who will hold our government accountable to protect and serve its citizens. Giving each of us due process granted by our constitution.

Trevor Mast	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Israel Blas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The people deserve transparency and accountability in policing
Yurica Arevalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marisabel Coronado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	N/A
Mariah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayors office.

Annie Alwine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Phase I. Immediate Zero Tolerance Policy on racism, inappropriate comments and actions in the workplace. In addition, zero-tolerance on officers who do not know how to control their anger and have rage issues. In any other workplace racial jokes would not be tolerated. Coworkers who know who these cops are, need to be protected for reporting them. And they need a safe place to report them above their bosses who may also be racist. Phase II. Then phase II which can happen simultaneously is re-training police and tackling hidden bias. This phase will take time to unravel and needs to be a priority, but we need some immediate action and the zero tolerance policy rules need to happen fast. Phase III. Ongoing support and training for officer burnout. There will be times that officers experience feeling jaded about any group of people they may be dealing with for a long period of time. How do we support them, have on-going training, give them an outlet and help them re-direct any mounting feelings of bias. Training, support, counseling, community involvement must be an ongoing practice, not just something that happens once a year or at the start of ones career.
Jamie Santos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Your constituents want you to defund the police department, and change the Community review board with a new commission (I.e. we support the San Diegans for Justice measure). We call for the funding of the police department to be transferred to black communities in your area of jurisdiction.

Larissa Ryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Mayor Faulconer's racist proposal of a $27 million increase of the police budget cannot be allowed to move forward. That money must be invested in affordable housing, health care, public transportation, food, education, parks and recreation, jobs, and undocumented people. This community will NOT stand idly by and allow Faulconer and the police to devastate it further. The police need to be defunded. They do not make this community safer. They create violence. Crime occurs when people do not have access to what they need. Invest money in the people so that they can get what they need.
Kristen Bethea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julie Moore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christina Schaefer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Wesley C	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nam Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
max walpole	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tim Robinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Renee Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sid Vijay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Stopped Black people at a 219 percent higher rate than white people. In 85 percent of SDPD beats, Black people were stopped at higher rates than white people. This is unacceptable. The additional money and the existing money in the budget for policing needs to be reallocated to improving communities. Rent relief, improved resources for the unhoused and schools should be our focuses not funding a police force that routinely targets those it's sworn to protect and serve
Kristen Miller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paula Sternberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Considering the amount of comments, attention, and pressure from the community to DEFUND the police, myself and many others will be outraged if the Mayor does not take action to fund the needs of the San Diego community. Not only is it important to NOT approve of this racist budget increase, but it is important to REDUCE AND DEFUND the police budget so that there is better use of the money. This is a very public outcry to meet the needs of our communities by funding transportation, health care, rent and shelter initiatives, and other social services that are more beneficial to us than funding a racist and violent system. AS PUBLIC SERVANTS IT IS YOUR DUTY TO LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE YOU REPRESENT - TAKE ACTION NOW.
Matthew Halverson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Rachel Jensen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mandy Sullivan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
CALEB M WILSON	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgan Miller III	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Conrad Steinbrueck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary Kate Kloeblen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marisa Malone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and use this money to invest in uplifting our communities by using this money to invest in programs such as the Emergency Rental Assistance Program. The increase in general police funding by over $65 million dollars from 2019 to 2020 has not increased public safety and has not decreased crime.
Paula Sternberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Blas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Regina Sinsky-Crosby	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego Police Department's own data shows that from 2016 to 2018, SDPD used more force than 93% of all departments in the state of California, according to Campaign Zero's police scorecard. Out of 19 deaths, 18 involved and officer who did not attempt to use non-lethal force. SDPD's data shows disproportionate discrimination against Blacks, Latinos and the LGBTQ+ community. We demand transparency and independent investigators who do not answer to the police chief, independent legal counsel, subpoena power and independence from the Mayor's Office. We also hope for an apology to the members of our community who have been subjected to inhuman treatment by police.
Mary Davy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight we demand independence from the mayor's office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers, records & witnesses, and independent investigators and staff
Jessica Avila	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Georgia Proskauer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposaL.
Kelsea Fleming	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Rebekah Blas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tiffany Luu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carolina Peralta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brittany Salyers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ria Jazmin Jarquin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Albert Balaguer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Margaret Peterson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Steinhaus	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chelsea Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marina Eddings	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Linda Clark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB structure needs fundamental change. It needs to be independent of the Mayor’s office, fully transparent, and it should publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ayanna Arms-Norment	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long.. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall. We cannot allow the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San diego a deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Support proposal
Summer McGuckin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Summer McGuckin and I live in District 6. I'm writing to oppose Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced a devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Decrease the police budget and invest in San Diego by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Elizabeth Havey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The public has seen the police run over civilians and partake in other violent attacks towards peaceful protestors. We have seen the data from Campaign Zero demonstrating police brutality towards POC. Enough is enough.
Fiona Mares	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Rhea Webb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Richard Melcher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Colin Richard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mark Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ann Thuy Huynh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ann Huynh and I am one of your constituents in District 7. I am writing in light of recent events to demand that the Community Review Board, pertaining to San Diego Police, become independent of ALL San Diego County Police investigative and corrective powers. It is critical that we ensure that police who violate rights of any citizens and use excessive force against them are held accountable to the fullest extent of the law. Too many people have lost their lives to police brutality, and we need everyone in public office to stand up for justice. SDPD's treatment of its community during the wake of protests and worldwide cries to put an end to police brutality is abhorrent. These violent methods of suppression have long lasting effects on the physical and mental wellbeing of your constituents.

Shireen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabi schwartz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melanie Arcena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meryl Conui	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth Tobias	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Israa Khan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kien Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christopher Monroy Aparicio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I REJECT the proposal for police to get a raise! The police DOES NOT deserve it if Black people are not getting the JUSTICE they all deserve!
Barbara Dollero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Courtney Moltzen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicholas Paúl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Accountability changes toxic police culture. Having an independent board to review instances of police misconduct is absolutely necessary and I'm proud we have one here in San Diego. However, the structure of this board makes it so that it is subject to the influence of the Mayor's office and the Police union. The CRBP should be completely independent .

Rebecca M Romani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Choke holds and rubber bullets need to be dropped and the SDPD needs to be de-milutarized.
Britny	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Justice must be made!
Ashley Hranek	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paige moreau	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Something needs to change. Our best is no longer good enough. Police need to be held to higher standards and held accountable for their actions.
Aileenia Julian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kevin Oberlies	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Tricia Gallagher-Geurtsen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
William Maye	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Allison Estaris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand a world where those most impacted in our communities control the laws, institutions, and policies that are meant to serve us – from our schools to our local budgets, economies, police departments, and our land – while recognizing that the rights and histories of our Indigenous family must also be respected. This includes: Direct democratic community control of local, state, and federal law enforcement agencies, ensuring that communities most harmed by destructive policing have the power to hire and fire officers, determine disciplinary action, control budgets and policies, and subpoena relevant agency information. Local city and county governments should amend their respective charters to grant external civilian oversight bodies to make disciplinary, budgetary, hiring and firing decisions. Charter's should also be changed to grant external entities the ability to subpoena law enforcement agencies and third parties for data and documentation relevant to issues of excessive and lethal force. These changes should apply to agencies involved in patrol and custody operations. We also call for: Demilitarizing local law enforcement on and off college campuses. Providing greater transparency around the flow of weapons to local police departments. Creating greater measures of accountability for law enforcement. Thank you.

Sergio Renteria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cassidy McCombs	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maria Oljaca	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kara Diliberto	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Assoc to overshadow the needs of the public. I demand the following: 1) CRB should operate independently of the Mayor's Office. 2) Investigations should be independent and with independent legal counsel and subpoena power. 3) Transparency and accountability in policing 4) Force Continuum should have 6 levels with clear Rules & Requirements for escalation. 5) A ban on the excessive use of knee holds and choke holds as an acceptable practice for law enforcement. I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lydia Fernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Teresa Grippo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	defund the police, invest in our communities
Lina Ngo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
andre ignacio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Brianna DiPrima	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mylene Castro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal!!
Lindsay Caddel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sara Gutierrez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans
Anette Robinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. We, as San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current Community Review Board to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

ALY QUINTONG	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cristina Giordani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In a fair society, the police should not be allowed to police themselves. Truly independent investigations into police misconduct are the only way to ensure justice is served for victims of police brutality, assault, profiling, sexual harassment, and wrongful death. Sadly, this is not an option for the citizens of San Diego. Our only recourse today is to sue the city, which needlessly wastes millions of dollars on lawsuits instead of going towards housing, fire departments and improving the city we call home. I urge the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans For Justice ballot proposal, which outlines 4 major reforms: independent investigators who do not answer to the police chief; independent legal counsel (an attorney who does not represent the city or its police department); subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents to get to the truth; and independence from the Mayor's Office to shield it from political influence.
Carmen Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police prioritize communities! Ban chokeholds and strangleholds, require de-escalation, require all force to be reported, ban shooting at moving vehicles .
Erin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs a community review board that is NOT managed by SDPD. Allowing them to police themselves compromises the integrity of a review board. The review board needs independence and the ability to have outside/independent investigators and counsel, and be able to subpoena records to ensure the review board has an accurate picture of what is happening with SDPD's interactions with the community. Please support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Clara Valenzuela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lana Melonakos-Harrison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that the police review board be independent from the Mayor's office, have independent legal counsel, have power to subpoena officer, records, and witnesses, and have independent investigations and staff.

Kyla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yazmín Lommel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I feel that it is in the public interest to hold the officer who shot Leslie Furcron in the head with a bean bag round accountable for attempted murder.
Jillian Early	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
June Owatari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall.
Bee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The people DEMAND that San Diego defund the corrupt and racist police and invest instead in community services such as social workers, nurses, and non-police crisis response workers. The police do not protect and serve the people. They protect and serve white supremacy and we will NOT stand for it any longer.
Paige Wilsie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jose Cepeda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paula Sternberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	If there is no serious and IMMEDIATE change on the incredibly excessive amount of money going straight into a racist, violent system of policing, there will be more public outrage and movements toward the defunding of the police and in solidarity with our black brothers and sisters. Rejecting the Mayor's proposal to increase police budget is NOT enough. We MUST also DEFUND the half a BILLION dollars police are spending on terrorizing BIPOC. I stand with many others mourning and fighting for the justice of Ahmaud Arbary, George Floyd, Broanna Taylor, Tony Mcdade, and so many more that we will never know of. Black lives matter.
Jasmine Simmons	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amir	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police cannot and should not be deciding whether they overstepped their own bounds. There needs to be an independent, unbiased, well-educated commission that makes those decisions. Any reluctance from them to support this change is an admission of guilt. Police brutality is avoidable — so let’s do this already.
Kianna Anvari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Deanna Buendia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Todd Prodanovich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rohan Shinkre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nick Geddis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dr. Kasi Bodiford	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Clint Evangelista	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adam Schingle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Eric Abramson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am absolutely appalled at the behavior of the SDPD in response to peaceful protests in our city. They acted like a mob, more intent on counter-protesting, intimidating, harassing, and inciting than on upholding their oath to the constitution and our community. As I'm learning more about the SDPD's history of abuse, it is clear that the current structure of the CRB has failed by allowing the police to monitor themselves. If you want to serve and protect the community, and restore trust and respect for the SDPD offices, we need to make reforms that allow for subpoena power, independent investigators and legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. These are all steps you can take today by supporting the San Diegans for Justice proposal, and not doing so would be a failure of duty and conscience.
Daria sheik	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan Holtan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Stacie Bresler Reinstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal."
Dominic Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ty Moran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB structure we have now continues to fail our community. It is entirely unethical to allow the police to continue policing themselves, and for the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public that they serve. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and refuse to accept vague platitudes in the place of concrete change. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Robyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	By keeping the budget for the police at half a billion dollars, you are attributing to our largest category of crime in San Diego. You are persecuting the symptom instead of targeting the cause. Defunding the police, or at least cutting the budget in half will lead to less crime in San Diego as we allocate those funds to areas which will uplift our community.
Michael P Mitchell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Grace Blakistone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The budget should invest in our communities. Increasing the police budget will not strengthen our communities. Funding should go towards social services, physical and mental healthcare, housing, and education.

Cassidy Ta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
sabrina sv	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ruben Valenzuela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
allyson ta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hale Fillmore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police officer responsible for the attempted murder of Leslie Furcron must be charged!

Nancy Relaford	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear CRB on Police Practices Members: The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. I want to add my voice to San Diegans for Justice in demanding subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you. Nancy Relaford North Park
Daniel self	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nate Riedel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Yuki Imai	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to make a case for replacing the current Community Review Board with a community led, independent commission that includes power of subpoena and its own investigators and legal counsel to review complaints and make decisions. There is already a proposed ballot measure that needs approval. Our current system is not working, and as you can see our community is activated and we are demanding real change. We need to build better connections between the police and the communities they have sworn to protect, and we need accountability when our community is hurt by the police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Please follow through with the lip service you are giving now with actionable results. What are the specific steps you are going to take towards reforming the system? We demand that you divert funding in your proposed budget away from an already adequately funded police force and towards the services that your constituents need, such as housing, healthcare, food, education and jobs. We are in a global pandemic - it's time to act like it and take care of your city.
Meghan Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jaclyn Ha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Omar Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police took and oath to serve and protect US. They made an oath to lay down their lives rather than swerve from the path of duty. We pay for the roof over their heads. We pay for the food on their table. We pay for their pensions and retirement. We pay for their kids' college fund. They are accountable only to US.

Monique Carter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justin Wycoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandon S. Bruce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kiyonna Navarro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal leslee morris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I fully support San Diegans for Justice and the demand to create a community-led and INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen and proceed with what the community wants. Further, I urge the Mayor to commit to the following police reforms: -Ban chokeholds and strangleholds -Require de-escalation -Require warning before shooting -Exhaust all other means before shooting -Duty to intervene and stop excessive force by other officers -Ban shooting at moving vehicles -Require use-of-force continuum -Require comprehensive reporting each time an officer uses forces or threatens to do so

Victoria cunanan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabrielle Pizarro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. It is evident that allowing the police to continue policing themselves is dangerous. We cannot allow the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public and its safety. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maeva Truchi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Scott C Shoemate	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Timothy Oh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please consider the precedent we can establish in this county by implementing measures to hold officers to greater accountability for their actions. Officers should be subject to lawful action when they fail to maintain egalitarian standards during their policing duties. Please support the black community and help resist institutional oppression!
Fernando	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Eboni Harvey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	According to historian Gary Potter, slave patrols served three main functions. "(1) to chase down, apprehend, and return to their owners, runaway slaves; (2) to provide a form of organized terror to deter slave revolts; and, (3) to maintain a form of discipline for slave-workers who were subject to summary justice, outside the law."[i] Some people will say that law enforcement looks different today, but I beg to differ. I feel as if I must take on a new identity: a Modern Slave. My brothers and sisters who have been incarcerated have a new identity as well: Human Capital Stock. This only means that the protection and service is only for the Masters. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. Please support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. End modern slavery.

Aaron Fitzpatrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arianna C	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Leah Oviedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight I demand 1. Independence from the mayors office 2. Independent legal council 3. Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses 4. Independent investigators and staff. We must ensure that police violence does not claim the livew of more community members, no matter their legal status, no matter their skin color or police record. Police should never be judge, jury and executioner!
Sarah Kamandy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Cox	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Keanu N	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cameron J Catapusan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jade Amansec	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and redistribute the money back to the community.
Teresa Duddy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brian Morton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Kennedy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emma Parella	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Please stop murdering black people. We demand justice for George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, Tony Mcdade, and many other black people who have been killed due to police brutality. BLACK LIVES MATTER--that includes black trans lives, black children's lives, and black queer lives. Listen to your community, listen to the citizens of San Diego who are demanding police reform. We don't have to abolish the police, but we do need them to be defunded. We demand that the government implement a redistribution of funds to black communities in order to provide them with resources that will benefit them.
Stephany Songvilay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Megan Younce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alex Wenzel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Over the last week, our city and the nation have witnessed the appalling consequences of extreme militarization of the police. This is due largely in part to the 1033 program in which the Department of Defense has transferred surplus military equipment to police departments around the country. Weapons of war have been handed to officers without appropriate training and then aimed at the American people. Just today a video surfaced on the Internet showing an officer in an MRAP threatening to run over nonviolent protesters elsewhere in California, specifically informing the protester that, quote, "you will be dead". I call on the San Diego Police Department to terminate any existing relationships to the 1033 program, produce a public accounting of all surplus equipment received through this program, and then destroy that equipment. No person should be threatened with military armaments by their own government in a peaceful and free democracy.
Mina Eftekhari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities need access to health care, housing, and food. Our budget should go towards investing in our communities, not police.
Evan Schell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Kawakami	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! Additionally, the Community Review Board on Police Practices should be independent from the mayor's office. There also needs to be independent legal counsel. The board should have the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses. Not getting the proper information makes it impossible for justice to happen. There also must be independent investigators and staff who are not related to the mayor's office or the police department. We must hold people accountable!
Marissa Hampton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Janna Wennberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tim Galang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matteen Abdolhossaini	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the current members of the CRB to publicly support San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Justine Mann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Last weekend, police officers shot 59-year-old Leslie Furcron in the head with a rubber bullet. It is no secret that rubber bullets are intended to be shot in a particular way so as to reduce harm and from a considerable distance. Ms. Furcron, however, was shot directly in the head. She may lose an eye. This is an absolute outrage. If your officers are so poorly-trained, they shouldn't have weapons.
Estela Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lauren Dalton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Z Julius	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please consider redirecting funds from policing efforts and invest them in strengthening and building communities in San Diego. Especially during this COVID pandemic, communities already vulnerable to harmful cycles perpetrated by violent policing and neglectful social structures and programs need investment, support, and solidarity now more than ever. Violent policing and criminalization that disproportionately affects vulnerable communities such as Black communities, communities of color, LGBTQ peoples, and especially homeless populations is not what this beautiful city needs right now, or ever. Instead, building and investing funds in community to help people help themselves and each other is what we need. Instead of boosting the police budget, please consider boosting healthcare efforts and COVID health response efforts, as one example for places to redirect funding.
Afton Katkov	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alison Liebrecht	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In order to increase public trust and begin a path to healing, transparency must be promoted. To achieve this, we demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. Our communities deserve transparency and accountability in policing & government, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chloe Schloss	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sierra Tillman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that the community of San Diego be made immediately aware of the officer who attempted to murder Leslie Furcron, a peaceful protestor. This officer must be immediately fired and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law for not only gross misconduct and abuse of power, but attempted murder of a member of our San Diego community. No more killer cops!
Carson McGrath	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Ashley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maya Sciarretta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! Stop bolstering racist officers.
Hailey Vieira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Amanda Miller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a white woman. Seeing what is happening in my community and around the entire U.S. is horrific and unacceptable. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Just because a person is a police officer is not an excuse to not be held responsible for deaths. Excessive force has been seen on every media outlet yet nothing is being done!! PLEASE LISTEN TO THE PEOPLE!!!!
Chris Taves	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jocelyn Mendez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing, healthcare, and food, not racist policing. Defund police!
Mylene Aslarona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sandra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards invest in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Grant Bozem	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is ridiculous that the police officers are using such brutal measures to try to stifle the first amendment right to protest. The police who shot Azim Furcron Sanders's mother in La Mesa with a rubber bullet, needs to be placed on charges of 3rd degree manslaughter for their excessive force during a peaceful protest. Lastly, throwing teargas grenades at protestor's who stay out past an arbitrary curfew on Sunday night downtown that was created on the spot to stifle dissent is sickening. Badge numbers need to be released and police officers need to be held accountable for their actions.
Kasi Bodiford	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a physician in this community and I understand that racism and racist practices negatively impacts the healthy of my patients of color. The police force should not be a source or fear but it often is in minority communities. I want to see more accountability of the police including civilian oversight boards and making misconduct records easily accessible by the public. I want to see less funding going to police and more funding going into strengthening our communities through education, housing, healthcare and food. We should view violence from as a public health perspective rather than a policing problem.
Carolina Ponce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelley Kill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We can not allow the police to be policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s office. Please. Help show you are serious about reform, and more importantly, that you care about the community you are sworn to protect. Be transparent and hold people accountable, which in turn could rebuild trust in the police for others.Also we are in a time of a global pandemic that attacks the lungs, using teargas on protesters could cause more health issues which may lead to more loss of life. Look at police practices and ask yourself if your child/grandchild/niece/nephew/sibling/parent wanted to protest something they are passionate about (which is their right) how would you want police to respond? Within each practice/scenario reviewed, if you would be okay with your loved one going through that, that’s fine. However, if there was something that would cause you anger or grief if police tried it on your loved ones, then use your power to have real change. Thank you.

Emily Hess	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
sabrina de vera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Do not allow this culture of police state persist. I came from a country that toppled a regime just before i was born, yet the police state system reverberated through the years to come. I've seen family members be victims of police brutality and killings and never see justice for them. I could never wish for any family to go through that, yet when I came to this country I realized that that is the reality for black families, added to their suffering is the burden of being afraid in their own skin, being afraid for their children.
Alan Lilienthal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Darius Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Emily Bahr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	6/3/2020 The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Emily and Tom Bahr
Michelle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	La Mesa PD who choose to shoot a woman point blank in the head, while other officers watch, as she's peacefully protesting is UNACCEPTABLE. Fire and arrest the officer. And enact a Citizen's Review Board immediately.
Emilia Lugn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Megan Varra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police violence is never acceptable. I fear for my life anytime I encounter police and that is not acceptable in a free society. Please change laws and create more oversight to protect our citizens from police profiling and violence.
Anna Sun	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kelly Reimus	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hollin Hamelynck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that more conversations be made about Police Brutality in San Diego. I should not fear for my life about my right to free speech and the right to protest. Police showing up in riot gear to a peaceful protest scene is a perfect example of racial assumption. Why were the police not in riot gear during the protests for covid 19 shops and other business being forced to closed down? Something needs to be said by our leaders that were elected and something needs to change for the safety of our community.
Jennifer Donovan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Toni Manese	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Julianna Zachariou	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed to protect our community through the checks, balances and transparency that is essential to our public safety. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. The people of San Diego demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We deserve accountability, to protect our cities and our officers and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Richard Sutherland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a registered voter in district 3 of San Diego and I would like to voice my support for decreasing the funding for the San Diego PD. If this is about police practices we must immediately alter how and why we police. Simple changes to training will literally save lives. Work on outreach instead of patrol. Stop spending money on militarization. Instead let's invest in our community, not terrorize our most vulnerable and underprivileged. I would love to see this money spent on healthcare and mental health for the underinsured, better education and libraries, healthy food in schools and for those struggling, infrastructure and affordable housing in black and brown communities. Lastly we need to fund independent review and advisory boards, separate from our government, run by proven allies for racial justice with real power to persecute and vet potential rasicts and bigots. We cannot afford to lose total faith in our society. Change is inevitable. Help make it easier. Thank you.
Patricia Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsey Parker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lisa Hoffman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arianna Galvan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Denise Natividad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Shea Geary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Taylor Bartram	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we arent just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly San Diegans for Justice Ballot Proposal. Also, Police using teargas during a pandemic for a virus that attacks lungs, police shooting rubber bullets directly at protesters faces inflicting permanent eye damage, and using their cars to drive through crowds of protesters is violent, unfair, and wrong. We need support.
Peter Emanuel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	*Independence from the mayor's office *Independent legal counsel *Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses *Independent investigators and staff
Jocelyn Freitas, RN, BSN	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the Mayor and SD Police and Sheriff to immediately adopt and adequately enforce #8cantwait: ban Chockeholds and strangleholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all alternatives before shooting, duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, use of force continuum, require ALL force to be reported. Police departments that have adopted these 8 policies kill significantly fewer people. I also press those in power to do so, to stop the brutalization of those taking to the street in protest. The use of excessive force and escalation is unacceptable. There is a black grandmother in ICU right now from being hit in the head by a rubber bullet while peacefully protesting in La Mesa. This is shameful. Many of the people in the streets are our BIPOC youth, stop brutalizing them, arresting them, and further entrenching them in a system of policing and incarceration that has taken and destroyed countless lives. Our community needs funding directed towards systems of care and vital resources, not more militarized police and jails/prisons. Thank you for your attention.
Carol Shamon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the Mayor and SD Police and Sherif to immediately abopt and adequately enforce #8cantwait: ban Chockeholds and strangleholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all alternatives before shooting, duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, use of force continuum, require ALL force to be reported. Police departments that have adopted these 8 policies kill significantly fewer people. I also press those in power to do so, to stop the brutalization of those taking to the street in protest. The use of excessive force and escalation is unacceptable. There is a black grandmother in ICU right now from being hit in the head by a rubber bullet while peacefully protesting in La Mesa. This is shameful. I know our City can do better! Many of the people in the streets are our BIPOC youth, stop brutalizing them, arresting them, and further entrenching them in a system of policing and incarceration that has taken and destroyed countless lives. Our community needs funding directed for care and vital resources, not more militarized police and jails/prisons. Thank you for your attention.

Chelsea Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carryn Mills	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Victoria Catapusan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Meyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Leslie Furcron, a 50-year-old black woman, who was peacefully protesting here in San Diego was hit in the head with a projectile intentionally fired by police; this was all while they were tear-gassing other people. Medics on the ground had to pull her out of the chaos and barely managed to get her to the hospital in time. This was attempted murder and the cops responsible need to be fired and prosecuted.
Marleen Hiedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Amy Steinhoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zack Dowdy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a 32 year old San Diego native, I've watch the CRB structure fail the community for too long. I will not allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. A La Mesa resident is in a now medically induced coma because of this corruption!! Stop for a second, think about that. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need to hold our police accountable and have infrastructure to do so, just like we do our community!

Jonathon Blaj	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Over 1,000 people are killed by police every year in America. I am calling on SD lawmakers to take immediate action to adopt data-driven policy solutions to end this violence and hold police accountable. We can live in a world where the police don't kill people, harass people, and disproportionately target Black, Brown, and LGBTQ communities—and we can do that by limiting police interventions, improving community interactions, and ensuring accountability. We need a completely transparent process that wholly addresses police malfeasance and murder! We need to eradicate police brutality and the overuse of volatile and deadly force! We need to eliminate the disproportionate incarceration of black bodies for low-level and petty crimes! We need to allocate funding for non-police systems of care for our communities in crisis/danger! We need to reinforce community driven initiatives that tackle the social problems (poverty, homelessness, underfunded education systems, etc) that lead to need for police in the first place! We need proactive approaches to mental health, substance abuse, and social abandonment! We need to DEFUND the police and reappropriate those funds to establish a rich array of social services that elevate the lives of our citizenry! Thank you!
Safoora Awan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Too many people have died over too little. Let’s do everything we can to help stop it, or at least lessen it. Knowing that there will be outside review will likely lead to better behavior, God willing so let’s make it happen!
Casey Stammerjohn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Rylee Umstead	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Theresa Honings	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nathaniel Bowman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I want the officer who fired beanbags at Leslie Furcron to be identified and charged! This is a horrendous act of violence on a beloved Black member of the community, and is an overstep of the law. This has made many of us feel unsafe and if the police would tolerate someone who would do a violent act like this, what good is it?
Samantha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need and independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Mary Klann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jessie Dickter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to DEMAND the SDPD be defunded, and instead take that money to invest in the well being of San Diego's diverse community. The SDPD are a racist and violent institution hurting our communities, not supporting public safety. Here are some examples from the Campaign Zero report of SD Policing (that I am sharing with everyone I know in SD): San Diego police stopped black people at higher rates than white people in 85% of the police beats in their jurisdiction. Black people were stopped at a rate of 219% higher per population than white people. Once stopped, the SDPD were 59% more likely to use force against black people than white people. Fewer than 15% of these stops were initiated from civilian (911) calls, begging the question-who are the police serving or protecting? It is clear in these few statistics, not People of Color. We know that more police do not lead to safer communities, so please, defund the police. Instead, invest in areas that desperately need more attention and funding from the government: resources for homeless people to help with drug addiction and mental health, education, affordable housing, healthcare, public transit, pay teachers a living wage!
Marisa J Hirsch	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Evan Burke	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krista Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jennifer Leon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelley Sheehan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Juliana G Musheyev	Community Review Board on Police Practices	On Saturday, May 30th, 59 year old grandmother Leslie Furcron was shot in the head by a police officer with a bean bag round while peacefully protesting. The bullet was lodged in her skull and caused serious injury. She was a threat to no one and was shot without warning, she could have been killed. Her family, lawyers and community members consider this attempted murder. We need justice for Leslie! WE DEMAND that the officer that shot Leslie Furcron be identified and charged.
Chayanne Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Raymond Dave Dela Cruz Acenas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I believe the following changes should be made to police policy and conduct: 1. Ban choke holds, knee holds, and strangleholds 2. The Use of Force Continuum for any police department must ensure that there are at least 6 levels of steps, with clear rules on escalation. 3. The requirement of frequent warning before shooting. 4. The requirement to exhaust all alternatives before shooting any projectiles. 5. Enforce a duty to intervene excessive engagements of other police. 6. Ban the shooting of moving vehicles. 7. Officer misconduct information and disciplinary histories are not shielded from the public. 7. Recertification credentials may be denied for police officers if determined that their use of deadly force was unwarranted by federal guidelines. 7. Implementation of Citizen's Review Board to hold police departments accountable and build public confidence.
Olivia Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and instead invest in MUCH needed community resources - housing, healthcare, and more. The police force is inherently racist and has caused irreparable harm to far too many San Diegans.
Christopher Lehnig	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrews Dyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigation, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jonas Rluiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposał.

Noelle D	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Stop police from being so violent!!
Toni Vallido	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elyse Burden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	A community review board that is not truly independent has no chance at effectively policing and police force that has for too long, gone without comprehensive oversight and accountability. The structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and that actions are being taken to correct prior wrongs, and ensure safety for black and brown citizens. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandon Campagna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities need access to health care, housing, and food. Our budget should be better allocated throughout our communities, not police.
Sydney Barnes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue placing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the police to overshadow the needs of the public we demand subpoena power, independent investigations, independent legal counsel and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these demands are being taken seriously. The people of San Diego deserve accountability and transparency and policing, and we encourage members of the current CRB to support the San diegans for justice ball at proposal.

Linda Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. San Diego needs to invest in communities, not police. I reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. We need to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Gulce Ozturk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Soz Mirza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am demanding that the police department is defunded and reinvested in communities. Our communities, particularly our black and brown communities are targeted by YOUR police force- often met brutally and without reason. The diversity and inclusion within our communities are not celebrated amongst your department, but rather seen as a threat to your power. Racism is a public health issue, leading to a remarkable number of deaths and injustices. These are our brothers, sisters, neighbors, friends, and colleagues; but even if they weren't- they are humans. Consider the role you're playing, are you not racist, or are you fighting the injustices and oppression black communities face. If you want to protect and serve, have you considered jobs in social work? In the health field as EMT's and nurses? as a firefighter? Just within the last week, your department has lead with violence and brutality. You have not released the names of the officers who shot Leslie Furcron during the protests, so how are you "fighting for justice and protection," when your department is the main perpetrators of violence and injustice.
Caelie Ericksen-Stark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This iteration of the CRB is ineffective and has failed to take appropriate actions in the past. It is unimaginable to think that the police could police themselves. There needs to be a PUBLIC/Community based oversite committee that is NOT appointed by the mayor. That committee needs to be independent and have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and FULL independent oversight that is NOT connected to the Mayors office. This is a simple appeasement by the mayor to stop the public from sharing our rage. WE WILL BE HEARD.

Alexander Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashlyn Dadkhah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Macy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and instead invest in MUCH needed community resources - housing, healthcare, and more. The police force is inherently racist and has caused irreparable harm to far too many San Diegans.
Kelsey Pickert	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has FAILED our community for too long. We CANNOT allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We DEMAND subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We NEED to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and that SUBSTANTIAL change is coming from City Hall. San Diegans DESERVE transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly SUPPORT the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sophie Z	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Irene A Chung	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Angelica Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the community review board to reject Major Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. The half a billion dollars set to fund the police will immensely add to the racial profiling that the Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) already endure due to the presence of a large well-equipped police force. Additionally, the proposal disregards the minuscule essential resources that are provided to San Diego communities. These resources include housing, health care, food, jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented individuals. There is money for these resources and that money is in Mayor Faulconer's proposal. The money in the proposal must be allocated to these highly necessary resources. If the community review board desires to see a vast change in San Diego where individuals have a secure wellbeing that is not determined by their race or ethnicity, reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal.
Madeline Leyland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Robert O Ruiz Jr.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Lovejoy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aishwarya Kaimal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Connor Bryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and start prioritizing communities and community programs!!
Jamie Inarda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Athena Bazalaki	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Evan O Caporale	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Adding my voice The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allison Estrada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Steven Nieder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	You've never created a policy change and haven't even done the bare minimum of acknowledging our polices racist practices as shown by SDSU Policing Report, ACLU Campaign Zero Report, or RIPA. This makes sense, seeing as this board is appointed by the Mayor and has no accountability. I'd urge you to disband so something that actually represents the community instead of the police and those of power can be put in place. Until then, these boards will be what we all know they are, purely optics to give the illusion of accountability. As of now the only meaningful path is defunding the police and investing that money back into our communities.
Robert Ponce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Ikehara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of California I was shocked and dismayed to hear that Leslie Furcron, a grandmother and law-abiding La Mesa resident, was shot and injured while attending a peaceful protest over the weekend. She remains in a medically-induced coma in an intensive-care unit and may lose one of her eyes after officers at the protest gave no warning before firing tear gas and "non-lethal" rounds. The officer responsible for Ms. Furcron's debilitation must be identified and held accountable for this crime.

Giovanna Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our system and police officers who swore to protect ALL members of our community, has immensely failed us. We cannot live in a society where individuals are prosecuted due to the color of their skin. America has failed to live up to its expectations. We have remained stagnant and continue towards the path of racism and discrimination. We must hold police officers accountable for their actions and must stop any preconceived beliefs that a certain ethnic background is an indicator for any illegal activity. Preconceived beliefs are illusions. Illusions that have infiltrated minds to create a false reality where whites are superior to blacks. This is RACISM. This has resulted in POLICE BRUTALITY. This is ILLEGAL. The proof is out there. Our community cannot turn a blind eye to the injustice committed by the police. Equality is what we ask. Justice is what we ask. These are things that are easily obtained if you are NOT black. But this must be for EVERYONE. Police practices need to be reformed and change must begin NOW.
Alison Scutti	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm deeply disturbed by the horrific injury Leslie Furcron sustained at the hands of police during a protest in La Mesa on May 2nd. It is completely unacceptable for a police officer to behave this way towards a member of our community who was exercising her right to peacefully protest, and I do not feel safe knowing this officer is still on the job. I demand that the officer who shot Leslie be identified and held accountable for their actions.
Morgan Balentine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anne Szafranski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Abel Macis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The practices of the San Diego Police department in the lat few days in response to peaceful protestors has been horrific and militarized to say the least. Leslie Furcron was shot at point blank range directly in the face. This type of violent response to non-violent protestors is unacceptable and this officer need to be removed the force immediately.

Daijon Evans	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Maia Zelkind	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. INVEST IN COMMUNITIES. Do not let the Mayor water down our movement! The goal is to DEFUND the police and divest theres resources to our communities. The City of San Diego has an opportunity to listen and make changes after community members took over the streets and flooded the City Council Meeting with over 1,000 calls in support of DEFUNDING THE POLICE and INVESTING IN COMMUNITIES. This is what keeps our communities safe and shows our support for Black, Indigenous, Queer and Trans communities.
Joshua Lane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, I am an American citizen who loves my community and all of the people who make up the county of San Diego. I believe that we are making it clear that as a society we need accountability for the people who claim to protect us. We need a community based review board that will fight for its people! We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Peter Tarantino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aiko Paragas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand independence from the mayors office.
Sumer malloian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Reilly Buckenham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alana Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Police training does not work, and it will not work. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. We need you to DEFUND THE POLICE and REJECT Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget. Those funds need to be redistributed so were supporting the Black, Indigenous, PoC communities. I implore you to listen to your publics and defund the police.
Natasha Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There should be an independent oversight review board for police that carries real power
Hilary Geddis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christie Davis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Isabelle Meyers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marian Camille Yoder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The officer that shot Leslie in the head needs be identified and held accountable.
Nicholas Lorentz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Jennings	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In the wake of righteous outrage in communities all over this country, our city council needs to support reform that can strengthen trust between police and San Diego's residents. Especially for black people and people of color. It's very important that the council support a strong and effective Commission on Police Practices. The people want you to move this Charter Amendment to the ballot so that there can be real independence from the Mayors office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena and independent investigations. Let San Diegans vote and have a say in our police oversight! Otherwise WE CAN'T BREATH!
Sandra Sandria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	On May 30th, this past Saturday, Leslie Fucron was shot in the forehead with a "less lethal round" by the police while she was protesting police brutality peacefully in La Mesa. She was taken in by street medics on the scene, but afterwards moved to the hospital in critical condition. She is one among many protestors who were being peaceful but were shot at with rubber bullets and tear gassed regardless. Among these people protesting peacefully were people I know who helped tend peoples wounds and burns at the scene while cops did nothing to protect anyones safety and continued to escalate violence. There is evidence of this on a public livestream. Tear gas is banned as a chemical weapon by the UN yet police are armed with it. This is what your budget has paid for and equipped police with. You must take action to hold the officer who shot Leslie Fucron accountable and charge them with attempted murder. Otherwise, you have blood on your hands.
Brenda Marquez Basave	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize our communities!

Alexander Peregrina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Pan Asian Lawyers of San Diego	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Pan Asian Lawyers of San Diego is outraged by the senseless killing of George Floyd by Minnesota police officers. This incident is the most recent reminder of the history of racism and violence against African-Americans under the color of law. We stand in solidarity with the African-American community in demanding justice and reform. While we do not condone violence or destruction of property, we empathize with the frustration and anger felt by many Americans. We reject any calls for the violent suppression of the protests or the generalization of the protesters as criminals. We support the constitutional right of the people to assemble peacefully to demand redress for the longstanding injustices inflicted on oppressed groups. The only way to restore and ensure peace is to fulfill the promise of equality for all. Finally, we recognize that we cannot stay silent on this issue. Change requires acknowledging the systemic racism in our society and working together towards a resolution. We also realize that statements alone will not affect change. Therefore, we commit to engaging in and fostering dialogue, as well as advocating for solutions such as reforms to law enforcement oversight and the criminal justice system.
Lorena Villavicencio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD has actively endangered the lives of my friends and family in malicious fashion. DEFUND THE POLICE! Use those resources to assist communities that actually need it, not their opressors.

Jordan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We are sick and tired.
Nicholas huth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing.
Christa Lim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To protect and serve, right? What, exactly, was being protected Sunday afternoon when SDPD militarized on a peaceful protest gathered in front of the Courthouse and Hall of Justice? And who, exactly, was being served? Have you seen the footage? After HOURS of marching by peaceful demonstrators, SDPD suddenly descended and deployed violent crowd control tactics intended to intimidate, scare, and create chaos. Tear gas? Corralling protesters with police vehicles? Surrounding protesters with police lines often 2-3 persons deep? Assault weapons and riot gear? The truth is, there was absolutely no attempt by SDPD to 'de-escalate' the demonstration on Sunday. In fact, there was no de-escalation required. The demonstration was peaceful. So why was a militarized response authorized? Who approved the deployment of these 'escalation tactics'? San Diego's white allies witnessed firsthand a taste of the unwarranted violence that SDPD is capable of, something that our communities of color have been protesting for decades now. The actions of SDPD on Sunday have undoubtedly created long-lasting damage to an already fragile relationship within the community. I urge you to listen to the black leaders who spoke today. Take their recommendations seriously. Without real change, SDPD will never gain the community's trust.
S. Hua	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting empty promises from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Leah Rives	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am appalled at the way the SDPD handled this weekend's peaceful vigil in front of the harbor building. We were standing there with candles singing songs while a sniper was trained on us, a drone flew overhead, and a helicopter circled the whole time. We were then hit with tear gas and rubber bullets for no reason. The police here have shown that they are incapable of policing themselves. They harm citizens with their expensive militarized tools. I am horrified. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association need serious reform. We the people demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. San Diegans deserve transparancy in policing. Please support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Addison Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Fabian Eduardo Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anthony Loaiza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Do it
Halicia Ashford	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Casey Stammerjohn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	"The purpose of curfews is not to limit looting. Looting is illegal with or without a curfew in place. The purpose of curfews is to limit peaceful protest. The preemptive use of curfews has escalated this situation, endangered the public, and is almost certainly unconstitutional." Cyrus Habib Lt. Governor of Washington State. The response to these peaceful protests and community coming together was insane, embarrassing, and hurting us. Our community and love. If the cops didn't show up to protests, we could have cookouts, art, information booths, love. Tear gas. On peaceful human beings who keep this society running. Tear gas That effects the respiratory system curing COVID 19. That is warfare. it's almost as if curfews are workarounds to make protests de facto illegal. I am so shamed of how reflective our police systems represent and reflect slavery systems. I am so heartbroken. We are the change, we are the voice. Fund education, housing, people, not fuming nazi state. There is video evidence of San Diego police cars RUNNING OVER families and humans protesting. NOW IS ENOUGH! STOP THIS!
Nancy Tomka	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Donna Kaiser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am an attorney. I want the ballot initiative passed!! With authority to subpoena records and its own independent attorney. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aishwarya Kaimal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The brutal display of violence from the police is horrific and simply unacceptable. The police is meant to serve the community, to protect the community's rights. Yet they violate the black community's rights for merely existing. When calling for justice through peaceful protest, the police spray Americans with tear gas and rubber bullets, trying to hurt the very rights they were created to protect. The police aren't trying to de-escalate. They're trying to justify their cruelty. There has to be consequences. There has to be justice. How can we be the land of the free if the black community is never truly free from this violence.

Ericka Li	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Dana Naamad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Leslie Furcron was shot in the head with a beanbag round by a police officer while protesting peacefully. Please take steps to hold the officer who shot her accountable. They need to be identified, fired, and charged. This incident is emblematic of a failed police accountability system.
Caitlin McCormick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, and independent legal counsel. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Savannah Arroyo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Too many lives are being sacrificed in the name of justice and freedom, and the police aren't fulfilling their duty as civil servants to protect civilians. The public should be able to come to an officer in times of need and not be afraid that their lives will be lost because of blatant racism and bigotry, we should feel comfortable and safe asking for help.
Samantha Brown	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Christian Jo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

John Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hayley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Samantha Crask	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I, Samantha Crask, lifelong citizen of San Diego County, CA, in regards to police oversight, demand: 1) Independence from the Mayor's Office, 2) Independent Legal Counsel, 3) Power to subpoena Officers, reports, and witnessed, 4) Independent Investigators and staff. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Matthew Nelson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators , independent legal council, and independent from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Casey Rubenfeld	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand justice for Leslie Furcron who was shot by a police officer and who is potentially losing her eye. I want that police officer to be named and to be fired no pay. I call for the defunding of the Police, and that funds that were directed towards them be directed towards the community, towards racial justice, towards education, and towards our homeless population.
Sarah kaiser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent commission with the authority to subpoena records and it's own attorney YESTERDAY. But if you make it happen this year that would be good too.

Elaine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gigi Fernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There's no words to describe the pain that people are feeling the least we can do is try and make a change even if people feel like there's no hope we need hope it's us against the world and we have enough of us to make a change
Alisha Kirschner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marvin Canezares Nelson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators , independent legal council, and independent from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Edward Shellenberger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police officer that shot Leslie Furcron in the head with a beanbag round during the protests in La Mesa must be identified and held accountable for their actions.
Ashanti Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Katerina Alvarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
William	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Last Saturday, the La Mesa Police Department shot Leslie Furcron in the face with what appeared to be a bean bag round. The projectile struck Leslie with such force that it had to be removed from her face, and she was put into a coma. Leslie was lucky to survive. The officer who fired the round either knew that the rounds can be fatal when aimed above the waist, (in which case he did this with knowledge) or he was untrained and incompetent. I, and thousands of others, demand this officer be identified and prosecuted for attempted murder.
Catherine Quaidoo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chris Paez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.

Diego Miranda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandon Jacobo Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	For every African American harassment, racial profiling, and murder that gets recorded, there are many others that don't. I understand that there are many factors that may make a police officer feel that their life is at risk, but a stranger's skin color should not be one of them. The law needs to be applied fairly amongst everyone, in the past, present, and future. Institutionalized racism needs to end. Authority figures need to be retrained. African American lives need to have the same respect white American lives get. This cannot continue any longer.
Anvesh Macherla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Molly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Donald Alan Kaiser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Katelynn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Malani Tate	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay Vieira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police To continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and a police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand a subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we are just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diego's deserve the transparency and accountability and policing and we encourage the members of the currency RB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Rebekka Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cynthia Rivas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand: (1) independence from the mayor's office; (2) independent legal counsel; (3) power to subpoena officers, records, witnesses, and release body camera footage; and (4) independent investigators and staff. I DEMAND JUSTICE.

Natalie Farmer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Faith Katz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Faith Katz, and I live in District 3. I'm writing to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Mayor Faulconer writes, "The Proposed Budget for Fiscal Year 2021 is $3.9 billion — a $427 million, or 10% decrease from the Fiscal Year 2020 Adopted Budget… This Proposed Budget includes $46 million in General Fund reductions across all branches." But, while other departments are taking millions in cuts to be fiscally responsible during a pandemic, the police budget will increase more than $20 million (from $539 million in 2020 to $567 million in 2021, a 5.2% increase). Why? I know you solicited public comment throughout April and May, and I said nothing then. But I am saying something now, and I hope it is not too late. Budgets are moral documents. If you truly care about public safety, then decrease the police budget and fund services that strengthen our communities. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing.
Kayla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kourosh Karimi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand that the officer that shot Leslie Furcron in the head be identified and held accountable. This was attempted murder. That officer should be arrested now.

Laura Todd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My children want me to explain why a black man in La Mesa was harassed by police. I couldn't come up with a good answer. They want to know why the peaceful protest we were watching on livestream was responded to with tear gas. I didn't know what to say. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. The Police Officer Association is not the appropriate source of guidance for police conduct. The citizens that police are sworn to serve and protect demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. All San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Please, let's act now to create a police force my children can trust when they grow up and go out into our great city.
Jessica Nwasike	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Holly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand that the officer that shot Leslie Furcron with a bean bag round on Saturday May 30th be identified and held accountable. It absolutely unacceptable that a Black woman who is a long standing resident of our city be brutalized and violently attacked simply for asking that Black people not be killed by the police. From the eyes of all that were witnesses, this was attempted murder, and it is your responsibility to make sure that not only is the person who attacked her fired and charged, but that this sort of action never happens again. We can start by holding this officer accountable, and continue by demilitarizing the police force here in San Diego.
Simone Weisman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Laurie Nasica	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I wish to live in a city whose leaders believe, as strongly as I do, that everyone deserves an equal right to live. The brutality and uncalled for excessive violence used by the police towards people of color has been running rampant and it is clear that our community has now reached a saturation point. As an educator, I should not be put in a place where I need to teach children how to protect themselves from the ones in charge and paid to protect them. As many in our communities are marching for racial justice and are met with countless appalling acts of violence, I ask that the CBR implement the following necessary reforms: We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lisa Shepard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	the officer that shot Leslie Furcron in the head needs be identified and held accountable. The family and Leslie's lawyers see this action as attempted murder. Leslie was shot in the head with a bean bag round last Saturday at the La Mesa protest. FIND HIM AND HOLD HIM ACCOUNTABLE.
Jillian Brenner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laura Fragomeni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm calling for your public support of the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and again we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Julie Roland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I watched the City Council meeting yesterday for over 10 hours as people waited and called in over and over to demand defunding of police only to see the mayor turn around today and offer no changes to the budget but rather suggest that bolstering community/police relations would be "discussed". We want actual change.
Alyssa Balaguer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nafis Akbar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police department needs to improve and address its ability to handle situations. Police need to be sure they only use their firearms as the very last resort. They should also be given more training On how to de-escalate situations and also be given more training to reduce racial profiling. Finally officers should go through mental evaluations after every violent/traumatic incident.
Nina Trusso	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I ask that the police department immediately ban chokeholds and strangleholds, require de-escalation, ban shooting at moving vehicles, require all force be reported, and that officers have a duty to intervene. In addition, I demand that we start providing more support towards community efforts and organizations outside of the police forces in order to prevent police brutality and violence in the future.

Michael Pinning	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Travis Lyle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Divest in SD police and invest in the people!
Melissa Favela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
hanna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Betsy Leon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In support of the San Diegans for Justice ballot, the demands for transparency and accountability for the actions of police officers must be taken seriously. We can no longer continue to place responsibility on the police department to check themselves. I am sure there are good-hearted people in the police force, but it does not remedy the disproportionate rates of crime and justice within different communities. The police have become a military squad of force rather than a safeguard for the community. Please do not be complacent in addressing this issue. This affects everyone's lives.

Cerissa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand independence from the Mayors office, independent legal counsel, power to subpoena officers , records and witnesses, independent investigation and staff
Ryan McClellan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Kroeber	Community Review Board on Police Practices	PLEASE do not increase police spending, consider the reallocation of funding to community outreach programs. PLEASE reallocate funds to crisis-trained individuals when responding to mental health calls. PLEASE acknowledge the FACTS regarding racial profiling and END POLICE RACISM & BRUTALITY.
Adrielli Ferrer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tracy Han	Community Review Board on Police Practices	While a community review board on police sounds like a nice idea, in practice this board has no teeth - it has not and will not create change. We must defund the police, and put the money into initiatives that build community, give opportunity to underserved minorities, and decrease crime. As is, the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board are appointed by the mayor and not by the community. The mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, but has not ever adopted policy changes, and is not beholden to enact any changes. These boards are just for show! Consider the example of Camden, NJ: In 2013, the Camden Police Department was disbanded, reimagined, and born again as the Camden County Police Department, with fewer officers, lower pay, and a strategic shift toward "community policing." (CityLab article). By 2018, Camden had the lowest homicide rate since 1987. These are the results from defunding the police. This is what we need to do in San Diego, not just put in place boards that are appointed by politicians who are influenced by the police, and which have no real power.

Bret Pickering	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cassandra Trevizo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isaac Cornejo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Laurie Nasica	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I wish to live in a city whose leaders believe, as strongly as I do, that everyone deserves an equal right to live. The brutality and uncalled for excessive violence used by police towards people of color has been running rampant and it is clear that our community has now reached a saturation point. As an educator, I should not be put in a place where I need to teach children how to protect themselves from the ones in charge and paid to protect them. As many in our communities are marching for racial justice and are met with countless appalling acts of violence, I ask that the CBR implement the following necessary reforms: We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sharayah Tyler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The officer who shot Leslie Furcron in the head used unwarranted, excessive, and potentially deadly force against a woman who was exercising her right to peacefully protest and needs to be identified and held accountable, for justice for Leslie and the safety of the community.

helawit	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stacey Kartchner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In light of the recent events and the history of too many minorities suffering due to police misconduct, I urge you to allow community oversight. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Especially in these times, the public needs to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. The community deserves transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachael Heller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I respectfully demand the following in police oversight: (1) independence from the mayor's office; (2) independent legal counsel; (3) power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; and (4) independent investigations and staff. Further, I respectfully demand that the county of San Diego implement these 8 actions in all of its police departments to reduce police violence by up to 72%: ban chokeholds and strangleholds; require de-escalaiton; require warning before shooting; exhaust all other means before shooting; duty to intervene; ban shooting at moving vehicles; require use of force continuum; and require comprehensive reporting. (https://8cantwait.org/).

Andrea Carter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As an attorney who is accountable to independent State Bar PR/ethics investigators and public complaints I have long been in support of true accountability for law enforcement, who have incredible amounts indiscretion and power over people's lives. Some immediate and necessary measures that should be implemented are: Investigators/review representatives should be elected or not appointed through the mayors office but in some broader capacity (needs true independence from power and other political branches in the City); they need to have subpoena and investigation powers on par with a grand jury; and should have their own independent investigations and counsel, on par with what we afford divisions of the district attorneys and other prosecutors. Malfeasance here undermines faith in the system and the entire rule of law.
Jesus Aguirre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carrie Long	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police To continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and a police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand a subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we are just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diego's deserve the transparency and accountability and policing and we encourage the members of the currency RB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Ahylin durrett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	.
Juno Salter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Matthew Barone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paul Nelson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is urgent that the police policies around use of force that daily humiliate and dehumanize to its own citizens finally end. The fact that it took yet another murder to call upon action for this systemic change shows how far we've fallen and how drastic our actions to correct the system must be. This is not isolated to individuals, precincts, cities, or states. This is the culture of violence in American policing, and the only solution is a broad change to the system's culture. I'm demanding that the 10 policy reforms researched and communicated by Campaign Zero be considered and co-opted. At a minimum and immediately, the 8 Can't Wait policy reforms must be written into policy: - Ban chokeholds and strangleholds - Require de-escalation - Require warning before shooting - Exhaust all other means before shooting - Duty to intervene and stop excessive force by other officers - Ban shooting at moving vehicles - Require use-of-force continuum - Require comprehensive reporting each time an officer uses forces or threatens to do so https://www.joincampaignzero.org/
Michael Alvarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Raina Ward	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and that we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Fernando Tobar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
senay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marina Eddings	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Natalie Altick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosemary Bishop	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is time to have an independent commission to review police practices and allegations of misconduct. It is not fair for the police review to be conducted with conflicts of interests and without independent investigation. This will help make the police departments better because it will take pressure off from existing cultures that may encourage cover ups and keep good police from doing their jobs in a non-discriminatory manner. Please show that you really care about the issue and vote to support a measure for independent police review.
Gaby	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I just watched a police suv run into a group of protesters crossing at the crosswalk. If you continue to add funds to the police department you are perpetuating a system of white privilege and racism and murderous violence. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

christina Ghadieh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD and Sheriff's Department must be held accountable for the brutality and murder of its citizens. On May 6, 2020, Aaron Russell killed a man that was fleeing from arrest. There is absolutely NO REASON DEADLY FORCE SHOULD BE USED ON A PERSON WITH THEIR BACKS TO AN OFFICER. Nicholas Bils was arrested for "assault" on a park ranger while "trespassing" in a park Old Town San Diego. Mr. Bils had a history of mental illness that is well documented in the system from previous encounters with SDPD and Sheriff. According to ACLU's Campaign Zero, we find SDPD was more likely to use force against people with disabilities. Persons perceived to have mental disabilities were 81% more likely to be searched and 172% more likely to experience use of force than people who were not perceived to have a disability. SDPD have been engaged in biased policing towards people with disabilities, especially people perceived to have mental disabilities. The resignation of Officer Russell is NOT ENOUGH. He must be brought to justice for the murder of Nicholas Bils. There is absolutely no reason deadly force should have been used before DE-ESCALATING THE SITUATION. It has been proven de-escalation works. We
Yan Wu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, my name is Yan Wu and I'm a resident of Hillcrest, San Diego. I am tired of seeing that the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I fully support San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & do what the community wants. The police at the end of the day are public employees and should be accountable to the people they serve.
Emily	Community Review Board on Police Practices	he current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paige Coe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	During a global pandemic our funds should NOT be going to an already militarized police force. We as a county need to do better. Police currently use their power to torment people of color (Black and Indigenous people of color in particular) with NO accountability. We need to give these funds to health care and housing to benefit communities.
Elizabeth Poulin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

JENNA BUCHWACH	Community Review Board on Police Practices	While the current CRB has made progress, it is not enough. Our community needs a citizens' police oversight body with far more authority to hold police accountable for misconduct. We demand an oversight body with: 1) Authority to initiate investigations 2) Independent investigators and legal counsel 3) Subpoena power We need the CRB to be able to do the job that you were assigned to do. The police have lost the trust of much of the community, and the community needs to know that reforms are being taken seriously. Please publicly support the ballot measure proposed by San Diegans for Justice, which would implement the three items listed above and would provide San Diego with serious accountability in our criminal justice system. Thank you for your consideration, and thank you for the work that you currently do.
shashu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Shaylynn Bird	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police To continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and a police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand a subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we are just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diego's deserve the transparency and accountability and policing and we encourage the members of the currency RB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Jordan Korn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	he current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Yackley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marco Guerra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	he current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Josette Welsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	in police oversight we demand independence from the mayor's office; independent legal counsel; the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; and independent investigators and staff.
Crystina Callahan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is clear that recent police practices have become unchecked and excessively violent. Please end the use of semi-lethal projectiles and weapons chemical warfare on protesters. Peaceful protesters like Leslie Furcron deserve a voice. Please don't let our police turn our city into a wazone. Please charge all involved officers so that innocent civilian mothers like Leslie can once again be safe in our city.

Sandra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police To continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and a police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand a subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we are just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diego's deserve the transparency and accountability and policing and we encourage the members of the currency RB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal.
Hannah Walchak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long - real citizens are kept off the board and it is stacked with reviewers who don't have independence or justice in mind. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. If the San Diego Police Department believes its behavior is appropriate, it would not fear a robust and legitimate review board.
Gabriela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

theodoros kapogianis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In response to consistent police misconduct, we demand the following measures of police oversight: -independence from the mayor's office -independent legal counsel -power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, -independent investigators and staff. a few stats: SDPD Stopped Black people at a 219 percent higher rate than white people. In 85 percent of SDPD beats, Black people were stopped at higher rates than white people. SDPD Was 23 percent more likely to conduct consent searches on Black people than white people, despite being less likely to be found with contraband than white people. SDPD Was more likely to use force and even more severe forms of force against Black people than white people. Fuck You Falconer And Fuck You Too Nisleit We Didn't Forget About You. Try protecting the public and investing in the communities. Defund the police and reallocate those funds into the communities that have been harmed by police.
Sarah Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jamal Alston	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. Wd cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel , and independence from the Mayors office.
Kourtney Jones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

abeba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lilianna Chmielowski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The system is not working as evidenced by recent events regarding police brutality\killing. We desper need an independent review board. The police should not be policing themselves. This change is long overdue. We need an independent board now
Bronte Daniels	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katherine Lukens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	See uploaded photo!!

Nicole Butticci-Weston	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The data compiled by Campaign Zero proves the San Diego Police Department and San Diego Sheriff's departments "are engaged in a pattern of discriminatory policing as both departments stopped black people at a rate of more than 2x higher than white people and were more likely to search, arrest, and use force against black people during a stop. Both departments not only use force more often but also use more severe forms of force against black people than other groups, even after controlling for arrest rates and the alleged level of resistance. The data also found evidence of anti-Latinx bias, anti-LGBT bias, and bias against people with disabilities in both departments' search practice." (https://policescorecard.org/sandiego) Therefore, I demand that the City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's racist proposal to increase the police budget. I demand the defunding of the police departments so those funds can be diverted to the communities of San Diego to invest in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. And I demand that the Community Review Board and police commissions that only service police, and NOT the people, be replaced with an independent community-led review board. #BLM
Kathy Archibald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego I am gravely concerned about the examples of police brutality I've seen. There must be accountability for officers who do harm instead of protecting and serving. Please establish an independent commission on police practices and support other measures proven to reduce police violence like mandatory reporting of misconduct by fellow officers, no arbitrary time limit for consequences, and others like those that San Diegans for Justice recommend. Also, police must not be put into situations they are not meant to solve, like homelessness, mental health issues, etc. Please protect police and San Diego by funding solutions to these issues which are more effective. No more military style police - they must be a trusted part of the community and will then be safer and more effective. They must be kept safe and accountable.
Nikki Rae Bose	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello Barbara Bry, Jennifer Campbell, Chris Ward, Monica Montgomery, Mark Kersey, Chris Cate, Scott Sherman, Vivian Moreno, and Georgette Gomez. You have heard from us, your constituents, now we want to hear from you. Will you support the citizens of San Diego by demilitarizing law enforcement and reject mayor Faulconer's 2021 Fiscal budget by redirecting funds from the police to mental health services, rent assistance, homeless rehabilitation, small business and services that support our local communities? Thank you for considering, Nikki Rae Bose Small Business Owner

Setche Kwamu-Nana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ryan Dowdy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello I live in District 1. The behavior of the SDPD at the recent peaceful protests is appalling and the entire department should be ashamed. It is clear now more than ever that the SD Police does not serve the interests of public safety. While de-escalation policies are a great first step that I fully support, I don't think it should end there. The SDPD does not need more funding. Instead of continuing to fund a police force that upholds the values of racism and oppression that persist in this country, divert that money to our communities. Investing in our communities is an investment in true public safety. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Please DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Izzah Kamran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Corrine Burgess	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The violence I have seen the police incite in our community is disturbing on the deepest of levels. I know our police have a bad reputation, but I never expected to see such blatant hate displayed by them against the very community members they swore to protect. There won't be change until an independent community board, picked by the community and detached from the mayor or any office, has the power to subpoena and press charges. The police have shown that they need to be policed. As of now we need to get them out of military gear, stop them from further suppressing free speech, and defend our communities from their violence. We need to reallocate money from the police budget and instead invest it into our communities. It's absurd our taxpayer dollars can outfit them like soldiers while we can't even outfit our doctors like doctors.

Emily Zhao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigator & legal counsel, and independence from Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency on police policies
Robert Wagner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jenny DuRose	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please tell us you will support 8 policies that can reduce police violence. Listed here: https://8cantwait.org/ They are 1. Ban chokeholds 2. require descalation 3. require warning before shooting 4. exhaust all means before shooting 5. duty to intervene 6. ban shooting at moving vehicles 7. require use of force continuum 8. require comprehensive reporting. We only require have 3, 4, and 7.
Cinthia Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

mewael	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jarrett Hedrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Council members, I’m writing to you to take a stand and provide sound leadership in re-examining and restructuring the current police system. Do not increase a budget, to a flawed system that needs to be held accountable for continued racist policing. We need you to hear our words and spark this reform by redirecting funds back into our communities.
Vanessa Ha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
melody andalon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the san diegans for justice ballot proposal. Additionally, we are calling for an end of use of tear gas, rubber bullets, flash bangs, batons or any use of any weapon from your police force. Defund the police.

kiara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. Our tax dollars should NOT be funding such violent, insensitive, abusive police departments. We demand to defund the police and invest in communities. Mayor faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police which our san diego community is completely against. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melisha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand the the city of San Diego defunds the police!!
Jessica Barlow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Israel Pineda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tammy Blevins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current structure has failed the community. We need change!
Michael J Lettieri	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego, I strongly believe the city should set standards for transparency and accountability in government. An independent, citizen-led Police review board is essential. Our community deserves to have law enforcement that responds to citizen needs and is held accountable to citizens; I fully support the proposals of San Diegans for Justice.

Mariah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Karen Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating losses at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Your community is tired of seeing those who are supposed to protect and serve our communities, abuse their position of authority, and commit unlawful acts against Black Communities and POC Communities. Listen to your community they want those same individuals to be held accountable for their actions, and increasing their budget does not help. Uplift our Black communities, Indigenous Communities, and other communities of color, do not wait till more lives are lost to act. Defund the police and invest back into our community.
Denise	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Charles Fair	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have both experienced and been a witness to police use of unnecessary and excessive force. It is obvious to me that training and body cameras have not been effective in curtailing the embedded bias that has remained both prevalent and pertinent. Is there an entity who watches our enforcers of law? If not, why not?

Jonah Canner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I am writing to demand more from the CRB. Clearly, the current CRB structure has failed the community and something must be done. I demand the following: 1) The CRB should operate independently of the Mayor's office. 2) Investigations should be independent and with independent legal counsel 3) Transparency and accountability in policing 4) Force Continuum should have 6 levels with clear RULES & REQUIREMENTS for escalation. 5) A ban on the use of knee holds and choke holds as an acceptable practice for law enforcement I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jane Stimmel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that the officer that shot Leslie Furcron in the head be identified and held accountable. This was murder. Leslie was shot in the head with a bean bag round last Saturday at the La Mesa protest.
Kerily McEvoy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andreas Stathatos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rutvi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Paulie Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I encourage the CRB to consider and support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. An independent commission/authority would benefit our community: a trusted police force, less tax dollars wasted, and a safer community, to name a few.
David Sciarretta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Given the recent nationwide protests, and given that Mayor Faulconer and the police chief have indicated a willingness to ban the choke hold as a police tactic, I would like to see the use of rubber bullets for crowd control be similarly banned.
Sydney Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Alexandra Kennedy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Alexandra Kennedy and I live in District 5. I oppose Mayor Faulconer's proposal to allocate half a billion dollars to fund the police because the police already get a third of the overall budget. This proposal is racist because it would make Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) in San Diego more vulnerable to violence. The money proposed to go to the police would be better spent on housing, food, and health care for the communities most effected by the pandemic. If safety is the issue, basic needs for those in our communities who need it should be a priority. We cannot trust our police force to prioritize safety after the loss of Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Renee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Tumlosq	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kirstin Niemi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The officer that shot Leslie Furcron with a bean bag round on Saturday May 30th should FIRED. She is in the ICU and will likely lose her vision for peacefully protesting. She already lost her son to police violence. I am disgusted at this department's behavior towards the protestors this weekend. Please consider diverting police funding towards social, mental health, and other healthcare services. We need more care workers in San Diego, not more cops.
Frank D Downey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The residents and the police serving the City of San Diego deserve an independent commission to oversee and review police actions and practices to make certain that the police are able to safely perform their duties while at the same time being accountable to the public for all of their actions. The time has come to bring daylight into police oversight. All San Diego Residents have the right to feel safe when approached by the police. Conscientious police offices should feel safe to call out their piers for cruel, racist or unprofessional acts without fear of recrimination from their union or from fellow officers.

Jrmy Allen Abille	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Thompson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexander Corbitt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police.We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Alise	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
laura fischer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to join in the voices demanding to divest our tax dollars from the police department budget and invest that money in supporting our communities of color and provide the opportunity to build new systems like Community Response Initiatives to Strengthen Emergency Systems. These programs are being successfully adopted by brave, and forward-thinking cities.

Adriana Mulla-Carrillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of our public. We demand subpoena power, legal counsel, independent investigators, independent legal council, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gregory Leonard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE - PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES - BLACK LIVES MATTER
Holly Neshat	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrea N.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed my community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office and most of all accountability. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Additionally, we need to see policies put in place NOW that prevent racially motivated arrests as well as supplementary training for SDPD officers including trauma informed approaches and cultural competence for the diverse communities they serve. Action is needed now to rebuild confidence and trust in the SDPD. I do not want to continue living in fear for my husbands safety and security because of the color of his skin.
Susan Baldwin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is beyond time that our City and County address the systemic problem of police/sheriff accountability. As cities across the country review their policing culture and structures, let San Diego be a leader by instituting a community-led INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with the powers to implement change based on their findings. Citizens of San Diego will accept nothing less. This is a pivotal moment to be on the right side of history. No one, especially our communities of color deserves to live in fear from the police.

Aarya Chidambaram	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, I am writing to urge Community Review Board on Police Practices to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Also, Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. Instead, San Diego needs to reallocate funds into social services and basic needs for all San Diegans. An increase in the police budget will not ensure public safety, and does not address any root cause of poverty or violence. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. I hope you reject this proposal and choose to advocate for our city by re-allocating that half a billion dollars into long-term social services for all. Furthermore, I hope the Community Review Board fires the officers who used excessive force and violence against peaceful protesters in downtown San Diego. Their actions can not be overlooked, and immediate action should be taken by the Board!
Rebeca Hoelck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Deanna Nino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Wende Aronson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. The Police Officer Association needs cannot continue to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing.
Hannah Weakley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The officer that shot a peaceful protester in the head with a bean bag round in La Mesa last Saturday must be held accountable. He directly violated her human right to protest and did not follow the protocol for using this non-lethal weapon. We will not be attacked by our own police without consequence.

Trevor Morrissey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shawna Webb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am demanding that the officer that shot Leslie in the head be identified and held accountable. Police should be protecting peaceful protestors!
Meschelle Eagerton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Jacqueline Struck, MSW	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacy. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. As a social worker, district 3 voter, and avid advocate for social justice, I will be closely paying attention and informing other constituents on my platforms regarding the City Council's response or lack thereof. Please do the right thing. Thank you.
Dyme Witherspoon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chloe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Chloe Acosta from District 8. Please DEFUND the police and invest in our communities instead. We have experienced catastrophic loss at the hands of racist police. We will never forget Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, James Lacey, and many others. We need equitable access to housing, healthcare, and food - not racist police with their tear gas and lethal rubber bullets. In police oversight we demand independence from the mayor's office; independent legal counsel; power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; and independent investigators and staff. Please listen to your constituents and defund the police. Thanks you, Chloe Acosta District 8
Romina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Bindu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katie Stahlmann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	1) Defund Police and fund communities 2) Require Police to live in their precincts - truly be part of the community 3) Ban shooting at moving vehicles 4) Require comprehensive reporting of forceful intervention 5) Require de-escalation practices and EDUCATION 6) Require DUTY TO INTERVENE on other officers for excessive use of force and REPORT to supervisors immediately (see #4)

Loren	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police, if not instantly, then gradually. Put an end to police brutality and social injustice within the community. Put stricter requirements for the police officer application process, and stricter guidelines for potential disqualifiers. Put tax payer dollars directly back into the community. Provide libraries with better funding to purchase materials to educate community members. Give more money towards mental health services (which can help with properly training police on how to deescalate situations). Give them money to continue providing valuable services to the public, which can ultimately lead to the decrease in the amount of community disruption. If you choose to ignore that, then you really aren't advocates for the well-being of all community members.
Jocelyn Rios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE UPLIFT COMMUNITY
Susie Kemble	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren’t just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRBto publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal
Jeff Bonine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants. Please consider this action to hold our police force accountable.
Lucy Suros	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carmen Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Amanda Barkley-Levenson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a resident of San Diego and I am disappointed in the unwillingness or inability of the current board to hold police accountable. I fully support San Diegans for Justice and the push for a truly independent and community-led review board. The CRB must have independent legal counsel and be given the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses. Change is long overdue and police need to be held accountable for misconduct.
Isabelle Kaplan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Things need to change
Christina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Vanessa Duron	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Moran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Briana A. Hatefi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. The ongoing genocide of black and brown people is being televised. Enough is enough. San Diegans deserve transparency, accountability, and reparations. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support our grapple for Justice.

Orion McCarthy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Given both recent events and longstanding issues around police brutality and unjust policing, it is vital that we introduce systems to increase police accountability so that all members of our community can feel safe. That is why we need an independent body that can provide oversight to the San Diego Police Department, to hold the Department accountable when issues of police misconduct arise. Police brutality is a manifestation of systemic racism and will require a culture shift within the Department. Culture shifts take time and are only realized with sustained pressure and action. That is why an independent oversight body is needed. Thank you
Kenneth Santos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, I am a resident of Chula Vista, and spend most of my day working in San Diego. We ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to re-distribute the funds where we need it most. We demand the findings ho toward social services, physical and mental healthcare, accessible public transit, storm water, housing, equality, education, parks, access to food, and support to underserved communities across San Diego, instead of placing police directly into communities with majority of BIPOC causing a vulnerability to violence. Nurture your communities and keep those at risk safe instead of targeting them. Defund the police and prioritize communities! Thank you.
Dianne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am fully supporting the defunding of the police, the enactment of reduced force polices to lead to decreased killings by police officers, defunding of police and a community led and independent review board to ensure police accountability.
Alicia Arambula	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Alicia Arambula. I live, work, and am an active citizen of my district, district 8. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Public safety is not giving more money to a violent, racist PD. Public safety is prioritizing black, indigenous, brown communities, and having a city budget that reflects that by allocating funds to housing, and community resources that aid vulnerable communities during the pandemic. Defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Lyzette Zamora	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize the community.
Hailey Shenk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Dr. Ana Laura Arteaga-Biggs	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Abby Gorenstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand that the officer that shot Leslie Furcron IN THE FACE with a bean bag round on Saturday May 30 be identified and held accountable. It is absolutely unacceptable that a black woman who is a long standing resident of our city be brutalized and violently attacked, peacefully asking that black people not be killed by police. From the eyes of all that had witnessed this horrific attack, it appears this was attempted murder. It is your responsibility to make sure that not only is the person who attacked her fired and charged, but that this type of action never happens again. We must hold the cop accountable and continue the demilitarization of the police force here in San Diego.
Marina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amy Fleming	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and redirect those funds to communities. My name is Amy Fleming and I live in District 1. I demand that Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget be rejected, and that the police budget be decreased, with that money being redirected and invested in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. Mayor Faulconer's budget as it stands is racist, and must not be passed. Public safety does not come in the form of a militarized, over-sized police force, but in investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing is the antithesis of public safety, as it makes communities more vulnerable to violence. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.

Lauren Carton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Lauren Carton and I live in District 51.Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police.Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars.This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence.Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. ASK: Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. ASK: Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our community.
Allison Weller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Allison and I live in District 3. I am asking you to Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget, to decrease the police budget, and to invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is unacceptable - Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not increased racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Invest in communities, not police.
Anna Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi my name is Anna Taylor and I stand for police oversight reform. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Austin Baker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To Whom it Should Concern, Please deprioritize the police department's funding and direct that money to causes and organizations that actually benefit the community, such as public transit and healthcare services, just to name two examples. Prioritizing the police department will only further fission, tension, and contempt between police officers and citizens. Increasing the budget will only be adding to the fetishization of violence among police officers and police departments. This money, as I and many citizens agree, would be better utilized by funding such things as affordable housing, education, access to free public transit, better jobs, and mental and physical health care. Please, invest in community and public welfare, not in the increasingly militarized police. Thank you for your consideration. Sincerely, Austin
Albert Herrera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has screwed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing and investigating themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
RJ Neighbor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	How can we improve enforcement training and accountability with this? How much communication about the progress will be sent to the public?
Ally Welborn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ally Welborn. I live in District 3. The "Community Review Board on Police Practices" needs to be abolished in favor of an independent, community-lead, review board on police practices. Additionally, concrete steps must be outlined for how the Mayor and SDPD will make good-faith efforts to adopt policy change recommendations made by the review boards.
Tennille	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. You are wasting on money with these types of politics. They do not serve your people! We need an independent review board that is community led and that will hold police accountable for their actions. No more money to the police!

Natalia Quintero-Riestra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I request a defunding of the police to invest in community needs like better housing, a way to help the homeless in our community, and better education. Police are hurting the people they have promised to serve and protect. People were grieving the loss of life peacefully and the minute the sun set, their constitutional right to protest was suddenly illegal. I used to be a proud San Diegoan, but right now I am deeply ashamed. We need to do better and YOU have the POWER to change things.
Brandon Runnells	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am demanding that we defund the SD police and invest in BIPOC communities, homelessness, and mental health resources. SDPD has shown that they have no regard for black lives and must not only be denied an increase in funding, but furthermore have their funding heavily decreased.
Lauren Ladley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There needs to be independent organization with subpoena powers, investigators and legal counsel to hold police accountable for their actions.
Stephanie Pio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The La Mesa police officer who shot Leslie Furcron in the head during the protest on May 30 needs to be identified and held accountable for their actions.
Kaylie Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kristina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND REALLOCATE FINANCIAL RESOURCES TO THE COMMUNITY!
Taeko DiCarlo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Adelaide Lindseth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I live in district 3. I demand that police oversight means independence from the Mayor's office, INDEPENDENT legal counsel, the power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses, and independent investigation and staff. These boards do not take into account the experiences of actual citizens. The fact that all members of the Community Review Board are appointed by the Mayor means that our community can not fully trust that cases of misconduct within the police department are being investigated fully and fairly. We have seen countless cases across the country and within San Diego of Police officers committing crimes, violence, and brutality without any real consequence and being allowed to continue serving in the police department. The community CANNOT trust the police department without at the very least addressing the issues that I mentioned above.
Kay Murner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Policies against racial discrimination or use of force in specific situations cannot rely on "do this, don't do that" training or posters in offices. Quality internal bias awareness efforts are essential. I'm sure most officers would say they "would never kill someone just because they're black" but if they think that's enough they are part of this problem. Leaders in the force need to be on board with radical changes or they need to be replaced.
Yvonne Toscano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Prioritize our communities. Why do teachers have to buy their own pencils and get second jobs, when each police officer is apparently given their own Ironman suits?! Defund the police. No need for the militarization of our police. Our community needs better access to education and opportunity, not to be violently oppressed.
Jessica Germany	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego must enact the policies stipulated in #8cantwait: de-escalation, chokehold bans, duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, and comprehensive reporting
Kenneth Nierenhausen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of San Diegans for Justice creating a community-led and INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure accountability. If the mayor is serious about change he should listen and proceed with what the community wants.
Karina Jaime	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund police and prioritize communities.

Aaron	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Aaron and I'm a constituent of district 8. I'm a licensed mental health clinician in a school district. I'm writing on behalf of my students safety, fellow educators, and community urging you seated officials to consider the meaning of "public safety" and it's application by police. There is no community public safety from police department when profiling, brutality and murder are the forefront of inherently racist systemic system. Public safety means housing, education, mental health, health care accessibility to resources are public safety. We do not need murderous community policing. I'm urging you and asking you defund police and reinvest in what's important: Housing, Education, health care, resources, etc!! End RACIST POLICING.
Shannon Mohan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of San Diegans for Justice creating a community-led and INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure accountability. If the mayor is serious about change he should listen and proceed with what the community wants.
Lauren Doerfler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities. The current police budget and the proposed raising of the budget is unacceptable. We need to invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
larry	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tanner Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand that the City of San Diego investigate the actions that led to the shooting of Leslie Furcron in La Mesa, identify the officers involved, and hold them accountable. I also demand that San Diego investigate its violent repression of peaceful protesters the following day. As several city council members who were present can testify, police instigated violence and let loose a dangerous barrage of tear gas, baton strikes, flash-bang grenades, and rubber bullets on protesters leading to many arrests and injuries in violation of their rights. San Diego must do better now.
Alyssa Strong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable

Andy Huynh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Danielle McHaskell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Peaceful protest requires peaceful preparation. I have personally seen police intervention beginning with a show of non-physical force (ie riot gear, hands on weapons). As we have seen in protests in other cities, a show of PHYSICAL support preempts any need for de-escalation. Aggressive tactics are not needed if additional support is given to our communities. Financial support is needed for our healthcare and community support systems. I strongly oppose Mayor Faulkner's proposed increases in PD budgets and the racist infrastructure that these proposals support.
Audrey Byrne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Audrey and I live in District 1 Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Mariel D.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The best way to achieve public safety is by defunding the police & investing in community resources. Increasing access to housing, healthcare, jobs, & other resources will enhance the quality of life of all communities, thereby enhancing public safety. What funds DO go to the police-related initiatives need to be focused on increased de-escalation training and most importantly, an independent review board of police practices. Police have become a large threat to community safety and therefore need to be held accountable for their actions.

Angelica Barajas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. Black Lives Matter!!!
Eric Edwards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you.
Riley Meehan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Riley Meehan and I live in North Park. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. ASK: Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. ASK: Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.

Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrea Martino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Andrea Martino and I am a resident of District 4 in San Diego. Addressing systemic and implicit racism in law enforcement requires a wholistic approach. While ensuring that our local police and sheriffs department has reformative policing practices is important, the departments and our government leadership must take serious steps address the CULTURE within our law enforcement. A change in culture and any Police officer's perception of how "THINGS HAVE BEEN DONE" can't be achieved through top-down mandate. It must be nurtured among the masses and I demand that you not only acknowledge this but prove that you are taking steps to address this and not only changing policies. Also, the police department's half a billion dollar budget needs to be defunded. To increase it by 27 million dollars for new staff while consistently underperforming in recruitment and removing programs that support thousands of inner-city youth is irresponsible. Public Safety goes beyond policing and I demand that you use allocated police funds on our education, community support programs, resident leadership academies, homelessness support, affordable housing, etc. Thank you.
April Moralba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to defund the police. The Campaign Zero study showed that the policies of the SDPD are racist and only serve to terrorize Black communities. Police interactions need to be significantly limited and more stringent community oversight needs to be put in place until we have fully defunded the police. That money is better used in the community to help schools, the homeless and people hurting due to the pandemic.
Sofy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sasha Ballard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. INVEST IN COMMUNITIES. Do not let the Mayor water down our movement! The goal is to DEFUND the police and reallocate resources to our communities. The City of San Diego has an opportunity to listen and make changes after community members took over the streets and flooded the City Council Meeting with over 1,000 calls in support of DEFUNDING THE POLICE and INVESTING IN COMMUNITIES. This is what keeps our communities safe and shows our support for Black, Indigenous, Latinx, Queer and Trans communities.
Jenny Jenny Lockheimers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	When will you adopt ALL the "8cantwait" policy items? Will you commit to adopting, implementing and enforcing these best practices?
Gregory Lee Lu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please see attached word document. I would also like to make a public comment.
Amber Agustino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long.. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall. We cannot allow the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are taken seriously and we aren’t just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Support proposal.
Iris Mao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Milla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As citizens of San Diego we demand an end to the racial injustices propagated by the SDPD, allowed to continue through systematic overfunding and lack of oversight. We should be putting our funds and efforts into supporting our communities through equitable access to healthcare, housing, and food, especially now that we are in a pandemic. Furthermore, we should be appointing a community-led review board that holds police accountable for their transgressions. Defunding the police (along with Boards and Commissions that only serve to uphold the police and their image with ZERO accountability) and redirecting funds into community social programs, as well as appointing an independent community-led review board of the police, will truly promote the safety and wellness of our communities. We demand that these changes be put into affect, and we demand them NOW!

Tricia M Light	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to add my name to the already very long list of community members calling for police policies that help end the pattern of police racism and brutality in our city. We must ban the use of the carotid restraint as well as implement the many data-backed reforms proposed by Campaign Zero (joincampaignzero.org). We also must add to the November ballot the San Diegans for Justice initiative which would create an independent, community-led Commission on Police Practices. The current review board is incapable of adequately addressing the needs of our community and serves to further entrench current inequities. This is painfully obvious since in our city from 2016-2018, police were 4.5x more likely to use deadly force against a Black person and 1.3x more to use deadly force against a Latinx person than a white person. Lastly, we must redirect funds from the police department to the institutions that serve ALL of our communities. I am watching and our community is watching, so I hope that San Diego rises to the moment to meaningfully combat police violence.
Monique Velarde	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in our communities, not police. Especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, house, not racist policing.
Tasnim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to speak on the practices of the police especially regarding the protests. They are doing the exact thing that we are arguing against, peacefully might I add. It is completely unethical for police to be in riot gear tear gassing protesters when there are no riots present. I would also like to call on the committee to work to defund the police. We are living in a militarized state due to the police and I do not want my tax dollars to go to the killings of thousands of black individuals.
Kevin Antonio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Jessica Funk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Changes that would benefit our community: Mandatory body camera usage Independent oversight and evaluation of complaints against police to improve accountability De-escalation and conflict resolution training Implicit bias training Review of non-lethal force usage (rubber bullets, tear gas) in a similar way to the way lethal force events are reviewed
Ash Clay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND SDPD IMMEDIATELY. We have seen SDPD terrorize our communities over the past few days as they exercise their first ammendment right to peacefully protest. The police already sit on a sickenly overinflated budget, they do not need another dime from us. We need to be diverting these funds to investing in our communities instead through rent assisstance, housing, education, food, and healthcare.
Alessandra Pizzo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. Give more to our communities!

Bianca Chapman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Elisse Miller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. I ask that we decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Jessica Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund SDPD to allow more services for that support and uplift POC and trans folks including basic needs assistance, social services and mental health services. Defunding also means less traumatization and violence to these populations done explicitly by police officers. BLACK LIVES MATTER
Kenny Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What is your plan to reform the police system? I support the mayor and everyone who wants to completely reform the police system to help support the public, as well as ease racial tensions and tensions between protestors. But what steps are the officials planning to reform the police system? If you would accept my suggestions, I think one of the ways are that the police should be trained to address their racial bias and overcome it, avoid situations that lead them to force (police should give them a warning), officers must be held accountable. I feel that if the high ranking officials agree to the police reforms, the relationship between the public and the police will be much better.

Noah Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am calling on the City to modify the FY2021 Proposed Budget to reflect its commitment "to serving all our neighborhoods, fostering an economically prosperous community and creating a world-class city for all." Specifically, I am requesting the City reconsider the $500+ million budget allocated to the police for use toward other City programs and initiatives that better serve our communities. In light of recent events surrounding the death of black Americans in encounters with law enforcement, it is incumbent on cities everywhere to not only reassess what impacts police have on their communities but also to reevaluate what impacts police have on local budgets. San Diego is no exception. Yet in a time where budgets and community resources are being slashed, the City's proposed budget increases police funding by nearly $27 million relative to last year's budget. The City should take meaningful near-term steps to reallocate resources toward efforts that support healthy communities yet receive a minuscule fraction of City funding, including: homelessness and housing assistance, mobility services, small business relief, and other community services. Finally, this review should be part of an annual, long-term effort to realign future budgets with the City's mission. Listen to us.
Charissa Philip	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police department. Public safety looks like better access to public health, education, mental healthcare etc. The board and commissions will not serve to give more money to the police. We can form our own public board.
Jeremy Latham Davies	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego Police department is a violent organization controlled by white male hetero-patriarchy. Dissolve the community review board immediately. De-fund the police immediately. Re-build a community service safety organization. Black lives matter.
Amanda Borow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for reading my comment. We need to invest in community programs and NOT police to improve public safety. We are demanding that Mayor Faulconer and our San Diego leadership divest from reactive, and often violent and unfair, policing and instead invest in programs that are focused on healthcare, food access, education, support for small business, as well as immigrant and undocumented communities. The police moto is to Protect and Serve - they have failed to do this for ALL San Diego communities for too long. Pass reforms, support our police force to approach each life as though it matters but do NOT pour funding into a broken system and put weapons and military gear into the hands of people who are terrorizing our communities.

Edward	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Simply attempting to strengthen bonds between communities and the police is not enough. Doing a few days of diversity training is not enough. We have been waiting for change for decades and no amount of mandated sensitivity exercises is going to help. White supremacy has wormed its way deep into the heart of the police force. It’s not going to come out to the beckoning call of empty promises and kind words of condolence to the hundreds of black lives taken. It’s time for a full system overhaul. It’s time to cut funding to the police force, and put that excess budget into the community in ways that matter. It’s time to hold police accountable for their actions and address the extreme systematic racism that African Americans who interact with the police are subject to. The people do not trust the police in this country. That is not going to change with a little rebranding. Put the money into public services that the people do trust.
Caroline Manimtim	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs transparency and accountability in policing so that all of our San Diegans can be supported by SDPD. What this looks like is greater and more consistent consequences to using lethal force and failure to use body cameras appropriately and increase focus on de-escalation training and community building. This also includes the measures on the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal: subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor's office. It is crucial that reforms are being taken seriously.
Vanessa Haro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please reject the mayor’s proposal to add millions to the police budget, and instead invest that money into programs that benefit the community such as housing, education, food, and healthcare. We are still in a pandemic and these are much more crucial than funding a historically racist police force.
Nadiya Atkinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police budget must be decreased in order to provide funding for different avenues of conflict deescalation and community support. It never has and does not makes sense for us to live with a structure that continually violently punishes citizens, simply for skin color and socioeconomic status. Increase funding and support for social workers, as well as avenues for them to handle situations the police are often called for. Create programs for community rehabilitation. Give housing and financial and mental health support to the homeless. Invest in schools. Invest in mental health support institutions. Invest in hospitals. Build up the community rather than tear it apart with systemic racism and abuse. The police do not need investment. Prisons do not need investment. We need to invest in citizens and their future, especially the black and indigenous populations in our county we have continually dehumanized and oppressed. It is time to look back into our history, fire all those in the police department with a track-record of aggression, and rebuild an entirely new system than simply passing regulations that put a bandaid over the issues.
Megan Rogers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am making a comment in my capacity as a mental health provider, working with families across San Diego.

Jose F Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defun the SDPD and redirect that money to community help and services. Ban on Chokeholds and Strangleholds. Use of force must insure that there are clear rules on escalation Must ensure officer misconduct and disciplinary actions are NOT SHIELDED FROM THE PUBLIC.
Eden Evans	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize communities' public health, public spaces, and education.
Nicole Meda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I commend the mayor for the steps he has taken in recent days towards ending police brutality. Now we need to continue the momentum towards true systems change by recognizing crime as resulting from unmet needs. As a job coach for formerly incarcerated adults, I know the largest contributors to criminal behavior are lack of access to housing, jobs, and mental health services. Instead of increasing the police budget, we instead need to divert funds to services that address these needs. By doing so we can significantly decrease criminal activity while saving money and increasing quality of life for all San Diegans.
Carolina He	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable! - We demand to see where every dollar in the 2021 fiscal year budget is going. - The budget proposes $3.6 million of clean SD funds to go to police overtime pay, almost $10,000/day. Unless the police are cleaning up the streets and homeless encampments themselves it is misuse of the clean SD fund. - We demand an independent external audit of SDPD's use of public funds. - We demand police be subjected to yearly racial bias testing and mental health screenings as a term

Megan Rogers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	(Please discard previous comment, it submitted before I finished writing!). I am a mental health provider for families across San Diego. The families I work with need healthcare, food, housing, public transit, and education and business opportunities. They need healthy communities to be safe. They do not need militarized police to be safe, in fact, police presence in communities generates trauma. I am requesting that the boards and commissions that currently provide no accountability to the police be defunded. We need an independent, community based review board that will hold police accountable and prioritize community needs.
Nikki Valentine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask for subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayor's office. San Diego police have yet to decrease violence by requiring de-escalation, banning chokeholds, duties to intervene, banning shooting at moving vehicles, and requiring comprehensive reporting. I request that you redirect funds from police and instead empower social worker intervention. Let's empower our communities by funding education and housing in order to prevent crime. I am ashamed of the police response to protesters, let alone Black and people of color. Thank you.
Elizabeth Ritti	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police and invest your money in preventative mental health services to get individuals connected in their community and outside institutionalized care. Fund more for services like wraparound, therapeutic behavioral service's, and community assertive treatment. Fund more for school based mental health services and mentor programs for at risk youth.
Alec William Frydman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carrie Kirtz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Peter AHearn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Naris Barmaksezian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to ask you to implement the #8CantWait Use of Force policies. These policies are simple, common-sense, and data-driven. I'm asking you to enact: Require De-escalation requires officers to de-escalate situations, where possible, by communicating with subjects, maintaining distance, and otherwise eliminating the need to use force Duty to Intervene requires officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers and report these incidents immediately to a supervisor. Ban Chokeholds and Strangleholds - allowing officers to choke or strangle civilians, in many cases where less lethal force could be used instead, results in the unnecessary death or serious injury of civilians. Ban Shooting at Moving Vehicles restricts officers from shooting at moving vehicles, which is regarded as a particularly dangerous and ineffective tactic. Require Comprehensive Reporting require officers to report each time they use force or threaten to use force against civilians. Data proves that if you implement these policies in addition to the policies already in place in San Diego, we can decrease police violence in our community by 72%. All of these policies can be implemented with your power immediately and I'm asking you not to hesitate to make our city safer.
Jaye Sosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Shannan May	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kathleen Benson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Camila Lautz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cynthia Torres	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We are on the verge of making a systemic institutional change with police and communities of color. I hope the board keeps in mind they vote and make suggestions on how police engage with individuals and groups. Imagine if these issues impacted a beloved member of your family just because of their appearance. If the communities are to trust that the police are to protect and serve, then they (police) need to be evaluated (current) and future as well as training. De-escalation such involve mental health training to be able to identify suffering from depression, Schizoph., other mental health issues, and those with learning disorders such as autism and others that could impact an individual being questioned and appearing to be non-compliant; additional death by cop suicide; non-life threatening restraints. Not to say police need to be counselors but need to identify these in people they engage with. Police may need to add Social workers or counselors that can come out to serious issues like a negotiator does when there are hostages. Review boards work with various community leaders of color to revise and review changes as well as review and evaluation of incidences involving the police.

Zachary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. After watching the SDPD firsthand this weekend disperse teargas, rubber bullets, and even RUNNING OVER PEACEFUL PROTESTORS WITH THEIR CAR (there's video of this circulating), it is clear massive reform and defunding of their department is needed. Please do the right thing and invest money into communities with resources they need the most, not more militarized police.
Virginia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elyse Dilloway	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kayla Beard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
James Allbritton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The MPD officer that killed George Floyd had multiple incidents of serious misconduct in the past as a police officer. How does the SDPD ensure that police are held accountable for misconduct, especially after multiple offenses? Is there a way to communicate these offenses to the public to increase transparency. Thank you.

Andrea Mejia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community is tired of the racist police actions we have seen this past weekend. In order to keep our community most safe we need to ensure equitable access to housing and healthcare and not the use of tear gas and rubber bullets on our citizens. Our city budget should not go into the SDPD especially during a pandemic. The choices you make moving forward will be remembered especially during this historical time. We need an independent review board that is community-led and we need our police to be held accountable. We need immediate action and transparency from our leaders.
Rara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Rara and I am a resident of Clairemont. The people demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Trisha M	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a voter in District 6. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Doug Shields	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The installation of an independent organization with subpoena power, investigators, and legal counsel to hold the police force accountable is of CRITICAL importance.
Ashley Amaladhas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I firmly advocate for rejecting the budget increase for San Diego police. In fact, I strongly believe we should DEFUND the police. There is absolutely no reason for the police to have so much riot gear when crowds are protesting mostly peacefully. There's no reason for police to use so much aggression in response to citizens exercising their right. If you want to change something about the police, TRAIN THEM BETTER. Invest time into ensuring that your police officers' top priority is peace and not violence. Limit the size of the force. Hire community workers instead-- mental health workers, social workers, and other people who are a part of the community that they serve and are trained in conflict resolution and de-escalation. Pay them with the money cut from the police budget. Use the rest of the money to invest in basic needs such as public transportation and housing. San Diego can become better if you invest in it and move away from militarizing it. We are tired of this and we want change.

Grace Charlton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego and an advocate for all Americans, I am asking you to DEFUND the police and re-allocate resources to community organizations that can protect and support us without entering our communities with weapons and racial biases. Please help us begin to move our city towards transformative justice and away from police militarization. The world is watching and we must start protecting the lives of Americans. Black Lives Matter.
Tessa Da Silva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am again submitting my request for a reallocation of police funds. The brutality and lack of restrain shown by our officers is sickening. As a San Diego resident i am ashamed to see our public officials stand by and allow officers to abuse citizens. We need reform. I recommend this comes through a defunding of the SDPD, accountability for officers, that past abuses be public record, and that we be able to protest peacefully without fear.
Lukas Volk	Community Review Board on Police Practices	When will our police department implement all of the following policies? And why haven't we? Requires De-Escalation Has Use of Force Continuum Bans Chokeholds and Strangleholds Requires Warning Before Shooting Restricts Shooting at Moving Vehicles Requires Exhaust All Other Means Before Shooting Duty to Intervene Requires Comprehensive Reporting
Jose Rodes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Jasraj Johl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The militarization of the police encourages the police to use weapons and decreases interest to solve issues peacefully. If you want to have peace and want to protect the citizens, you must demilitarize the police and set in place measures of de-escalation that have been shown to work. Empirical studies have shown that increased militarization is associated with increased killings of civilians. If you want to bring peace, act peacefully. If you expect the citizens to be peaceful, show us a police force that we can believe is peaceful because a police force that shows us with assault rifles and is built for raids does not show me or any of us that police can help us without militarized force. Militarizing the police means you believe the police are at war with the people of the city. If you make the people and the police believe they are in a war, war is what you get. I do not want to see the attacks on our citizens to continue, if you want to protect and serve us, do so without a military force. Redirect funding towards community resources, demilitarize the police and put in place effective de-escalation measures.

Melodie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Leanne Williams Green	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am, and having been, a citizen of San Diego for the last decade. I support the demands for a review board that is independent and community led, so as to ensure greater accountability. Too little has been done with regards to this accountability, and change is needed NOW.
Nilgun Fitoz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Ceren Fitoz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Katherine Carlson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is not clear what is included in the recommendation to adopt the de-escalation policy as outlined in the Baltimore Police Department Use of Force Policy 1115, but SDPD's de-escalation policy should also include the duty to intervene and the duty to provide medical assistance. San Diego should adopt all eight policies recommended by 8cantwait.org
Matthew L	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need San Diego police to follow strict rules regarding turning off bodycameras and hiding badge numbers. Officers should face heavy consequences for violations regarding bodycamera usage. The people of San Diego need 100% access to all police bodycamera footage. When police are involved in incidents the public should have the footage released immediately. Police should not have the ability to withhold the footage from the public. It needs to be written into law that the police footage is public property and cannot be withheld.
Vanessa Tello	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I applaud the CRB And CAB for working on this movement for 2 years, and I hope to see that with June 3rds meeting, the Guest committees suggestions are seen and actualized as policies in your documents. I URGE for the San Diego government to DEFUND police next and move the monetary resources into community housing, mental and holistic healthcare, food security, And stable wages. With this, CRIME DECREASES because QUALITY OF LIFE IS MET. Thank you.
Anastasia Mentar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We also need to demilitarize the police and outlaw the use of tear gas and rubber bullets on civilians.

Tanisha Denham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly Hillock	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and invest in our community.
Kat Blue	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, I am hoping to submit a statement for the police advisory and oversight boards meetings to discuss de-escalation recommendations at San Diego Police Department and how to support police/community relations. Please tell me how I can submit video of one of the assaults I experienced from law enforcement officers while peacefully protesting last Sunday, and how I can actively participate on the board, in meetings, and in the overall solution. Sincerely, Kat Blue
Gwen Gleason-Rohrer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cristian forero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we are't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jessica May	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The adoption of this Deescalation Policy should be . If the SDPD could not even hold back from tear gassing peaceful protestors in the height of a pandemic that attacks one's respiratory system, then it is clear that the SDPD does not have officers or leaders with sound judgement to adopt this vague policy. Our officers have SHOWN us that. This proposal does not address key issues, it is vague and leaves room for individual bias, and perpetuates racial profiling. Therefore, adopting this policy will not change our current problems and it will not create any solutions. We need something better. The language of this policy needs to be committed to establishing more accountability, and creating a system of proactivity rather than reactivity.
Shawnae Strother	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a proud San Diegan and I want to see rapid change starting in our city. Enact comprehensive Phychairtric training. Including a mental full overview every 90 days, including incoming officers being throughly evaluated for any history of abuse or psychiatric episodes. History courses, along with diversity courses needs to become the normal before entry and CEC must be implemented yearly.
Bindu Philip	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the Police. Instead we can use those funds to create a safer community by providing better public education, healthcare, affordable housing, access to mental health assistance etc.
Dylan Wells	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. These are all ways to support the community that don't use a police force, which people of color are justifiably wary of. Thank you.
geetika sharma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Jorge	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police Prioritize Communities!
Vikas Dhiman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police has become an unaccountable and over-militarized institution that is drunk with power. Crime and poverty are mutually reinforcing. We cannot fix crime without addressing poverty. Increasing police presense won't decrease crime. It will just increasing punishing the poor.

Matthew J. Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Xinran Zhang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and divest that money towards building up the black community of San Diego. Improve their schools, give their homeless housing, invest in job programs and community centers. Provide mental health services so that they can get treatment for the trauma your police department has inflicted on them. San Diego doesn't need cops.
Jane Doe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is for agenda item #4 section B. First of all I want to say thank you to Chief Nisleit for understanding the community's need to see action from the SDPD in the light of recent events and this banning the carotid restraint is a good show of faith and a good step forward. However, it is used in non lethal force situations and is a lesser level of force according to the Chief himself compared to chokeholds. So my question is when will the SDPD also ban all chokeholds? Since you are already considering Baltimore PD's policies, they also ban all chokeholds in non lethal situations so can you include an update to the policy for this? I couldn't find the current policy language for SDPD but something along these lines should be evaluated: "Choke holds are prohibited unless deadly force is authorized and no reasonable alternative exists" Thank you!
Herendira Alanis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Jane Doe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	item #4, section A. Thank you for adopting a de escalation policy - big progress! I read the Baltimore PD policy 1107 on de escalation that is your model. I wanted to highlight a few lines from it that absolutely must be included for SDPD. Under totality of circumstances, it lists people with behavioral health, mental illness, drug addiction, and deaf/blind disability AND a language barrier to consider. It is important that the SDPD policy requires police to bear this in mind and not immediately assume someone who is not complying is a threat. The word "examples" of de escalation techniques should be rewritten as "officers shall follow these recommendations, as much as possible" or something like that. Those fantastic examples provide ways for the police to truly be peace officers. Lastly, de-escalation policy MUST include "duty to intervene" language or a separate "Duty To Intervene" policy should also be adopted with the same exact language as 1107!!!!! Failure to intervene should violate police policy/conduct. Add language prohibiting retaliation for officers who intervene. When our good officers stay silent, they become the problem. Duty to intervene lets them continue to be the solution. Thank you!

Richard Hylton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	See Attached
Jane Doe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you to SD police officers for your service! I was glad to see that protestors were usually not forcibly removed from the freeways. It remained a peaceful protest and getting on the freeway, while scary, brought greater awareness and coverage. Thank you to the CHP for your quick work to make the freeways safe for everyone including drivers. My main concern is the proportionality of the force used by SDPD in response to protests. I do not condone violence so looters should be arrested. How are you being fair and equal in arresting these protestors when compared to the lockdown protestors who were violating public safety orders? I would like an answer to this question. Also, I read a news article that said "Protesters threw rocks and bottles at police cars and at police headquarters, and officers fired back with flash bang grenades and tear gas, according to the San Diego Union-Tribune." I thought officers are protected with Bulletproof vests, armor and, face shields, so why go on offense? Can you please explain how the police response was proportionate when no weapons were involved? Lastly how will Use of Force policy revisions affect how police treat protestors? Thanks!
Jane Doe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Many police officers and departments across the country have showed solidarity with protestors by kneeling with them or joining the protests. Can you recommend to the SDPD that they do the same? How has SDPD shown solidarity and empathy with protestors? I would like to see examples. Thanks!
Kirsten Sakata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jillian Janairo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. An INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds.
Liz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	5 DEMANDS 1.
Carmela Villegas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! INVEST IN THE COMMUNITIES!
Dante Velez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, My name is Dante Velez. I live in the 49th district. In direct protest of the longstanding police brutality targeting people of color and the continued failure of San Diego law enforcement officials to uphold the mores of the constitution, I and many others are urging the city council to reject the mayor's proposed $27 million increase to the police department budget. Although Faulconer claims the budget increases to be related to COVID 19 expenses for safety, the proposed expenditure reinforces the false notion that investing in a corrupt, systemically racist police force will increase public safety for ALL San Diegans. To create a more racially inclusive public safety system, those funds should be redirected to improving the poor state of housing, educational, healthcare, and transportation infrastructure in communities primarily populated by people of color. Use our voices to enact change that could save the lives of countless innocent people, and pave the way towards a more egalitarian society. Thank you for reading.
Brandy Bell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I agree with adopting the Baltimore police policies I believe that non violent citizens have the right to free speech at any hours without being arrested The use of tear gas and rubber bullets on American citizens domestically has been denounce by the UN and Catholic Church and should be stooped immediately

Sonia Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear Members of the CRB: I am concerned with the lack of time the community has had to review the De-Escalation Policy that the board is considering for adoption today. In reviewing the Use of Force policy (version from 2/28/20), I am presenting my own recommendations outlined in the attachment. Points outlined are: 1) Making sure that ALL language of this policy conforms with the "totality of circumstances" clause with AB392; 2) Clarify that de-escalation should first and foremost be the goal of any encounter, and use of force as a last resort. The decision to use force takes into account various factors, including mental capacity, especially of those with a mental disorder or under the influence of substances, or have a language barrier, and have underlying health conditions, that limit the person's ability to follow instructions, or have a condition that impairs their judgment and ability to behave in compliance; 3) Include a clause that states the responsibility for other officers to intervene during instances of unreasonable uses of force; 4) Under NO circumstances should a firearm be discharged on a moving vehicle or as a method of crowd control. This includes both lethal and nonlethal projectiles.
Sonia Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear Members of the CRB: I am concerned with the lack of time the community has had to review the De-Escalation Policy that the board is considering for adoption today. In reviewing the Use of Force policy (version from 2/28/20), I am presenting my own recommendations outlined in the attachment. Points outlined are: 1) Making sure that ALL language of this policy conforms with the "totality of circumstances" clause with AB392; 2) Clarify that de-escalation should first and foremost be the goal of any encounter, and use of force as a last resort. The decision to use force takes into account various factors, including mental capacity, especially of those with a mental disorder or under the influence of substances, or have a language barrier, and have underlying health conditions, that limit the person's ability to follow instructions, or have a condition that impairs their judgment and ability to behave in compliance; 3) Include a clause that states the responsibility for other officers to intervene during instances of unreasonable uses of force; 4) Under NO circumstances should a firearm be discharged on a moving vehicle or as a method of crowd control. This includes both lethal and nonlethal projectiles.
Tanvi Shinkre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ezekiel Cerezo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need public safety and not a police that is actively harming our community; the community needs investment in housing, health care, food, jobs, accessible transit, education, and resources rather than increased support and allowance of the racist/harmful actions by police who are not held accountable for them. Police brutality and system violence towards our communities needs to be addressed. Say their names: Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Sam A	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is horrifying and absurd to label the act of "pointing a firearm at an individual" as Level 1 use of force. From the perspective of the individual who suddenly finds themselves in imminent mortal danger, the level of force may appear significantly higher than it does to the gun-toting officer. This seems counterproductive to the stated goal of de-escalation. As prior military, I was always instructed to aim only at targets you intend to kill. I consider the act of unholstering a firearm, in any context, to demonstrate the officers intent to exercise the immediate use of deadly force without hesitation. Therefore it should be labeled as such, and officers exhibiting such an extreme use of force must justify that use and be held accountable if misused. Technically the term for threatening the life of an individual to affect behavior, otherwise known as intimidation through use of deadly force is "terrorism". Guns are not toys, if police feel it necessary to use these deadly tools for anything other than what they were designed for, they shouldn't be allowed to use them at all.
Andrea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Attached is my request from almost two years ago about the CRB. Now that we have promises of change from our Elected officials, I ask that the City provide real racial justice reform in police policies and practices. It has already been proven by studies and experiences that we have a racial profiling and excessive use of force in San Diego. Now is the time for change.
Caitlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth Z	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Leah Nadir	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Prioritize communities!!

Vanessa DEGRACIA	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Biases are unavoidably formed while on the job especially during emergency circumstances that police respond to. Are there any programs or community outreach (without uniform) police officers must attend to humanize the communities they respond to in order to mitigate any biases that are formed on the job?
Joely Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND INVEST IN RESOURCES FOR THE COMMUNITY!
Kristen Diederich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Perez Demma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Protect our communities by INVESTING in our communities. DEFUND THE POLICE!
Carly Goldstein Schu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing in support of San Diego establishing an Independent Commission on Police Practices. It is unacceptable that our city has not adopted this practice already. We know that police violence disproportionately impacts our Black residents, as well as AAPI, LGBTQIA+, Latinx, unsheltered, and folx with disabilities or mental health issues. The fact that we have not implemented an independent commission as a protective measure is racist, irresponsible, and a failure of our city. Recent events of police brutality across he United States are showing that accountability, transparency, and community trust are more important than ever. Public safety remains the #1 priority for the City of San Diego and we need to ensure that law enforcement does not disproportionately cite, harass, and arrest systemically over-policed communities. SDPD Officers need to be held accountable to the communities they serve. In order to do this, we must provide the community with the necessary tools to do so. Thank you.

Ashley Pineda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to healthcare, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commission that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Christen Rivera-Erick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego citizen and I'd like to see the board do more to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice in creating a community-led, independent Community Review Board to ensure this accountability occurs. If the mayor is serious about changing police practices, he should embrace and respect direct community involvement. I also strongly encourage him to implement the 8cantwait initiative. Thank you for your attention.
Gresia Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! Prioritize the communities!
Zachary Bezold	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego, I demand the city establish a community-led independent Commission on Police Practices, created and controlled by the people, not politicians and not law enforcement, as outlined by the organization, San Diegans for Justice. Additionally, I demand the SDPD adopt a mandatory de-escalation policy effective immediately, modeled after the policy adopted in Baltimore in 2016. Thank you.
Megan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like.
Rachel Blum	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Recent event have underscored the need to reform the current structure of San Diego's Community Review Board on Policy Practices. I urge City Hall to put in place serious reforms for an independent Commission on Police Practices. I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal, which demands the following: (a) power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; (b) independent investigators and staff; (c) independent legal counsel; and (d) independence from the Mayor’s Office. Thank you. Rachel Blum, Point Loma

Samantha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police and invest in communities instead. Also make the national guard leave San Diego, there is no reason for them to be here and if they stay, more innocent people will be hurt or killed by them.
Yeritza Bonilla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police Prioritize Communities.
Judah coker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Redirect funding from the police budget to community resources. Implement campaign zeros 8 can't wait, meaning also requiring deescalation, requiring warning before shooting, requiring that police exhaust all alternatives before shooting, require duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, establish use of force continuum, and require that all force be reported. If you claim to be committed to this you MUST do these things. It is the only way to address the problem.
Sarah Chang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! Our communities have experienced devastating and unnecessary loss at the hands of racist police and a racist system. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. I urge the board to adopt these actions: Require de-escalation, Ban all shooting at moving vehicles, Require all use of force to be reported, and Require officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers.
Esmeralda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people.Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.Invest in communities, not police.During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing.Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like.Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Decrease the police budget
Beatriz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.

Isabella Echeverria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize the community. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not rubber bullets and tear gas. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Jessica Ponce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Immediately change SDPD policies to require de-escalation, impose a duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, and require comprehensive reporting, transparency and civilian oversight. The San Diego Police Department must immediately be restricted in their use of force and retrained to use de-escalation tactics rather than force at all times. The SDPD must immediately discontinue use of military weapons including deploying armored vehicles, weaponized aircraft, drones, Stingray surveillance equipment, camouflage uniforms, and grenade launchers. No-knock raids must be immediately banned. Use of rubber bullets, flash bombs, and other riot-related weaponry must be immediately banned. It is imperative that SDPD policies be completely revised to promote the following: enforcing strict police accountability and civilian oversight, limiting the use of force, eliminating racial profiling, de-militarizing of law enforcement, tracking and reporting data related to officer misconduct, and ensuring proper screening, education and training of all officers.
Andrew Carmona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Furthermore, the SDPD needs to be defunded, and monies need to be reallocated into the communities that suffer at the hands of police brutality. According to ACLU Campaign Zero, which was presented to Mayor Faulkner, and no action has been taken this far, Black people are at 219% higher risk of being stopped by SDPD and 130% higher by the SD sheriffs department. THESE NUMBERS ARE UNACCEPTABLE. The numbers do not lie, SDPD and SD sheriffs department are racists organizations and must be held accountable by an independent review board, and not by lackeys appointed by the mayor and
Ariana Velazquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. True community safety is equitable access to housing and health care not tear gas and rubber bullets.

Jenna Gurka	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm part of the growing community in San Diego that calls for defunding of the police department and the reallocation of funds to help support the community. There needs to be accountability for the way SDPD has handled these protests, which is disgraceful. My daughter, who has always wanted to be a police officer is devastated that her hero's are "acting like the bad guys" . Do betters
Sofia Deak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

chris cleary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear Review Board Thank you for your service. Please hear me before you make your decision. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable! Sincerely Chris Cleary
Anthony depaul	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand there be implemented an independent community led Commission on policing practices. I demand independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office.
Hannah Ross	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Invest in housing, youth, and community needs. Public safety is healthcare, healthy food, good jobs, education, mental healthcare, and free public transit. Defund the San Diego Police and direct those funds into areas of the community that truly support the health and safety of San Diego residents.
Kurt Wong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Corinne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should go toward investing in communities, not police.
Jessica Tishue	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for providing this open forum to review police policies. This is much needed, and there is a specific incident with the SDPD that is a classic example of racial discrimination and lack of regard for SD citizens. This case specifically involves - Officer T. Cairns Badge #7418, Officer Nicholes Badge #7667, and Sgt. Pen #5924. We happened to be doing a video/photo shoot at the time of the accident and have all details on film and video. I have also kept all medical records, bills, investigations, and diagnoses reports. I am happy to share these details. Please see attached letter for more details.
Lida Dianti	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident, and I am tired of the seeing the current board do nothing to address police accountability and violence against communities of color. It is time to act. I fully support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious for change, he should listen and proceed with what the community wants. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office.
JOSEPH PELOCHINO	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We have all seen the results of insufficiently independent police oversight. Subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office are reforms that need to occur to move toward equal treatment and equal accountability in policing for all San Diegans. I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you
Sarah Ahern	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and reinvest into our communities.
Aaron R Glasson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Given the recent events in this greater country and long history of police violence and unaccountability against citizens in our county I ask for increased transparency, accountability, and community trust in law enforcement. Please defund the police and funnel that money into the communities and causes that truely need it. We ALL want to feel safe in San Diego. Police are here to protect and serve the community not serve corruption and make us citizens live in fear.

Noel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Noel and I am a born and raised San Diegan. As a resident of San Diego, we demand that funds be diverted from the police to other, more effective, public safety avenues. San Diego County PD is an organization that incites violence and creates fear in our communities. We want the funds previously given to police to be invested into community programs for youth, mental healthcare, housing programs, and better public transit. I ask that Mayor Faulconer reject the proposal to increase the police budget. I also ask that the police budget is decreased and invested in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Jessica Galimba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It seems that we have arrived in this place because the "good cops" don't have the space or feel safe speaking against the "bad cops". We need to make it so that police officers feel SAFE and HEARD when speaking against injustice they witness within the system. PEOPLE are inherently good. Police officers are people.
Angus Higgins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Champagne Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kile Jennings	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am asking for our leadership to enact 4 requirements for our police forces: 1. de-escalation training & tactics, 2. Duty to intervene when they observe excessive force, 3. Ban shooting at moving vehicles, 4. Require all force to be reported

Sara Taken	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear Community Board, Public Safety = housing, healthcare, education, free public transit, childcare, mental healthcare, healthy food, good jobs. To have these things in San Diego, we MUST invest in them. It is time to move funding from the police to the community. These things create a safer community. At this time, it is extremely concerning how the police have behaved. Tear gas is chemical warfare and should not be shot into crowds of innocent people. Rubber bullets are being shot directly at the heads of San Diegans, maiming our citizens, blinding people, giving them brain bleeds. This is unacceptable. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. We need independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayor's office! Thank you, Sara Taken
Renee Brawley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community has experienced devastating loss at the hands of the police department. This weekend an unarmed woman with her hands up who was attending the protest was shot in the head with a rubber bullet and is in intensive care. In downtown peaceful protesters were tear gassed and shot at. There is no accountability for the actions of these police officers who are purposefully enticing violence and harming people. We need to invest money back into our communities. We need to support our libraries, but money into transit and support houseless people. We need to adopt the 5 policies that reduce police violence laid out at 8cantwait.com that we currently do not have in practice. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Ruth Wang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a healthcare provider and the safety and well-being of my community is my passion and priority. When COVID19 hit, my colleagues and I stayed on the front lines. That included Breonna Taylor, a black EMT in KY who was murdered in her own home after her shift by racist police who have still not been charged. Our city is not immune to police brutality either: local San Diegans who have been killed by police include Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Police brutality is HUGE public health issue that must be addressed seriously by San Diego. Years of data support the fact that SDPD/Sheriff's Dept use lethal force at a higher rate than 95% of CA, and that they use force 1.3-2.7x more severe against black people than white (Campaign Zero). That is why I support: 1) rejecting all increases to police budgets, 2) decreasing police budget funding in general,and 3) increasing police accountability by supporting the ballot to replace the current CRB on police practices with an INDEPENDENT commission that is not appointed by the mayor's office, that has independent legal counsel, investigators and staff, and power to subpoena.
Duke Taylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Did the mayor change 'carotid' policy? Was the policy changed by the Review Board? or was the County Council the 'body' that requested the policy change? Curious to learn how this policy change was enacted and who was responsible for its change. Curious how the policy came to be in the first place. Also, Is District 1 volunteer position vacant? According to the PDF it is, how can I sign up to serve?
Lauren Manalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the Review Board hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to housing, health care, and good security that desperately need it. We are in a pandemic, and San Diegans needs housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. This city’s prioritization of police funding shows utter disregard for the health and safety of your constituents. We demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates systemic racism and puts Black lives at risk.

Sofia Casillas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the police officer association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sofia zapari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Crystal Gunter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and invest in the community. Hire community officers who are trained and certified in mental health, who are leaders in the community to handle non-violent issues. Ban chokeholds and other uses of force that are not necessary. Police should not be intervening in peaceful protest by any means! Police should be protecting people - require de-escalation! Require longer training periods - most of us go to school for years to become a professional in our line of work. They should be trained and retrained - re certified annually. Trainings should include: Mental Health, Leadership, Cultural, History, Counseling, Communication, etc. Don't accept complaints or misconduct - zero tolerance! Minor offenses should be educational lessons. Stop putting people in jail and overcrowding - promote volunteering and community work for minor offenses!
Taylor McKie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND SUPPORT COMMUNITIES!
Isabella Munoz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, prioritize communities
Jacob Villarreal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. Defund the San Diego Police Department. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Beatrice marion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	When the new commission is established all San Diego city and county hospital emergency rooms should send Doctor's Reports of all arrested people who were injured by police and brought to ER, to the commission. That way the commission has factual medical documentation of exactly what physical harm police inflicted on citizens. Thank you
Kristine Maglunob	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please ban all chokeholds and strangleholds, require de-escalation, include duty to intervene, Ban shooting at moving vehicles, and require comprehensive reporting. (Eight can't wait!)

Sarah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, and invest in the community. The police force is an inherently racist and violent institution. Social workers and community organizers do a much better job at protecting citizens, and they are heavily underfunded. I ask that you also allocate that money towards resources that prevent crime e.g.: housing, healthcare, education, etc., as opposed to the police who simply react to it.
Nathaniel Page	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Can we end cash bail in San Diego? Can we make re-entry, diversion, and treatment programs fee-free? Can we increase funding for and hire more public defenders? Can we treat the majority of children who interact with the justice system as children? Can we reverse the criminalization of addiction, and treat it as what it is? Can we end the reliance on police forces to handle mental health emergencies, homelessness, and other petty things? Can we demilitarize our police force? Can we create police accountability at the local level with 3rd party bodycams, limit qualified immunity, and establish a city-wide no call policy? This all very easy to fund if you just divert some of the money you are using on the police
Matthew Mockenhaupt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am calling for this board to be REPLACED with an INDEPENDENT, community-led Commission on Police Practices. This commission should be given subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor. STOP GIVING INTO THE BULLIES THAT WE CALL THE POLICE. STAND UP FOR THE PEOPLE. STAND UP BECAUSE YOU KNOW BLACK LIVES MATTER!!!
Jessica Beltran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and invest in communities. We need an independent, community-led review board on police practices
Juliana Fan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Juliana Fan, I am a medical student who has lived in San Diego my whole life. I support the establishment of a civilian review board of police practice. However, this is NOT ENOUGH. Reform is not the answer to police brutality - dismantling and defunding is. I call for not only rejection of Mayor Faulconer's proposal for increased police budget, but also the diversion of these funds to healthcare, housing, and community organizations. We do not need more police, and we do not need increased surveillance of and KILLING of Black and Brown people in San Diego. Thank you for your time.
laura kime	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund San Diego Police and transfer funds back into low income housing, education, food banks and public health clinics.

Katrina Wheeler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigations, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Trenton Marsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lillian Shallow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We should immediately put into place 8 policies that stop police violence by 70%. 1) Ban chokehold and strangleholds. There are proven to be deadly and often result in damage to the person being restrained. 2) Require deescalation. Police are there to protect communities and not to incite violence. 3) Require warning before shooting. Seeing as killing citizens should not be the goal of police, this warning will eliminate any miscommunications before they become deadly. 4) Exhaust all other means before shooting. Implementing this protocol into a checklist fashion allows for less mistakes and less impulsive action on the part of trained professionals. 5) Duty to intervene. This holds all officers accountable for intervening if another officer is acting with excessive force. 6) Ban shooting at moving vehicles. This practice only exists to harm community members, there is no public safety excuse for this behavior. 7) Require use of force continuum. Only allowing certain weapons for certain circumstances. Under this policy SDPD would not be allowed to teargas peaceful 16yo protestors, and 8) Require comprehensive reporting. Accountability is taken seriously in all other professions where human lives are held in the balance. The police force should be no exception.
Catherine Delgado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Laura Gordon, J.D.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	After reaching out into my local network, I found a friend who had personal experience with attempting to retrieve body camera footage from the SDPD after an incident with the police. Unfortunately, he was not able to retrieve the footage because in order to have access to the footage, regardless of whether or not you were personally involved in the incident, you cannot have access to the footage unless a formal claim has been filed, charges have been pressed and you have legal grounds to compel discovery. This adversely effects POC, due to the cost and time necessary to retain attorney representation and file charges. The community should have greater access to body camera footage from police officer incidents so that there is greater access to justice for those who feel they have been a victim of police brutality. I would like to advocate for policy reform regarding citizen access to body camera footage after an incident has taken place.
Natalie Mendoza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We can not allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Audrea Carey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police! We need an independent community led community board, separate from the Mayor's Office. It is time to invest in public safety and black communities.
Karen Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I don't agree with the budget proposal that will increase the police departments budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Public safety must include justice for all of its resident no matter the ethnicity. Public safety must be correcting the wrongs the police have constantly made by taking accountability.

Katrina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am requesting that you defund the police. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Hannah Voic	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a resident of City heights and want to state my support for an independent review board that will address the very real need for independent investigation in police involved incidents. As professionals, all members of law enforcement need to be held accountable for their actions and supported to come forward with information on unjust practices.
Gregory Gushiken	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego Police Department has done nothing but terrorize Black communities, arresting over 100 people in the past few days, and brutalizing countless more before. Meanwhile, the SDPD has allowed white supremacists to terrorize people, assemble during COVID-19 with police PROTECTION, all while those standing for Black Lives are thrown in jail. As a doctoral student at UC San Diego, I am demanding that the County of San Diego IMMEDIATELY defund the police.
Mikayla Booker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for far too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lipservice from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Roxanna Llamas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and invest in our communities. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We know our communities better than our police do. We can imagine a better, safer, and more just future without them.

Alison Dunlevy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please know we will not stop fighting for the defunding of the police. San Diego can be an example of how this country WILL reform and WILL stop police brutality against black and brown people. We have had enough, and you are now listening. Along with the re-working of the proposed budget so our money can go towards building a better community instead of encouraging a violent systemically racist system (the SDPD) we demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from the Mayor'a office. We want a system where ALL of us feel protected and represented. Please respect our demands.
Bianca Puopolo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Victoria Huynh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD has arrested over 100 people in the last few days, supported white supremacists, and brutalized everyday citizens. As a resident of San Diego, I am demanding that the city DEFUND the San Diego Police Department and redirect their funding towards education, housing, and other social resources for communities of color.
Andrew Romero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities. The current police budget and the proposed raising of the budget is unacceptable. We need to invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Andrea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the SDPD. We do not need the current $539 million police budget, and we certainly do not need to increase it to $566 million dollars - which has become exceedingly clear in light of recent protests. We do not need millions to go towards the police whose purpose is no longer to protect and serve, and only to terrorize any citizens protesting against the very violence they continue to inflict. Their handling of the protests has been not only counter-productive, they use harmful tear gas liberally on crowds of largely peaceful protestors. People claim it's only to stop looting - but it seems they haven't been able to stop any looting or burning and instead use their weapons on large crowds of the citizens they have sworn to protect. They are not only useless & not doing their job, but assaulting citizens. Their response to this situation, much like many police departments across the country, is absolutely unwarranted and disgusting. We do not want our tax money spent on the SDPD, and instead redistributed into the community - low income housing, transit, healthcare, etc., ways that truly serve and protect our community where police fail to. Defund.

Katherine S Stewart	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
ally chandler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Demand that San Diego Defunds their Police Force and reinvest money into the safety and wellbeing of community members, especially our BIPOC neighbors. Invest into community public safety through access to health care, housing, food and NOT racist policing. Honor the lives of Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey and many others lost to police brutality.
Andrew Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cindy Chang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
ERIN C. LITTLE	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I was born in San Diego and have been a resident the majority of my life. I demand action for police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the local community. We as citizens of San Diego cannot allow police to continue policing themselves, and politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand: 1) subpoena power; 2) independent investigators; 3) independent legal counsel; 4) independence from the Mayor's Office. We demand these reforms are taken seriously. Lip service from the Mayor and City Hall will no longer be tolerated. San Diegan's deserve transparency, accountability, and independent oversight of policing. We demand police be upheld to the same standards of the law as applied to San Diego citizens. We encourage the CRB to publicly support the San Diegan's for Justice ballot proposal.

Nolan Cervantes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Office Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal! Without this we are not America's finest city. We want reform and if we don't get that we'll vote you out!
Ashley Armstrong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I would like to demand change from the current Board around police accountability. Action needs to be taken in restructuring how the police serve our community. We as the community demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that reforms are taken seriously, and true solidarity is shown. We need transparency and accountability, not lip service or hollow actions. We encourage current members of CRB to publicly support San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecka Durflinger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs to adopt the following policies. 1. Require De-escalation 2. Require fellow officers to interfere when excessive force is being used. 3. Ban shooting at moving vehicles 4. Require all force to be reported.
Silvia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have exerienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities ,NOT POLICE. We must also DEFUND the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. WE DEMAND AN INDEPENDENT REVIEW BOARD THAT IS COMMUNITY-LED AND WILL HOLD POLICE ACCOUNTABLE. Finally reverse the requested services of the National Guard. They are not needed!

Lindsay Bauman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Lindsay Bauman and I am a resident of District 1. I'm writing in support of the recommendations by the Community Review Board on Police Practices for policies regarding the use of force and de-escalation within the San Diego Police Department. The continual police violence against the Black community and other communities of color have had lasting and devastating impacts not only on our local community, but nationwide. However, it’s also incredibly important to have strong mechanisms for oversight and accountability. Officers MUST be held accountable for their actions if trust is to ever be rebuilt. I encourage the Community Review Board on Police Practices to also provide policy recommendations on accountability to the Chief of Police as well as legislation recommendations to city and county officials. Thank you for the opportunity to submit a written comment.
Kate B.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support the recommendation to adopt a de-escalation policy based on Baltimore's model. This model would ensure San Diego is addressing the priorities recommended by the Use of Force Project that San Diego is completely missing: Requires De-Escalation; Restricts Shooting at Moving Vehicles; and Duty to Intervene. However, progress without data reporting means little. I encourage this board to also develop public-facing reports that track trends related to use of force. Policy changes mean little if they are not driving the intended result. The community is looking for real results, not lip service.
Brenda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.
Anaiz Alegria Arellano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Anaiz Alegria Arellano. I am a community member of District 8. I want to address the commission regarding the demilitarization of the police force and the lack of accountability that exists within law enforcement agencies. A community needs to feel safe around its police department. We do not. We do not feel understood, respected or safe. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. I am asking you to rethink the militarization of our San Diego Police Department. Our police should be heavily trained in non-violent crisis interventions, non-violent tactics, implicit bias, conflict resolution, and de-escalation techniques. An independent commission that reviews the law enforcement staff and complaints must be established. Police reform now!

Stephanie Barahona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, focus on, fix, and prioritize our communities.
Alissa Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Julie Tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Out communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold the police accountable.
Sam Brumit	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Data proves that together, eight policies can decrease police violence by 72%. The City of San Diego Police Department needs to consider implementing the following immediately: -banning chokholds and strangleholds -requiring de-escalation -duty to Intervene -ban shooting at moving vehicles -require all force to be reported
Stephen Bonanno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Trisha Padayachee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I listened to the CAB meeting yesterday and one member brought up the point that de-escalation involves the responsibility of police personnel and the responsibility of the constituent. It was implied that the constituent is just as responsible in the de-escalation process as the police. I want to point two things that were not noted in this statement: Power and Implicit Racial Bias. The police are given more power than constituents, simply by being on the police force. Racial bias exists it all individuals but if you couple unchecked bias with power, it leads to George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, and the many many other deaths of Black constituents. I would argue that de-escalation is not a equally shared experience between constituents and the police; the police have more power and therefore have more responsibility in the de-escalation process.
Ernesto Botello	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's proposal to raise the police budget is obscene. It's a racist budget that negatively targets Black, Indigenous and POC communities. We need to reject his proposal to increase the Police Budget. PLEASE Invest in organizations that strengthen our community. Let's focus on education, health, homelessness, community wellness.
Evelyn Moreno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It has come to my attention through the #8CANTWAIT Project by Campaign Zero that San Diego has failed to enact the following policies: 1. BAN CHOKEHOLDS AND STRANGLEHOLDS: Allowing officers to choke or strangle civilians, in many cases where less lethal force could be used instead, results in the unnecessary death or serious injury of civilians. 2. REQUIRE DEESCALATION: Require officers to de-escalate situations, where possible, by communicating with subjects, maintaining distance, and otherwise eliminating the need to use force. 3. DUTY TO INTERVENE: Require officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers and report these incidents immediately to a supervisor. 4. BAN SHOOTING AT MOVING VEHICLES: Restrict officers from shooting at moving vehicles, which is regarded as a particularly dangerous and ineffective tactic. 5. REQUIRE ALL FORCE BE REPORTED: Require officers to report each time they use force or threaten to use force against civilians. This is completely unacceptable. Not only are these 5 policies common sense, but more importantly, they are measures that would undoubtedly help ensure the safety of San Diego citizens. Moreover, they would provide a method to hold police accountable for any misuse of force.

Taylor Ingalls	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego Police Department has been greatly overstepping it's bounds. Not just during the protests that started in La Mesa on 5/30. This is an issue that has been present in San Diego for a long time. Police are much too quick to escalate a situation. I.e the fatal shooting of Fridoon Rawshan Nehad in 2016 by officer brower for being suspected of a knife stabbing but when searched had only a ball point pen; Trenelle Cannon being brurally beat up by 5 police officers for resisting arrest in 2019; the unlawful arrest of Aumarie johnson in 2020 who was stopped for smoking Marijuana, but when searched police found nothing. There is a clear neeed for an independent. Community-led commission on police practices in San Diego. This commission needs subpoena power to prevent corruption within the police force and government. It needs access to independent investigators that won't "conventiently" ignore evidence that could convict officers. It needs independence from the mayor's office to allow for unbiased opinion on police conduct. We demand that San Diego Police be held accountable for their actions.
Melissa Lizarraga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I call for the defunding of the SDPD and for those resources to be reallocated to education, food security, affordable housing, assistance for renters, and communities of color. Time and time again have we been witness to the unlawful and brutal police practices of the SDPD. We have been witness to police shooting rubber bullets and tear gas at peaceful protestors. We have been witness to SD police driving their police car through peaceful protesting crowds. I am enraged that this is what my tax dollars are funding. Defund SDPD and reinvest that money into our communities.
Virginia Suarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I join countless residents in demanding action from the current Board regarding police accountability. The current structure has failed to keep the community safe and has further perpetuated injustice towards Black and brown communities. I urge you to consider the development of a community-led, independent commission to provide independent and just oversight, and create a sense of trust for the concerned citizens. San Diegans deserve transparency in the choices and actions of the Police force, and deserve to be truly heard in our concerns.
Ben D	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taking seriously, and we are not getting lip service form City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chelsea King	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board on police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police-- state government actors-- to continue policing themselves. That is an inherent conflict of interest and they have not proven to do the job. I demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. I need to know these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I also want you to require law enforcement reporting use of force every time it is used. This should to into a public database. Only when there is oversight, can we have accountability. Thank you.
Linda Glevy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I support an independent, community-led Commission on Police Practices, and I demand that the San Diego Police Department ban chokeholds and strangleholds, require officers to use de-escalation whenever possible, require officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers and report these incidents immediately to a supervisor, restrict officers from shooting at moving vehicles, and require officers to report each time they use force or threaten to use force against civilians. Thank you.
Kaylan Agnew	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police violence is a public health crisis how do we protect our communities from police terror? We need more community engagement and ways to respond to crises when needed instead of cops who have no training in behavioral health science or mental health and are not from the communities the serve generally

Jonny Alexander	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Good Evening I'm a 3rd Generation San Diegan and member of District 3. Given the current climate across our country and city we are asking you to recognize this time as a pivotal moment in changing the narrative of equality in this Country. By Setting an example here in San Diego. From my understanding the CRB is meant to review SDPD. But the information the CRB receives is solely collected by SDPD Internal Affairs. This keeps it within a closed system. Closed systems are subject to group / history bias. Any group wants to protect itself. Even the best and strongest people within a group have difficulty going against the collective ethos. The logical changes appear to be creating an independent and community-led commission on Police Practices. Also the power of this independent reviewing process should hold more authority. Currently the CRB can only make recommendations to the Mayor and Chief of Police. Recommendations appear to take a review board's hard work and reduce its tangibility to a merely suggestions. Suggesting reform to a unionized group doesn't give the people much power, even within the bureaucratic system, to make meaningful reform. Thank you, Hugs n' Kisses, (Cause We're all Human)
Raquel Rivera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Orlando	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a SD citizen and am requesting that direct discussion on police accountability takes place. I support San Diegans for Justice in creating an independent and community-led Community Review Board.
Helene Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a white woman. Despite that privilege, I am scared of police and try to stay as far from officers as possible. My interactions with them have been neutral to negative. Given how little police have helped me and the folks I know and how much trauma they have caused to Black, homeless and other vulnerable communities, I think policing should be replaced by other non-violent services. At the very least, independent police oversight must be established.

GABRIEL FOCKLER	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The city needs to adopt an Independent Commission on Police Practices. The mayor's proposed budget would allocate nearly 500 million to San Diego Police, who are brutalizing and killing members of our community. An independent commission needs to be created, with subpoena power and the ability to hold the police accountable. The current system lets police harass and kill people in our community with no repercussions.
Franny McNamara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a local resident writing to say the current CRB structure is not working. I am calling for a Community review board with independent investigators, independent legal counsel, subpoena power, and independence from the mayors office. Police cannot be trusted to police themselves. We deserve accountability and transparency in policing.
Sofia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Cancel the ludicrous racist budget plan of an added 27 million to San Diego police. DEFUND San Diego police and invest those funds in community groups aiming at creating safety for all especially black and brown people. Invest in black and brown communities such as education, affordable housing, affordable healthcare and more. allow for an independent commission group to investigate police behavior
Sarah Farouq	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Viviana Dominguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD uses aggression towards peaceful protesters exercising their first amendment right resulting in violence and harm. SDPD used tear gas, concussion grenades, rubber bullets and more which has resulted in rioting, looting, arrests of peaceful protesters, the harm of children, BIPOC, disabled folks, and supporting members of the community. This is not okay. The police currently receive 1/3 of the city's budget. We ask to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million. We ask to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. We ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to redistribute the funds where needed. We demand the funding go towards social services, physical and mental healthcare, accessible public transit, housing, quality education, parks, access to food, and support to underserved communities instead of placing police directly into communities with a majority of BIPOC causing vulnerability to violence. Nurture your communities and keep those at risk safe instead of targeting them.

Diego Dela Rosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katherine Pittman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We also demand the following policies be implemented immediately in the city of San Diego and in all counties of the greater San Diego area: Ban chokeholds and strongholds; Require officers to de-escalate situations, by communicating with subjects, maintaining distance, and otherwise eliminating the need to use force; Require officers to give a verbal warning before shooting at a civilian; Require officers to exhaust all other reasonable means before resorting to deadly force; Require officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers and report these incidents immediately to a supervisor; Restrict officers from shooting at moving vehicles; Develop a Force Continuum that limits the types of force and/or weapons that can be used to respond to specific types of resistance; Require officers to report each time they use force. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gio Castillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandra Grant	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES !!

Laura Piatkowski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justin ballot proposal.
JuanCarlos Flores	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community led commission on police practices
Karris Umphres	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Karris Umphres and today I am commenting to express my support for a ballot measure to create an independent Commission on Police Practices. Mayor Faulkoner's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund the police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget and the Mayor wants to increase the budget by $27 million more dollars. We need to invest into our communities, not our police department. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and bullets. I am asking to decrease the police budget and to invest in our community by funding services that strengthen our community, not tear it apart. I am asking for Mayor Faulkner to enforce change in our police practices. I am asking for the banning of chokeholds and strain holds, requiring de-escalation, a duty to intervene, banning shooting at a moving vehicles, and requiring that all force be reported. These policies will decrease police violence in our communities. This is the change we need.
Dayanira Heredia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must focus on the communities and lives of the people of San Diego. This community has experienced tragic losses at the hands of the racist policing, but we do not see accountability and movement towards reforming or abolishing this racist system. Today we remember the innocent lives taken by racist San Diegan police: Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We must defund the police and redirect those resources towards our community. I call for the expansion of the education budget to ensure ALL students all around San Diego have an equal and high quality education and resources. I want all citizens of San Diego to have access to food, healthcare and affordable housing. It is a disgrace that the police have been firing tear gas and rubber bullets, recklessly driving police cars and vans through and at protestors, and arresting peaceful protestors. Defund the San Diego police!

Niall Presnall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the Review Board hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to housing, health care, and food security that desperately need it. We are in a pandemic, and San Diegans needs housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. This city's prioritization of police funding shows utter disregard for the health and safety of your constituents. We demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates systemic racism and puts Black lives at risk.
Chelsea Ford	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a community member I am voicing my support for the SDPD adoption of Campaign Zero's "8 Can't Wait" police practices immediately. I also demand the defunding of the SDPD and the reallocation of funds to community enrichment, including housing, parks, and physical/mental healthcare
Jade	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address police accountability. I fully support San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Corinne Buchanan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rita Kurtz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to voice my concern regarding Mayor Kevin Faulconer's budget proposal to increase the police budget by over 25 million using CARES Act stimulus money. With already 1/3 SD general budget going to the police department at a unfathomable half a billion dollars, this is unacceptable and does not serve or strengthen communities. The CARES Act stimulus money should be used to support the underserved and communities most affected by the COVID-19 crisis, not the police.

Leslie K Bruce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB must be replaced and I support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal to do just that. Currently, the fox is guarding the hen house and the police cannot be allowed to continue policing themselves. Further, the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association should not be permitted to continue to overshadow the needs of the public. An independent review board must be given subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Miranda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please enact the 8 can't wait. We can no longer allow police men to unjustly murder black people and sit on the couch after. Justice must be served. End police brutality NOW.
Rachael G	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and each action you are implementing—not just lip service from City Hall. San Degians deserve accountability and transparency in policing, and we encourage members of the CRB to publicly the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jenna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear Board, I urge you to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal which calls for half a billion dollars in funding for police. This budget perpetuates racism inherent in our systems. It would deter money from services that educate, empower, and increase quality of life. Instead, it would fund a regime that works solely through the lens of punishment -- not rehabilitation or true service. It would fund a system that results in the incarceration of 5 times more black people than whites; black minors representing 47% of incarcerated youth despite comprising only 17% of the national population in their age group; and a system that has killed -- at the hands of police -- 1,252 black people in the U.S. to date since 2015. History has proven that increased police funding does not increase public safety. Public safety relies on funding for the most basic services that BIPOC communities historically and continually lack access to: quality housing, healthcare, nutritious food, living-wage jobs, meaningful education, public transit and small business resources. San Diego remembers Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and too many others who were killed by police. You have the power to affect change. Invest in communities, not police.
Alexandra Stabrawa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident in Clairemont and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot measure. More people are watching you and paying close attention to local politics and policies now more than ever. Local government will be held accountable.
Savannah Rey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support an independent community led commission on police practice. I demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, independence from the Major's office.

Joy Fuliga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Adding more funds to the police budget simply decreases resources that could be allocated elsewhere. Public safety is providing affordable housing and affordable mental/physical healthcare for low-income families, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Public safety must also include involving food, fair opportunities for jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and those who are undocumented. Financial investments should be put towards giving communities more access to resources. People in crisis need help, aid, support; not more aggressive policing. This pandemic highlights the already existing negative impacts Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) face, and increasing police funding makes our communities more vulnerable to violence. Our communities have experienced great loss due to racist acts of terror and abuses of power. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. I ask you to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. I ask you to instead allocate those funds for strengthening community services and empowering communities as a whole.
Angelica Milik	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Move SDPD funds to community support such as education programs. No more use of tear gas or less than lethal rounds such as rubber bullets.
Pia Piscitelli	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing today to express my support for the ballot measure to create an independent Commission on Police Practices-- and my hope that you will vote to support the measure as written and edited through a public process. Police misconduct has a disproportionate impact on many communities in your district, including AAPI, LGBTQ+, Black, Latino, unsheltered, and San Diegans with disabilities or mental health issues. Public safety remains the #1 priority for the City of San Diego and we need to ensure that law enforcement does not disproportionately cite, harass, and arrest systemically over-policed communities. SDPD Officers need to be held accountable to the communities they serve. In order to do this, we must provide the community with the necessary tools. Please vote in support of putting the San Diegans for Justice ballot measure on the ballot as soon as possible. Thank you.

Abbey Reuter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am calling for the reformation of the police department in regards to the recent national acts of police brutality. Police brutality has gone on for far too long in this country that claims liberty and justice for all and we are calling for an end to this history of unaccountable violence. To hold police accountable in San Diego, we need to have an independent police oversight commission with subpoena and legal power. We also need to change SDPD policies such as a ban on shooting at moving cars, get rid of duty to intervene and require de-escalation as a precursor to any violence. We need to do better for our community.
Nadia Mishkin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask that you reject Mayor Faulconer's racist budget. We are asking that you defund the police and invest in communities instead. This also means defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Taylor Schultz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego Resident of District 43 and I am demanding action from the current board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nadia Mishkin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask that you reject Mayor Faulconer's racist budget. We are asking that you defund the police and invest in communities instead. This also means defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During
Nadia Mishkin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask that you reject Mayor Faulconer's racist budget. We are asking that you defund the police and invest in communities instead. This also means defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.

Robert Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Shania Ie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Shania and I live in District 1. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not the police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to affordable health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating losses at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Shadi Abudayyeh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego law enforcement forces should be de-funded, as they have proved repeatedly that they have racist policies and actions, they escalate situations with violence, and have no accountability and willingness to change. I ask that the money earmarked for law enforcement is stripped from law enforcement and given to pursuing affordable housing initiatives, providing better funding for education, or re-invested into the city of San Diego.

Theodora Contin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Theodora Contin. I live in District 9. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. We need to talk about what real safety looks like. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Decrease police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Kaitlin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Vanessa Tello	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to express concern over the current Police System as something built upon oppression and racism since its creation. It is built to protect property and safety, and puts many responsibilities of needed community help on its shoulders that should NOT be. This includes mental health crisis for you or someone in the community, homeless or in need of emergency quality of life services, crisis intervention to disarm and de-escalate their community members, substance abuse help, family abuse, sexual abuse, and vehicle quality assurance and assistance. The Minneapolis City Council Members are now considering disbanding and dismantling their Police department, as we should too. We need to create a new public safety system that prioritizes quality of life, where public safety and resources are led with empathy, social awareness, and understanding.
Alexis Wendleton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current board around police accountability. The Current CRB structure has failed our community. We cannot allow the police to police themselves, the politics of city hall, and the Police Officer Association to over shadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and that we are not given false hope from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot.

Cecile	Community Review Board on Police Practices	1. Automatic dismissal of police who shut off body cams. 2. Automatic dismissal of police who violate restrictions of force. 3. Automatic dismissal of police who use racist language on social media. 4. Automatic reparations to victims of police violence. 5. Automatic reversal of charges made by police officers who were found to be violating the civilian's civil rights during the arrest. If we cant trust the cop then we can't trust the charges.
Paulina Gonzales	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Anna Daley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am alarmed that the conduct of the San Diego Police Department. I request that the SDPD stops the used of rubber bullets and tear gas on the citizens that its swore to protect. As a taxpayer I believe my money would be better spent in ways that uplift the community, not divide and damage.

Brian J McShea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a member of the military, we look to improve military relations with all populations that we interact with. Unfortunately, the police force is perceived as distrustful because of the negative actions of a few. Below are a few thoughts that might help with that perception. 1. Change the uniform and go from dark military like colors to something lighter and more approachable. This may sound silly, but a military like uniform with body armor can be perceived from some as an intimidating militaristic force vs a force focused on the preservation of peace. When we are working on foreign relationships, we often do not wear a uniform to make everyone we interact with more comfortable. 2. Similar to the NYC approach to fighting crime, use police officers visibly to win over the respect and protection of the population. This approach could help officers use the citizens in the zone that they are assigned to fight crime. 3. Rotations. If I send the same person to Afghanistan over and over and all they see is bad, they will develop a hatred and biased towards that demographic. I think the same happens to an officer who works the assigned tough districts.
Justin Villasenor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, give back to communities!
Margaret Budd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The ballot measure is working to replace the current CRB with a truly independent Commission on Police Practices. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, and a truly independent CRB.

Christian Quiambao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Christian Quiambao. I live in District 5 in Sabre Springs. I am here to demand the defunding of the San Diego Police Dept and redistribution of funds towards organizations that help the community like public healthcare and housing reform. Police brutality towards black and brown bodies needs to end as police to be held accountable for their use of force as well as their unnecessary inciting violence on protestors as of recent events. This is not the country or San Diego that I want to live in. Please listen to your constituents in working to remove the current police system and work towards one where the community has control. Thank you.
Claudia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund SDPD not to increase to 27 million
Larisa N Cicila	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Dr. Larisa Cicila and I live in District 3. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities!
Gloria Alonzo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Good afternoon, my name is Gloria and I am a voting citizen from Escondido. I am writing today to show my full support for an independent commisions. I also demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. Thank you for your time.
Chris Bubel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There is a disconnect between local police and the citizenry at large. The isolation of the police from those they are suppose to serve has produced a "siege mentality" and we have seen the results this past few days. Not only do the police need to be civil when engage the community, but we need to make strides that they ARE the community. As recruitment standards have fallen, distorted personalities have infiltrated these positions of public trust and we must facilitate a means to reform them, and if that fails remove. Stronger education requirements on the function and role of police must become standardized. Furthermore, all leadership involved in the harassment of legally gathering citizens must be investigated to determine the extent of the Constitutional violations they have perpetrated the past week.
Lindsay Logan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Justin Wycoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Morgan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Protect our black brothers and sisters. I am a San Diego resident who calls for he defunding of SD police and the allocation of funds to community services that will better our city.
Kevin Alvarado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Invest in communities not police!! Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people.
Erin Byrne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Erin Byrne, District 3. As a matter of community safety, you must defund the SDPD. What will keep people safe is rent relief during a pandemic and rent control afterwards, providing health and human service for homeless individuals, funding libraries, parks, and museums, providing free transit, and countless other basic needs. Increasing the police in our communities puts our communities at risk, especially for people of color. Until there is an independent police conduct review board with the ability to investigate misconduct complaints independent of both the Mayor and the Police Officers' Association, with the ability punish those officers undoubtedly found guilty, the Police department should not be given one more dollar from the taxes of the citizen it is failing to protect. Absolutely no tax money should go to paying misconduct claims and should come from the police pension funds. If the police department is low on funds they could always start actually ticketing the reckless drivers killing pedestrians/cyclists, or they could stop harassing the homeless and returning shopping carts to corporations, or fire cops that cause lawsuits. The only thing worse than racist cops acting with impunity are racist cops outfitted with military grade weapons acting with impunity.

Malia Apelu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I’m a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Margaret Borinstein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I’m a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Cassandra Joy Fiorella	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This board needs to be replaced with an independent community-led commission on police practices with the power to subpoena, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and total independence from the Mayor's office. The community does NOT trust SDPD to police itself. The community does NOT feel safe with oversight of the Police being connected to the Mayor's office. We are sick and tired of the egregious violence committed by the hands of those who swear to protect and serve that goes unaccounted for and unpunished. DEFUND THE POLICE and allocate those funds instead to community projects focused on CARE - affordable housing, public health, education, job training, mental health services, and drug rehab and treatment facilities to start.
Ashley Jabro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, it is imperative that there is an independent community-led commission on police practices. To not have an independent authority in place is to deny San Diegans a right to live in a city that has police who are responsible for their actions, like everyone else. Cops have a lot of power and it can easily be abused we cannot trust that their peers won’t give them undue sympathy, so we need an independent body. Just like every other industry and field. There is a reason that companies have separate HR departments. I ask that you please consider what is best for San Diego, and not just what is in a few people’s self interest. Thank you.

Sadie Martin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I feel more frightened and intimidated by police officers, rather than feel safe, because I know that they have the power to use excessive, violent force at their disposal that could kill another human being in the worst case scenario; therefore, I am relieved and feel a little bit safer that Mayor Faulconer has approved banning the use of carotid restraints. I plead the Mayor to go further and approve a ballot measure that calls for establishing an independent police commission that have subpoena powers. Since police officers hold a great deal of power and able to use excessive, even lethal, force, it is sensible and reasonable to have an independent governing body to act as a "checks and balance" system to ensure that these powers are not abused nor used excessively.
Tiffany Streitenberger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like.Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Emily Zaehring	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. We need a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability, as the San Diegans for Justice describe. If the Mayor is serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Idalia Parra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for holding these emergency meetings. In yesterday's meeting I heard a lot about excessive use of force which is a very important subject to get right and ensure is being followed. I would like to also know about holding officers accountable. How is SDPD handling claims of excessive force? How do we ensure the officers are being held accountable? How do we ensure if an officer has been discharged they do not go to another city or town and is hired again as a police officer? Is their pension affected?

Jessica	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sydney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm writing today because I strongly believe that a person should not have to feel less safe because of the color of their skin. Police officers are supposed to be in it to protect people, not to use excessive force at just any time. What happened to George Floyd, Arbrey and all the other people of color this year and the previous years has been very outrageous. Way too often, a tragedy happens, the media reports it and the community mourns the losses. Next thing you know, it's been a few months, then a few years and we literally moved on and forgot all about it. We realize little progress has been made when it all happens again. I am begging that we do not move on from what happened this year without making sure a good amount of progress has been made. I have friends that are African-American and worry about something happening to them sometimes. I don't know what this world has come to but we must work harder to make progress and show that we are making Martin Luther King's dream come true. Thank you to any police officers who are standing in solidarity with protesters
Conan Minihan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Many of my friends, neighbors, and loved ones have been beaten, gassed, shot, and arrested while protesting peacefully in this past week. Changing policies and practices is good, although these are demands that the public has been crying out for many years, and does not recompense what has been transpiring in the past week. These protests began in response to the delay in justice for George Floyd's murder, because there was a lack of accountability for police when they break the law. In the past week, SDPD officers have been committing violent crimes against our community with impunity. We can not trust a police force that is includes officers in its ranks that have been behaving aggressively and lawlesslessly toward peaceful, law abiding San Diegans. These graphic violent incidents are displayed all over social media, and must be investigated with the proper administrative and criminal charges pursued. To allow these crimes to go unpunished is contempt for the people of San Diego.

Melanie Mijares	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm writing to express my opposition to Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, and to ask that we divest from policing and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. Funds should be used to provide resources that actually keep our communities safer, like housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, and health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. We need to curb police brutality, the targeting of Black, Brown, and LGBTQ communities by creating non-police systems of care for communities in crisis. In the meantime, we need a transparent accountability process for handling police brutality, misconduct, and murder -- police should not be the ones governing themselves!
Janeth Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello Council, thank you for engaging in the efforts demanded by your constituency. I have studied, lived, and worked in districts 1 and 3 for over six years. Today I urge and demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mandy Graf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego police department uses economic and institutional power to control and oppress our community, specifically black folks. Money is power and it is important we defund the police. The SDPD have endlessly displayed abuse of power, excessive force, systematic racism, and violence. If we increase the SDPD budget, it puts our community at risk for even more violence. Instead of funding police, we must invest in our community. We need money for affordable housing, healthcare, food, and education. We also need an independent, community-led Commission on Police Practices. Lastly, I demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office.

Corrin Johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident who attended peaceful protests against police brutality on Sunday June 1. I am also a lawyer and I am certain that what I experienced was unlawful and excessive force by the police when they opened up on a crowd of people with rubber bullets, tear gas and flash bangs. This was done completely unprovoked and without warning. Seeing the police use this kind of unlawful force when they knew they were being watched by 1,000s sends a very clear message that they feel above the law. I can't even imagine what those officers do when they think no one is watching. I demand a restructuring of the CRB to include independence from the Mayor's office and political pressure, subpoena power, independent investigators, and independent legal counsel. The current oversight structures are obviously not working and we need to show the Black community that San Diegans will not tolerate the injustice any longer. Thank you.
Alejandra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego must ban chokeholds and strongholds, Require officers to de-escalate situations, where possible, by communicating with subjects, maintaining distance, and otherwise eliminating the need to use force, Require officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers and report these incidents immediately to a supervisor, Restrict officers from shooting at moving vehicles, And Require officers to report each time they use force or threaten to use force against civilians. Additionally an independent, community led, review board on police practices is needed and a redirection of funds away from police services and Directed to investment in communities.
Perla Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear San Diego City Council, Please DEFUND THE POLICE. Thirty-seven percent of the budget toward policing is UNACCEPTABLE and, frankly, racist when police officers perpetuate a system of power against BLACK PEOPLE. What our city needs, is funding for more important services such as housing, healthcare, free public transit, healthy food, mental health care, education, and other community needs. Your community needs YOU to look out for its most pressing needs. WE DO NOT NEED MORE VIOLENCE in our neighborhoods, which is what police tend to do. PLEASE DO NOT GIVE $566.6 MILLION TO THE POLICE. FUND OUR COMMUNITIES INSTEAD. BLACK LIVES MATTER. BLACK VOICES MATTER. BLACK FUTURES MATTER. Which side of history will you be on? In solidarity, Perla Cruz

Garrett Rice	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY!
Nancy Kern	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I would like to commend you for abolishing the carotid restraint. That is an excellent first step towards the pressing issue of police accountability. I fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor and Council are committed to change, he, and they, should listen & proceed in accordance with what the community wants.
Maite Elizburu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Deigns for Justice ballot proposal.
Raquel Escobedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mariela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must not accept the new budget proposal for the year 2021, instead we need to i vest in our communities, not the police. DEFUND AND DEMILITARIZE THE POLICE NOW
Juliana R Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Fernando Ascencio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand for an independent, community-led Commission on Police Practices. I demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. I demand defunding the police and using that money to better our community. We need to invest in public safety such as housing, healthcare, food, good jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget to increase the police budget by 27% is racist and not in the best interest of San Diego residents. Black and brown people are especially victims of police brutality and it's important for their safety that the police are defunded. We cannot forget the victims who have died in the hands of SDPD. Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Cornel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey. When you fund the police, you fund murderers.
Jarrett Hedrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask that you reject Mayor Faulconer's racist budget. We are asking that you defund the police and invest in communities instead. This also means defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. Thank you.

Shane bouclin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask that you reject Mayor Faulconer's racist budget. We are asking that you defund the police and invest in communities instead. This also means defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board. The Mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During
Barbara DeSilva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent, community-led review board that will hold police accountable. I urge the Council to pressure the mayor to reach an ethical allocation of the General Fund, divesting from the SDPD, and reinvesting in social services and education programs effective at the beginning of FY 2021. Black lives matter.
Eric Helle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Laura Edwards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	When San Diegans filled the streets to demand haircuts and protest quarantine, the police protected those who wished to harm and infect our community. Now, as our country faces a crisis of democracy, San Diego has unleashed a militarized and violent police force against those who would protest against police brutality and systemic racism in that very institution. It is not safe to be in public protest during a global pandemic, yet the risk of police violence is a more severe threat. I am asking you all to support San Diegans for Justice to establish a community-led independent Commission on Police Practices, that will allow for independent investigations on police misconduct, independent legal counsel, subpoena power, and investigations into domestic violence cases by law enforcement. We need accountability and transparency from SDPD. I also ask for the implementation of the #8CantWait policies by Campaign Zero, as research shows it can reduce police violence by 72%. 1. Ban Chokeholds and Strangleholds 2. Require De-escalation 3. Require Warning Before Shooting 4. Require Exhausting Other Means Before Shooting 5. Duty to Intervene 6. Ban Shooting at Moving Vehicles 7. Use of Force Continuum 8. Requires Comprehensive Reporting Thank you and Black Lives Matter.
Kiernan Elam	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community needs an independent, community-led Commission on Police Practices. It should not take public outrage to hold an officer accountable for outright murder. Community outreach should not be the balancing force that holds police officers accountable for their actions. For too long we have let police departments handle the accountability of their officers and this is no longer tolerable. The community should have the power to subpoena officers, any officer accused of an infraction of the law should be independently investigated, and records of police misconduct should be available to the public. These are the absolute bare minimum changes our community needs, and I promise you that these protests will not end by compromise. Black lives matter.

Summer Webb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Deisy Martínez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police should be held accountable for their actions and unsafe practices. They are currently abusing their power and using access excessive force. Actually, I am incorrect. They have always abused their power, due to lack of education, training, and their bias. They are hurting and killing our black community. Their practice are inhumane and bias. Take the time to look and research how they are treating our brave people who are protesting. They are running over them, causing severe injuries, picking up and just arresting anyone who fits some mental discriminatory image that they have on their mind. Listen to your people, rather than drowning out their voices with fear. We want change.
Angie Stamos-Guerra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand that the SDPD enact these policies: 1. Require officers to de-escalate situations. 2. Require officers to intervene and stop excessive force used by other officers and report these incidents immediately. 3. Restrict officers from shooting at moving vehicles. 4. Require officers to report each time they use force or threaten to use force against civilians.
Kayla Appenzeller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Defund the police. Defund the police.

Anoushka Savgur	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This past week San Diego has seen SDPD use aggression towards peaceful protesters exercising our first amendment right resulting in violence and harm. SDPD utilized tear gas, concussion grenades, rubber bullets and more. These actions have resulted in rioting, looting, arrests of peaceful protesters, the harm of children, BIPOC, disabled folks and supporting members of the community. This is not okay. The police currently receive 1/3 of the city's budget. I ask you to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million. We ask to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. We ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to re-distribute the funds where needed. We demand the funding go towards social services, physical and mental healthcare, accessible public transit, housing, quality education, parks, access to food, and support to underserved communities.
Kelly Halaszynski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize our communities!
Izzah Kamran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The way the SDPD has reacted to the peaceful protesters is despicable and disgusting. This is yet another reason why the San Diego Police Department needs to be defunded immediately and to reconsider their use of so-called "non-lethal" rubber bullets and tear gas (which isn't even allowed during war so why is it being used on our own San Diegans??). It's quite embarrassing to see how officers treat their own people and I would hate to think that this is how San Diego likes to treat their residents, but that's the unfortunate reality. That being said, we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. San Diegans deserve better than the system currently in place and we deserve better than just lip service from City Hall. We urge the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Grant Leuning	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Campaign Zero study released March found widespread antiblack bias, with SDPD stopped black people 219% more frequently than white people & subjected them to force, searches, and warrantless arrests at greater rates. Given the number of stops measured, it is likely that almost every officer in the SDPD has participated in a racially biased stop, arrest or use of force, either directly or as an accomplice, both of which constitute violations of these citizens civil rights. Do you dispute the findings of the Campaign Zero study and if so, what specifically about their methodology or findings do you dispute? If do you do not dispute their findings, what can be done, immediately, today, to end the disproportionate stops, uses of force, arrests, and searches? What can be done to ensure the prosecution and conviction of all police who committed disproportionate stops, searches, uses of force, and arrests? Finally, what will you do to ensure that the convictions of those who were arrested by officers found to have committed racially disproportionate stops, searches, uses of force, and arrests are vacated in a timely manner?
Kara Powell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I believe that the San Diego Police Department should no longer use less-lethals such as tear gas and rubber bullets. These methods are still very dangerous and do have the potential to cause serious harm, even death.
Ariel Hamburger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Yaneth Mora	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I’m a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Madison ryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is necessary that our city make a plan to completely defund the police and invest in community support and protection. Our people have clearly spoken that we not only do are not protected nor served by this violent and militarized force, but that we are actively threatened and endangered by it. Hold them accountable for their decades of destruction targeting communities of color and build a safer and new normal. Educate yourselves on alternatives to policing and imagine a future where we invest in rather than criminalize our most vulnerable.
Natalie Zhang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Public safety is not equated to excessive police presence, which I believe Mayor Faulconer would reinforce and perpetuate with his proposed budget. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. REAL safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.
Luis Angeles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police!!! Money should be allocated into programs that help our community. Please do the right thing.
Jenny Ng	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To the Community Review Board: Data shows that there are 8 specific policies that taken together can decrease police violence by 72%. As a San Diego resident, I'm heartened that the city has already enacted 3 out of 8, but we must do better for our community. I urge the Board to push for 5 additional use of force polices, including: --Ban chokeholds & strangleholds --Require de-escalation --Duty to intervene --Ban shooting at moving vehicles --Require all force be reported Cities like San Francisco, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Tucson and Cincinnati are already ahead of San Diego in adopting these measures. Please see the Campaign Zero "Use of Force" study for more info and take action to implement these policies immediately.
Jackelyn Ambriz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Your community does not want to “improve” its relationship with the police. Defund the police. Redirect this money to communities. We need accessible healthcare, food, assistant programs. We don’t need racist policing.

Steve Slocum	Community Review Board on Police Practices	rubber bullets and tear gas used on peaceful protesters. Millions of dollars in in court and out-of-court settlements for police brutality, often on victims of medical crisis such as a stroke or sodium deficiency. If the mayor wants the people to trust the police, it seems obvious that he would be willing to submit to an independent community review board. Please move forward with an independent community review board. Thank you.
Anna Rivera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand accountability for the actions of police officers of this city. The review board has failed to maintain and enforce humane practices from police offers. This cannot stand anymore
Erin McNalley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We should defund the police and invest in social services to respond to most police calls. Via police scorecard.org, "Campaign Zero evaluated the policing practices of San Diego Police Department (SDPD) and San Diego Sheriff's Department (SDSD). Our results show both departments to be engaged in a pattern of discriminatory policing. Both departments stopped black people at a rate more than 2x higher than white people and were more likely to search, arrest, and use force against black people during a stop. Both departments not only use force more often but also use more severe forms of force against black people than other groups, even after controlling for arrest rates and alleged level of resistance. We also found evidence of anti-Latinx bias, anti-LGBT bias and bias against people with disabilities in both departments' search practices. Moreover, when communities report police discrimination or excessive force, fewer than 1% of these allegations were upheld. Our summary findings and policy recommendations to reduce police violence, strengthen accountability and make communities safer are presented below." We, the taxpayers, do not need to be paying the salaries of people who harass us any longer.
Citlalli Martinez Cano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD continues to instigate, terrorize, and harm black and brown individuals at peaceful protests while allowing white supremacists to assemble and torment others and going as far as to provide them with police protection. San Diego County needs to defund the police and instead provide money to community support, schools, rehabilitation, etc

Miriam Collada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Diego Uzarraga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego police department has done nothing but terrorize Black communities, arresting over 100 people in the past few days, and brutalizing countless more before. Meanwhile, the SDPD has allowed white supremacists to terrorize people, assemble during COVID-19 with police PROTECTION, all while those standing for Black lives have been arrested and thrown in jail. As a San Diego citizen since birth I demand that the SDPD be defunded.
Sean Naylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to ask that you defund/dissolve our police force and prioritize communities. The police only serve to protect private property and the interests of white people, while brutalizing those they are supposed to keep safe. DEFUND POLICE AND DEFEND OUR COMMUNITIES.
Barrington Edwards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Now that the carotid neck restraint has been eliminated, how will officers who perform this move be held accountable?
Marissa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Marissa Daniels and I am writing to request the City Council to reject Mayor Kevin Faulconer's request to increase the police budget. We need to defund the police and redirect the funds to oppressed minority communities and programs. Thank you.
Daria Sheik	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and I demand serious action form the current board surrounding police accountability. The CRB has failed our community. We cant all the police to police themselves and for politics to trump the safety of our people. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We encourage the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Allison and I am from District 2. The Community Review Board on Policing Practices must be independent and community-led. A review board is essential to ensure justice is given to anyone victim to racial profiling, police brutality, and discrimination by the SDPD - which Campaign Zero has found clear evidence of discriminatory policing in San Diego against people of color. However, this review board has had a history of only serving the police, and not holding corrupt police officers accountable. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. In their memory, we demand an independent Community Review Board on Policing Practices.
Jade Bentley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our budget should go toward communities, ensuring equitable access to housing and health care, not the police.

Ana Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants!! Stop ignoring matters that affect us all, especially when the majority of the community is asking you to listen. We want to feel safe not targeted. #PoliceAccountability #DefundThePolice
Clayton Halbert	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a San Diego resident, I demand action from the current Board regarding police accountability. Current structures have failed the community for too long. The police cannot be allowed to continue acting without proper oversight, as can be plainly seen in how they have treated protestors. I stand with others in demanding subpoena power and independent civilian review boards, as well as the police being defunded and demilitarized. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and I hope that the members of the current CRB will publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal and further reforms.
Neeco Beltran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	If you're facing a revenue shortfall, recall that the police department eats up a lot of the budget (see attached). Furthermore, police have actively harmed Black people in San Diego disproportionately. Please divest funds from the police and invest in neighborhood services and communities to uplift people rather than punish them.
Alexandra Macaraeg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community has experienced so much racism and abuse of police power recently, and in the past. Please defund the police and place our money towards the community, with emphasis on housing and healthcare. It is so crucial that our money is being used to heal and help, not to pay for rubber bullets.
Alexa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the San Diego Police and use the money for other community benefits that include education and housing.
Jay Varela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE OUR COMMUNITIES
Carl Ling	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Send back the national guard, and stop the use of harmful “Non-lethal” weapons against protesters. You have enough riot gear and enough cops. I know you want to over power us, but there’s no need to when it’s white supremacists hijacking the protests, and few crazy looters who end up burning buildings.
ALYSSA BRUMLEY	Community Review Board on Police Practices	after seeing the police treatment on peaceful protestors, i am shocked. banning the choke hold is not good enough. I believe that we need to demilitarize the police & I suggest that we defund them. we should not be giving 1/3 of our budget to this group of people who are supposed to be our civil servants & yet they inflict violence upon us.

Christian Gern	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I suggest that we do whatever we can to de-escalate police violence- we need to defund them as much as possible. create independent investigations for every act committed against a civilian by a police officer, and independence from the mayor's office in carrying out these measures.
rashanna lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support demilitarizing the police- no more rubber bullets. no more tear gas. getting rid of the choke hold is not good enough. I think we need independence from the mayor's office when deciding how to handle police matters. the police should be held accountable for their crimes, & i believe we need an independent board to review crimes that police commit, especially violent crimes. i move towards completely defunding the police & rejecting the mayor's proposed budget increase.
Robyn Ness Alcantar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE RACIST POLICE SYSTEM & ALLOCATE FUNDS TO THE COMMUNITY! Allocate to: -Hospitals/Health Care- Why are we spending MILLIONS on a racist police system when the Doctors and Nurses, who are the Real Ones protecting and serving the people, are in need of those funds. Especially during a pandemic! -Housing for ALL! - We Can Aid/Cure Homelessness in San Diego! There are numerous abandoned buildings that can be refurbished to help the homeless. We can Afford to have a Rent Pause for folks during this pandemic. HOUSING IS A HUMAN RIGHT. -Education For All: Education should be free and we should not have to waste away working just to pay off a student loan! This Money Should Be Used For The People! Not The Trigger Happy Police/ State Sanctioned Violence.
Cheryl Stigall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address San Diego police accountability. I fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability.
Rachel Baylor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent, community led commission on police practices! How can police officers be held accountable for their actions if the review board is not independent? In addition, police officers are not the best people for the job of handling mental health crises, people experiencing homelessness, and many other things they are called to respond to. We need to reallocate resources from the police to community services that are equipped for these issues!
Matilda Moreno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police because it will not help our community stay safe, instead it will cause more harm and chaos in areas that need the most help. I ask you to fund our community by investing that money into the public health department, the housing crisis, and helping the homeless. San Diego is watching your and WE WILL show up at the voting both. Do not forget it’s around the corner.

Nathan Ortiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a resident and veteran of San Diego who has experienced first-hand the unacceptable and horrific police brutality that is occurring to our peaceful citizens. We have a RIGHT to protest, and our rights are being impeded on solely because it's for Black Lives. Why did the police allow white protestors to protest masks and haircuts? Who is the police protecting and serving here? What kind of cops are you hiring that shoot people in the head with rubber bullets and put them in comas for peacefully protesting? This is NOT okay. I call for the immediate defunding of police. We don't need more police and we don't want more police. We don't want police. It's that simple. I want funding to be invested in the wonderfully diverse communities of San Diego. We need to fund programs for social workers to respond to calls involving mental health, NOT the police. Stop re-hiring cops. Fire cops for misconduct! Don't just put them on desk duty. No more paid administrative leave during investigations. Police should also be responsible for paying settlements involving their own misconduct. I'm tired of my tax dollars going to the inevitable police violence towards myself and others.
Liliana Michel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a San Diego resident and I demand action from the current Board around police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mariana Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Mariana Ramires and I live in district 4. The proposal that Mayor Faulconer is pushing calls for half a billion dollars to fund the police which already receives 1/3 of the general fund budget. These half a billion dollars need to go into our communities not to a racist and violent system. Half a billion dollars that can go into health care, food, good jobs, education, FREE public transportation, and to help small businesses and undocumented people. As a person that works in the education system I see first hand how the lack of resources burns out the teachers who are doing everything the can in an underfunded, low income school. Children need this funding prepare them for their future. Funding the police only promotes violence in places that are already vulnerable to racist policing. Please reject Mayor Faulconer' proposal and choose to invest that money into strengthening our communities.

Jacqueline	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is time to defund the police. It is no secret that modern policing in America is built on a racist policy to round up escaped slaves and continues to build upon its racist legacy with more money and power. By giving them more money and power, you are upholding the systemic racism that has led to the deaths of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor, Tamir Rice, Trayvon Martin, and countless others. There is no reason for our city to give more money to the organization that fires tear gas and rubber bullets at community members who are sick and tired of the systemic racism they face from an organization with military grade equipment. Defund the police. In a year where politicians have been oh so concerned about our economy, it has become glaringly evident that the politicians in San Diego care more about a brutal and racist law enforcement than their own people. Defund. The. Police.
Jose Villamizar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police! Prioritize Communities!
Allison Dyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities!
Ana Macias	Community Review Board on Police Practices	-Hold each police officer accountable and strip them of their "immunity" -Give every police officer a thorough psych eval. to determine that they are mentally fit to serve - De-militarize the police -Stop using curfews as it only leads to escalated and an aggressive response from the police -Stop the use of rubber bullets
Danielle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing because I am completely outraged by the use of violence and brutality I have witnessed at the hands of the SDPD during the recent peaceful protests. Frankly, it is because of this type of brutality and the senseless murder if Black people that there are protests in the first place. This violence needs to END, NOW. Not only do you need to take a long, hard look at what is happening in this department but you need to hold these violent cops accountable for their egregious actions.
Olivia Ho	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the SDPD and make the review board FIGHT racism — save black lives, stop police brutality
Monet Diaz-Huth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Funds should be directed to mental health services, taking those calls and responsibilities away from the police. Police should not be able to use choke holds and other life threatening moves (shooting out of cars, etc).

Michelle Bearheart	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, I live in District 7. Like many others, I am writing in to request that the San Diego Police Department are defunded, and that the money be redirected towards communities themselves. The relationship between the police and the citizens of San Diego is dysfunctional. There are already many cases San Diegans being killed by police, and the response from SDPD has been overwhelmingly to escalate, rather than de-escalate situations. A report from Campaign Zero last year showed that fewer than 1% of allegations of police discrimination or excessive force were upheld. This is unacceptable, and the relationship between San Diegans and the SDPD is beyond repair. Members of the Minneapolis City Council are currently examining how to defund their local police department, and it is my hope that San Diego will do the same. Thank you for holding this meeting, and for your time.
Jennifer Sajor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please implement all 8 policies of the 8cantwait campaign in order to reduce police violence and hold police officers accountable: -ban chokeholds -require de-escalation -require warning before shooting -require exhaust all alternatives before shooting -duty to intervene -ban shooting at moving vehicles -have a use of force continuum -require comprehensive reporting I understand that 4 of the 8 are now being implemented. Thank you for your consideration.
Melonie Vaughn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I was part of the protests on Saturday, and witnessed the police force gas and shoot at peaceful protestors, causing panic and chaos, not to mention substantial bodily harm to men women and children that were present. The police should be instructed to use nonviolent methods for crowd dispersal! We have a right to assemble, protest, and speak on issues we have! The brutality carried out by the police here is disgusting. Focus on getting the KKK the hell out of Santee before you come for peaceful protestors!
Joyce thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Could you please comment on qualified immunity and how San Diego police are handling these cases where qualified immunity is cited.

Claudia Alvarado-Sasse	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Do not increase the police budget. Invest in REAL public safety: housing, education, healthcare, child care, and financial assistance for those impacted by the pandemic. As someone who works with providing free/reduced childcare and early education services for families, I see day-to-day the systemic racism our families face and the endless hurdles they must take to access their most basic needs. The best way to "fight crime" is by nourishing and taking care of our communities. BLACK LIVES MATTER.
Hany Musa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police now! Half a billion dollars is a RIDICULOUS amount of money that allows the police to terrorize our community. During this pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, food and, rental assistance and protections for renters, not racist policing. We must invest in our community. Additionally we must establish an independent, community-led commission on police practices. The commission needs to be able to have subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need meaningful change, not more of the same. We need justice now!
Joshua Conger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am advocating for an independent, community-led commission on police practices. Independent of the mayors office. With subpoena power, independent investigators, and independent legal counsel. I am also advocating generally for the defunding of the police department.
Vanes Bueno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is crucial to defund the police. The abuse of power from police and those in higher power in the departments have taken measures categorized as inhumane and unjust. The money resources should be distributed to schools and communities considered to be redlined and associated to living in lower income inclusive communities. Providing Blacks, Asians, Latinos in lower income areas with mental health support, educational support, extra circular activites, and so much more. Also, police departments should require and mandate taking atleast 1500 hrs of sociology, psychology, and law courses. The bare minimum in comparison to someone taking a Cosmetology program. To properly serve and protect the communities, and genuinely get to know the people of the communities and schools they patrol. We should feel safe and not afraid, and most importantly INSPIRED to do better for the better good.
Kristen Diederich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would love to see the SDPD adopt the 8 Can't Wait policies available at https://8cantwait.org/. These are very commonsense reforms that would go a long way in reducing the amount of police violence our community faces. It's great that we've already enacted some of these, including de-escalation and a ban on chokeholds. Others like banning shooting at moving vehicles and requiring a warning before shooting seem obviously beneficial and should be implemented immediately if they are not already enacted. Requiring a duty to intervene holds all officers accountable for the acts of the department. We all need to stand together and hold each other accountable if we are to make real and meaningful progress towards racial equity and a just community.

Kenneth Jamora	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Officers should be financially and legally liable for any injuries/fatalities inflicted on detainees, suspects, and protesters. This includes payment for medical, social, and funeral services inflicted on those mentioned above.
Jesus	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Good Evening Given the current climate across our country and city we are asking you to recognize this time as a pivotal moment in changing the narrative of equality in this Country. By Setting an example here in San Diego. From my understanding the CRB is meant to review SDPD. But the information the CRB receives is solely collected by SDPD Internal Affairs. This keeps it within a closed system. Closed systems are subject to group / history bias. Any group wants to protect itself. Even the best and strongest people within a group have difficulty going against the collective ethos. The logical changes appear to be creating an independent and community-led commission on Police Practices. Also the power of this independent reviewing process should hold more authority. Currently the CRB can only make recommendations to the Mayor and Chief of Police. Recommendations appear to take a review board's hard work and reduce its tangibility to a merely suggestions. Suggesting reform to a unionized group doesn’t give the people much power, even within the bureaucratic system, to make meaningful reform. Thank you
Ashley Burch	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Redirect police funding to go back into the community Passing PrOTECT, a policy that seeks to limit the use of discretionary stops and searches by police; Ending the enforcement of low-level offenses and investing in non-law enforcement alternatives to respond to crises by divesting money from police budgets; Establishing an independent community oversight board with investigatory and subpoena powers; Adopting a robust de-escalation policy that must be implemented if for some reason; and Limit the use of force, police should never aim to kill they should always aim to intervene. Banning the use of chokeholds and carotid restraints.*

Evan Shulman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Establish a community-led independent Commission on Police Practices, created and controlled by the people, not politicians and not law enforcement, as advocated for by San Diegans for Justice. Additionally, use the Baltimore Police model 1107 for de-escalation, and prohibit any physical holds that endanger life of someone being detained. All officers who provoked protesters, and who used an unreasonable and irrational use of force when confronting peaceful protesters, must also be held accountable. San Diego should also adopt all 8 policies, recommended by 8CantWait.org. I would also prefer social workers and counselors to provide first responses to many of the emergency calls made, to avoid police intervening and use of force on individuals who really need mental and physical health help.
Talia Orr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Talia Orr. I live in District 6. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember the lives of Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Vanes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Also require police to take courses of America's history and their relations and history with Blacks, Asians, Latinos and Pacific Islanders. Being taught by a POC.
Abby habte	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As part of de-escalation, SDPD must define and communicate to the public the meaning of "Resisting arrest". Rodney king,- George Floyd they were deemed to resist arrest as they were subjected to force. Ensure law and order fir all communities including minority groups.

Alexis Suskey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I watched the CAB meeting yesterday and as I watch the start of this meeting I see that the the focus is on the de-escalation policy which is a great start. Start being the key word here. What is clear to our community is that the scope of work that police respond to is too large, their power is too expansive and as a result our communities have a militarized force to turn to when what they really are in need of are programs that truly support the community and focus on public health. The majority of calls that police respond to are non violent so who really is best suited to respond to that call? The police have proven over and over again, it's not them. By investing and rebuilding community departments on a foundation education, mental health, healthcare, and jobs we can create public service roles that serve the community rather than scare and terrorize.
William Shepherd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is William Shepherd, and I am a current resident of SD. I am writing today because I am horrified at both the historic and current police brutality in San Diego. Our City's police force needs a MAJOR paradigm shift focusing on deescalation. Our police need implicit bias training, conflict resolution training, communication skills training, and deescalation training. We need HUMAN EMPATHY from our officers. San Diego Police MUST be demilitarized and defunded - we do not need a full set of military weaponry and gear ready for each officer. Officers exist to PROTECT people, not to wage a war on them. Lastly, our police need meaningful independent oversight. Officers need to face real consequences for their actions. Please advise the mayor and council to work closely with the groups speaking today to deescalate our police policies. Thank you.

William Shepherd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is William Shepherd, and I am a current resident of SD. I am writing today because I am horrified at both the historic and current police brutality in San Diego. Our City's police force needs a MAJOR paradigm shift focusing on deescalation. Our police need implicit bias training, conflict resolution training, communication skills training, and deescalation training. We need HUMAN EMPATHY from our officers. San Diego Police MUST be demilitarized and defunded - we do not need a full set of military weaponry and gear ready for each officer. Officers exist to PROTECT people, not to wage a war on them. Lastly, our police need meaningful independent oversight. Officers need to face real consequences for their actions. Please advise the mayor and council to work closely with the groups speaking today to deescalate our police policies. Thank you.
Theresa Cunningham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of San Diego, I demand that the City make a more overt and visible commitment to protect citizens and communities from police violence and misconduct. Assault rifles, rubber bullets, and tear gas don't ever belong in our communities. The city should not be going to war with it's citizens. You MUST demilitarize all police departments. Funding should instead go to education, public health, and community resources. Furthermore, de-escalation must be the standard, and should be taught and consistently retaught to our officers if our region is to be made a safer place. Police should be held accountable if they do not use de-escalation tactics but rather escalate situations to violence using aggressive tone and tactics. A long and completely avoidable history of violence by police officers has harmed and killed too many innocent civilians, caused a destructive level of mistrust in the community---particularly, communities of color. It is causing a rising tide of anger, frustration, and despair for millions of people, including me.
Vanes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Remove military weapons, racial profiling, warnings must be CLEAR between both authority and civilian, get to know your communities. HEALTH INSURANCE and AID is also needed.

Matthew Soler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a social worker in San Diego, I urge you to take ONE ACTION STEP to help end police violence in San Diego. A report by Campaign Zero found the San Diego Police Department and San Diego Sheriff's Department stopped black people at a rate more than 2x higher than white people and were more likely to search, arrest, and use force against black people during a stop (policescorecard.org/sandiego). Based on population, a Black person was 4.5x as likely to have deadly force used on them than a White person in San Diego from 2016-18 (policescorecard.org/?city=san-diego). I support the evidence-based policy solutions proposed by Campaign Zero (joincampaignzero.org), including #8cantwait (8cantwait.org). These solutions involve updating policing practices, external accountability, and cultural humility efforts to match known best practices. Please let me know if I can count on your support for ending police violence in San Diego and ONE ACTION STEP you plan to take. Thank you, Matthew Soler, MSW
John Baez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Increase funding for the training of use of non-lethal force. Increase funding for increased recruitment for a more diverse police force. Increase funding for diversity training. Allow an all night candlelight vigil if that is what the citizenry want to do. We are your neighbors and your friends and we appreciate everything you do to keep us safe, however, we are not the enemies of the police and it is unconscionable to use military weapons and tactics on peaceful demonstrators.
Camille Jorgensen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The National Guard needs to be called off immediately. Their presence in San Diego is an unnecessary threat to the safety of our communities. Tell the Sheriff this is unacceptable! Reject the proposed budget. Divert funds proposed for police to health and social services . That is how we can best heal our communities. Listen to what protesters are asking for: health, safety and their livelihoods.
Lauryn Lang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Leslie Furcron was shot in the head with a rubber bullet by SDPD and was put into a coma, I want to ask that SDPD be held accountable for their actions against the peaceful protesters with the use of teargas and rubber bullets. Black people are being held accountable for the actions of people who are not protesting but rather there to start riots.
Anette Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	PLEASE DEFUND THE POLICE AND REALLOCATE THOSE FUNDS TO HELP BETTER OUR COMMUNITIES.

Lindsay Penhall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego County and a constituent of these elected officials, I am asking that the San Diego Police Department receive no further funding from taxpayers when police brutality and violence against Black Americans is being highlighted across the world. San Diego doesn't need more police with more dangerous equipment, they need to remove all racist, violent police officers with a history of brutality against BIPOC and majorly overhaul the way they serve and protect the public. The funding that the police department already receives needs to be redirected toward extensive nonviolent de-escalation training and racial sensitivity training. We can do better, San Diego!
Danielle Bunch	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diegan citizen and I'm tired of seeing that the current board has done nothing to address police acccountablity. I FULLY support San Diegans for Justice to implement community -led, independent review to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is for serious change, he will listen and proceed with what the community wants.
Kelly Clemen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego Police Department is a racist institution that terrorizes Black and brown communities. They have arrested over 100 people in the past week, and murdered or brutalized countless others before. The SDPD has allowed white supremacists to threaten and terrorize others, assemble during Coronavirus with police protection, while protestors marching for Black lives are arrested. As a born and raised San Diegan, who has invested my life, my labor, and my education into this city, I demand that the City of San Diego, and larger County of San Diego, defund the police IMMEDIATELY, and instead allocate funds toward public health and safety, COVID testing, supporting small businesses, and providing stimulus payments for ALL taxpayers and their families.
Erin Vierra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	While I believe adopting the de-escalation tactics are a huge step, they do not address the underlying problem of racism and "us versus them". This is a pervasive cultural phenomenon that will continue to adversely affect blacks/POC if the culture is not changed. One such example of gross and clear misunderstanding of racial bias is the CLEAR display of the "blue stripe" flag on display at the Eastern Division headquarters on Aero Drive. This flag fundamentally demonstrates misunderstanding of the BLM movement and perpetuates racial bias. Until this culture is changed and persons or depts perpetuating the culture are TERMINANTED no adopted policies will be effective.
Trung To	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police and allocate the money towards communities instead.

Casey Dominguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and citizen. The elected officials in charge refused to see the advocacy by the Racial Justice Coalition of San Diego on the chokehold ban for two years. Finally banning the chokehold is a first step, but it is not enough and the current board must address the police accountability NOW. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board. For too long police have been shielded by being reviewed by their own peers and to ensure that there is real accountability, an independent CRB must be formed. It is obvious that any misconduct on any level should never be performed internally, especially when it involves those charged to protect and serve ALL. If Mayor Faulconer and the current board wants to actually implement action and change, instead of paying lip service, steps must be taken to listen to advocates for criminal justice reform, including the step of forming an independent CRB.
Brooke	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Disperse this power into education, homelessness, poverty, etc.
Rebecka Durflinger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In light of recent events, we have so many questions. The greatest among these is, What is being done to ensure that our police officers will not use deadly force against citizens? How can we ensure that racists are not behind the badge? How can we right the wrongs that the unjust policing has caused in the past? I encourage you to answer these questions and find solutions. The peace and prosperity of San Diego depend on it.
Halei Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To protect and serve, right? What, exactly, was being protected Sunday afternoon when SDPD militarized on a peaceful protest gathered in front of the Courthouse and Hall of Justice? And who, exactly, was being served? Have you seen the footage? After HOURS of marching by peaceful demonstrators, SDPD suddenly descended and deployed violent crowd control tactics intended to intimidate, scare, and create chaos. Tear gas? Corralling protesters with police vehicles? Surrounding protesters with police lines often 2-3 persons deep? Assault weapons and riot gear? The truth is, there was absolutely no attempt by SDPD to 'de-escalate' the demonstration on Sunday. In fact, there was no de-escalation required. The demonstration was peaceful. So why was a militarized response authorized? Who approved the deployment of these 'escalation tactics'? San Diego's white allies witnessed firsthand a taste of the unwarranted violence that SDPD is capable of, something that our communities of color have been protesting for decades now. The actions of SDPD on Sunday has undoubtedly created long-lasting damage to an already fragile relationship within the community. I urge you to listen to the experiences of our black leaders. Take their recommendations seriously. Without real change, SDPD will never gain the community's trust.
Warren Moore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What would it take to have police cams on every officer on patrol (That officers would not be able to turn off), with reviews similar to that of recorded call center employees? I would like to see mandatory civilian reviews of all resisting arrests charges that do not include a charge for violent or property crime.

Haley Kitchens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Past recommendations made to the Community Review Board on Police Practices have not been adopted. Why would this be different now? There has been no acknowledgement that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero report, and RIPA data. These are some of the many reasons why there is no trust between community members and police. I am calling for an INDEPENDENT, community-led review board that is not made up of members appointed by the Mayor. We demand to increase accountability and transparency in law enforcement in San Diego. Start by bringing community organizers and leaders together, and make change by actually listening to their recommendations. This is how you can build trust; do something different than the status quo.
Sarah Street Everist	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support demilitarization of the PD and further accountability and transparency in the force
Grace Charlton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I ask you to defund the police and dismantle the racist budget in San Diego re-allocate police funding to community resources that are in desperate need. Give the people of San Diego what they need instead of what is easiest for you
jean-huy tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Tracy Han	Community Review Board on Police Practices	While a community review board on police sounds like a nice idea, in practice this board has no teeth - it has not and will not create change. We must defund the police, and put the money into initiatives that build community, give opportunity to underserved minorities, and decrease crime. As is, the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board are appointed by the mayor and not by the community. The mayor reads recommendations at the end of each year, but has not ever adopted policy changes, and is not beholden to enact any changes. These boards are just for show! Consider the example of Camden, NJ: In 2013, the Camden Police Department was disbanded, reimagined, and born again as the Camden County Police Department, with fewer officers, lower pay, and a strategic shift toward "community policing." (CityLab article). By 2018, Camden had the lowest homicide rate since 1987. These are the results from defunding the police. This is what we need to do in San Diego, not just put in place boards that are appointed by politicians who are influenced by the police, and which have no real power.

Katie McComas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I do not support any additional funding for a "review" of policing in San Diego. The San Diego Police Department and police departments nationwide have had their chance to reform and make substantial changes, and have failed to do so repeatedly. No more chances, no more waiting. It's time to take a new approach to serving the community. Cut police funding and reallocate that money to: supportive services for people with mental illness and/or drug addiction, and who are homeless, flood our low income non-white communities with cash investments and public services (roads, parks, schools, high quality public transit), and bring jobs and businesses to these neighborhoods. We are watching.
Audrey Ledesma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The people of this city deserve an independent CRB. Nothing less.
Kim Knox	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a resident of San Diego and I am tired of seeing that the current board is doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice effort to create a community-led independent Commission on Police Practices, created and controlled by the people, not politicians and not law enforcement, to ensure that accountability.
Shay Kawanomiller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Angelica Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the community review board to reject Major Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. The half a billion dollars set to fund the police will immensely add to the racial profiling that the Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) already endure due to the presence of a large well-equipped police force. Additionally, the proposal disregards the minuscule essential resources that are provided to San Diego communities. These resources include housing, health care, food, jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented individuals. There is money for these resources and that money is in Mayor Faulconer's proposal. The money in the proposal must be allocated to these highly necessary resources. If the community review board desires to see a vast change in San Diego where individuals have a secure wellbeing that is not determined by their race or ethnicity, reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal.
Remy Bautista	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.

Brennen Steele	Community Review Board on Police Practices	You say you want to talk about bolstering police and community relations yet your police force is actively assaulting peaceful demonstrators who just want their voices heard. Public safety must include an investment in housing, healthcare, food, good jobs, education, free public transportation, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. This review board is a farce with an easily influenced committee following a racist agenda. We demand an independent community led review board to accurately represent our people!
Yasmine Mabene	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is absolutely unacceptable to increase police department funding in their proposed budget while essential services like education, transportation, and healthcare are left dry during a literal pandemic. Demand that the Mayor diverts spending dollars into community violence programs and prioritizes the usage of community organizers such as social workers and healthcare responders in crisis situations rather than enable our current racist corrupt policing practices that are being funded for by our tax paying dollars. We want an independent review board not police appointed puppets.
Yassi Mesbahzadeh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The community needs plans on the following What are we doing different about hiring police ? How can we renegotiate unions to be able to discipline officers who use excessive force ? How are we assessing current officers to make sure they protect black lives? What programs can we give to good cops to help call out peers using excessive force , race profiling ?
Katie Levy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and citizen. The elected officials in charge refused to see the advocacy by the Racial Justice Coalition of San Diego on the chokehold ban for two years. Finally banning the chokehold is a first step, but it is not enough and the current board must address the police accountability NOW. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board. For too long police have been shielded by being reviewed by their own peers and to ensure that there is real accountability, an independent CRB must be formed. It is obvious that any misconduct on any level should never be performed internally, especially when it involves those charged to protect and serve ALL. If Mayor Faulconor and the current board wants to actually implement action and change, instead of paying lip service, steps must be taken to listen to advocates for criminal justice reform, including the step of forming an independent CRB.
Sarah Gibb Millspaugh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am writing to urge you to give the Community Review Board for Police Practices investigative powers that are independent of the police. Without independent investigative powers, they are too reliant on the police to conduct their own investigation. Too often these investigations amount to "reputational damage control" on the part of the police department. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.

Kaylie Erickson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Kaylie Erickson and I live in District 3. I'm calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. THIS IS A RACIST BUDGET. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. A COMMITTEE IS NOT ENOUGH. We demand to see changes to the budget. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Thank you.

Gwendolyn Tom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm writing to demand a decrease in the already-bloated police fund, and for an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices. As it stands, the boards and commissions in place—including the Community Review Board on Police Practices—only serve the police and their image with zero accountability and change. Though issues of brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color have existed for years and years, the past few days have highlighted the fact that the police do not exist to protect all people equally and without effective oversight, abuse their power in acts of heinous brutality. Public safety will be better achieved through an investment in housing, healthcare, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small business and undocumented people; not through terrorizing communities of color through militant force. The community has spoken. It's time for the government to serve.
Jodie Lorea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of La Mesa, I am appalled at the response of law enforcement to the recent unrest. I have always believed that, but for occasional bad actors, the police are here to serve and protect. I no longer believe that is the case in San Diego. We have seen police across the country respond to demonstrations by deescalating and connecting with the community, but we did NOT see that in here. I am ashamed of us. It is unacceptable that the current board has done nothing to seriously address police accountability in San Diego. I fully support the San Diegans for Justice effort to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability becomes reality rather than just lip service.
Junior	Community Review Board on Police Practices	At the bare minimum police officers that turn off their body cams should be fired.
Matt Kordell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What steps are being taken to ensure that the commitee assigned to reviewing cases involving misconduct is independent and not influenced by the prosecuting party?

Alexandra Metz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Because the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board members are appointed and influenced by police, they are not currently effective and do not acknowledge the lived experiences of black San Diegans and other people of color, and do not acknowledge that racial profiling exists in San Diego (despite the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and ROPA data). Because of this, we NEED an independent, community-led review board on police practices. As a member of this community, I ask you to defund police and instead invest in our communities. Establish a new, community-led and independent review board that can truly and objectively review and oversee actions of police against our citizens to ensure safety and protection for all. https://www.sandiegouniontribune.com/community-voices-project/story/2020-05-31/san-diego-independent-commission-on-police-practices?fbclid=IwAR1UPnORTkJNb6IA8AQA1Yu4l172xtj6DJpSFUeNq3bKMIC1hh7maXDZqFY
Adina Weinig	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The militarization of our police force is irresponsible spending of tax dollars. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. We should demilitarize, and reduce police presence within our city. First response to a 911 call shouldn't be an officer with a gun every time. Instead, we should invest in social services for our under-served populations. Safety is healthcare. Safety is healthy food. Safety is good jobs. Safety is education. Safety is mental healthcare. Safety is free public transit.
Nate	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police review board must be independent and community led, not appointed by a mayor that has supported unjust police practices. Do better San Diego.
Megan Sunderland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Megan Sunderland and I live in District 3. I'm writing to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, healthcare, food, jobs, educations, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Please invest in communities, not police. I ask that you consider decreasing the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Kyle Knoebel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is Kyle Knoebel in Chris Wards 3rd District. I am writing to demand that funds currently allocated to the police budget be reallocated to community services such as healthcare, housing, public transportation and mental health services. We also need to defund any community review boards associated with the police department and create an independent police review board.

Sara Kennedy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board's lack of substantial action to address the police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice ongoing push to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the board is not independent, it defeats the purpose. The mayor's public statements are a start, but they are only a start. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Carly Goldstein Schu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a San Diego resident, I am concerned and appalled at the devastating and senseless loss and abuse that has occurred at the hands of a racist police force. Our AAPI, LGBTQIA+, Black, Latinx, unsheltered, and San Diegans with disabilities or mental health issues are disproportionately impacted. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and Sergio Weick. Community safety is equitable access to safe housing and health care, not tear gas, rubber bullets, and a militarized police force. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. We must divest money from our police force and invest that money into our communities. Only then will our city truly be protecting and serving ALL of its residents. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable, as outlined in the San Diegans for Justice ballot measure. Thank you.
Evlyn Andrade	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Evlyn Andrade and I am tired of seeing the current board do nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants and is asking for.

Juliana Fan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Juliana Fan, I am a medical student, and I have lived in District 3 my whole life. I am here to call not only REJECT the increased budget for police, but also to call to begin the process of DEFUNDING the police department and diverting those resources to housing, healthcare, education, and public transportation. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need, instead, an independent review board that is COMMUNITY-LED and will hold police ACCOUNTABLE. Black and brown communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. NO AMOUNT OF INTERNAL REFORM WILL CHANGE A CORRUPT SYSTEM - but structural change will. Mayor Faulconer, YOU have the power to make this happen. Thank you.
Nathalie Miller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Terrie Best	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community Review Board on Police Practices Citizens Advisory Board on Police/Community Relations I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing that the current boards have done nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of San Diegans for Justice in creating a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure police accountability. If the Mayor is iserious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Francine Maxwell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, Please move this to the ballot for a vote from the people. We have talked long enough and change needs to occur. Due to COVID-19 there will be financial hardships for the city of San diego but we can tackle that with a step forward and putting trust back in our city. Crb needs to be truly independent need subpoena power it's own legal counsel it's own investigators no longer can the police police their colleagues. True transparency now is the time..come on politicans be bolder leaders you were elected not to be safe and do business as usual.

Tania De la Criz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	PLEASE READ CAREFULLY!!!!!! Our communities have experienced de esta ting loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Paul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. SAY THEIR NAMES!!!
David Tran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stacie Bishop	Community Review Board on Police Practices	When less than 1% of allegations of discrimination or excessive force against SDPD officers are upheld, it does not matter how many 'good apples' there are - the system is bad. We must dismantle policing as we know it, and create meaningful policy changes. Our Mayor, Chief of Police and elected officials must work to defund and reprioritize the system from the top down, and inside out. The police union must be pressured to change. Officers are literally getting away with murder. Here are some policy changes I would like to see at SDPD: 1. Require deescalation in our use of force policy (SDPD officers use deadly force 84% of the time without attempting non-lethal force or deescalation first - that's criminal) 2. Require other officers to intervene and stop excessive force 3. Fund mental health experts to respond to 5150 calls 4. Remove the requirement of at least three days notice for officer interrogations 5. Remove the requirement that the department ignore formal reprimands after as little as two years when officers are considered for promotion/special assignment 6. Establish a truly independent oversight committee and make our police misconduct cases more transparent to the public Full letter attached.

Robert P Contin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to urge you to support a completely independent police action review board with full subpeona powers and free from interference from the mayor's office. I spent most of my life in Minneapolis - a progressive city well-known for its liberal virtues. Yet the police department in that same city, though a festering, closed and biased police culture, has been running a "city within a city." Most unaffected people looked the other way - particularly we white people. We cannot allow that to happen here. It's not right, it's not just and we do not want to become famous through our own George Floyd. There is NO system lacking in true checks and valances that does not, sooner or later, become corrupt. Please vote for the independent board. Thank you.
Teresa Naval	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and use these resources instead for our communities: for education, healthcare & mental health support, public libraries, small businesses. Especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to affordable housing, food, healthcare, and not racist policing.
Chloe Jiang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego is a city that is frequently touted as one of the best cities to live in, but for who? We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Police brutality has devastated our communities in San Diego. Especially during a pandemic that has disproportionately affected Black and Brown communities, health care, housing, and food access need to be prioritized over funding a police force that does not protect but rather threatens the livelihoods of these communities. It is critical that our city budget should go towards investment in our community, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need a community-led independent review board that will hold police accountable. San Diego needs to do better.
Erin Tucker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must defund Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability!
Catherine Ferguson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Thank you for the opportunity to comment today. As you can see from the protests across the nation, the practice of having the police monitor and review their own conduct has failed. We need an independent review board whose interest lies in protecting the community. We have seen that internal review is ineffective and does not lead to actual accountability. Your community needs an independent board with subpoena power, independent investigators and legal counsel, and accountability to the public. The police are meant to protect and serve to community, please do so.

Katherine Hentrich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please revise and reduce Mayor Faulconer's proposed police budget for FY21. These funds must be diverted to resources that support our local communities and promote equity for all of San Diego. Reallocating these funds to address housing, access to healthcare (physical and mental), and quality of life for all will only build community safety in ways that the police cannot. If this community review board has not demonstrated its action and accountability on the systemic issues plaguing our police force, it should be dissolved. Please establish an independent review board led by the community to address police accountability.
Liam Barrett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	While we watch the systemic racism embedded in policing destroy black lives across the country, San Diego has shown to be no exception. Our use of force numbers are far above other cities in California, and we continue to allow weapons of war—and weapons outlawed in war— into the hands of SDPD. Likewise, our current review board is structurally incapable of providing true oversight we need an independent, community led, legally empowered board to hold our police accountable, and we need it now.
Briana Hofmann	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must defund Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability!
Renee Brawley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to healthcare, housing, libraries, and food, not racist policing. We must also defund the Boards and Commisions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Stephanie Rae Barker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hannah Bertles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities need equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Please DEFUND budget allocated towards police and reinvest in services that benefit our communities.

Matthew Kearney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We have witnessed a continual abuse of power from San Diego police. Do not water down the message of San Diegans. Do not divert attention with lip service and performative gestures. Comply with the demands of the people you serve - DEFUND THE POLICE. Public money needs to be allocated to initiatives that provide care to our communities - things like healthcare and housing - not police who have only proven to be harmful and dangerous to our communities. Act now. We are experiencing a crisis. People's safety and lives are in danger. DEFUND THE POLICE.
Sofia Casillas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officers Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the mayors office. We need to know these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't getting lip service from city hall. San Diegans deserve transparency, accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support San Diegans for Justice Ballot proposal.
Anna Culbertson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Anna Culbertson. I am asking you to commit to making the following changes to San Diego law enforcement policy right now: BANNING CHOKEHOLDS AND STRANGLEHOLDS, SHOOTING AT MOVING VEHICLES, PRACTICING DEESCALATION TACTICS, AND REQUIRING COMPREHENSIVE REPORTING AND INTERVENTION. Trust is more powerful than power. Human lives are more important than property or commodities. Our constitutional rights should be honored and upheld. Enough is enough. Thank you.
Cristina Castro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm Cristina Castro and I am a Latina grad student at SDSU and I am disgusted by San Diego's police practices. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board and he has not once EVER adopted changes. These committees and boards are influenced by the police, and are ONLY for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfredo Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, NOT tear gas and rubber bullets. The boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, COMMUNITY-LED, REVIEW BOARD on police practices is needed and why we cannot increase police funds. We demand to DEFUND police and INVEST IN COMMUNITIES INSTEAD! Reject Mayor Faulconer's RACIST budget. This also means: defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability.

Alexandra Milla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As citizens of San Diego we demand an end to the racial injustices propagated by the SDPD, allowed to continue through systematic overfunding and lack of oversight. We should be putting our funds and efforts into supporting our communities through equitable access to healthcare, housing, and food, especially now that we are in a pandemic. Furthermore, we should be appointing a community-led review board that holds police accountable for their transgressions. Defunding the police (along with Boards and Commissions that only serve to uphold the police and their image with ZERO accountability) and redirecting funds into community social programs, as well as appointing an independent community-led review board of the police, will truly promote the safety and wellness of our communities. We demand that these changes be put into affect, and we demand them NOW!
Theresa Asuquo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jake Schu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed our community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Devon Warrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Devon Warrick and I live in District no. 3 in San Diego. I am writing to ask that you please reallocate our city budget towards investing in communities, not police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. This is urgent given we are in a pandemic. San Diego has also experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. A community led independent review board would hold police accountable and contribute to sustainable communities.

Chaminie Dhayalan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please do not accept Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget for this coming fiscal year. Enough is enough. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of our racist police department. Community safety is access to affordable housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget needs to be used for community services and investing in communities, not the police. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold the police accountable!
Chloe Jiang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego is frequently touted as one of the best cities to live in, but for who? Definitely not for Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Cornel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey, who are victims of a brutal and racist police force. Especially during a pandemic that disproportionately affects Black and Brown communities, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food - not racist policing. Our city budget needs to go towards investing in communities, not police. To make our communities safe, we need access to housing and health care, not rubber bullets and tear gas. We must defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and that will hold police accountable. San Diego needs to listen and take action - only then can it be the best city for not only some to live in, but all.
May T	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chelsea Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Chelsea Smith and I live in District 1. I’m calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer’s proposal to increase the police budget. Mayor Faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like.

ALICIA ARAMBULA	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Alicia Arambula. I live in District 8. I am a School Social Worker and have been providing resources to my community since 2010. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera who was struggling with mental illness, Jonathon Coronel- targeted by Vista PD, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango- who also struggled with mental illness., Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Public safety is not giving more money to a violent, racist PD. Public safety is prioritizing black, indigenous, brown communities, and having a city budget that reflects that by allocating funds to housing, and community resources that aid vulnerable communities during the pandemic. Defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability.
Hannah Eubanks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl M., Raul R., Jonathan C., Aleah J., Alfred O., Sergio W., and James L. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable!
Angelica Ilagan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Lindsay Logan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Raina Dwivedi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What are the policies of the SDPD related to body cameras and an independent review committee for excessive force or inequitable treatment?
Cristina rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Stefania Aulicino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants. #PoliceAccountability #DefundThePolice
Kara Seager	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I live in downtown San Diego and I support San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led and INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure police accountability.
Kady	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our City budget should go towards investing in communities instead of the police. Mayor Faulconer's current budget would have half a billion dollars going to police and this is unacceptable. Community safety is access to housing, food, and healthcare including mental healthcare. We should be funding these initiatives instead. Furthermore, the Boards and Commissions that serve the police with zero accountability. We need a independent review board that is community led and will hold the police accountable.
Yasmeen Obeid	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't.
Ema C	Community Review Board on Police Practices	- Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Casey Turner	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm Casey Turner and as a white male, I am disgusted by San Diego's police practices. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board and he has not once EVER adopted changes. These committees and boards are influenced by the police, and are ONLY for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfredo Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, NOT tear gas and rubber bullets. The boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, COMMUNITY-LED, REVIEW BOARD on police practices is needed and why we cannot increase police funds. We demand to DEFUND police and INVEST IN COMMUNITIES INSTEAD! Reject Mayor Faulconer's RACIST budget. This also means: defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability.
Andi MacLeod	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge you in the strongest possible terms to support the creation of an independent police oversight board in San Diego. While not a resident of San Diego, I do reside in the county and know that what is decided in the city will directly affect citizens countywide. As well, I strongly support a city budget that redistributes from the SDPD to community outreach projects proven to tackle on homelessness and mental health problems, and any non-criminal problems, which police shouldn't be asked to cover. In this critical moment, we look to you, our civic leaders to lead us in transforming the SDPD into one that is transparently accountable, rebuilds community trust and engages in safer practices for all, including its own officers.
dani weir	Community Review Board on Police Practices	OUR COMMUNITIES HAVE EXPERIENCED IRREVERSIBLE LOSS AT THE HANDS OF POLICE. WE REMEMBER WHAT HAPPENED TO EARL MCNEIL, RAUL RIVERA, JONATHON CORONEL, ALEAH JENKINS, ALFRED OLANGO, SERGIO WEICK, AND JAMES LACEY - THEY DESERVE JUSTICE THRU A CHANGED SYSTEM. SUSTAINABLE AND NECESSARY CHANGE TO SUPPORT THE COMMUNITY WILL HAPPEN WHEN RACIST AND CORRUPT SYSTEMS DESIGNED TO KEEP POPULATIONS SUFFERING LOSE POWER THRU BEING DEFUNDED SO THOSE DOLLARS CAN BE ALLOCATED TO ACTUALLY PROVIDING RESOURCES FOR THOSE IN NEED. THE COMMUNITY DESERVES EQUITABLE ACCESS TO FOOD, JOBS, HOUSING, EDUCATION, HEALTH CARE. WE NEED AN INDEPENDENT REVIEW BOARD THAT IS COMMUNITY-LED SO ACCOUNTABILITY CAN BE ENSURED. WE DEMAND TO DEFUND POLICE AND INVEST IN COMMUNITIES.

Christina Ghadieh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Furthermore, the SDPD needs to be defunded, and monies need to be reallocated into the communities that suffer at the hands of police brutality. According to ACLU Campaign Zero, which was presented to Mayor Faulkner, and no action has been taken this far, Black people are at 219% higher risk of being stopped by SDPD and 130% higher by the SD Sheriffs department. THESE NUMBERS ARE UNACCEPTABLE. The numbers don't lie, SDPD and SD Sheriffs department are racists organizations and must be defunded and held accountable by an independent review board, and not by lackeys appointed by the Mayor.
Nicole Butticci-Weston	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The data compiled by Campaign Zero proves the San Diego Police Department and San Diego Sheriff's departments "are engaged in a pattern of discriminatory policing as both departments stopped black people at a rate of more than 2x higher than white people and were more likely to search, arrest, and use force against black people during a stop. Both departments not only use force more often but also use more severe forms of force against black people than other groups, even after controlling for arrest rates and the alleged level of resistance. The data also found evidence of anti-Latinx bias, anti-LGBT bias, and bias against people with disabilities in both departments' search practice." (https://policescorecard.org/sandiego) Therefore, I demand that the City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's racist proposal to increase the police budget. I demand the defunding of the police departments so those funds can be diverted to the communities of San Diego to invest in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. And I demand that the Community Review Board and police commissions that only service police, and NOT the people, be replaced with an independent community-led review board. #BLM
Kris Nieder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and it is time for stronger police accountability boards. I am in full support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability.

Kristen Caluya	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hikaru Otani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget is in complete opposition of the demands of the people of San Diego. We need money for community initiatives like healthcare and housing. We do not need money for police. San Diego Police continue to abuse their power and harm the communities they are supposed to serve. This is not an issue of light political grievances. People's safety and lives are in real danger. Defund and disarm the police immedately. Do your job and comply with the demands of the people you serve.
Jashery Rivera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas & rubber bullets. During this pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, & food. NOT racist policing. The community budget should go towards investing in the community, not police. We also need to defund the Boards & Commissions that only serve police & their image. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Jaime Seiverd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I call upon the City of San Diego to defund the police and work with community organizations to create mutual aid and community based mediation and safety practices. End police terror in San Diego and stand with black folks.
Lauren South	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs housing, food, jobs, healthcare, mental healthcare, and transportation- not more money toward policing. As well as defunding the police we must also defund the boards and commissions that do not hold them accountable and protect their image
Marie Draz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We demand an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.

Gloria Alonzo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Gloria and I am a voting citizen from Escondido. I writing today to ask you to defund the San Diego Police Department and divert resources to our communities. Specifically, health care, education, transportation, and environment. Our communities have experienced devastating loss a the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. All of these individuals have families and loved ones, just like you and I. Defund the SDPD. This will create a safer environment for our most vulnerable San Diego communities.
Cassandra Purdy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have suffered devastating loss loss at the hands of police. We remember what has happened to Earl Mcneil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. Especially during a pandemic our communities need access to health care housing and food, not racist profiling.
Ann Huynh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ann Huynh & I live in District 7. I am calling for you to defund the police and to divert resources into community needs, including housing, education, and food insecurity. SDPD's longstanding history of corruption and violence against the community are unacceptable. SDPD's treatment of its community during the wake of protests and worldwide cries to put an end to police brutality is abhorrent. How can you allow the police to teargas and shoot people who are simply asking for human rights and dignity? These are violent methods of suppression that have long lasting effects on the physical and mental wellbeing of the people. It's as if SDPD is saying, "We'll kill you if you don't stop saying we're killing people!" It is deplorable. Again, I am calling for the defunding of police and the increase in funding for community programs that serve the true needs of the people.

Alice Bourgeon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Camila Lino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Janell Torres	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we DEMAND the members of the current CRB publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jennifer Aguilar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability.
Ann Huynh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ann Huynh & I live in District 7. I am calling for you to defund the police and to divert resources into community needs, including housing, education, and food insecurity. SDPD's longstanding history of corruption and violence against the community are unacceptable. SDPD's treatment of its community during the wake of protests and worldwide cries to put an end to police brutality is abhorrent. How can you allow the police to teargas and shoot people who are simply asking for human rights and dignity? These are violent methods of suppression that have long lasting effects on the physical and mental wellbeing of the people. It's as if SDPD is saying, "We'll kill you if you don't stop saying we're killing people!" It is deplorable. Again, I am calling for the defunding of police and the increase in funding for community programs that serve the true needs of the people.

Tiffany Reyes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing, healthcare, and education, NOT tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should focus on investing in community needs, not police. We must defund the police and the sham boards and commissions that only serve to protect police and their image. We need an independent review board, led by community members and with the means to actually hold police who murder and harass the citizens of our community accountable.
Veronica	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego deserves a police department that is there to protect and serve, not one that has been militarized against its people. The public deserves a system of checks on SDPD that include independent investigators, independent legal council & the ability to subpoena records, witnesses, & information. A self monitored system is one rife with injustice, the very opposite thing SDPD is meant to provide its tax paying citizens
Leiya Factoran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Johnathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. During a pandemic our communities need access to health care, safe housing and food, NOT racist policing. MAYOR FAULCONER, WE DO NOT NEED $566.5 MILLION GOING TO POLICE AS STATED IN YOUR PROPOSED BUDGET. We obviously have the resources to fund vital services for our communities and we NEED YOU TO STEP UP.
Joely Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PUT THE MONEY TOWARD THE COMMUNITY!
John Rudolph Beaton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My recommendation is that the police are de-funded. This does not mean that no funds go to police, but rather than their funding levels are reduced.
Chelsie Dang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am an Education Specialist in City Heights pursuing my master's in Special Education. We need to sever SDUSD's ties with SDPD in favor of student-centered, restorative practices. According to the ACLU, the school-to-prison pipeline disproportionately affects Black students and students with disabilities by 100%-300%. In order to protect and heal the next generation, we need SDPD removed from our schools. On a broader note, SDPD needs to end their participation in the 1033 program which hyper-militarizes the PD. Participation in the 1033 program shows that SDPD is more concerned with punishing communities than serving our communities. In addition to ending participation in the 1033 program, we need to defund the police, Boards, and Commissions in favor of community aid and accountability. Research from UChicago and University of Minnesota shows that non-carceral approaches to alleviating crime (more streetlights, access to housing/food/healthcare/etc) dramatically reduces street crime by at least 37%. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police.

ELIZABETH G MARRO	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and it is clear that our city needs a fuller response and working relationship between the community and our police force. I fully support support the San Diegans for Justice' proposal to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants. The time has come. If not now, when?
Evelyn Moreno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Denise pomplun	Community Review Board on Police Practices	De fund san diego police budget. Bring reform to police practices. Reprimand officers who are in currently being investigated for excessive force. Terminate them. De fund all sd police!
Brett Riggle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing in response to the violence by SD police against the protests held during daytime hours in downtown San Diego this Sunday May 31 2020. The widely-and-well-documented use of force was excessive, unnecessary, and completely unacceptable. Protesters were peacefully, lawfully assembling to condemn the long legacy of unlawful police violence; they were met with just that: unlawful police violence. I implore Mayor Faulconer to take an active, aggressive leadership role and exercise his official duty of oversight over the police force, to reduce the quantity of police present at future protests, and especially to enforce the law on police themselves concerning citizens' right to assemble peacefully. This includes immediate auditing of violent actions by police this past Sunday. I'm also writing to support the Council's proposal to establish a Commission on Police Practices, independent of mayoral and police departments, with their own legal counsel, subpoena powers, and review of disciplinary actions concerning police misconduct. Finally, I'm writing to support Council and community efforts to revise the proposed City budget to better align with current civic needs, and especially to reject the Mayor's requested increase in Police budget allocation; instead: decrease police funding, reallocate to health, education, libraries, homeless-support.

Alejandra Ruiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Samantha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We are tired of the police over using their power over its citizens. As a San Diegan, I want our government to DEFUND the police.
Julio Barboza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Julio Barboza, and as a District 8 resident, I am echoing the call to defund the police. As time and time proves again, the more the police are funded, the more vulnerable our poc communities are and just traps them in a "police state". And after seeing peaceful protests turn into brutality contests by the police and even having friends of mine tear gassed and beaten, Michael Parenti's quote holds true, "The function of the police is not to fight crime, the function of the police is social control and protection of property. In order for all of us to break this belief, defund our police and redact the use of rubber bullets and tear gas in the midst of a respiratory pandemic, and instead fund our healthcare system and youth programs to better our communities for now and for the future.
April Xie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	- Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Chaska Cobalt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police force was created by racist human beings to control a black population it is shameful to continue funding the police when it specifically targets black lives. Never in my life have the police been there when I needed them. They do no serve anyone but their own egos.

Marie McCarty	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Marie McCarty and I live in Council District 3. I'm calling to ask that City Council REJECT Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit & resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing.
Shayla Nikzad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget must go toward investing in communities, not police.
Karissa Mirvis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident and citizen. The elected officials in charge have refused to see the advocacy by the Racial Justice Coalition of San Diego on the chokehold ban for 2yrs. Banning the chokehold would be a step forward but it is not enough and the current board needs to address the police accountability. If the Mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Lillian Winget	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced a devastating loss at the hands of racist police. The purpose of police should be to protect our citizens not harm them. Our city budget should go towards investing in the communities not funding racist police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold the police accountable.
Tennille Edwards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Paige Coe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	During a global pandemic our funds should NOT be going to an already militarized police force. We as a county need to do better. Police currently use their power to torment people of color (Black and Indigenous people of color in particular) with NO accountability. We need to give these funds to health care, housing, and food for our citizens to be SAFE.
Cassandra Torrez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am calling on you to DEFUND the police and invest in our communities through other resources. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. To provide more money to the police is to continue investing in racism, violence, and inequity in our communities. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable! A board that supports the police with never fully hold them accountable.

Megan K Edmiston	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to defund the police and create a city budget that goes towards investing in communities, not police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Michelle Davidson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Stephanie Sochayseng	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THR POLICE AND INVEST IN OUR COMMUNITY INSTEAD.
James Condon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a citizen of the city of San Diego. I fully support the creation of an independent police review and oversight board. I believe that only a civilian board that is separate from the police administrative structure and the City Council and Mayors office can have the confidence of the community. And that Police Oversight and Review Board should have broad representation of the City's diverse demographics.
Julie Norton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PUT MONEY IN THE COMMUNITIES
Sydney Bourassa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Serigio Weick, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey. We must defund the Boards of Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police.

Donna Cavazos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the council to DEFUND the police force and use that money to better the communities in the areas of health, parks and rec, transportation, and education. Why is it there are hundreds of police help wanted but no jobs for teachers? It is clear you all who represent us represent keeping San Diego in the clutches of racism and oppression. Who are you all protecting? Because it's not us, who pay your salary or vote you in. You should be ashamed. You must also be reminded of Alfred Olongo, Raul Rivera, Johnathan Coronel, James Lacey, and countless others who have been shoved under the rug and forgotten. We see you all being quiet. Do the right thing and defund the police and better the community in other ways.
Jake Kelsoe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San diego budget should be used towards communities not police.
Raul	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Amber Sheriff-Crow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist people. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olongo, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to healthcare, housing, and food, not racist policing. We must defund the Boards and the Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold the police accountable!
Emily Wong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize communities, I am sick of living in an obvious police state.
Sydnie Stocks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND INVEST IN COMMUNITIES!

Kathryn J Link-Oberstar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Cecilia Burns	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Danielle Arbuckle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jewell Karinen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand that you defund police and divert those resources to our communities. Defund the boards and commissions that only serve and protect police. We need an independent community-led review board that accomplishes what sandiegansforjustice.com outlines.
Isabelle Worley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is serious about change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Chloe Becky	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The amount of funding for our police forces is excessive to say the least. Our low income communities, communities of color, and shelter less on the streets need to be uplifted. People who struggle to have their basic human needs met and who don't have access to support systems and good education are often left with little options for prosperity. We are creating criminals and homeless and then paying the police to harass them. If we provided mental health care, support programs, good education, food, housing and opportunities for growth to our fellow citizens who need it most, then there will be less crime, less homeless, less need for policing. Please invest in our community!

Carley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zuri Davis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES.
Autumn Sannwald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. -Autumn Sannwald
James Condon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a citizen of the city of San Diego. I fully support the creation of an independent police review and oversight board. I believe that only a civilian board that is separate from the police administrative structure and the City Council and Mayors office can have the confidence of the community. And that Police Oversight and Review Board should have broad representation of the City's diverse demographics.
Danielle riggins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police
Yvette A.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY!
Shanelle Bennett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We deserve transparency between the police and citizens. Police need to be held accountable for their actions. We ask you to publicly stand with and support the Justice ballot.

Channing	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Madeline Silver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!!!
Skylar Vinson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize communities.
Danielle riggins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police prioritize communities
Tracy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Katherine Lorge	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current Community Review Board to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long and we demand meaningful actions for change. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, that method has failed. The politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of the public, and we will not stand for it anymore. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. Do the right thing and stand up for justice now.
Dominic la ragione	Community Review Board on Police Practices	With the current situation with the police using excessive force I believe that we need to demilitarize and defund the police in San Diego to show that they are not the enemy and are listening to the people of the city. Instead use the money and build the community and close the divide by investing into the city not only the police force.
Daniela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen and proceed with what the community wants.

Cameron Ravanbach	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Airolg Mejia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego community needs more housing, more job opportunities, better schools for our children, not more militarization on the streets. Defund police!!
Lizbeth Tapia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize our communities.
Kazendria C	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Violette Peoples	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have personally seen way too much excessive force, brutality, and racism from the SD police this past weekend. The police review board MUST be an independent entity chosen by the community to hold police accountable. During a pandemic, SD needs access to health care, housing, and food. not racist policing. DEFUND POLICE and invest in our communities.
Stephanie Walsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current review structure of the SDPD is a failed experiment. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. ' San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize the communities of San Diego county. Hold police accountable for their brutality. Fund the communities that need the resources.
Carla Raynaldo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like the City Council to defund police and invest in our communities. During a pandemic, our communities need access to to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.

Elizabeth Montagne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As an Elementary Mathematics Coach for San Diego Unified School District, I demand that you defund the Police and prioritize communities . The Mayor reads recommendations from this Committee at the end of each year, yet he has not ever adopted policy changes. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. These boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, community-led, review board on police practices is needed and why we cannot keep increasing police funds.
Talia LaTona-Tequida	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Prioritize communities!
Cole Novak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like San Diego to de-militarize our police presence in our city which often provokes instead of deters violence. By equiping our police officers with riot gear, tear gas(which is a chemical weapons considered unlawful in combat, but is acceptable for use against our own citizens), rubber bullets, armored vehicles, and other weapons of war we treat our citizens as enemies rather than our brothers and sisters. Violence is intolerable on either side, but a militarized response provokes violence when tear gas, rubber bullets, etc are used frequently against the general public who are trying to peacefully protest rather than violent rioters/looters who aren't representative of the cause.
Mary Anne Smart	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We want meaningful changes not surface-level reforms. The Minneapolis police had already implemented bias trainings and mindfulness trainings. They had already held "police-community dialogues." It didn't work. San Diego should invest in meaningful community safety; that is, we should invest in public education, in libraries, in rental assistance programs, and in mental health care facilities. We shouldn't be pouring more money into policing, because the police (and the Sheriff deputies) aren't keeping people safe. Stop firing rubber bullets at San Diegans. Stop racial profiling San Diegans. Defund the police.
Rana T	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police brutality or accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.

Luqmaan Bokhary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Christian gutierre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Justine Chen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. It is important to defund the police and put the funds into real things that provide public safety. Defund the police to allow for the people to hold the people accountable!
Jessica Boone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Diana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is not enough to talk about and review police practices. San Diego has had that opportunity for years and yet our communities have had to face the tragic losses of Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey, at the hands of racist police. That is why we must DEFUND the police and reallocate funds to investing into our community. Public safety does not equal putting financial power into the police who have time after time been a disservice and threat to our communities, especial toward our Black and Brown communities of color. If you truly care about the community's safety, funds will be invested into more equitable access to housing, healthcare, food, and NOT racist policing.
Rebecca McKee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current and proposed police budgets are ludicrous and have devastating consequences to our communities. The racist police practices are VIOLENCE against communities of color. Defund the police. Fund housing, health care, and education. Create an independent, community-led review board to hold police accountable.
Alan Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND STRENGTHEN COMMUNITIES
German Rojas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to defund the police! There is clear evidence that they are not using their funds to protect the people that really need it. Which are black people and people of color. These funds can go to better departments like to the education department, health department, environmental sustainability, infrastructure, roads and many more! It’s time for change!
Vicente Salinas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY.
Rachel Maldonado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PUT THAT MONEY TOWARDS THE COMMUNITY FOR MENTAL HEALTH RESOURCES, EDUCATION, HELPING THE HOMELESS WITH FOOD/HOUSING/MENTAL HEALTH AND TREATMENT RESOURCES, ORGANIZATIONS THAY ACTUALLY FIGHT FOR THE COMMUNITY.
Anthony rossi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police and use the funds elsewhere. Demilitarization of the police. This is absolutely Unacceptable. Please do better . Help our community. Help our people ! I REJECT FAULCONERS PROPOSAL.
Lette Berhe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Paola Torres	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of our policemen. The list is long and we remember all of them. During a pandemic our communities need access to health care, housing, and food. We must also defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an INDEPENDENT review board is community led, and will hold police accountable.

Paloma Monesi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. Redirect that money towards REAL community safety like equitable access to housing and health care.
Lydia Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, the people of San Diego need the money to be used in our local communities FIRST.
Steven Breeding	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police! Prioritize communities !!
Flor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE NOW AND START USING IT ON THE PEOPLE, OUR COMMUNITIES THAT NEED IT!
Carol Taira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, Please DEFUND the police and invest in our communities instead. We have experienced catastrophic loss at the hands of racist police. We will never forget Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, James Lacey, and many others. We need equitable access to housing, healthcare, and food—not racist police with their tear gas and rubber bullets. In police oversight we demand independence from the mayor's office; independent legal counsel; power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; and independent investigators and staff. Please listen to your constituents. Thank you, Carol Taira District 3
Kaylie Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jesus Valencia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Mark Nazal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I’m leaving a comment regarding mayor Kevin Faulcnour’s proposal to increase the police budget. I urge the council to really see what’s going on around us. Reject it. take note of what’s happening.
Chelsea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the SDPD and reallocate the budget to community enrichment.

Kate Milligan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello Mayor Faulconer, Thank you for calling a meeting after the response from city members during the city council meeting yesterday. It does seem though, that you are misinformed on the demands of our calls, and need to be clearly explained to - almost like a child - what the message is. WE DO NOT WANT YOU TO EXAMINE POLICE PRACTICES AND MAKE A FEW CHANGES TO HOW POLICE DO THIER "JOBS" IN SAN DIEGO. WE ARE DEMANDING YOU FULLY DEFUND THE POLICE AND REALLOCATE THE MONEY TO OUR SAN DIEGO COMMUNITIES. To: HOMELESS TO AFTER SCHOOL PROGRAMMING TO LGBTQ TO MENTAL HEALTH HELP US IN CREATING THE COMMUNITIES WE WANT TO SEE. I'm hoping the capital letters were large enough for you to read and understand our demands. Thank you. Kate Milligan District 9.
Laura Beebe	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Reinvest resources into food, housing, and healthcare for San Diego communities. Establish independent oversight for the police, including a) independent legal counsel, b) power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and c) independent investigators and staff.
Skye Jollie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police practices should have oversight from an independent agency— not from a board appointed by the mayor with ties to the police department. It is time for the city of San Diego to support the community you serve, not the police. Reallocate funds towards social services!
Sarah kaiser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Siena Elvins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DISINVEST FROM THE SWOLLEN POLICE BUDGET AND INVEST IN COMMUNITIES: SCHOOLS, HEALTH CARE, ETC.
Eleanor Gold	Community Review Board on Police Practices	For community oversight of police, these items are required: 1) independence from the mayor's office; 2) independent legal counsel; 3) the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses; 4) independent investigators and staff. San Diegans deserve accountability, transparency, and responsibility from their government, and as a resident of District 3, I urge the members of the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isara Suntichotinun	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! Allocate money to communities that need it most!
Yliana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards funding the community and the police.
Eureka Uno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, REJECT Mayor Faulconer’s proposal to increase police budget, redirect those funds to the communities!
Reagan Barnett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Kelly Doran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Right now, in the midst of a pandemic, the city’s budget should be directed to health care, housing, and food, not in investing in a racist police force that has inflicted devastating losses on communities of color. We also need an independent review board that will hold police truly accountable.
Benjamin johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE, PUT OUR MONEY INTO OUR COMMUNITES. Put our money to good use here in San Diego, Put our funding into our COMMUNITIES! I want to be proud of the City where I was born, and I can’t be proud of a city that doesn’t recognize its people, and their rights
Evangeline Kidd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	ONLY JUSTICE WILL BRING PEACE. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Gabriela Zappia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Gabriela Zappia and I am a native San Diegan. Our communities have experienced devastating losses at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfre Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety means equitable access to health care, housing, and food not tear gas and rubber bullets. Out city's budget should go to investing in our community, not the police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES NOW!
Jocelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Amanda Simons	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Kayla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Austin Baker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To Whom it Concerns, Please deprioritize the police and instead prioritize organizations which are much more beneficial to our community, such as public transit, education, and affordable housing. Prioritizing police will only bring further fission, tension, and contempt between police officers and citizens. Increasing the budget will only be adding to the fetishization of violence among police officers and police departments. This money, as I and many citizens agree, would be better utilized by funding such things as affordable housing, education, access to free public transit, better jobs, and mental and physical health care. Please, invest in community and public welfare, not in the increasingly militarized police. Sincerely, Austin

Nathaniel Bazer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'd like to express how absolutely sickened I was at the events that transpired over the past weekend. I was born in this city, my family is almost all former police/military and at this point in time, I am absolutely ashamed to admit that. I stand with my brothers and sisters of color in DEMANDING that the city council UNANIMOUSLY reject mayor faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget - it is objectively racist, as minority communities throughout this country are disproportionately affected by police brutality - which is perpetuated by the culture of police in this country; that it is shameful/unacceptable to speak out against fellow officers and hold them accountable. The reality of the situation is that we need to see a full overhaul of the police state in which we live, & that will never begin to happen unless mayor faulconer's proposal is UNANIMOUSLY REJECTED by our City Council members in a show of solidarity with the communities that actually make up this beautiful city that we ALL call home. Never forget that you work for us. Reject the further militarization of the police. Reject racist institutions. Let us all stand together; in love and in solidarity.
Zachary Marsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please consider the destructive role the police are playing in our communities, especially among our communities of color. The police have escalated violence and ramped up brutality in the face of peaceful protests specifically against police brutality and racism. It makes no sense. Please defund the police and prioritize communities.
Kayla	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Renee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police Invest in Communities.

Cole von Sprecken	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marian Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adolfo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	A few ways to improve: 1. The mayor should acknowledge that centuries of mistreatment to minorities at the hands of white men has been overlooked at best and rewarded at worst, by men in his same position, and that he will not stand for it any longer. 2. He will publicly vow to hold his officers legally accountable for the use of excessive force, such as tasing and killing, on unarmed men and women of any skin color or age.
Theodora Contin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Monica Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jamie Franks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Pleased to see that SDPD is taking steps to curb brutal policing tactics such as outlawing use of the carotid hold, but the people of San Diego need to see more drastic action. I am in support of the movement to defund the SDPD entirely so citizens’ funds can be allocated to public services like education and public housing.

Andrew Kelm	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Consider primarily investing in the community rather than the police. Lead with compassion, not control.
Savannah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Prioritize communities.
Sarah Millhoff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alison Dunlevy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, prioritize our COMMUNITY!!! We will not be distracted by your "considerations" of public comments. We want CHANGE! Scrap the racist proposed budget and put our money towards resources that help us build a better community, a city in which black citizens feel safe and have the means to build a better life. Do not, DO NOT disregard the people's power, do not make the mistake of thinking this movement will go away, it won't. Make San Diego an example for the rest of the country. Make us PROUD.
Laurel Carothers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Laurel Carothers and I live in State Assembly District 78. I'm writing to ask that the City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Instead, I request that the police budget is decreased, and the money is spent investing in the San Diego community. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist and militant policing. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Please invest in housing, youth, and community needs, not police.
Rosalyn Arvizu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. THIS MONEY SHOULD BE GOING TO COMMUNITY PROGRAMS. THIS HAS BEEN PROVEN TO BE MORE EFFECTIVE AND KEEP PEOPLE OUT OF PRISON.

Jess	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and allocate that budget to our community! Our community deserves health care, affordable housing, assistance with rent and our schools could better use that money! DEFUND OUR POLICE, put your citizens first! It's basic human rights to have health care and affordable housing
Andrew Merrick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the Police and prioritize Mayor Faulkner's proposed additional funds to healthcare, education, housing, and other sectors that are more beneficial to the community. Black Lives Matter. Stop Racism!
Sarah Diamond	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health car, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. DEFUND THE POLICE. INVEST IN COMMUNITIES.
Kevin Faulconer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sharmeen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Raabia jawed	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sumin Hwang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Sumin Hwang and I live in District 1. I'm calling to demand that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to give $27 million more dollars to an organization that systemically promotes and facilitates state-sanctioned violence against Black communities. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, education, free public transit, and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. For Black people, the police do not represent public safety, but rather an existential threat. We remember the police violence in our own community and what happened to Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey. In their names, and in the names of so many others who have been needlessly murdered at the hands of supposed law enforcement officials, I demand that the City Council Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Rather, the council must defund the police and invest more equitably by funding services that strengthen ALL communities. Black lives matter - abolish any force that believes otherwise.
Amanda DePaolo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Michelle Gray	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am demanding reform to the current CRB structure which has failed to protect the community from Peace Officer abuses of power and excessive force. Allowing the Law Enforcement community to govern itself is an outrageous conflict of interest. It has allowed City Hall political players and LE Unions to put their personal agendas and self-interests ahead of the interests of the community. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't being given lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we use and encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kate Hollingsworth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY
Alexa Vazquez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Katherine Oxenreiter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Staci L. Beavers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Law enforcement needs substantially more independent civilian oversight. In concert with San Diegans for Justice, I demand the following for law enforcement oversight in San Diego: *independence from the Mayor's Office; *independent legal counsel; *power to subpoena officers, witnesses, and records; *independent investigators and staff.

Divya	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrea Preciado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare not tear gas and rubber bullets. Invest in the community NOT THE POLICE.
Jacqueline Struck, MSW	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacy. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. As a social worker, voter, and avid advocate for social justice, I will be closely paying attention and informing other constituents on my platforms regarding the City Council's response or lack thereof. Please do the right thing. Thank you.
Maya Sciarretta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, thus prioritizing communities! Don't fortify an inherently racist and oppressive system. Do what is right; listen to the people.
Anna Mook	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Anna Mook I am a resident of San Diego in District 5. Defund the police. What has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olago, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey, is due to our racist police force. These losses are devastating. Tear gassing and using rubber bullets on protestors is not public safety. The money from one set of riot gear could provide essential medical protection for front-line healthcare workers. We need investments in housing, education, food, and healthcare. We can no longer fund a racist police force. They are not safe for the public. Invest in our community instead. The boards and commissions that have zero accountability that oversee the police must also be defunded. We need independent review from the community. The police should be held accountable. Police oversight needs to be separate from the Mayor's office. Oversight needs independent legal council and the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses. We need independent staff and investigation in order to hold police accountable.

Sofia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge you to reject fund proposal of an additional 27 million to SDPD which is a racist proposal because it Puts POC lives at risk and to in fact defund the SDPD. And with that Fund programs that will strengthen our communities such as covid relief funds, programs aiming to end homelessness, affordable housing, education and community health groups, programs aim at solving environmental issues, make composting mandatory while providing aid to the issue, affordable healthcare, effective public transportation, free public transportation programs that benefit and contribute to the healing for black and brown as well as LGBTQ communities. Black lives matter LGBTQ lives matter
Kristine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Melissa o	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund san diego police department! Focus on community needs. Stop killing my neighbors!!
Izzi Herman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Where do your priorities lie? Defund the police. Defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Juan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PROTECT AND CARE FOR OUR COMMUNITIES!

Maria Haro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people.
Inez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Nhu Pham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Leslie Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Raleigh Burke	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. DEFUND THE POLICE!
Shane Barkley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. We need massive investment in K-12 education, skills & trades, community infrastructure, and affordable housing initiatives. The police are here to protect the private property of the wealthy and make no contribution to this city's needs.

Amanda Chen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm writing to ask that any increases to police budget come with a mandated clause for developing training programs aimed at fostering accountability and preventing race-based discrimination. Given the tragedies that black and brown communities have suffered at the hands of the police historically, this is the absolute bare minimum that the city can do. Also, the community review board needs to be comprised of democratically-elected individuals from the actual communities they are supposed to represent.
Michelle DeBoever	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Vierra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Piper	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Now, more than ever, our community needs practical support - healthcare, housing, education, and equal opportunity for all races, genders, and sexuality. We should be limiting the budget of the police and instead using that money to build a stronger community, not a more divided one!
Aleena Arakaki	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Brenda Castillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support eh San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rosa A	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!

Viviana Lujano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	- Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, NOT police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
JR SURAT	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!
Amy Morrison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. No matter how much individual officeholders care about this issue, their office is makes them irreparably biased, which is why independent review boards are necessary for transparency and accountability. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ryan Mahle	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Community safety is suitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. We know through Police Scorecard that San Diego police and the police department are not here for the people. Do the right thing.
Zeb brown	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kevin Goh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize the community.
Jocelyn Rios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Fatima Manzano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! Prioritize communities.
Aurora I	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police prioritize communities!
Emily Plantier	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES DEMILITARIZE THE POLICE FORCE , PROVIDE HEALTHCARE WORKS WITH GEAR INSTEAD
Morgane Lauf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Krag	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alyssa Latson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi my name is Alyssa Latson I live in the 49th district, I am writing in to ask that the city counsel rejects the Mayors proposal to increase police budget and invest in our communities instead. Those funds should NOT go to the police when they are not protecting those they swore to. Those funds should go to healthcare, education, housing, and transportation. That is how we keep our community safe. Let our voices and requests be heard and turned into actual action. Invest in our community. Thank you for listening.
Theresa Brandt-Guerra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kaira Borunda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kaley Woronicz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Kaley Woronicz and I am a citizen residing in the Southbay County of San Diego. During a pandemic, our communities desperately need access to healthcare, housing, and food, NOT racist policing. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability.
Fatima El-Tayeb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Effective oversight of police practices requires an independent board, chosen by the most affected communities, with subpoena powers. It also requires the defunding of police and the immediate channeling of these funds to communities that continue to suffer from structural racism, including police violence and lack of access to basic resources.
Connor Franklin Rey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	For fiscal year 2021, Mayor Faulconer has proposed major budget cuts to environmental services, transportation, libraries, and other social programs while requesting an additional $27 million of funding for the SDPD. The budget as proposed is racist, blind to the discriminatory violence instigated by police on nonviolent civilians, and does not sufficiently protect the most vulnerable in our communities. Our communities have experienced incalculable loss and oppression at the hands of racist police. We will not forget Earl McNeill, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We need an independent, community-led review board that will hold police accountable. I urge the Council to pressure the mayor to reach an ethical allocation of the General Fund, divesting from the SDPD, and reinvesting in social services and education programs effective at the beginning of FY 2021. Black lives matter.
Lina Kern	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and reallocate funds to prioritize resources for the wellness and services of our communities. Provide budgeting that is equitable and just!

Natalya Gallo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing that the current board has done nothing to address police accountability. I am fully supporting San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure police accountability. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The recent ACLU Campaign Zero report (attached) found that the SDPD has an egregious record of over-policing along racial lines; this needs to stop and an independent review board would be a step in the right direction. The review board should be representative of the racial and ethnic diversity of San Diego. All members of our community need to feel like they can trust the police force that their tax dollars are supporting.
Crizel Diga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Olivia Thomas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must remember Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey and others who are murdered, injured, or otherwise negatively impacted by the police.
Angela Zappia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Changes are needed to the current CRB structure to ensure that police are held accountable to the communities they serve. I recommend instituting independent legal counsel, independent investigators and staff, the power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses, and independence from the Mayor's Office. These measures will help provide proper oversight and create community cohesion. As members of the CRB, I ask that you publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Especially during this time of the COVID-19 pandemic, I also advocate that budget increases towards policing be cut to help in-need San Diegans access basic needs like health care, housing, and food.
Cruz Salas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to defund police and be able to subpoena and prosecute unjust police and police practices
Marta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must remember Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey and others who are murdered, injured, or otherwise negatively impacted by the police.

Nicole Aguirre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Denise Pena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that changes be made in the following areas of police force policies which have been proven to reduce police killings: - Require De-escalation - Ban Chokeholds and Strangleholds - Duty to Intervene - Ban Shooting at Moving Vehicles - Require Comprehensive Reporting In addition, I demand that we start providing more support towards community efforts and organizations outside of the police forces in order to prevent police brutality and violence in the future. Learn more about these demands: https://8cantwait.org/
John snow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Justine Marzoni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, my name is Justine Marzoni and I am an active voter living in District 1. I urge you to immediately defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable! Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Especially during COVID-19, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Thank you.
Myra Benoist	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police, Prioritize Communities
Jon Benbow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. Please consider the community, you have lost our trust and the time for change is now !
Lisbeth Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police prioreties the community

Theodore	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must remember Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey and others who are murdered, injured, or otherwise negatively impacted by the police.
Alejandro Blea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. WE demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot proposal.
Patricia Arce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Patricia Arce and I live i n the 49th district. As a resident of San Diego, I urge the Community Review Board to divest from the current practice of funneling more than a third of the city's budget towards policing. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of the racist police. We will always remember and continue to mourn Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, James Lacey, and Dennis Carolino. The safety of our community involves equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. San Diego's city budget should be centered towards investing in our communities, not the police. As a city, we must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image without providing real accountability and establish independent review boards. As citizens, so many of us have come together to urge you to divest funding from the police, and instead, provide actual care for our communities.

Alana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. DEFUND POLICE.
Angela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY!!!

Noemi Delgado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that the police be defunded, as they are an institution built on white supremacy that has taken the lives of countless Black community-members. As we have seen this weekend alone, the police is not here to protect and serve us, but rather to repress and brutalize us. A Black grandmother named Leslie is currently in ICU fighting for her life, because the police officer shot her in the face while she was exercising her RIGHT to peacefully protest. A video taken in Downtown this weekend shows a police SUV running over peaceful protesters. WE ARE AFRAID OF THE POLICE. If I found myself in an emergency situation I would NOT call the police, because I am AFRAID of them. What does that tell you about our "public safety"? If you really care about our public safety you will stop funding the police and start pouring funding into affordable housing, mental health services, public transportation, education, food-security... these are the things that really keep us SAFE.
Abby John	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police and the institutionalized racism that promotes targeted acts against people of color. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeill, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Sara Raskin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tony Disarufino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Jazmin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! Invest that money into our youth programs free healthcare free public transportation community gardens. We are tired of getting harassed by the police! A lot of these officers need a MENTAL Re EVALUATION! They are dangerous BADGED thugges review officer AREOLA complaints & arrest history! HE OUT HERE HARASSING MINORITY! Remove him from patrolling the streets!

Norman Valdez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Stanley Johnson II	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I strongly propose defunding the police and prioritize communities! The treatment of peaceful protesters in our city these days of the protests were unacceptable by our police and they need to be accountable for that!
Aishee Das	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must focus on the communities and lives of the people of San Diego. This community has experienced tragic losses at the hands of the racist policing, but we do not see accountability and movement towards reforming or abolishing this racist system. Today we remember the innocent lives taken by racist San Diegan police: Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. The city budget must invest in the community, towards education, housing, access to food and healthcare, rather than to continue to fund the continuously racist policing in San Diego. It is a disgrace that the police have been firing tear gas and rubber bullets, recklessly driving police cars and vans through and at protestors, and arresting peaceful protestors. We MUST defund the police.
Ximena Hilario	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. ACAB ACAB ACAB!!! F*CK DONALD TRUMP. F*CK THE POLICE. WE NEED JUSTICE FOR ALL THE LOST BLACK LIVES. THIS IS NOT OKAY. F*CK RACISM.
Jen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not teargas and rubber pellets!
Deja Laelani Iapala	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Deja Iapala and I am a citizen residing in the Southbay County of San Diego. During this pandemic, our communities desperately need access to healthcare, housing, and food, NOT racist policing. We must also defund the Bord and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability.

Meghan Rossi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is not enough to reform the police. We also need to defund the police. Why is a third of our budget going to the police force? Why are we making so many arrests? Why are our jails overflowing? We NEED to be funding community initiatives that help the community at the local level with public health, housing, and safety, and we need to dramatically scale back police funding.
Bernadette Vela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl Mcneil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need and independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Anna Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Edna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, take that money and invest in our communities we are in a pandemic we need equal access to housing and healthcare more than ever. We do not need to be policed and oppressed we need to be supported.
Nam Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The lack of de-escalation practices on the police force is a contributing factor to the scale of these protests and the incidents resultant. I support a Community-Led and Independent Review Board to ensure accountability. I also demand that de-escalation training be mandatory annual training. I suggest inviting members from the Dublin Garda (their police department) to educate SDPD on keeping the peace.
Michael Spear	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what happened to Earl Mcneil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need and independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.

Jillian Janairo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Daiki Kusuhara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in community, not the police.
Kira Anderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emiliano Costes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Maxine Mulvey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should go toward investing in communities, not police. We must redirect funds from the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image — with zero accountability — to an independent, community-led review board that will hold police accountable.
Samantha Munoz-Rios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES

Zak Maybaum	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I watched SD police teargas, fire rubber bullets, and RUN OVER WITH THEIR SQUAD CARS peaceful protestors this weekend who were exercising their constitutional rights. In these instances the police were the first to react. This has to stop and it starts with stripping their funding.
Ryan Zhou	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND INVEST IN OUR COMMUNITIES
Mahely Estrada	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Flavia D'Urso	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Eddie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THD POLICE! Invest that money into free health care free public transportation improve our community's affordable housing help low income Homeowners improve their houses plant more trees help our youth build community gardens! Police need to be held accountable when civilians complain we need a independent police board! The current one has failed us! Over & over! Enough is enough! We are tired of the police harrasment!

Sherry Madison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund San Diego Police and put the money towards our communities through education programs, food distribution services, affordable housing, and employment assistance. In a time where our Black, Indigenous and People of Color communities suffer from the effects of racism from our police force, an increase in police budget will only lead to more violence and hate. We cannot forget the lives taken by racist San Diego police officers such as, Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. The current budget far exceeds the budgets for social services and takes away from the services that actually help strengthen our communities. DEFUND SAN DIEGO POLICE!
Brittin Romero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a San Diego citizen, I support San Diegans for Justice in creating a community-led, INDEPENDENT Community Review Board. We need real accountability and we simply haven't seen that yet with the current board.
Andrea Olivas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must defund the police. The police is not beneficial to the San Diegan community. It does not protect, in fact, it is hurting and actively killing our communities. We need to take funding away from SDPD and redirect those funds to organizations within the community. The budget needs to prioritize schools, housing, and healthcare.
Luis Bello V	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Abigail Paterson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Safety starts with community funding and care, not cops.
Sarah Block	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kevin Alvarado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police! Prioritize communities!! We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!!

Hunter S Lane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the SDPD. Invest in communities in other ways instead. Thank you.
Cameron	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jaclyn Rocconi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Admin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize funding the community! Fund schools in areas of poverty!
Allie G	Community Review Board on Police Practices	How can "America's Finest City" allow the San Diego Police Department to harm and seriously injure protesters who are peacefully protesting? They are exercising their rights. AND their tax dollars are paying for the police department. It's time for these officers to all respect, serve, and protect as they were sworn in to do. Please do better and invest in our community programs rather than further dumping billions are dollars of taxpayers' money to an outdated, violent department. Thank you.
Andrea Towns	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Summer Valentine	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police or police involved entities to be investigating and policing themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We ask that you take on the following policies that can decrease police violence by 72%. San diego has yet to: require deescalation, put a duty to intervene on partners of officers who use force or may be temporarily unstable, require reporting for every use of force, and ban shooting at moving vehicles. We also demand that you redirect funds away from policing and empower social worker intervention when needed instead of police response. Direct funds for education and housing to prevent crime. Enable other communities to tackle crime at the root instead of funding the entities that respond to them. Lip service won't do any good this time. We are watching. We are waiting for ACTION. Thank you for your time.
Ryan Zimmerman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize communities!
Kim Navarro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Danissa Cuevas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jose Torres	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the Police Prioritize Communities Mental health programs and homelessness

Sydney Edwards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a resident of district 1 calling on the city council and Mayor to reflect on the voices of the people they swore to represent. San Diego has come together to fight for decreased police funding and increased community development measures, and I urge you to join us. Stopping systemic oppression of black and brown lives begins on the local level and this is the time to make history. There is no shame in learning from past mistakes. And, I ask that our elected delegates do so now. Black Lives Matter Thank you
Briana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Briana, and I live in District 80. I'm calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget to a total of half a billion dollars. If city officials genuinely care about issues of public safety, then I ask that they please stop wasting millions of dollars on the pointless and ineffective expansion of policing. SEP I call upon officials to instead redirect those resources into building up communities. Real community safety cannot be accomplished without meaningful investment in housing, employment, healthcare, and education. Let us not forget that the ongoing pandemic, which has ravaged communities of color like my own, has heightened the need for equitable access to resources. Moreover, current issues of police brutality and state violence against black communities have reminded us of the importance of questioning what safety actually means. It was the same question posed when the lives of Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey were lost due to racists' police action. SEP Again, I am asking that city council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget and instead invest in services that strengthen our communities.
Sarrah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize communities!
Juliette Fierro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE BENEFIT COMMUNITIES!

Jeremy Dang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge you to defund the police, who time and time murder innocent black lives with no consequences. The past few days have showed us that they have no commitment to public safety and accountability for their actions. Why are these officers, who swear to protect and serve us, spraying tear gas and shooting rubber bullets into people's faces? The people are upset and want to grieve, yet these officers choose to respond to our call for less brutality with more brutality. Please consider defunding the police, and instead invest in more ways for the community to access health care, housing, and food. This money can be better put to use in helping our communities flourish, rather than in hurting/stealing more black lives and those who are grieving. Take a look at how many people in San Diego are calling to you for this change. Imagine your own children or siblings in the position black lives constantly have to face. This is a reality and you can change that for the better. Thank you.
Virtina Valdez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Any additional funding to a police department that practices brutality and racially motivated practices is the last thing this city needs. Videos of police SUVs driving into a crowd of people is exactly why there should be independence from the mayor's office and the ability to subpoena police records.
Arlette Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am respectfully asking that the proposal to increase the police budget is rejected. Increasing the police budget will not do anything to address the issues that we are currently facing such as, racism, health, and economic crisis. This budget is RACIST! Black, indigenous, people of color are already impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes us even more vulnerable to violence. Reinvest funds in vital services for our communities. DEOFUND THE POLICE

Briana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Briana, and I live in District 80. I'm calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget to a total of half a billion dollars. If city officials genuinely care about issues of public safety, then I ask that they please stop wasting millions of dollars on the pointless and ineffective expansion of policing. SEP I call upon officials to instead redirect those resources into building up communities. Real community safety cannot be accomplished without meaningful investment in housing, employment, healthcare, and education. Let us not forget that the ongoing pandemic, which has ravaged communities of color like my own, has heightened the need for equitable access to resources. Moreover, current issues of police brutality and state violence against black communities have reminded us of the importance of questioning what safety actually means. It was the same question posed when the lives of Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey were lost due to racists' police action. SEP Again, I am asking that city council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget and instead invest in services that strengthen our communities.
Nick Bernal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Andrea Rodi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must defund the Boards and Comissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountaibility. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Manali	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The mayors budget is currently racist. I am requesting that more funds be allocated to investment in schooling, housing, healthcare instead of the current large police funding. If you all truly care about our community you will know that investment in these resources will protect us more than the police have.
Karen Encino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIES COMMUNITIES!

Andrew Norbeck	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Andrew Norbeck and I'm writing to ask City Council to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. The budget would be better directed towards other public resources such as investment in housing, health care, food, jobs, education, free public transportation, and other supplies for small businesses as well as undocumented people. I personally believe increased policing makes our communities actually more vulnerable to violence and real safety is equitable access to housing and health care, especially during the pandemic right now. As issues of police brutality and state violence continue against BIPOC, I'm asking for City Council to consider to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities instead.
Stephanie Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize communities.
Jessica Erlich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Eunice Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE! PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Cynthia Phan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Xylina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Morgan Chen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kit Jacob	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, The people are tired of watching THEIR MONEY go towards funding the killing of Black, Brown, and Indigenous folks at the hands of the police. It is time to defund the police and support the community. It is time to work with organizations on the ground that have done extensive years of research into what this looks like. Reform of current systems does not work. It is time for new systems.
Audrea Carey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defend the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent board that is community led and will hold police accountable.
Carl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michael Peterson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police have commited a crime. Faulkner and the police chief keep passing the buck off on "anarchists". The main aggressor I witnessed was the police. They were the instigators of the violence and the mayor and chief want to just pat themselves on the back. Why did the police not STOP THE LOOTING instead of suppressing people's FREEDOM OF SPEECH. These are serious crimes against your fellow citizens and if it up to you guys no one will be held accountable. All you do is keep blurring the lines between protestors and rioter in order to shoot more innocent people in the face. The last honorable thing a police officer can do right now is RESIGN and Faulkner should be ousted right out on his hoity-toity lily-white ass. You will not address the real issue because all you care about is covering your own asses. You will just keep sweeping this under the rug until it festers underground. The police department should not only be defunded but abolished completely. Any solution that is created by this city council or PD is a complete joke. You cannot keep scape-goating police brutality on the people and the protests. You've all failed.
Cristina Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police, Prioritize Community
Bao Yang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE, SUPPORT COMMUNITIES.

Kelly Klein	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced a devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Give San Diego's Community Review Board the power and mandate to independently investigate police actions. Give the Citizen's Law Enforcement Board the power and mandate to independently investigate use of force by Sheriff's officers. Reintroduce Bill AB-3131 in its original form. Introduce legislation to establish a permanent state-level office to independently prosecute police misconduct. And reform Bill AB-392 so that the verbiage and requirements within the Bill be changed back to "necessary deadly force", as it was worded in its original form. Lastly, the law needs to include sections of extensive step-by-step de-escalation techniques prior to resorting to their "necessary deadly force".
Angelica Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, and prioritize the community. Public safety is housing, healthcare, mental health resources, education.
Briana Muñoz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Briana, and I live in District 80. I'm calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget to a total of half a billion dollars. If city officials genuinely care about issues of public safety, then I ask that they please stop wasting millions of dollars on the pointless and ineffective expansion of policing. SEP I call upon officials to instead redirect those resources into building up communities. Real community safety cannot be accomplished without meaningful investment in housing, employment, healthcare, and education. Let us not forget that the ongoing pandemic, which has ravaged communities of color like my own, has heightened the need for equitable access to resources. Moreover, current issues of police brutality and state violence against black communities have reminded us of the importance of questioning what safety actually means. It was the same question posed when the lives of Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey were lost due to racists' police action. SEP Again, I am asking that city council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget and instead invest in services that strengthen our communities.

Patrick Byrne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police are out of control. The protests were sparked by decades of police violence, and contemptuous immunity. In this case, specifically, the protests were sparked by yet another open air assassination of a black man, in public, by a group of armed white men, followed by the harassment and illegal detention of a black man by a group of armed white men. The protests were then turned into a violent riot by the unprovoked, and un-responded to, actions of a group of violent white men. Property was destroyed, which they did not halt, because their focus was establishing dominance on black and brown bodies and their allies. Police abuse their power while failing to serve their social function. They must be brought to heel, with strong oversight, and immediate, harsh penalties for the slightest infraction. No jobs for racists. No pay for racists. No bennies, no pension, no parades for racists.
Darby Halloran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD is racist. Money should be put into equitable access for housing and healthcare, as well as community programs that help EVERYONE in the community thrive. The police do not need to have funding for rubber bullets, tear gas, riot gear when citizens don't have funding for basic needs such as healthcare, housing, and food. DEFUND THE POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Saul Olivas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have lived my entire life in San Diego. The only time I lived outside of San Diego was in college, where I sought out the knowledge and skills necessary to better my community. Now that I am back, I see that my efforts are trumped by our Police Department who is complicit in wearing down our community. I ask that you defund the SDPD and direct those same funds to community programs that will actually build up San Diego.
Melissa W	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable
Rachel Brady	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Sarah Machan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeal, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Christine Costello	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is more effective and impactful in both the long and short term to invest in our communities rather than policing.

Marco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Good afternoon, I am writing to demand that we immediately change our city's financing of violence perpetuated by the police. We demand, deserve, and expect : 1) fully independent civilian oversight of police departments (financed by police budget but zero police involvement) 2) all body cam footage is to be completely inaccessible to the police department. It must be a continuous recording that they cannot turn on or off. They also cannot access it once it is recorded. 3) eliminate all military grade weapons provided to police departments, we are not in a war zone and these do not keep the peace, they escalate tensions. 4) immediate training and social work licensing requirements for all staff of San Diego police department. 5) not one penny more from our budget should go to law enforcement budgets. We should invest in education, counseling, housing, healthcare, and mental health access for those in need. 6) one strike rules for police who break the law. Prison time must be guaranteed, including the loss of badge, pensions, and the ability to be hired by other departments. These are common sense steps towards demilitarizing the police and enriching our communities.
Jhanell Kirkaldy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD needs to serve and protect ALL San Diegans in a just and ethical manner. This is particularly true for the black community, people of color, minorities, and peaceful protestors. The discrimination, harassment, and violence people of color experience due to the actions of SDPD is deplorable. We need to hold SDPD accountable for their actions and move towards a community centered approach to policing. Also, increasing the police budget will only give SDPD the ability to oppress and harm people of color (especially the black community). The SDPD needs reform, not additional funding. BLACK LIVES MATTER. Thank you.

Celina Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexandria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Definitely police and support communities!
Chelsea Platt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
laura kime	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund San Diego Police due to their unethical practices, overt racism and fraudulent charges to protestors.
Christopher Braciszewski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The community had been hurt by the forces sworn to protect. The upset we are seeing is long overdue for massive change. Here and nation wide minority groups are treated poorly by this government funded system and those excessive funds that seem to be used for the militarization of the police need to go to the communities that have struggled at their hands. Please help make San Diego a more unified community for people of color and do the right thing to unify a collective voice of change!
Troy Estrellado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arneson Sambile	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Across communities within our city there is a prevalence of racial profiling, misconduct, and police brutality from the SDPD. The excess of funds given to SDPD should be prioritized to better serve our community. We can increase community safety by funding access to health care, housing and food. The Boards and Commissions is not capable of effectively serving our communities and there is a need for an independent review board that is community-based so that we hold police accountable for their actions.

Jackelyn Ambriz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Redirect that money to the community. We need healthcare resources, housing assistance, accessible food and testing for COVID-19 NOT racist policing.
Kiernan McCloskey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	There is video evidence of San Diego police officers engaging in brutal uses of force against peaceful protestors, focused far more on Black protestors. This violence speaks to policing in San Diego and beyond as the arm of a racist, militarized state. The City plans to spend half a billion dollars on police who are the true "outside agitators" committing violence in Black communities. The police must be defunded. Police funding would be far better spent on actual community needs, determined through a participatory public process. For example, in LA the People's Budget determined top community priorities for funding to be in housing, supporting small businesses, fighting climate change, public transportation, libraries, parks, public works, and the fire department. Reimagined community safety was also a top priority, including a "community-led safety model including investing in mental health and harm reduction approaches" as opposed to traditional approaches to law enforcement.
Amanda Guagliardo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What happened on live TV this weekend to peaceful protestors in the city of San Diego is a disgrace. I call on our community leaders to stop escalation practices immediately. This includes the requirement to de-escalate and requiring comprehensive reporting of any and all situations where an officer points a firearm at an individual. Innocent people are being killed and peaceful protestors are being injured - America is watching. The time for police reform is now.
MADISON Riley NEES	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adrian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Simple message. I am a trained EMT, San Diego native (born and raised) providing medical assistance and services for 7 years now in the city of San Diego. I have VOLUNTEERED for local law enforcement events as the medical team. Two days ago I was aiding a NINE year old child who got tear gassed from one of your officers at the Downtown area, mid assist what did officers, the people who swore to PROTECT and DEFEND me do? They shot a 7 inch rubber bullet to my back. I was providing aid. I was peaceful. I was vulnerable. And YOU attacked me. Defund the police. This isn't a protect, but a bully. Use the budget for the homeless, education, medical support, or even to support OUR black lives that reside in OUR city of San Diego. Disappointed.
Sophie Dunkelberger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!

Aiden Bliss	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD needs to be defunded. Instead, invest in supporting our struggling communities Be responsible, do your job. Thank you.
Arrian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize communities!!
Mallorie A King	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nicole	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's response to police brutality and violence against peaceful protestors is unacceptable. Time and time again the mayor has directly ignored and written off the requests of the community. His blatant disregard for the requests and demands of constituents only further alienates him from the issues at hand. We don't want "policy reform" for SDPD because as history has shown, this does absolutely nothing substantial to change the problems we're facing. Defund and divest from SDPD. Disarm SDPD. Invest in communities through equal housing opportunities, health care, food, education access, and countless other areas that desperately need attention in San Diego. Mayor Faulconer's proposal is racist and upholds a system that is successful in its oppression of black and brown individuals. Enough is enough. Defund the police department or resign.
Dorian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda McNamara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cindy Dominguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kacey Williams	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to be diverting funds from the police and investing in our communities instead.
Z Julius	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please consider investing funds into COMMUNITY services, not the police. Policing and criminalizing of peoples and communities leads to harm, economic setbacks, and continues cycles of poverty, oppression, and violence. Revitalizing community projects and services is the way to help people help themselves and practice harm reduction and restorative justice, rather than punitive justice that disproportionately affects marginalized peoples such as communities of color, LGBTQ folks, and the homeless-- some of the most vulnerable in our society. Especially during COVID, it's essential to put money directly in people's lives and services-- funds for PPE for our healthcare providers is one crucial example of places money would be better used in community wellness than investing in police.
Renelle Gadon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and put the $27 million proposed increase to the budget of police back to the communities, funding projects that will benefit Black communities and education for the youth. Also fire the La Mesa office Dages for racially profiling and wrongfully arresting Amaurie Johnson.
Danielle Coony	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. The city's budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Riley Mallory	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We have tried so many times to create community review offices for the police, and despite best efforts these offices have struggled to make change. The reason for this is simple - these organizations are created toothless, with no ability to force cooperation from the police department. The police department determines what information they can access, and what actions are taken against the officers. Time and again, we have seen that police culture places protecting police far above protecting its citizens. It's time to make policy that makes police angry. It's time to make policy that makes police uncomfortable. It's time to make policy that can see police practices change and police officers sanctioned and fired by an independent body. Unless we want to be here, time and again, cleaning up the toxic byproducts of police misconduct and impunity.
Jason Pedowitz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Isabella Belluscio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Isabella, I am a San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board continue to do nothing to address the police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants. We would not let criminals hold their own trial so we should not let police officers under criminal accusations to do so.
Jocelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Savanna Lloyd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police prioritize communities! In 2016 the sentencing project found that research "demonstrates that investments in drug treatment, interventions with at-risk families, and school completion programs are more cost-effective than expanded incarceration as crime control measures." In 2016 a report from the Obama White House Council of Economic Advisers found that "a 10 percent increase in wages for non-college educated men results in approximately a 10 to 20 percent reduction in crime rates." Focus less on stoping crimes and focus more on preventing them From happening in the first place. Invest in your people.

Richard Gonzalez Jr.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am asking we reject Mayor Kevin Faulconer proposal to increase police budget and immediately ban the use of tear gas, rubber bullets and all unnecessary force. The police's already bloated budget does not need to be increased and especially so after causing permanent physical harm on unarmed peaceful protestors during a pandemic. We need to defund the police and put that money into physical/mental healthcare, affordable housing and education.
Ruth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chelsea Platt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community is already suffering at the hands of police. We need to reject the proposal to increase the police budget; we should in fact DECREASE the budget going into 2021. The people will not compromise on this. Hear us loud and clear. Not an additional dollar should be spent on police that actually oppress us, not protect & serve us. We need accountability for police. We need to reinvest funds into other community resources.
Kayla Salminao	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police prioritize communities!
Rheanna Mckinzie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Savina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the cops now!
Emily Strand	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the SDPD and put those funds towards community resources like housing, healthcare, food, education, and public transportation. Thank you.

Kristen Ryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, my name is Kristen Ryan and I live in District 3. I believe the current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. Please give the people subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. We deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. I also hope to see alternatives to policing implemented, i.e. sending social workers/counselors to respond to mental health emergencies, NOT armed police officers. Other cities across the US are already doing this (e.g. Dallas). Homeless people, veterans, and other San Diegans who are experiencing mental health issues need help and resources, not violence. We remember what happened to Alfred Olango and Raul Rivera. We need you to do better for the people you represent. Our lives depend on it. Thank you for your time.
Stephanie Meador	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced a devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Give San Diego's Community Review Board the power and mandate to independently investigate police actions. Give the Citizen's Law Enforcement Board the power and mandate to independently investigate use of force by Sheriff's officers. Reintroduce Bill AB-3131 in its original form. Introduce legislation to establish a permanent state-level office to independently prosecute police misconduct. And reform Bill AB-392 so that the verbiage and requirements within the Bill be changed back to "necessary deadly force", as it was worded in its original form. Lastly, the law needs to include sections of extensive step-by-step de-escalation techniques prior to resorting to their "necessary deadly force".
Stephen Kurpinsky	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Living 4 blocks from the central police station, and the barricades on Broadway, I ask that the city council and our civic leaders direct funding away from the local police force, and instead divert funds to fair and non-racist social programs such as housing, health care, education, and public transit for the good of all San Diegians. We don't need more riot gear for our police force, we need to invest our tax dollars back into our neighborhoods.

Luisa Dones	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Diana Frias	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth Austin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a San Diegan it is my belief that we need to defund the police and use that money for our communities. Demilitarize and defund the police.
Jessica	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities
Mariela Cadena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must allocate more funds towards our communities instead of the police! We must defund the police and reject the racist budget proposal for 2021, instead those funds should go to our communities and to those in need.
Andrew Carmona	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Andrew Carmona City council district 3 The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Justice for all

Violet Navarrete	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Griffith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is not enough to require our police officers to be well- versed in de-escalation techniques- that is the bare minimum that the community expects of a force meant to "protect" and "serve" us. Enough is enough- we must stop funneling a ridiculous portion of the city's general funding into the police department and stop allowing the police to police themselves. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kate A	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t being silenced. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. The city budget should go towards supporting San Diego’s communities, not police.
Natalie Mitchell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Daniela Cano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I’m writing to express my rejection of the mayor’s proposed budget that calls for increasing the SD Police Department’s budget by $27 million. Those funds would best be allocated to departments/services that provide healthcare, housing, aid small business owners, education, and food, helping public safety and eliminating the need for increased policing in the first place. We need to invest money in the community, not in rubber bullets and police officers who have chose to attempt to run over protestors in downtown San Diego. A lot of people call for the creation of an independent board of investigators that will fairly investigate officers accused of crimes, instead of police officers being investigated by police officers which allows police officers to commit crimes with impunity.
Diana Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsey Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE THE COMMUNITIES!!
Zalma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PUT THE COMMUNITY FIRST! HOLD THE POLICE ACCOUNTABLE FOR THEIR ACTIONS!
Autumn Hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND SAN DIEGO POLICE DEPARTMENT IMMEDIATELY!
Gabriella	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police, Prioritize Communities!
Andee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and invest in communities
Kate Petosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please invest our community's money into OUR community, not in the police. Spending more money on policing disproportionately affects the safety of our Black community members as they experience racist violence from SD police. We want public safety for ALL members of our community. Please divert these funds to invest in access to housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Please listen to the will of our community!

Riley Stenehjem	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The budget proposal must be rejected. This money should be redirected to the community. Providing free/improved public transit, public housing, investing in education and youth programs will much better serve our San Diego community than giving even more money to a militarized police force that uses violence against peaceful protestors. We must work to defund the SDPD and invest in our people. We have suffered devastating losses at the hands of the police, and remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Paul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, ans James Lacey. Say their names! Defund SDPD. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that serve the police and their image and do not hold them accountable.
Michael Parreno	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund police and prioritize communities.
Ashley Berg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND SPEND MORE ON SUPPORT OUR COMMUNITIES!
Natalie Zhang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello. Our community has suffered devastating loss at the hands of racist policeman- do not forget what happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfread Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey (to name a few). Community safety is EQUITABLE access to housing and healthcare as opposed to police firing rubber bullets and tear gas, especially during the COVID19 Pandemic. Impacted individuals deserve adequate healthcare, food, and housing- not racist policing. Although money was allocated for police to patrol areas frequently used for public congregations, but was police presence ultimately effective? It was not. The City should not continue wasting its money.
Matt Hansen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I want to ask the city not to defund our police I would like to see the money instead used for ROE and de-escalation training. I am a Marine veteran and I have done the types of training I am referring to. I think our police are a good thing, I just want to see them trained to the most effective and efficient way possible

Stacey Uy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This board is appointed by the mayor and no policies for true change have ever been adopted. We don't need to hear that "you're listening," because it's obvious you're not, and we refuse to fund this false pretense of listening to the community. In December 2019, the ACLU provided you with the Campaign Zero Report. YOUR DATA shows that 1) Black people were more likely than white people to be stopped in 85 percent of police beats throughout the city and in every area of the Sheriff's Department's jurisdiction. 2) Black people were 130 percent more likely to be stopped than white people. 3) Once stopped, Black and Latinx people were also more likely than white people to be searched, arrested and to have force used against them. 4) Sheriff's deputies were also more likely to arrest or search people perceived to be LGBTQ and gender non-conforming, and 5) People with perceived mental disabilities also faced more severe disparities during San Diego Sheriff's deputies stops than people without perceived disabilities. You did nothing. You're still doing nothing. No more second chances, it's time for an independent, community-led review board now.
Hana Obata Fineman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. Especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not unjust policing. Aiding the needs of our communities is the real way we will fight crime.
Markuz Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Conner Paez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Marlo Smith	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To whom all it may concern, I am writing to express my conviction that what our community needs more than heavy policing, which has proved to be disruptive and violent, is more financial support for what the community really needs: things like more educational opportunities for underprivileged kids, easier access to healthcare, rental support (San Diego is expensive and many of our underpaid essential workers, who are most often BIPOC, keep it thriving!), community recreational programs, and nutritional support, among many other things. Safety starts in a safe home with a full belly, and having one's basic needs met. Not with a police officer who feels they have more power and privilege over another human and fills a BIPOC with fear at the very sight of them. The current budget proposal is majorly disproportionate. Events over the last week should illuminate that San Diego is funding violence and inequity. I urge you, please be on the right side of history and defund the police. Peace.
Claudia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police department invest in your community invest in the people that live there
Mitchell Kadowaki	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Joy Fuliga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alexia Yorba	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brian Wintz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It's been clearly demonstrated over the weekend that the SD Police department is utterly failing its communities. Its responses to peaceful protests were violent and racist, and in no way representative of the supposed duty to protect citizens. In addition, the notion that more funds will solve the problem is absurd and ignorant. Police should be representative of the communities they serve, and the current boards of review that exist only for a better public image need to be defunded in exchange for independent review boards dedicated to real, significant reform. Stop the militarization, it only breeds fear rather than promoting safety, especially in communities of color.
Pass	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Prioritize communities instead of using so much to fund police. Also remove those "thin blue line" flags from City vehicles. That is not an American Flag, so it has no place on city property, just like any other political sticker.
Jasmine Young	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experience devasting loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to healthcare, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards of Commissions that only serve police and their image with zero accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Kristel Alvarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY
Lauren	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Caryn Josepher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable!
Adrian del Riego	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police have unlawfully arrested 100 + people, used tear gas (which is banned in warfare), and shot a black elderly woman in the face during the peaceful protests of the last week. It is clear that this Review board should move to defund THE POLICE AND INVEST IN COMMUNITIES AND FIRE THE CURRENT CHIEF OF POLICE.
Diego Armando Ceballos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, My name is Diego Ceballos and I am a grad student of color at SDSU and I am disgusted by San Diego's police practices. The Mayor appoints the members of the Community Review Board on Police Practices and the Citizens Advisory Board and he has not once EVER adopted changes. These committees and boards are influenced by the police, and are ONLY for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfredo Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, NOT tear gas and rubber bullets. The boards do not acknowledge our communities' lived experiences. This is why an INDEPENDENT, COMMUNITY-LED, REVIEW BOARD on police practices is needed and why we cannot increase police funds. We demand to DEFUND police and INVEST IN COMMUNITIES INSTEAD! Reject Mayor Faulconer's RACIST budget. This also means: defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. Thank you for your time, Diego A. Ceballos
Sharee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Blm
Victoria	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need an independent, community-led Commission on Police Practices. Please put this item on the November ballot.
Paul Schumacher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. Of 300 civilian complaints between 2016 and 2018, only 14% ruled in favor of civilians. 0% of 75 use of force complaints ruled in favor of civilians. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

DANIEL KANG	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DIVEST AND DEFUND THE SDPD, DUE TO PUBLIC REVIEW OF RECENT MISCONDUCT OF THE POLICE FORCE. Re-direct funds to areas that need it, such as public housing, environmental, etc.
Zahira Chayeb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am asking the City Counsil REJECT Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. The budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund to police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This budget does not show consideration for the public's safety. Public safety must include an investment in housing, healthcare, food, jobs, education, public transit, and resources for small public businesses and undocumented families. Increasing policing makes our community vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to the police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. I ask again, please do not fund the SD Police more money, and invest in healthcare, education, and environmental services for the community.
Dominique	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am completely devastated that the type of murder we witnessed of George Floyd last week has our own cities' police officers ramming their cop cars at protesters in downtown San Diego. This kind of tyranny and bigotry will not be tolerated by our community .
Lillian P.	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police need to be defunded. The lack of funding going towards education, public health and homelessness is an embarrassment to the community of San Diego and contributes to the systematic oppression of the black communtiy. To continue funding the police means continuing the funding of deaths in the black community. DEFUND RACISM.
Karina Araiza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Isabel Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
stacy luu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Ariana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Liza Finnegan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Our communities will not tolerate this injustice to its people. We have seen 1st hand the brutality SDPD is capable of & it's directed towards Black & POC. White supremacists were out past curfew in Santee Sunday & police allowed them. This is a racist budget.
Thu nhan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ben	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police budget and instead invest into the under-funded communities through public infrastructure, schools, social services and educational programs.
Vicki Mestler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I ask that you defund the police and allocate the money towards education, social services, health/mental health care, housing, food and other resources that will benefit and build our communities rather than wreak havoc upon them. Currently the police receive 1/3 of the city's budget and Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million is absolutely heinous. This will only further equip the departments to become more militarized to continue targeting, attacking and destroying black communities, as well as the communities of the indigenous and people of color. Defund the police, invest in the community! Thank you.

Sabrina Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to healthcare and housing not tear gas and rubber bullet, redirect the overblown police budget to our community
Jakob Woo-Ming	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing. We cannot rely on the police to police themselves any longer. We encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Van pham	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants. We are tired and we want change and will not stop until we get it. Thank you for your time.
Katrina Wheeler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund money allotted for the police departments and use that money to build up the community. The actions of the police towards peaceful protesters is alarming, the funds would be better spent toward the education system, housing for the homeless, loans for small businesses, etc.
Sterling Lipscomb	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power over officers, records, and witnesses, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexis Suskey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As our representatives, it is your job and responsibility to defund the police department and invest our tax dollars in areas that serve our community. Housing, healthcare, jobs, infrastructure, education, and free public transit are all great places to start.
Judah Coker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize resources for community services that would actually better systemically address crime.
Justin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jenna Ryan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police department. Our city has SO many needs that could be met with just a fraction of the SDPD budget - affordable housing, public education, healthcare services, social service programming, city road and building maintenance, etc. and our community deserves better. Thank you for your time.
Diana Robbins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community has experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earle McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear has and rubber bullets.
Jocelyn Freitas, RN, BSN	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the Mayor and SD Police and Sherif to immediately abopt and adequately enforce #8cantwait: ban Chockeholds and strangleholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all alternatives before shooting, duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, use of force continuum, require ALL force to be reported. Police departments that have adopted these 8 policies kill significantly fewer people. I also press those in power to do so, to stop the brutalization of those taking to the street in protest. The use of excessive force and escalation is unacceptable. There is a black grandmother in ICU right now from being hit in the head by a rubber bullet while peacefully protesting in La Mesa. This is shameful. Many of the people in the streets are our BIPOC youth, stop brutalizing them, arresting them, and further entrenching them in a system of policing and incarceration that has taken and destroyed countless lives. Our community needs funding directed for care and vital resources, not more militarized police and jails/prisons. Thank you for your attention.
Kevin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sarah Stelpflug	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of the city of San Diego, I am emailing to ask that you decrease the police budget. Issues of police brutality continue to harm black and brown communities, which call attention to the mismanagement of our resources in ways that generally do not act toward the safety of minority groups. As the police already receive 1/3 of the city's general budget, please consider that it would be more beneficial to the community to allocate the city's resources to public safety, including equitable access to healthcare, housing, food, free public transportation services, and education.

Yzabel Finnegan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police department. San Diego police officers behavior toward innocent protester this week has shown the community they do not have its citizens best interest in mind. Increasing their budget only rewards them further giving them leverage to terrorize civilians. San Diego will be ruined at the hands of SDPD. Redirect funds to schools, mental health services and public housing. Invest the money into disenfranchised communities.
anna zeltins	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Caitlin Hickey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and use the funds for communities. Divert the $27 million from the CARES act to communities and not police brutality. I pay for your service and I demand you stop killing American citizens and with weapons that break the Geneva Code.
Kate Zielinski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE! PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!
Brianna Harville	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! Support the community and offer more affordable housing.
Daniel Farooqi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In light of generations of police brutality against black lives and the current tear gassing and shooting of peaceful protesters, I oppose Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. So often the police protect property over people and strike fear into communities rather than help them thrive. I propose that instead of using 37% of the general fund for policing, we use it to build our communities up by funding equitable housing protections, physical/mental healthcare, accessible public transit, and quality education. Funding for our communities is even more urgent now during the COVID-19 crisis, which is disproportionately killing black lives.
Jessie McIntyre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current Community Review Board structure has failed the community for far too long. We need an independent Commission on Police Practices controlled by the people, not politicians and certainly not the police. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and that the needs and safety of the people are placed first. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current Community Review Board to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lucia Mosca	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer direction for the city's police advisory & oversight boards to discuss potential changes to the budget is not enough. The Mayor appoints members of the Community Review Board. We need independent police oversight as we work to defund the police. Our city budget should go towards investing in the community not police. We should invest in ameliorating the root causes of crime rather than policing symptoms. Let's not police homelessness; let's get affordable housing. Let's not police our public transportation, let's get free public transportation. These type of investments will actually lead to community safety. We need these services more than racist policing.
chris cleary	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Aaron Barranco	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY.
Grace West	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.

Shelvie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Lynna Le	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Chance Austin-Brecher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! no money for riot gear, no money for tear gas, no money for rubber bullets, and no more money for racist policing! Reinvest the budget in community health, food banks, mental health, and rental assistance/affordable housing!
Kelly Kanuha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Esther Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Francis Anderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, prioritize communities!!!
Marleigh Jenkins-Morse	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Overall, but especially during a pandemic, our communities need access to housing, food, and health care. Not racist and violent policing. Please stop investing in violent practices and create preventative programs.
Melinh Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	How will you encourage peaceful protests and what will you do to support the black lives matters movement? What can you say to the people who are scared for their lives when being encountered by a cop?

Sophie Podeswik	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND the police and INVEST IN THE COMMUNITY instead! Housing, education, and access to healthcare help protect our people, NOT racist/militarized policing. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. THE SYSTEM HAS FAILED US FOR TOO LONG. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office.
Julio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the SDPD! Pave the roads and build libraries instead of militarizing our communities.
Alyssa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	UNFUND THE POLICE COMMUNITY
Anna z	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear San Diego City Council, This past week San Diego has seen SDPD use aggression towards peaceful protesters exercising our first amendment right resulting in violence and harm. SDPD utilized tear gas, concussion grenades, rubber bullets and more. These actions have resulted in rioting, looting, arrests of peaceful protesters, the harm of children, BIPOC, disabled folks and supporting members of the community. This is not okay. The police currently receive 1/3rd of the city's budget. We ask to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million. We ask to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. We ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to re-distribute the funds where needed. We demand the funding go towards social services, physical and mental healthcare, accessible public transit, housing, quality education, parks, access to food, and support to underserved communities instead of placing police directly into communities with a majority of BIPOC causing a vulnerability to violence. Nurture your communities and keep those at risk safe instead of targeting them. Break the pattern police departments have followed for years resulting in systematic oppression and racism.

James Marsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I was encouraged by San Diego's decision to stop sanctioning neck holds. Unfortunately, good policy is not enough if police officers do not feel obligated to pay attention to it. I hope that the city considers policies that have data behind them: demilitarization, refusing to cooperate or share resources with ICE, and considering reworking or even abolishing police unions, which protect the "bad apples" that have fostered so much distrust in our communities. One immediate step towards accountability: It should be official SDPD policy that officers who are caught covering their badge numbers while responding to these protests should be fired. Officers who are taking steps to avoid their personal and professional responsibility are completely failing to meet the needs of the time. Thank you for your time and consideration.
Luis Angeles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE!!! Allocate more money back to to our community instead.
Rachel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexis Ballesteros	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES.
Michael Colby	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to find better alternatives to public safety. Instead of putting more responsibilities on the police, we need to reallocate new and existing funds to programs and new entities that can better serve the community in a more specific and specialized way.
Eileen Logue	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police; prioritize communities!
Jewell Karinen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves. We cannot allow City Hall and the Police Officer Association to ignore the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We do not want lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we demand that the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexander Redler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities. We should be ashamed of ourselves for giving these cowards military grade equipment to use on our brothers and sisters. Give our money back to the people that will grow the community, not shoot us in the face.

Yanet	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and invest in our communities! The police budget should not receive 1/3 of the city's budget. We need to reallocate resources, funds, and responsibility away from police and toward community based models of safety, support and prevention. Reinvest in our community and stop the violent disruption of low-income and/or minority communities. This is SD Police rioting and not keeping San Diego Citizens safe. https://twitter.com/greg_doucette/status/1268028872404217857?s=21 Leslie Furcron is in a medically induced coma because of police. https://www.nbcsandiego.com/news/local/family-calls-for-removal-of-officer-for-shooting-rubber-bullet-at-womans-face-in-la-mesa/2338554/ Rubber bullets are lethal!
Rica Perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Hall	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand that the police receive significantly less money from the county budget. I also demand you ban chokeholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all alternatives before shooting, ban shooting at moving vehicles, establish use of force continuum, and require all force to be reported to prevent police brutality and unnecessary force.
Gabrielle Yamout	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The San Diego Police Department should be defunded. We remember the names of Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey, who our community has lost at the hands of racist police. Our community resources should be sent to prioritize health care access, food security, and affordable housing. We MUST eliminate Boards and Commissions that only serve police with no accountability. Put the power in the people's hands through independent citizen review boards, not a a Community Review Board APPOINTED BY THE MAYOR.
Caroline Rudloff	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police need to be trained in de-escalating situations and we need to reply on them less. Many calls to 911 should be handled by a social worker. Defund the police and fund public transit and health care.

Laura Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hannah Ross	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the San Diego Police.
Kelsey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE, INVEST BUDGET IN COMMUNITIES! In WARREN v DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA 1981, Justices ruled police do not have a constitutional duty to protect someone. "Protect and Serve" holds no value, especially in wake of the racist murders of George Floyd, Breonna Taylor and countless other blacks. Police need to be held accountable. The city of San Diego must realign its values in its budget. Our public schools are deplorable. Arts and mental health funding for public schools is virtually nonexistent. Our roads are a disgrace. The list goes on.
Alexandra Arevalo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need justice and change. The riots in San Diego aren't half as bad the the riots are in different states, but if no change is done, the end result could be the same. We demand change.
Rae Henderson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police procedures MUST adopt all of the "8 Can't Wait" reforms, immediately (see image attached). San Diego has yet to implement 5 of the 8 policies, and must enact them NOW.
Savanna	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! We demand accountability and just reform of our current systems. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sage	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Campbell-Mosley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Taylor and I live in the College Area and I am scared and appalled by the funding and militarization of the police. Defund the police! Invest in community! Education, food, mental health, housing, energy, etc. None of this crazy racist nonsense. The Black community and San Diego community as a whole will not stop.
Bianca Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!!!!
Issa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a taxpaying citizen of San Diego I would like to greatly oppose the mayor's proposed budget plan. Instead, we should defund the police and divert these resources to our communities . We also need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Jeremiah Hartman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Mina Fonze	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sam Bozoukov	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund police operations and invest more in our local communities, such as (mental) healthcare, schools, after-school programs, public transport, and other services that need our help to strengthen the community.

BRITTANY	Community Review Board on Police Practices	BLACK LIVES MATTER. Non-LETHAL DEESCALATION PRACTICES MATTER. THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Nicole Peiris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The city of San Diego has an opportunity to listen and make change after community members took the streets and and flooded the council meeting on 6/2 with over 1000 phone calls in support of DEFUNDING THE POLICE and INVESTING IN COMMUNITIES. Myself, as well as other San Diego constituents experienced police force first hand when peaceful protesters were tear-gassed and sprayed with rubber bullets. THIS IS UNACCEPTABLE AND INEXCUSABLE. SHAME ON THE SD POLICE DEPARTMENT. The police already receive over half a billion dollars from the SD budget, and should not receive any more funding. These funds should go towards health care initiatives, mental health support and affordable housing to San Diego residents.
Elyse	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Cynthia Fernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We have several on-going issues in our city, ranging from the lack of educational resources for our public schools to the lack of affordable housing for our under-served communities. I understand the importance of public safety, however this proposed budget for policing is not only extreme, it is also VERY alarming. With these proposed numbers it is apparent that our city's elected officials DO NOT hold the well-being of their constituents (the community) at the highest level of importance as they should. It is apparent that time and time again, our unique voices have been ignored, and that what we need is NOT what we are receiving. I am hoping that with the current state of our city, THE COUNTRY, and the collective outcry from the community that you each see how important it is to invest in our community, in our people, in black lives, in people of color, and all of us who live, breathe, sleep, eat, and die here in San Diego. We all have come together to ask that you PLEASE DEFUND THE POLICE and FUND OUR COMMUNITY. FUND OUR FUTURE!
Anona Gupta	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE and DIVERT RESOURCES TO COMMUNITIES. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability
Melanie Leung	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
mandy Sullivan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Kian Ezaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Natasha Weiss-Lauder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elle Manzano	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
William Li	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD student, and I wish to see the current board to be improved to better address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Ashley M. Roane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a public school educator and concerned citizen in SD. I believe we need to invest more in education and communities. It is inhumane for the police to inflict serious harm to protesters, amidst so much turmoil and crisis. I am concerned that more lives will be unnecessarily lost & that police are adding to the collective trauma that already exists. We are in desperate need of a new call for public safety.
Gracelina Narvaza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

KATELYNN SLOSS	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. I am appalled at the tactics being used by SDPD against peaceful protesters.
Molly Shearee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Grace Blakistone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police.
Joaquin Torre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arely Castillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I want to see our community grow in an environment of peace, love and respect. This will happen once you have defunded the police and prioritized communities! It is blasphemous to see the constant persecution against black people and POC. You should also look into firing the truculent thugs AKA the gestapo officers that mistreated and abused young Amaurie Johnson on the viral video. Thank you! Please begin doing your job to protect vulnerable civilians. If you can not see yourself fulling your current position, I suggest becoming an essential worker at a local restaurant. Perhaps a little humility will serve you some good. Have a great day!
Ashley Hudson-Hines	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Allison Zau	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I submitted a non-agenda public comment to the board for the June 2, 2020 meeting and it was not read into the record. If this is the COMMUNITY's board then it needs to allow the community to speak. The city needs to divest from further weaponizing the police. As seen in the past week, not to mention the long history of police brutality in San Diego, the police only exists to serve their own needs, no matter the physical, emotional, and financial toll on the community. It is not viable to use violence to subjugate and intimidate the people into submission. No person, GUILTY OR INNOCENT, should be put to death. Period. I demand the defunding of the police and the allocation of those funds into social services that will actually help and heal us, such as providing housing, food, education, and healthcare. I demand concrete action from this board: hold our elected officials accountable!
Hallie Jacobs	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandra De Hoyos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge you to deny mayor Faulconer’s request to increase the police budget. Not only would this be a racist action given the political climate, but this money can be used for bettering the community; specifically during this pandemic it would be outrageous and ridiculous to not use this money towards health care instead, and other ways to better our Largely POC Community that has been impacted by the pandemic: education, housing, and employment resources; And that is to name a few. Giving more of our tax paying money to the police would be stupid and racist, thank you.
Michael Dwyer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is readily apparent that police escalation of force in America is wildly out of hand. To ensure that SDPD is never the perpetrator of any of the heinous acts we've seen committed by the police on national outlets over recent days, I encourage the Community Review Board to demand that the SDPD adopt Campaign Zero's 8CantWait items: Ban chokeholds & strangleholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all other means before shooting, duty to intervene, ban shooting at moving vehicles, require use of force continuum, and require comprehensive reporting. These measures have been shown to reduce police violence by 72%. Any officer violating these rules OR not complying with body camera requirements, should be immediately removed from the force without pay pending an independent investigation. https://8cantwait.org/

Erica nambo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is _____ and I live in District _____. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people
Maxeen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund and de-militarize the police! Reallocate that money to community services and people who actually need it.
Gabriela Miramontes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Morgan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It has been proven time and time again that Police cannot police themselves. Independent review will protect our citizens, and police officers from the police themselves. This is why I submit this statement: The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

David Gravich	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego needs an independent police Review Board which has subpoena power and has disciplinary power. The Board needs to review police training from the beginning regarding use of force to body worn camera procedures. We need a board that understands police are there to protect citizens. The police have signed up for this job knowing the risks. San Diegans demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. The police cannot police themselves. We must police the police.
Abigail Salmon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police, and put more of the city budget back into initiatives that actually help our community, like housing and health care. Thank you for eliminating the neckhold as a deescalation strategy, but that's the bare minimum. We also need an independent review board that provides true oversight and transparency into police violence and misconduct. That's especially true right now as there have been many reports of police escalation and brutality at peaceful protests, and we need committees who will honestly and transparently investigate these issues, and make the perpetrators accountable. So far I have heard zero city leaders address these issues, instead blaming all escalations and violence on fringe group protesters. It is absolutely insane that a third of the city budget is being allocated to policing. Please listen to the people protesting and support real positive change by investing in communities, and defunding police forces which disproportionately punish and oppress innocent black and brown people.
Edwin Oliva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget wants to give 37% of the general fund to policing, rather than the enrichment of our communities, (ex. transportation, library, parks and rec, environmental services, renters). This is absolutely unacceptable during a public health and economic crisis. Defund the police. They have shown nothing but efficiency at terrorizing and targeting us.
Mariela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	defund police, prioritize communities. police with more power will not make us feel safer. COMMUNITIES are the ones who deserve funds. people who actually do good.
Mark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY PROGRAMS. STOP STATE-SANCTIONED VIOLENCE. We need more funding for education, affordable housing, more counselors, social workers, psychologists... NOT COPS.
Jessica Dang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Alice Bachour	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Police should be defunded and disbanded. Resources are better spent on public transit, health care, and the houseless. Police only succeed at escalating situations and resorting to violence. They harass the houseless who in many cases are mentally ill. Tear gas was used in the La Mesa protests on the 30th of May, an asphyxiating gas in the midst of a respiratory virus.

Marcela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities
Emily Norton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a student of criminal justice I am learning about a system fraught with issues, we must destroy this broken system that has disproportionately taken the lives of black people and brown people. The lack of police accountability is appalling and must cease immediately. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Brandi Paniagua	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The pain, violence and horror I watched LMPD unleash on peaceful protestors last Saturday is the basis for these comments: The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Safia Yusuf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Daniel Steinman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	CRB has failed victims of police misconduct. We demand 1. Independence from the mayor's office 2. Independent legal counsel 3. Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses 4. Independent investigators and staff
SAMANTHA ELLIOT	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, invest in the community!

Jennifer Daelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I believe that Black lives matter, and that there need to be reforms to protect Black San Diegans from police brutality. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ana Fabian	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The safety of the community is not and has never been prioritized by police. Black lives have never been prioritized by police. It has always been clear and now it is impossible to deny that police are a threat to our communities. Defund the police and invest that money in community initiatives!
Beth	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ashley Toutain	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Teresa Grippo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	defund the san diego police department and prioritize our communities.
Kiona Daelyn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB and policing across the city and country have failed to protect and serve the community, and have cultivated unsafe and terrorizing environments for Black citizens. I demand the CRB adopt independent investigators (not chosen by the mayor), subpoena power, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. I encourage the CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal, without restriction. No one else should be killed or traumatized by police in our city. Building trust and community means officers must be held to a higher standard of accountability.

William Connacher	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support reducing funding for the police department. I propose that if officers intentionally cover their badges, turn off their body cameras, or destroy video evidence then they be fired. I propose that a more rigorous process be in place to authorize the use of tear gas, rubber bullets, and other anti-protest methods. I propose that officers who use aggressive rather than defensive force should be severely punished and depending on the offense, be prosecuted. I propose that the immunity of police officers be reexamined.
Ryan Shepherd	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and invest these resources back into our communities!
genevieve cogar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Jennifer pahua	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Kelly Halaszynski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and prioritize communities. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities not towards police.
Samantha Reid	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE SD POLICE. Redirect funds to community services like outreach, Emergency rent assistance, Homeless outreach and medical/healthcare programs. These police threw flash bangs and tear gas and shot rubber bullets at me and hundreds of peaceful protestors this weekend. Enough is enough.
Alexandrina Gonzales	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Haylie Frees	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Saul Avina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE SD POLICE. Redirect funds to community services like outreach, Emergency rent assistance, Homeless outreach and medical/healthcare programs. These police threw flash bangs and tear gas and shot rubber bullets at hundreds of peaceful protestors this weekend. Enough is enough.
Dustin Millsap	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am very frustrated by the lack of accountability of our San Diego Police Department. Though most are honest and ethical people, the institution is inherently unjust. The abuse of power is rampant. Law enforcement should not ever be above the law. The only way for citizens of San Diego to be able to trust their officers is by creating independent commissions made up of community members and groups to oversee the actions of the SDPD. It is not fair to the people to have a quasi-independent commission made up of police officials and government officials. Please rethink the ways in which law enforcement and accountability are administered! The police work for the people!!!!!! Therefore let the people hold the police accountable through oversight.
Zasha Zuniga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Together with myriad of people, we are calling on you to implement stricter training and hold SDPD accountable for the violent acts committed by their police officers. Instead of allocating MILLIONS to the police department, we demand that the taxes we pay be directed towards affordable housing, healthcare, jobs, education, mental healthcare, and free public transit instead. DEFUND THE POLICE DEPARTMENT AND ALLOCATE MORE MONEY TO COMMUNITIES, ESPECIALLY LOW-INCOME COMMUNITIES.
Sara Prieto	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE SAN DIEGO POLICE DEPARTMENT. REDIRECT THOSE FUNDS BACK INTO THE COMMUNITY AND THOSE MOST IN NEED.
Carrie K	Community Review Board on Police Practices	During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, certainly not tear gas and rubber bullets and racial profiling.
Ana Zamudio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and invest in communities!

Mia Angelina Ottobre	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Jorge Mendez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am calling to defund the police force in all of San Diego, the crimes SDPD has committed and have not been held accountable for is UNACCEPTABLE. When the system meant to protect is the one instigating violence and terror through its own community, then it is definitely time to uproot that system for it is clearly not working. The people will not stand for the violent crimes you have committed to your own community. Black lives matter, blue lives don't exist it is a job.
Dylan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and invest in equitable access to housing, healthcare and also defund Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with no accountability. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable.
Nizhoni Hawthorne	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Isabella Amansec	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I reject the increase in police budget, as it is incredibly racist aimed to target Black people! The increase does nothing for the community but THREATENS and HARMS them. The government should instead reinvest that budget back to the community to fund for more job opportunities, accessible healthcare, affordable housing, education, for the residents of San Diego at large. It is incredibly frustrating how much money is being wasted on Law Enforcement who FAIL to do their job as protectors, and perpetuates the very inclinations of a slave patrol (with police being the contemporary word for slave patrol). Do better San Diego, REINVEST that money back into the community who need it more than your incompetent police force.
Gabrielle Ybarra	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not policing that's been proven with ties of racism and injustice.

Hillary Zhou	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Peter Swan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hayley Aguilar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is and should be the priority. However, this is not achieved through additional funding for our police - which already make up 1/3 of our annual budget. Instead, we should invest in our people through equitable housing access, healthcare, environmental protections and other sustainable causes. We remember Earl McNeil, Paul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfredo Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Increased policing and spending are not the answer. We need accountability. We need increased community resources. We need empathy. We do not need rubber bullets, tear gas and other "non lethal" attacks. We do not need to further empower racist law enforcement agencies that target Brown and Black communities in San Diego. Please consider allocating the 2021 $27 million increase of the police budget to projects that will have a direct positive impact on this city we all love. Thank you.
Sabrina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD student and San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & their demands.

Leah Shuchetr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a native San Diegan, and the recent past-president of the Mission Hills Town Council, communicating now on behalf of my self and my family. We have presented police oversight to our community in public forums and it is clear that the current CRB structure has FAILED the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Perry Schoulten	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ariana Michel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE OUR COMMUNITIES: SHELTER FOOD AND HEALTHCARE!!
Victor Mata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hold police accountable for all instances wherein force was utilized. Defund the police department and require officers to hold their other officers accountable. Do not allow officers to instigate violence at peaceful demonstrations. Use more de-escalation tactics. Make joining the police department more restrictive and evaluate officer mental health regularly.
Adriana Mendoza Favila	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, we need more support and funding for our communities. Our communities know best what we need. Police have clearly failed in protecting the community, they only defend their own.
Shaila Mulholland	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing as a San Diego educator and a mother of black and multiracial children. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Meli Apone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!!
Mattique Gray	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current crb structure has filed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of City Hall and the Police Offer Association overshadow the needs of the public. WE DEMAND subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayors Office. We Need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice Ballot Proposal.
Kelly Einbinder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Hayley M Lekven	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
Thomas Galan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	CRB has failed victims of police misconduct. We demand 1. Independence from the mayor's office 2. Independent legal counsel 3. Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses 4. Independent investigators and staff
Hilary Watchler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing today to ask that the City Council NOT approve the mayor's request to increase the police budget. Considering the economic fallout of the COVID-19 pandemic and the proposed cuts to other departments within the city's budget, I am horrified that the mayor is proposing to increase the police budget. We need more investment in education, housing assistance, libraries, parks and recreation services, and health care. Given the devastating police violence we are seeing across the nation right now, it is even more evident that we do not need more funding for police. Instead, we need to redirect those funds to communities that are disproportionately affected by the COVID-19 pandemic, which also happen to be the same communities that are disproportionately affected by police violence.
Xiomara	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES

Ariana Carrion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Hayden	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I ask to reject Mayor Faulconer’s proposal to increase the police budget and defund the police instead so we can start to invest in our communities.
Mysteri LeMay	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Sydney Lang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chandler Donoho	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Azniv	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alex Piscatelli	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer's newest ban on chokeholds is not enough. I'm calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Thank you.
Alisha salas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Police need to be better trained and to know they are not superior above others and to be trained to deal better people they come in contact with

Ryan Haynes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to add my voice to the chorus of my fellow citizens all calling for sweeping changes to our City's police department, and our community's entire concept of what public safety means and how we can achieve it. There can be NO tolerance for instances of brutality, of the overuse of force, or of the targeting of our Black, Brown, and LGBTQ citizens. There MUST be transparency in how you deal with instances of misconduct, and proactively addressing the greater systemic dysfunctions that allows for them. I urge you to make these changes, to take seriously the gravity of your role, and to deeply consider how funds spent on SDPD could be applied to non-police crises resources to actually protect the safety and wellbeing of ALL San Diegans! Please join in this great chorus of your neighbors voices, please use your position and your influence to make positive change in our City!
Nicole Villanueva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police . Prioritize Community Funding.
Tiana Vargas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Laura Vegar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police brutality needs to have a zero tolerance policy, and an independent board should be charging police officers for crimes. They should not be investigating themselves- they drag their feet and cops who murder go free. Defund the police and invest in communities instead.
Ron Douglass	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defend the police and prioritize funding for our communities!
Denisse Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, community is always first.

Melissa Wendell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to defund the San Diego Police Department and have these funds go towards communities and people who need them such as the following: -homeless food & shelter -money to support Small businesses -housing for homeless women and children -Money to support businesses owned by POC (people of color) -investigating racist actions and conflicts from SDPD
Penelope Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund SD Police Department and prioritize at-risk communities!
Serena	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Serena and I am a resident in District 2. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in our communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Ben Schmanke	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Ben Schmanke and I reside in Point Loma. I would like to raise a concern about how militarized our police has become. It sickens me to see police in riot gear using tear gas and rubber bullets on citizens of San Diego like they have been this past week. A peaceful protest I attended was disrupted by tear gas without warning on Sunday, May 31st. The police are supposed to serve our citizens, not attack them.
Charles Michael	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Dear Board, my name is Charles Michael and I live in District 1. I write to echo the sentiments offered by others. The current CRB structure cannot continue. We need independent oversight and full accountability. The board must institute subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and have full independence from the Mayor's Office. I, along with my fellow San Diegans, need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, because we as citizens deserve transparency and accountability in policing. I encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Never forget why you are serving on this panel. You are serving in the public interest.
Amy V Thompson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Chris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Chris and I am a resident in District 2. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in our communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Brooke	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police officers use excessive force and are a great example of absolute abuse of power. They are human beings and need to be held accountable. If they were doing these things to white men and women they would be charged and sentenced in seconds. They need to protect and serve. Bottom line. Not be the problem and abuse, shoot, murder innocent people. Get your shit together and do something right for once. It is a disgrace to life in America these days. Turn it around. Be the change
Brianna Bautista	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Samantha Dice	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rose E Ahrens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Hannah	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I saw a police officer begin to pull his gun on an unarmed black man this weekend. I begged the police to stand in solidarity at the protests, and they turned to violence. I not only beg you to deny the budget increase, but to also replace the chief of police for failing to support the citizens of San Diego. We don't need protection from black people, we need protection from the police. Denying the increased budget is insufficient, the racist cops need to be handled. I can give you the cops badge id and photo as well. We demand justice.
Sydney Masaki	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alicia Montellanos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Raul Gomez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Prioritize our community, primarily K-12 schools.
Alexia Arani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm writing to express my opposition to Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, and to ask that we divest from policing and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. Funds should be used to provide resources that actually keep our communities safer, like housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, and health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. We need to curb police brutality, the targeting of Black, Brown, and LGBTQ communities by creating non-police systems of care for communities in crisis. In the meantime, we need a transparent accountability process for handling police brutality, misconduct, and murder -- police should not be the ones governing themselves!

Tony Piccolo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Olivia Ho	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, I'm Olivia Ho. I'm demanding that the SDPD are defunded, and that Mayor Faulconer's proposal to INCREASE the police budget is rejected. We have seen countless times that the SDPD and all police forces systematically and brutally abuse black communities — to think that their budget would increase to half a BILLION dollars is deplorable. That money could be used to fund organizations that ACTUALLY protect and serve communities, like food banks, public schools, low income housing, and mental health services. Save black lives. Defund the SDPD.
Karehma Simon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Garrett Distasio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund SDPD and invest the money back into the community
Andrew Ruiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Jennise corcoran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a native San Diegan I am disappointed The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jade Connolly-Cepurac	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Amy Schools	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD used rubber bullets, tear gas, and flash bangs on peaceful protests on Sunday. We all witnessed them firing into the crowd for no reason other than to escalate and incite chaos. Peaceful youth-led gatherings have been met with military officers, rooftop snipers, and hundreds of officers in a show of intimidation and force. Both of these gatherings have been corralled into single blocks, boxed in on all sides like the police are just waiting for a chance to fire on the crowd and cause maximum harm. And these are the citizens you're meant to protect and serve! And yet you're gassing them. This is unacceptable! Why are the police so afraid of the citizens having a voice? There needs to be an INDEPENDENT oversight board), better de-escalation tactics, no more rubber bullets and tear gas, no more randomly declared "unlawful gatherings". (why is it unlawful? because they panicked when the police escalated?) I hope the SDPD is taking a good long look in the mirror and is ashamed of the ways they have contributed to this national policing crisis.
Grant Bradley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Carla Nell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a taxpayer and I'm asking you for police reform now and I'm asking that you never use teargas against the taxpaying citizens of San Diego ever again.
Chris West	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need independent oversight of SDPD, and the power to subpoena SD police officers. How are we going to do this? CRB is now toothless.

Hans perez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alfredo Morales	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Taylor Garewski	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The police force needs not a budget cut and to have the remaining budget reallocated to training and mental health evaluations. I witnessed first hand the SDPD be violent and confrontational with peaceful protestors, pull a gun on an unarmed black man, and generally show disrespect for citizens. This has to stop and funds need to be poured into supporting our community, not the militarized police force we currently have vanessa campos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, ICE, & CBP. Invest money into resources and services that will help disadvantaged citizens! Invest in housing, healthcare, education, transportation, and environmental services.
Kayla Brayman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Chasen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Adelina Richards	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Jonathan Seibel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is not for Faulconer, but for everyone else. Police force exists to protect private property of the ruling class. Dismantle the police force!
Felicha T McCoy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Adriana Mulla-Carrillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a resident of CC district 3 I am in support of defunding the police and investing in our communities of color. During a pandemic that has highlighted existing structural failings for Black, Indigenous, and, LGBTQ+ communities we need to be focusing on access to housing, food, and transportation- NOT racist policing that hurts our city. We also must defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve the police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable!
Whitney A Seymour	Community Review Board on Police Practices	CRB has failed victims of police misconduct. We demand 1. Independence from the mayor's office 2. Independent legal counsel 3. Power to subpoena officers, records, and witnesses 4. Independent investigators and staff
Erika Estacio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our city needs to redirect increased funding towards community needs rather than policing. We have experienced devastating losses at the hands of police, including the lives of Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Public safety means keeping our communities safe and improving access to housing and healthcare, rather than funding for tear gas and rubber bullets. I'm also asking for an independent review board that is community-led and will allow us to hold police accountable.
Maya	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In order to keep our communities safe the police must be defunded and those funds must be allocated to resources that will strengthen our city. We need access to food, housing, good paying jobs, quality education, and public transit, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Jessica Avila	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Allex Raines	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, invest in COMMUNITIES!

Alyssa Arce	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Alyssa and I am a college student in San Diego. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Systemic racism is prevalent -- especially in the police who swore to serve and protect. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We believe that community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to healthcare, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We also need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Marta Haile	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Defund the Police! Prioritize Community!!
Mayte	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
LeVan Truong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I can’t stress enough how HARMFUL Major Falknors proposal to increase the police budget is. 27 Million?! Absolutely ridiculous. You need to REJECT HIS PROPOSAL. There’s absolutely no reason to invest so much money in an a department that fails to protect the people. You want to protect the people? Invest the money in housing especially for the homeless community, invest it in health care, better prison reforms. Education. Literally anything that actually will help and not hurt the people. Btw please BAN RUBBER BULLETS they are very much lethal as we’ve all seen recently. Thank you.
Michaela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Daniel Hathaway	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Melissa Lizarraga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must focus on the communities and lives of the people of San Diego. This community has experienced tragic losses at the hands of the racist policing, but we do not see accountability and movement towards reforming or abolishing this racist system. Today we remember the innocent lives taken by racist San Diegan police: Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We must defund the police and redirect those resources towards our community. I call for those resources to be used toward education. It is tragic to see schools within San Diego have completely different access to resources. I want every student across San Diego to have access to a good education. As well, I want the citizens of San Diego to have access to food, healthcare and affordable housing. It is a disgrace that the police have been firing tear gas and rubber bullets, recklessly driving police cars and vans through and at protestors, and arresting peaceful protestors. Defund the San Diego police!
Francesca Fong	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi my name is Francesca Fong, and I am commenting to ask that City Council reject Major Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. The relentlessly unjust and racist policing system has no need for extra funding, especially when so many other public services receive so much less. Black communities and communities of color are at a disproportionately high risk of police related violence, not to mention homelessness, poverty, and so much more. Why fund a system that contributes so strongly to these injustices? Do not condemn violence or protests if you are going to generously fund the very system that is killing so many of your own citizens and being protested every day. We are in the midst of a pandemic. We need healthcare, food services, housing for the houseless, etc. Our money should go towards investing in the communities that need it the most, not the institution that is killing them. You have the power to make change, to save lives. By accepting this proposal you are doing exactly the opposite. Do the right thing .
Kristi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Lexxus Carter	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We WILL NOT allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aidelen Montoya	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michaela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.

Bonnie Ludka	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Using data on police stops, searches, uses of force, and arrests, obtained through public records requests, Campaign Zero finds evidence of harmful discriminatory policing in San Diego against people of color. The Community Review Board on Policing Practices must be independent and community-led. The San Diegans for Justice propose a measure that would require independent investigators and legal council who do not answer to or represent the police. It would have subpoena power over officers, witnesses and documents. It would be independent from the Mayor's Office to protect it from political influence. I urge you to use your position to advocate that this gets added to the November ballot. Finally, there is still time to change how we fund our communities. The California Legislature is considering Assembly Bill 2054, The Community Response Initiative to Strengthen Emergency Systems. The CRISES Act would create a pilot grant program where community-based response would replace police response for local emergencies. San Diego should consider that social workers, addiction and mental health councilors provide a safer response than police and should distribute funds accordingly. "Budgets are our moral documents" as Brittany Packnett Cunningham reminds us. Use your position to fight for an anti-racist budget.
Dustin Walker	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the CAB hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) by one-third and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Rania Bilwani	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD student and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led and INDEPENDENT community review board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community and proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.

Jeremy Abril	Community Review Board on Police Practices	After going to a peaceful protest on Sunday and being trapped in by police along Broadway in Downtown before getting tear gassed, I am speaking up about the tactics. The tactics were out of nowhere. And the surrounding of the protesters only scared them. Everyone at the time was 100% peaceful. These tactics to shut down voices are in humane, cruel and evil.
Charlene Obana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing.
Thomas Konrad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Jaqueline	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Krystin Llanes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like Mayor Faulconer to know that while I appreciate declaring this emergency meeting, there is no room for negotiation of our request. Our communities have experienced the tragic loss of human lives (such as Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathan Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacy) at the hands of the San Diego Police. To increase public safety, we need to reallocate police funds to our community needs such as housing, healthcare, child care, education, and transportation. Our city budget should not be allocating half a billion dollars to police. We must also defund the boards and commissions that only serve police and their image without ANY accountability. We need an independently-led review board that will finally hold police accountable.

Talia Orr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Gabrielle Pizarro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. It is clear that allowing the police to continue policing themselves is dangerous. We cannot allow the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs and safety of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Tiffany Streitenberger	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am asking that city council reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. The funding should be given to the community directly through education, healthcare, housing, student assistance, and overall Black Lives Matter organizations. Please defund and disarm the police organization.
larry vida	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. During this pandemic we need more resources for the community and not for the police. I suggest to rethink funding the police as the backlash will be twofold. We need a better approach that helps both sides and not marginalize the other. We need an independent review board that is community focused and will hold police accountable.

Shani Stewart	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face. Decrease heavy policing at our schools!
Paco Carbajal	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego's Restorative Justice programs have shown tremendous successes around healing and recidivism in the past 5 years. How will RJ programs be supported systematically moving forward?
Ronak	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Amanda Cruz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Madelyn Rivera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	defund SDPD. Invest in our communities
Elly	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We ask to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget and instead, choose to invest in our communities by directing funding towards services for social services, physical/mental healthcare, accessible public transit, housing, quality education, access to food, and support for underserved communities. We also support the November ballot measure that will overhaul oversight and accountability for SDPD. Public safety for the citizens of San Diego should remain a top priority and we must ensure SDPD is held accountable for the community they serve.
Hayley Carmody	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am the daughter and granddaughter of two retired SD city fire fighters. I understand the great risk civil servants take everyday, however this is no excuse. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

April Hovav	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need a truly independent police review board. A board with members selected by the mayor and counseled by the city attorney can not be truly independent. San Diegans wants a review board with independent investigators, the power to subpoena law enforcement records and witnesses, and the ability to investigate domestic violence by law enforcement officers. We also want funding to be diverted away from the police force and towards social services that address the root causes of crime. Police officers are being asked to address issues like mental illness and homelessness that would be better addressed by professionals trained in those issues and by healthcare and housing services. There is a plethora of research showing that increasing funding for the police does not lead to more safety for all. What does reduce police violence is independent investigations and prosecution of officers. And what reduces crime is housing, economic opportunities, youth programs, and healthcare service. Invest in real security for all San Diegans.
Ana Mariela Sanchez Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY!
Stacy Ma	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Romina Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Romina and I live in District of San Diego. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. I ask to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our community

Dhalia Balmir	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Adam Bixel	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please divert money from racist and violent policing and put it into strengthening communities through education, affordable housing and healthcare. Those are what truly keep people safe.
Aubrey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	it is your responsibility to not turn a blind eye, and it is your responsibility to see to the enrichment of ALL of San Diego's communities! It's proven that mental health conditions including addiction improve and heal when quality of life is seen to. You are now faced, in this period that will live on in American and World history, with an opportunity to provide desperately needed and long overdue measures of meaningful public safety to the people you are responsible for. When the astonishing proposed half of one billion dollars, 1/3 of the general fund, can be by your power distributed to the aid of Behavioral Health Services, Self-Sufficiency Programs, Child Welfare and Child Support, Public Health Services, Juvenile Probation Services, Adult Probation Services, Capital Budgeting, Housing and Innovative Housing, Public Defenders, Parks and Recreation, Planning and Development Services, Environmental Health, County Libraries, Senior Services, Registrar of Voters service, and transportation, all of which are distastefully unevenly distributed and grossly disproportionately underfunded compared to what is proposed to be budgeted to the police force. The police force that we all see plainly unobscured now as violent, manipulative, agitating, gang mentality having, old guard of a now openly racist, classist,
Gabi Schwartz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Ronnesha Johnson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Emily Petree	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Amanda Mohrlock	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The excessive actions of the SDPD cannot be condoned and cannot be rewarded with a larger budget! You must decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. PLease invest in communities, not police! Reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget.
Nathaniel Petrovick	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police reform is needed. San Diego should not be exclusively enjoyed by a few wealthy locals and out of towners. We are a divers community of people who want to be able to thrive in a place we call home. The San Diego police department, along with many police departments in the United States, is an over-militarized force who has been harming civilians with impunity its time we take back the power from the police officers, and instead allow them to reclaim their role as public servants
Natalie	Community Review Board on Police Practices	WE ARE NOT AMERICAS FINEST CITY IF OUR POLICE THAT ARE SUPPOSED TO PROTECT AND SERVE ARE GASSING AND SHOOTING INNOCENT CITIZENS. DEFUND AND ABOLISH THE POLICE. WE NEED INVESTMENT IN COMMUNITY NOT THE POLICE WHO ARE MURDERING AND HURTING CITIZENS WITH OUR TAX DOLLARS.

KRISTINA Lapira	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natasha Morgan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Not only is the funding towards law enforcement excessive, but some practices are appalling. Regarding funding, crime would be a lot lower if the majority of the budget was invested into community programs that improve well-being. Crime arises out of necessity, but if the city took better care of their constituents, there would be less necessity. SDPD must receive rigorous training for extensive time periods, multiple tests confirming ability and ethics, and learn non lethal, minimum harm physical forms of deescalation paired with psychological tactics as a first resort, rather than turn to sheer, brute force for every infraction. Quotas must be abolished, especially when there is not enough crime to meet them, which results in police hounding vulnerable populations (minorities, youth, homeless, LGBTQ) for no other reason than personal gain. Extensive background checks must also be conducted, as many officers have a history of white supremacy and power complexes. If women cannot work office jobs for posting pictures at the beach, gun toting law enforcement must not be hired if they post pictures in "Make America White Again" hats. Additionally, SDPD must end a culture of impunity for officers who act against the law and hold individuals accountable.
Jeneva Diaz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and reallocate the money to community resources! Invest in the community!!
Martina Lopez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and to the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay White	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Viviana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lauren Roads	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Lauren Roads and I was present at the peaceful protests over the weekend. While it is true rioters destroyed property in the late evening, there was no justification for the unprovoked tear gassing of the crowd with (and I emphasize this) no warning. I have attached a link a video that proves that the crowd was cheering peacefully and were not given two warnings in English and Spanish before the gas was released. There were families there, there were children there. This tear gassing with no warning caused hundreds of people to run into one another in chaos and I saw several people fall. Why was it not announced on a loudspeaker? How could you put hundreds of San Diegans that were protesting and mourning in harms way? https://www.instagram.com/p/CA6zKYpHJ93/ I can send the video in higher quality to your email, I just wanted to be certain it was viewed before the forum. PLEASE SEE LINK
Alyson Katz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The CRB has FAILED the community. The police are UNABLE to police themselves. This community deserves better. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Nancy La	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and give it back to communities, education, and virus protection instead. The funding for one set of riot gear can also fund 55 different sets of PPE.
Austin Gent	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Edward Marro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We want an independent commission to review police misconduct. It is immediately and equally important to ensure that our police protect themselves and others by exhausting all efforts to prevent violence, make fellow police officers intervene when they see something wrong, de-escalation first, banning shooting at moving vehicles, requiring training for all police in these and related policies and measures. They are to be thanked for eliminating carotid pressure.
Jill Zwiers	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mary Sannwald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. -Mary Sannwald
Meghan Abrom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and refund in community programs!! Education and social service programs need to be prioritized!!!
Willow Lark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	On Saturday, May 30, Leslie Furcron was shot with a quote, less lethal round, unquote, in the forehead as she was peacefully protesting police brutality in La Mesa. She was taken by medics at the scene to the hospital and was in critical condition. She did nothing wrong, as did many of the protesters at the scene too, and they were met with tear gas and rubber bullets. Among these people were my friends who helped tend to people's wounds and burns at the scene while the cops did nothing but terrorize and provoke. Tear gas is banned as a chemical weapon by the UN, yet you armed our police with it. This is what your budget paid for. You must take action to find and hold the office who shot Leslie Furcron accountable and charged them with attempted murder accordingly. Otherwise, you have blood on your hands.

Maia Zelkind	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE, INVEST IN COMMUNITIES. Do not let the Mayor water down our movement! The goal is to DEFUND the police and divest these resources to our communities. The City of San Diego has an opportunity to listen and make changes after community members took over the streets and flooded the City Council Meeting with over 1,000 calls in support of DEFUNDING THE POLICE and INVESTING IN COMMUNITIES. This is what keeps our communities safe and shows our support for Black, Indigenous, Queer and Trans communities.
Ana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego is in dire need of reinvestment in services for its most vulnerable and most critically wounded by Covid19. Mayor Faulconer's proposed increase to the 2021 police budget is siphoning over one-third of our community's public funding away from other crucial programs that are experiencing budget cuts. We need to divest from a reactionary, dysfunctional, and violent institution and divert these funds to proactive measures that actually protect and lift our communities. I demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding but also demand to defund the currently held portion ($500,000,000) in order to reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. It is crucial that these funds are diverted to housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, physical and behavioral healthcare, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone (including our unhomed neighbors). I also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community-led rather than internally appointed. This board is not representative of its citizens and, despite data that proves our police department is not equipped to prioritize the safety of its most vulnerable communities. Your actions must prove you prioritize people over the police.
Kiyonna Navarro	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal
Brady Schiller	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. Stop crime at the source through education and community resources.

Patricia Esquer-Romero	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention. Defund the police and instead of increasing SDPD budget by 27 million dollars use that money to invest in public housing, healthcare, education, free public transit, and more community needs not policing of communities that can result in hostile relationships and environments for marginalized communities, especially black communities. I would also like the Mayor to enact the 8CANTWAIT.ORG policies now, this only needs his approval and it has shown to reduce police violence that result in death in major cities by 72%.
Jocelyn Mendez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Community safety is equitable access to housing, healthcare, and food, not racist policing.
Noah Boek	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The time for change is long overdue. San Diego government officials have failed their citizens - especially their citizens of color. I demand that the SDPD, and ALL other police forces in the county, reform their policing tactics. End broken window policing and MANDATE community policing. Use the "New Era of Public Safety: An Advocacy Toolkit for Fair, Safe, and Effective Community Policing" as a reference.
Brian Morton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Jason Au	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have been hurt by unnecessary violence at the hands of police. We need to defund the police department and put resources towards other parts of the community that are currently overlooked.
Evan Schell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Shelby Homer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police Department reform

Zach Clow	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rebecca Sanchez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Ban chokehold, require a pre-warning before shooting, and have more requirements on hiring police officers like background checks, a 2 year degree focusing on a human rights or criminal justice, and a psychological evaluation.
Vasudha	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zamara Rios	Community Review Board on Police Practices	- Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!
Arianna Gastelum	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE!! Prioritize the lives of our own community!! Retrain your officers to use reasonable force!!

Willow Lark	Community Review Board on Police Practices	On Saturday, May 30th, Leslie Furcron was shot with a quote, less lethal round, unquote, in the forehead as she was peacefully protesting police brutality in La Mesa. She was taken by street medics at the scene to the hospital and was in critical condition. She did nothing wrong, as did many of the protesters at the scene too, and they were met with tear gas and rubber bullets. Among these people peacefully protesting were my friends, who helped tend to people's wounds and burns at the scene while the cops did nothing but terrorize and provoke us. The evidence of this is all on livestream. Tear gas is banned as a chemical weapon by the U.N., yet you armed our police with it. This is what your budget paid for. You must take action to find and hold the officer who shot Leslie Furcron accountable and charge them with attempted murder accordingly. Otherwise, you have blood on your hands.
Malek Guerbaoui	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing because I am concerned that 1/3 of the entire budget is going to the SD police force. With COVID-19 impacting our communites, we need to reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. Also, we already have issues with the poiling of black and brown community members, and police violence in San Diego. I want to see funds dedicated to housing security, rental assistance, food programs, and expanded COVID-19 testing for everyone. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding is a slap in the face of disenfranchised communities that are already hurting. Review Board on Police Practices should be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Daniela Gutierrez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	- Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. - Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. - During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. - Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. - We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. - We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable!

Ashley Fowler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ashley Fowler and I live in District 8. I am calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal which calls for half a billion dollars to fund the police. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Instead of increasing the police budget as proposed I suggest we invest in our communities by allocating funds to alternative public safety measures. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. The police already receives one third of the entire general fund budget and increasing policing often makes our communities more vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.
Kelly Zavala	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Our city budgets should go toward investing in healthcare, housing, and education, not the police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable.
Megan Allen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Lindsay Sakata	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we can encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Taiz Fowler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Taiz Fowler and I live in District 8. I am calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal which calls for half a billion dollars to fund the police. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Instead of increasing the police budget as proposed I suggest we invest in our communities by allocating funds to alternative public safety measures. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. The police already receives one third of the entire general fund budget and increasing policing often makes our communities more vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.
sam king	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand our police officers to be outstanding citizens! we demand that every cop is required to have a college degree at the minimum. we also demand a zero tolerance policy on racist remarks or actions
Toni Brooks	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating losses at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is not police violence. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not the police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable! Please decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.

Gary Vineyard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health car, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. DEFUND THE POLICE. INVEST IN COMMUNITIES.
Michael Walsh	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Delta Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the Citizen's Advisory Board hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action! We demand that you not only reject Major Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold [$500,000,000] and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. We need an investment in the well-being and safety of all communities, not the police who has proved themselves to be violent and dangerous solutions to community welfare.
Shira Berdugo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and give money to communities

Camille	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Zack Dowdy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'm a 32 year old San Diego native, I've watch the CRB structure fail the community for too long. I will not allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. A La Mesa resident is in a now medically induced coma because of this corruption!! Stop for a second, think about that. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. We need to hold our police accountable and have infrastructure to do so, just like we do our community!
Miriah Harris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund Police and Prioritize Community! We need a Boards and Commissions that prioritizes the needs of the community, their citizens of color and the surrounding impoverished communities. We need police to be held accountable for their actions and brutality against the community! We don't need more police, we need more resources, affordable housing, and programs that help our people of color! We also don't need rubber bullets and tear gas to be executed during a protest and excessive force.
Andrew Zavala	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Our city budgets should go toward investing in healthcare, housing, and education, not the police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable.

Valorus Hyatt Cromwell Jr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the Review Board hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Will Price	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Reduced Funding!!!!!
Jakob Bechgaard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We should invest in equitable access to housing, health care, food, and education - not more police.
Kim Goodwin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	It is IMPERATIVE that San Diego Take a stand immediately for an independent Review board of police actions. This should be completely separate from the cities attorney the mayors office in the please officers Association. In order to take the first step towards building trust in the community, the police department needs to have transparency and accountability. San Diego has an opportunity to be a leader in the country on this. We cannot go back to “normal”. We must move forward.

Tessa Reynosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a resident of Carlsbad. I strongly urge you to require stricter policies for police to follow. This includes: requiring de-escalation, banning chokeholds, not being able to turn off their body cameras, banning shooting at moving vehicles, requiring comprehensive reporting, requiring exhausting other means before shooting, and requiring not using force continuum. I demand subpoena power, independent investigation, independent legal counsel and independence from the mayor's office. By not taking action against police violence, you are putting black lives at risk and allowing war crimes to be used in the police force. Police brutality is disproportionately distributed amongst races, black folx are 3x more likely to be killed by police than their white counterparts. In 2020, black folx are more protected by the camera on a cell phone than by law enforcement. This is not right. Please fix law enforcement's violent policies.
Amanda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To Our City's Board, Our citizens are pleading for a systemic change. We need to focus on the wellness and health of the citizens of our city and listen to the needs of the city. We are requesting the defunding of the police department is needed in order to fund and aid other areas that promote health and wellness for our community. The police have become people we fear instead of people we turn to in need. Police brutality is so common now that only SERIOUS cases surface. What other evidence do we need to prove that it is a problem? If you can't take care of the people of your community, how does that make it any easier on those who supposedly 'protect and serve' it? We need to focus on the people. Remind the people that they actually matter- because it hasn't seemed like it for too long now. Defund the police, please. Please.
Cris Sotomayor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am disheartened and horrified to learn that Mayor Faulconer feels it is appropriate to increase police funding while so many of our youth and veterans in San Diego are unhoused. The brutality of police treatment of our communities has boiled over, and we are done making room for it. We pay your salary, YOU WORK FOR US. This increase to police funding is a direct attack on the constituents that trusted him with power. Fuck your police machine. Fuck your brutalization of our community. No more. Defund the police NOW.
Conor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE. FUND COMMUNITY INITIATIVES

Elizabeth Pichardo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elan Tulberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE THE COMMUNITY
Brian Carrillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ashley Fowler and I live in District 8. I am calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal which calls for half a billion dollars to fund the police. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Instead of increasing the police budget as proposed I suggest we invest in our communities by allocating funds to alternative public safety measures. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. The police already receives one third of the entire general fund budget and increasing policing often makes our communities more vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police.
Cambria Zafalon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Raymond Dave Dela Cruz Acenas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I believe the following changes should be made to police policy and conduct: 1. Ban choke holds, knee holds, and strangleholds 2. The Use of Force Continuum for any police department must ensure that there are at least 6 levels of steps, with clear rules on escalation. 3. The requirement of frequent warning before shooting. 4. The requirement to exhaust all alternatives before shooting any projectiles. 5. Enforce a duty to intervene excessive engagements of other police. 6. Ban the shooting of moving vehicles. 7. Officer misconduct information and disciplinary histories are not shielded from the public. 7. Recertification credentials may be denied for police officers if determined that their use of deadly force was unwarranted by federal guidelines. 7. Implementation of Citizen's Review Board to hold police departments accountable and build public confidence.
Ximena Ayon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Acknowledging that #BlackLivesMatter triggers deep deep insecurities in the privileged. Because the inconvenienced discomfort of the privileged must matter more than the immeasurable suffering of Black lives for generations. Protect America's finest city. Defund Police. Prioritize QBIPOC communities. It is not only George Floyd it's the 10 people of color that have died in sheriff's custody. We need to prioritize those that are continually pushed out of San Diego county especially during this pandemic.
Angelica Garcia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I urge the community review board to reject Major Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. The half a billion dollars set to fund the police will immensely add to the racial profiling that the Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) already endure due to the presence of a large well-equipped police force. Additionally, the proposal disregards the minuscule essential resources that are provided to San Diego communities. These resources include housing, health care, food, jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented individuals. There is money for these resources and that money is in Mayor Faulconer's proposal. The money in the proposal must be allocated to these highly necessary resources. If the community review board desires to see a vast change in San Diego where individuals have a secure wellbeing that is not determined by their race or ethnicity, reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal.
Gavin Barnes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

David	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We demand that the officers who attempted to murder Leslie Furcron on May 30 are immediately identified and charged with attempted murder. The events of that night were precipitated by police violence and the perpetrators of injustice must be held accountable. Firing on unarmed civilians is illegal and cannot be allowed in our community.
Daniela Chavez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
John Paino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Leslie. The woman who was peacefully protesting was shot in the head. We demand the officers in charge be prosecuted
J'arrian Wade	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alejandro Espinosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Alejandro Espinosa and I live in District 8. I am calling to ask that City Council reject Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal which calls for half a billion dollars to fund the police. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Instead of increasing the police budget as proposed I suggest we invest in our communities by allocating funds to alternative public safety measures. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. The police already receives one third of the entire general fund budget and increasing policing often makes our communities more vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police!

Andrea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Ximena Ayon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Acknowledging that #BlackLivesMatter triggers deep deep insecurities in the privileged. Because the inconvenienced discomfort of the privileged must matter more than the immeasurable suffering of Black lives for generations. Protect America's finest city. Defund Police. Prioritize QBIPOC communities. It is not only George Floyd it's the 10 people of color that have died in sheriff's custody. We need to prioritize those that are continually pushed out of San Diego county especially during this pandemic. Apologies if there is a double-entry this webpage keeps glitching.
Alexis Ortiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Aislinn Medina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Sarah Merk-Benitez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the Review Board hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Elliott Daniels	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Address and properly charge La Mesa police department and officers who placed Leslie Furcron in the hospital during a PEACEFUL protest.
Zane	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD has actively endangered the lives of my friends and family in malicious fashion. DEFUND THE POLICE! Support communities that actually need it!
Mia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Castelli Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the SD police, and prioritize our community.
Anthony Simon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Fabiana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Our city budgets should go toward investing in healthcare, housing, and education, not the police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image. We need an independent review board that is community led and will hold police accountable.
Noel M	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE & PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!

Jordan P Mills	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand justice for Leslie Furcron. The fact that a citizen can be brutalized this way is beyond the pale
Eleanor Hawes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please identify the police officer responsible for shooting Leslie Furcron in the head at the La Mesa peaceful protest, and hold them responsible for their actions. It is not okay to fire "less lethal" rounds directly at people's heads and faces as they exercise their first amendment right to peacefully protest. Only holding officers accountable will stop this brutality. Thank you.
Elisa Barnett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Nathaniel Bowman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I want the police officer who injured Leslie Furcon identified and charged. She is a valued member of the Black community in San Diego, and if someone who would harm someone like her and make the rest of the community feel unsafe is tolerated in your ranks, then what good is the police?
Tanysha Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND SD POLICE. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITY HEALTH ISSUES.
Eden McColl	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego must defund the police. Instead, use funds to invest in housing, youth, and community needs. Providing public safety for citizens means prioritizing housing. Public safety is healthcare, healthy food, good jobs, education, mental healthcare, and free public transit!
Caitlin Zahlis	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Beth Davenport	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I request that the Review Board/CAB hear the pleas of San Diego citizens and take action. I request that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding but also to decrease the 1/3 of their entire budget and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. I would like the funds to be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as health and mental health services. I also ask that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community-led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department isn't equipped to protect our citizens, it continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face. Although I don't live in the City of San Diego, I am writing because San Diego is the regional leader and it is important for them to take a lead on this because it will impact other agencies in the region.
Samantha Brown	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Andrea	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the SDPD. We do not need the current $539 million police budget, and we certainly do not need to increase it to $566 million dollars, which has become clear in light of recent protests. We do not need millions to go towards the police whose purpose is no longer to serve and protect, and only to terrorize any citizens protesting against the very violence they continue to inflict. Their handling of the protests has been not only counter-productive- they use tear gas like it's confetti on crowds of mainly peaceful protestors. People claim it's only to stop looting - but it seems they haven't been able to stop any looting or burning and instead use their weapons on large crowds of the citizens they have sworn to protect. They are not only useless and not doing their job, but assaulting citizens. Their response to this situation, much like many police departments across the country, is absolutely unwarranted, disgusting, and clearly biased - they didn't arrest white citizens of Santee for being out past curfew because they were 'protecting' a Target, but antagonize and arrest even peaceful protestors. We do not want our tax money spent on the SDPD. Defund.
Dylan Davidson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Arthur Salm	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To the CRB board: PLEASE support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. It is a positive, inclusive, vital first step.

Lauren Carton	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Lauren Carton and I live in District 51. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police.Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars.This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people.Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence.Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing.Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence.As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas.
Brandon Weaver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD must be required to implement all 8 policies that have been found to reduce police violence by 72%. Please see the attached photo that shows how San Diego has failed and what we can do moving forward.
Kate Gevanthor	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elisabeth Bradley	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. IMPLEMENT POLICE REFORM. PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!!
Jessica Mastroianni	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure Is not in support of our community. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Margareta Heidrick-Barnes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police, and prioritize communities. I also strongly urge Mayor Faulconer to enforce the 8 Can't Wait campaign in the time being, as policing reform is being organized people of color in this community are still in danger. This means banning chokeholds/strangleholds, require de-escalation, require warning before shooting, exhaust all alternatives before shooting, express duty to intervene by other cops, ban shooting at vehicles, establish use of force continuum, and require all force to be reported. This can decrease police violence by 72%.

Hurao Pablo-Cook	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello! My name is Hurao Pablo-Cook from district 4. I am writing to urge you to reallocate funding from the police to other resources, such as housing, healthcare, and education. The police have a history of brutalizing people of color, even in our communities. We remember Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Racist policing is the last thing we need to be funding, rather we must invest in our community. Thank you, all lives can't matter until black lives matter.
Zach F	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand the officer who clearly committed attempted murder against Lesley Furcron be identified, charged, and arrested immediately. This was a deliberate act of violence against and unharmed and peaceful citizen. Justice for Leslie!
Johnny	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Patricia Low	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The Untied Sates was founded on a number of principles. One principle, in regard to justice, is that citizens are deemed innocent until, in the eyes of the law via due process, they are found otherwise. History's ongoing litany of unfairness make this principle of the country's most hypocritical. Hundreds of years of displacement, torture, poverty, compromised educational opportunities, and injustice on every level, have given our darker brothers and sisters sorrowful backhanded deals. To rise to the level the founders wanted in their new land, we need to find ways of treating everyone fairly. To that end, review panels with unbiased staff need to hold accountable all officers for unnecessary use of force and any bodily harm, not only those instances where death results.
Adrianna Maynes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal

Justin Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We must defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. These committees and boards are weak, influenced by police, and are only for show. These governing bodies have not acknowledged that racial profiling exists in San Diego, even after the release of the SDSU Policing Report, the ACLU Campaign Zero Report, and RIPA data. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable. We want to cut funding to racist policing and instead redirect those funds to funding healthcare, housing, better jobs. These are things that help reduce crime.
Dalia Hernandez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Leslie, a protestor was shot in the head in the La Mesa protest. An abuse of power was executed, and should be reprimanded. The abuse in power, and lack of training for the police officers is shameful and only enforces the symbiosis between the state and the owning class all under the auspices of a race-neutral practices from law enforcement.
Carol	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a 5 foot tall, 108 lbs, petite woman. If I can disarm a person who is a foot taller than me, weighs 100 lbs more than me using self-defense skills, then why do you, the police, have to reach for a weapon to disarm someone? I strongly advise the committee to have more stringent trainings in non-combative disarming techniques and hold accountable those who do use excessive force. They are not serving and protecting the community if they have to reach for a weapon.
Nadia Fonseca	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We are asking to defund the police. Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget does not reflect the prioritization of our communities. The same amount of funds and energy invested in the police needs to be redirected towards housing, education, and healthcare. Listen to the people you are serving. Reflect and take action on what is not working because this certainly is not it.
Azriel Almera	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Michelle Silva	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken serious,y and we aren't just getting lip services from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the san diegans for justice ballot proposal.

Jose Nevarez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRACTICES. Support real community issues like affordable housing, food disparities, mental health resources and education!
Diana De la Garza	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experience devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened Earl McNeill, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Trung To	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND the police, and PRIORITIZE the communities.
Areebah Hoda	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am a UCSD Student and a San Diego resident, and I am tired of seeing the current board doing nothing to address police accountability. I am in full support of the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board with subpoena power to ensure that we are able to hold our officers accountable. If the Mayor is serious about change, he must listen to the community & proceed with our demands. Elections are coming up and this is a good time to see who is for the people and who isn't. We are paying attention.
Matthew	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Just like how too much money is spent on the military, we need to spend less money on police in San Diego. The opportunity cost needs to be considered. Every dollar spent on the police is a dollar not spent on the community. These things are not at odds. Spending more money on the community can provide the support people need and crime can go down. We can spend less money on the police and still be safe. In addition, the police budget needs to be reviewed and kept tight. They should not have money to burn, money that is from the community (taxpayer dollars) and is needed by the community. Thank you.
Collin R Boudreaux	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Hannah Lohr	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Measures and reforms need to be put into place so police are not policing themselves. We need to start funding lower socioeconomic communities as opposed to just spending obscene amounts on law enforcement.

krista hill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund police and place those funds into community services. Police forces are inherently violent and racist exemplified at the most recent protests, where police fired tear gas and pepper spray bullets into peacefully protesting crowds. For public safety, allocate funds into services like affordable housing, health care (including mental health), free public transportation, and education.
Maya Conde-Kalmijn	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I demand an investigation be conducted on the behavior of police at the peaceful protests in San Diego. Leslie was peacefully protesting when she was shot with a "non-lethal" bullet to the head. No cop has been pointed responsible and she's still in great suffering. This kind of response from law enforcement is unacceptable when protestors are utilizing their first amendment right.
Mandy Graf	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD shouldn't receive an increase in funding, they must be defunded. It's evident the SDPD uses excessive force on the community, including tear gassing and shooting peaceful protesters with harmful rubber bullets. This is an absolute abuse of power. According to a report commissioned by ACLU of San Diego states that the SDPD used more force than 93% of other California law enforcement agencies, and the severity of the force was 1.3x higher against black people. Yet, less than 1% of allegations of police discrimination or excessive force were upheld. An increase in police funding will lead to more violence against black people. Thousands of San Diegans are demanding the police are defunded. We must put this money into our community's public safety. We need to invest in affordable housing, health care, and education. We remember and honor those who have died in the hands of the SDPD. Earn McNeil. Raul Rivera. Jonathan Coronel. Aleah Jenkins. Alfred Olango. Sergio Weick. James Lacey. Say their names and remember that they died due to violence of the SDPD. Nothing will bring back the lives of these people, but we must end the cycle of violence now and defund the police.
Curt	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Alegría Libertad	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is the current CBR structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to policing themselves, and the politics of city hall and the police association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel and independence from Mayor's office.we need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lío service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CBR to publicly support the San Diegans for justice ballot proposal
Jonathan Huls	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Arturo Ramirez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	THE CURRENT CRB STRUCTURE HAS FAILED THE COMMUNITY FOR TOO LONG. WE CANNOT ALLOW THE POLICE TO CONTINUE POLICING THEMSELVES, AND THE POLITICS OF CITY HALL AND THE POLICE OFFICER ASSOCIATION TO OVERSHADOW THE NEEDS OF THE PUBLIC. WE DEMAND SUBPOENA POWER, INDEPENDENT INVESTIGATORS, INDEPENDENT LEGAL COUNSEL, AND INDEPENDENCE FROM THE MAYOR'S OFFICE. WE NEED TO KNOW THAT THESE REFORMS ARE BEING TAKEN SERIOUSLY, AND WE AREN'T JUST GETTING LIP SERVICE FROM CITY HALL. SAN DIEGANS DESERVE TRANSPARENCY AND ACCOUNTABILITY IN POLICING, AND WE ENCOURAGE THE MEMBERS OF THE CURRENT CRB TO PUBLICLY SUPPORT THE SAN DIEGANS FOR JUSTICE BALLOT PROPOSAL.
Adriana Del Castillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Samantha Ho	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police & reinvest in communities. Housing, food, jobs are public safety, not police.
Eric	Community Review Board on Police Practices	What happened to Leslie Furcron on Saturday night is despicable. Police officers shot rubber-coated bullets indiscriminately into a crowd of unarmed protesters without warning, and Leslie was struck directly in the face and is now in a coma. The officers responsible must be publicly identified and brought to justice. This is a travesty.

Andrea Martino	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Andrea Martino, I am a resident of District 4 and I have the following demands for our city leadership and the leadership of our San Diego Police & Sheriffs Department: - Besides implementing reformative policing practices you need to create a movement that addresses the culture and cultural biases
Quynh Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Can this committee actually tell us that they can affect the systemic changes that are necessary to maintain a police force that actually works for the citizens they are sworn to protect and serve? Or are we in for another round of lip service and going through the motions that officials go through before sweeping their problems under the rug? The images and video we have seen of the unreasonable force used by the peace officers assigned to crowd control this past weekend in this city should be the catalyst you need to either defund this department, divert those funds towards proper use of non-lethal weapons, or apply those funds towards proper training for the department as a whole. This community will not accept the continued use of unbalanced force against peaceful protesters, and people of color.
Veronica Gehlken	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves and the politics of city Hall. We cannot allow the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Meghan Balser	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Patricia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The actions of the SDPD are absolutely deplorable. There are videos of the SDPD running over protesters just like in New York. You are supposed to protect and serve not torment and kill. Black lives matter.

Dorien Ediger-Seto	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Nobody is above the law, and we cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. The current CRB structure has failed us. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Izzah Kamran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alia Bales	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Alia and I ask that you reject Mayor Faulconer's proposed budget increase for the Police Department. After witnessing reprehensible actions by police that escalated into violence during otherwise peaceful protests in La Mesa, Downtown and across the country, we cannot reward this type of behavior. Please invest those funds in communities, art and public transportation instead. Thank you
Brad Stone	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The officer who shot Leslie Furcron in the head needs to be identified and held accountable.
Simone Gaffrey	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Marianne Gaylord	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego citizen, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Roxanne ElShamy	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To progress as as society, we must stop relying solely on police to keep us safe - we must invest in the community. We must invest in housing, in education, in healthcare, in access to food for all, in jobs. This is how we keep each other safe. Think about the future you want for your children. God bless you.

Jeremy Bloom	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Viridiana Quintana	Community Review Board on Police Practices	City representatives, as your constituents we ask that you TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION AND DEFUND SDPD. Divest from militarization and invest into our communities: invest in public housing, education, small businesses, healthcare, and transit. Mayor Falconer, it is embarrassing and disturbing to see a budget that further funds harassment and oppression. We demand that you listen to our asks and take action into properly allocating funds into sectors that need it the most, into supporting our most vulnerable populations, supporting our black community. After the several calls/messages received, we expect immediate action.
Lyzette Zamora	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize the communities.
Nick Campbell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We need to radically restructure the way our criminal justice system is structured De-escalate at protests, review instances of officers shooting protesters in the head with so-called “less-lethal” munition, defund the police, fund social work
Alexander Powell	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the San Diego Police Department and reinvest funds for alternative, community-based emergency intervention services that focus on de-escalation and meeting community needs with specifically trained individuals to provide support. Defund the Police.
Emily Snyder	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize communities!
Vanessa Robles	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize communities!

Chris McQueen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I implore you all to consider defunding the police and put our hard earned tax dollars towards community based initiatives. The treatment of Black and Brown people at the hands of the police is unacceptable. Communities of Color are more heavily policed, and experience far more violence by police as a result. If we can put this money towards community based initiatives instead, we can provide financial safety nets, rent relief, better public transit, better mental health resources, and after-school programs, all of which have been shown to lower crime rates and maintain safe and close knit communities. thank you
Tena Dhayalan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Tena Dhayalan and I live in District 4. It is obvious in light of recent events, as well as many past events of the SDPD, that we need to have better practices in place to investigate police officers. Police oversight should be independent of the mayor's office, independent legal counsel, should have the power to subpoena officers as well as records and witnesses, and should be independent investigators and staff. Alongside these demands, the people of San Diego were overwhelmingly clear yesterday of their wishes to defund the police and invest the funds in BIPOC communities instead. These funds are going towards a department that disproportionally targets people of color, and towards the tear gas and rubber bullets being used on the peaceful protestors of San Diego. The people of San Diego do not support this use of taxpayer dollars and ask that you finally do something to change it.
Jacqueline A Salinas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEDUND THE POLICE! The citizens of San Diego demand you fund our housing, medical care, and education instead of militarizing our city!
Lucy M	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE. Please support the community by putting this money toward affordable housing, public health, homelessness, education- Programs that will actually have a positive impact on the community. The systematic racism within the police department is unacceptable and should be defunded. And please stop assaulting and provoking peaceful protesters. The police are the problem.
Lisette Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Lisette Martinez and I live in District 8. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Public safety is not giving more money to a violent, racist PD. Public safety is prioritizing black, indigenous, brown communities, and having a city budget that reflects that by allocating funds to housing, and community resources that aid vulnerable communities during the pandemic. Defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.
Riley Griffiths	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!

Nadia Mishkin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Natelina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi my name is Natelina Blake and I am writing in to ask that the city counsel rejects the Mayors proposal to increase police budget and invest in our communities instead. Those funds should NOT go to the police when they are NOT protecting those they swore to. Those funds should go to healthcare, education, housing, and transportation efforts. That is how we keep our community safe. Let our voices and requests be heard and turned into actual action. Invest in our community. Thank you for reading.
Rolan Diaz Bangalan	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Funding for the police should be placed in more important places such as social programs that have a direct effect on communities of color, low socioeconomic status and low income neighborhoods across San Diego.
Joseline Chang	Community Review Board on Police Practices	This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. I call to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police budget. We must decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities.
Anthony Guzman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I would like to see the funds meant to fund Law Enforcement to be redistributed to mental health outreach, affordable housing, education, and health care. We have overreached in what we expect from police and no longer trust them. Our version of police would be peace officers who live in the areas where they patrol. Until we can completely unfund the department, we need an independent review board representing all districts in San Diego County. We demand that all investigations into escalations be with the full supervision of this board.
Anthony Reinert	Community Review Board on Police Practices	These recent events of militaristic police escalations have illustrated the need for defunding of the police force. the police are not our only option for security, and strike fear in the hearts of law abiding citizens across the nation.

Levi Craske	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I hope the hundreds (if not, thousand) of calls from concerned residents to the San Diego City Council, urging you to defund the police, demonstrates that we are not requesting merely condemning the proposed increase in funding to SDPD. To be clear, we are calling for the full DEFUNDING and DIVESTMENT from the SDPD. The fact that the Mayor's response is to hold these emergency meetings on "police practices" by a governing body HE appoints is not only absurd, but demeaning to the calls of action placed by the public yesterday. We are telling you that we do not want the police in San Diego. We want investment in the community (specifically housing, education, and public health). We support no effort whatsoever that furthers the existence of the SDPD, or any PD across the U.S. Listen to the public. Abolish the police.
Marcos Beltran	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE, PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES. Our city needs to spend more money on education, health, infrastructure, and anything else that works towards strengthening our community. We MUST demilitarize the police and invest in alternatives for crime stopping. For example, mental health first responders or social workers will be much more capable responding to certain issues than the police. We need to put an end to broken windows policing which only creates more violence and encourages the use of aggressive force by police all while shifting the blame on low income groups and minorities. Our community has had ENOUGH. We have lost too many people to racist police. Rest In Peace to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. #BlackLivesMatter
Maria Montes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Mara Juergensen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and instead prioritize communities!
Nurgess Khurshid	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police. Invest more into communities and education.

Zasha Zuniga	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Zasha Zuniga and I live in Chula Vista. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receives 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey.
Jessica Stephens	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'd like to make a comment that I'm in support of more transparent accountability in the police force as it pertains to misconduct and murder. And I'm in support of non police systems being put into our communities to address crisis and danger. I'd like effective training provided to law enforcement about how to deescalate fellow officers.
Brian Long	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I'd like to make a comment that I'm in support of more transparent accountability in the police force as it pertains to misconduct and murder. And I'm in support of non police systems being put into our communities to address crisis and danger. I'd like effective training provided to law enforcement about how to deescalate fellow officers.
Breanne Leach	Community Review Board on Police Practices	To ensure police accountability, I support the San Diegans for Justice effort to create a community-led independent Commission on Police Practices, created and controlled by the people, not politicians and not law enforcement.
Mackayla Swanson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please defund the police! Police training should incorporate heavy racial sensitivity training and should ban use of chokeholds. Police should be trained to exhaust all alternatives before resorting to the use of deadly force.
Lynsey Buerer	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am San Diego native, and I am tired of seeing the current board has done nothing to address the police accountability. I am in fully support the San Diegans for Justice to create a community-led & INDEPENDENT Community Review Board to ensure that accountability. If the Mayor is in serious for change, he should listen & proceed with what the community wants.
Kelly Bonete	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize schools, rent and housing, and our hospitals!
Kristina	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police and reallocate resources to the community!!!

Anne Johansen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego should not be investing in brutal police practices which disproportionately affect the black community. Less funding should be directed to police services. Prioritized communities by investing in housing, community parks, and education!
Luis Barbosa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I call for the defunding and reallocation of funding for Police in San Diego and that it be prioritized in helping our communities instead.
Jeffrey Adamos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police and prioritize communities.
Ceren Fitoz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES
william blumberg	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi my name is William Blumberg I live in the 49th district, I am writing in to ask that the city counsel rejects the Mayors proposal to increase police budget and invest in our communities instead. Those funds should NOT go to the police when they are not protecting those they swore to. Black communities, indigenous communities and communities of color need access to resources, not more policing. Those funds should go to healthcare, education, housing, and free public transportation. That is how we keep our communities safe. Let our voices and requests be heard and turned into actual action. Invest in our community. Thank you.
Gerard Deckert	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a homeowner in North Park I support the de-funding and de-militarization of police in San Diego, along with increased independent accountability and increased training in escalation and appropriate use of force.
Michael McDonald	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. We need an independent review board that is community-led and will hold police accountable.

virginia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our coomunities have experiences devastating loss at the hands of racist people. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfredo Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and healthcare, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic of this sort, our communities need access to healthcare, housing and, food, not racist policing. OUR city budget, should go towards investing in communities, not police. We must also DEFUND the Boards of Commissions that only SERVE POLICE and their image with ZERO accountability. WE NEED an independent review board that is COMMUNITY-LED and WILL hold police accountable.
Monterah Jackson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a citizen of San Diego, I am very disappointed that the current board has not made efforts to enforce and maintain police accountability. I am in full support for the San Diegans for Justice to create an independent, community-led review board to ensure accountability. The Mayor must seriously consider the community voices weighing in on this matter if he wants to affect real change.
Melissa Damo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen our communities - rent assistance, mental health services, education, and other public services should be prioritized.
Leslie Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. Please do not increase the funds for police. Use the money for better resources such as housing, education, and healthcare. Investing in the people will reduce root issues that will decrease a "need" for cops.
Don Nguyen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hi, I'm wondering if there is a process in place whereby city police officers are written up or disciplined for not having body cams activated. Additionally, please expound on what processes we have in place for officers that have multiple complaints lodged against them to ensure the officer is mentally fit to wear the badge and police the public.
Madeleine Bishop	Community Review Board on Police Practices	An INDEPENDENT, community-led review board on police practices is needed. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office.

Joshua ver	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund SDPD prioritize community and education
Brett oyler	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members
Joelle Atencio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I have lived in San Diego since 1989. In these past 21 years, I have seen examples of police misconduct, from officers who have sexually assaulted women, to officers who have murdered citizens within minutes of arriving on scene for non-lethal situations, to the shooting of so-called "non-lethal projectiles" at unarmed community members, to arresting and harassing people simply for not having homes. This is and has been unacceptable. For years, people have worked to implement changes that would provide justice. For years they have been ignored. The time for action, not words, is long overdue. Our city must take action by divesting from policing and reallocating the funds to programs that enrich rather than endanger the lives of the people who call San Diego home. Funds should be used to provide resources that actually keep our communities safer, like rental assistance, free and expanded public transportation, individual housing for homeless residents, and mental health services. The targeting of Black people in our city must stop. We need to create non-police systems of care for communities in crisis. We need to end youth curfew sweeps and gang injunctions and excessive bail. We need an actual independent review. Now.
Angela Ruiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police! Give the money to our communities. Put a moratorium on rent.
Edward	Community Review Board on Police Practices	White supremacy in the police force has taken over and is actively harming San Diego citizens. The best way to move forward until this insidious problem is completely eradicated is to cut funding to the police and focus more on community led efforts to bring people up
Matt L	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police officers need to have personal liability insurance with a minimum of $1 million coverage. Any lawsuit or settlement officers are involved in must payout with their personal liability insurance BEFORE tax payer funds. The police should have a $1,000/year cap on the amount officers can expense their personal liability insurance.
Mehdi Miremadi	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am ashamed of the violent police tactics I've seen from the SDPD this past weekend attending the protests. The bloated budget Mayor Faulconer has distributed for the SDPD is outrageous and the well-being of our beautiful city is at stake unless we DISARM AND DEFUND the police. Redistribute that money to parks, education, public transit, and affordable housing so the very people risking their lives to protest for basic rights can thrive.

Marina Warren	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Police need to be defunded in SD in order to prioritize the health and safety of citizens during COVID-19 and beyond. Citizens should not be attacked with rubber bullets during a peaceful protest. We demand the reallocation of funds to help citizens with health, safety, and housing stability during these times.
Jane Mackenzie Zoladz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police. Protect communities!
Sydney Gerlach	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I want to express my disapproval of Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase the police by $27 million. As of now the police currently receive 1/3 of the city's budget, and I, as well as many members of the community, think that money should be reallocated to community and social services. I ask for the demilitarization of the police force and to redistribute the funds where needed. I demand the funding go towards social services, physical and mental healthcare, accessible public transit, housing, quality education, parks, access to food, and support to underserved communities instead of placing police directly into communities with a majority of BIPOC causing vulnerability to violence. PLEASE LISTEN! DEFUND THE POLICE AND INVEST IN OUR COMMUNITIES AND SHOW THE PEOPLE OF SAN DIEGO THAT THEIR LIVES MATTER AND ARE WORTH INVESTING IN!!!!!!
Kevin Antonio	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
Liliana Bouknight	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES! The police should implement policies that decrease police violence, such as: banning chokeholds and strangleholds, requiring de-escalation, requiring warning before shooting, exhausting all means before shooting, duty to intervene and stop excessive use of force from other officers and reporting it to supervisors, banning shooting at moving vehicles, requiring use of force continuum, and requiring comprehensive reporting. So far SDPD ONLY implements 3 of these 8: warning before shooting, exhausting all other means before shooting, and use of force continuum. THIS IS NOT ENOUGH. The SDPD should implement all 8 of these to help decrease police violence by at least 72%, and most importantly NOT be militarized in terms of weapons and outfitting. All resources that help militarize our police should instead be redistributed and used to aid and provide solid foundations for our communities. Again, DEFUND THE POLICE AND PRIORITIZE COMMUNITIES!
LISA TYLER	Community Review Board on Police Practices	No more money needs to be thrown at the police department. What about our other 1st responders. Firefighters! Their pay is so low in comparison and that's not fair. They also put their lives on the line every day. Please be fair and give them raises to better support their families and better equipment to better do their jobs.

Caia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Hello, my name is Caia, a resident of Encinitas. On Saturday, May 30th, Leslie Furcron, a 59-year-old grandmother, was shot between her eyes with a so-called “less lethal” round of rubber bullets by police. This was done while she was peacefully protesting police brutality in La Mesa. After being aided by street medics at the scene, Furcron was taken to the hospital in critical condition. She was met with tear gas and rubber bullets while simply exercising her right to speak out. Tear gas is banned as a chemical weapon by the U.N., yet you have chosen to arm our police with it. I ask that you take immediate action to find and charge the officer who shot Leslie Furcron.
Allison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I support the gradual and progressive defunding of SDPD in order to invest in the community through PUBLIC school education (not charters which further the educational gap), QUALITY health services, and EXTENSIVE mental health and substance abuse therapies. In the meantime until these programs are fully funded for the long term, police need to be THOROUGHLY trained in de-escalation and conflict resolution. Not just a day of lectures and power points. Real hands on training.
Amanpreet Kaur Sandhu	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Please reject the mayor's racist budget giving more money to an institution that does not serve us. Instead increase funding for services that keep us healthy and safe like housing, social services, food aid, health care, etc.
Maite Ruiz	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We must reallocate funds away from the police departments and towards the root of the issues : adequate education, adequate housing , adequate healthcare , adequate public transport . We can do better , we MUST do better . You are all public servants , act accordingly.
Sabian Grey Shane-Benson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund The Police and Prioritize the community. Invest in housing, schooling health care for a start in a way that we’ve never seen before. We need a new budget.
Saray Flores	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND THE POLICE! INVEST IN THE COMMUNITIES!
Kayla Beard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Genesis Contreras	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police, prioritize community!
Stephani Rodriguez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	DEFUND POLICE PRIORITIZE OUR COMMUNITY! Prioritize funding programs for our children! Prioritize the life of black people in our community ! The Mayor is showing us how racists he is with this proposal. He doesn’t care about Us.

Karrah Bissett	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Laura Valdes	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Mayor Faulconer’s budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This is a racist budget. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets.
Jenica Warren	Community Review Board on Police Practices	our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Reject the proposal to increase the budget and defund the police in order to properly provide for San Diego residents

Cody Harrison	Community Review Board on Police Practices	POLICY RECOMMENDATIONS FOR SAN DIEGO POLICE DEPARTMENT A review of San Diego police and sheriff's department policy manuals, procedures and police union contracts identified a number of areas where new policies could contribute towards addressing the outcomes described in this report. Expand Alternatives to Arrest for Low-Level Offenses Our review of San Diego police arrest data identified a number of low-level offenses that could be decriminalized entirely or deprioritized for enforcement. These offenses tended to involve drug possession, status offenses, quality of life offenses and municipal code violations that posed no threat to the public or property. Instead of a policing-based response to these activities, alternative responses should be developed or expanded that send substance abuse counselors, mental health professionals and other civilian responders to the scene instead of armed police officers. For example, the CAHOOTS program in Eugene, OR deploys mental health providers instead of police officers to calls involving a suspected mental health crisis - responding to nearly 1 in 5 calls for service citywide. For example, the following low-level offenses, other than drug possession, result in the largest number of arrests: Require Officers to Use De-Escalation Y'ALL GOT A LONG WAY TO GO. READ MORE HERE: https://policescorecard.org/sandiego
Becki Alvarado	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Ban police use of chemical weapons including tear gas, mace, pepper spray, rubber bullets, bean bags, water cannons, sonic or ultra-sonic weapons. Ban purchase and use of weapons. Establish community oversight structures. Limit use of force. Community representation. Body cams required to be on at all times. End for profit policing.
Emily	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund the police, invest in communities. Police reform does NOT work, we must empower our community. It’s the only way we move forward!!
Allison Zau	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The SDPD should not be physically attacking or firing weapons and chemicals at protestors, especially peaceful protestors who are well within their right to hold authority figures accountable. These so-called "nonviolent" means of subjugation depend on fear to control our community. The review board should pursue action to protect protestors and indict officers who instigate violence AND officers that cover these instances of abuse of power.
Kaitlin Cantelme	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Give this "board" teeth and actually hold police accountable for their actions.
Olivia Phillips	Community Review Board on Police Practices	San Diego has the chance, in this very important moment in history, to step up and reform our police tactics. Making this change now will make us leaders and will model this change for others across the country. I encourage you to strongly consider the benefits police reform could bring to our community.

Michelle Kearney	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The City of San Diego Police Department must set up a new review board that is: 1) Independent of the Mayor's office. 2) Independent of Legal Council 3) Has the Power to Subpoena Officers, Records, and Witnesses 4) Has Independent Investigators and Staff They SDPD must also: ban all Chokeholds and Strangleholds Require De-Escalation Exhaust all Alternatives Before Shooting Require Warning Before Shooting Duty to Intervene Ban Shooting at Moving Vehicles Establish Use of Force Continuum! Require All force to Be Reported. Thank you for your time, Michelle
Rachel Martinez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Silvia	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. During a pandemic, our communities need access to healthcare, housing, and food, not racist policing. Our city budget should go towards investing in communities, NOT POLICE. We must also defund the Boards and Commissions that only serve police and their image with ZERO accountability. -WE NEED AN INDEPENDENT REVIEW BOARD THAT IS COMMUNITY LED AND WILL HOLD POLICE ACCOUNTABLE!
Karlie Eacock	Community Review Board on Police Practices	SDPD has a long history of violence towards people of color and also people with mental illness and the homeless population. We are demanding they be held accountable for this violence and they be defunded, with funds instead being allocated to minority/vulnerable communities and minority youth.

Ariana Carrion	Community Review Board on Police Practices	I am writing to demand the (Review Board/CAB) hear the pleas of its citizens and put them into action. We demand that you not only reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police funding, but also to decrease the 1/3 of the entire budget that they currently hold ($500,000,000) and reallocate the funds to programs that desperately need it. We demand the funds be used to ensure housing security through emergency rental assistance, food security, health care, including but not limited to COVID-19 testing for everyone, including house-less residents, as well as mental health services. Your community needs you. We are in a pandemic, yet Mayor Faulconer's prioritization of police funding makes his utter disregard for the health and safety of his constituents crystal clear. We also demand that the Review Board on Police Practices be independent and community led rather than internally appointed. History shows that this board is not representative of its citizens and despite being shown literature that proves our police department is not equipped to protect its citizens, continues to disregard the safety of its most vulnerable communities. This complacency perpetuates the systemic issues we as a society continue to face.
Stephen Lee	Community Review Board on Police Practices	We have to do something about regulating police practices to ensure nothing like what happened to George Floyd will happen again. The police departments ought to have their funding cut and to get rid of police unions.
Nia Carrillo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Karlee Ferris	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The violence needs to stop. Police should be defunded and held accountable for using force during peaceful protests. San Diego is my home and I want this city to be on the right side of history. Defund the police.

SUSAN	Community Review Board on Police Practices	BLACK LIVES MATTER BLACK LIVES MATTER BLACK LIVES MATTER

Efrain Velela	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Efrain Velela and I live in District 3. Mayor Faulconer's budget proposal calls for half a billion dollars to fund police. Police already receive 1/3 of the entire general fund budget, and the Mayor wants to increase their budget by $27 million more dollars. This budget is unjustified! Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. Invest in communities, not police. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police still to this day! We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing test	Community Review Board on Police Practices	oooooooooooooook
Regina Guzman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed our community! We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alina Aguilar	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Aisha Van Pratt Levin	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Rachel Richard	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Christiana Hester	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure is ineffective and gives little power to the people. Our taxes pay the salaries of the police force, and we should have the ability to review and modify their practices. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. We need to redirect funds from the 2021 to our health care infrastructure, community programs, affordable housing, and homeless care
Sabina Benson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Reallocate funds to programs that ACTUALLY serve the community, like creating job opportunities, mental health services, our schools, etc... The United States police system was designed to protect the interests of owning capital and white supremacy, and you cannot "fix" a system that is, by design, harmful to non-black and black POC.
Jenna Aguon	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Our community is in deep need of free access to health care, not the violent policing taking place in our black and POC neighborhoods. We as a community are ashamed of the actions taken in our city by the SDPD. We also demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal council and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need a new system, we will not stand for systematic violence any longer.

Alexa Hornedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Asking to reject Mayor Faulconer's proposal to increase police budget. This is a racist budget. Asking to decrease the police budget and invest in our communities by funding services that strengthen them. Public safety must include an investment in housing, health care, food, good jobs, education, free public transit and resources for small businesses and undocumented people. Increased policing makes our communities vulnerable to violence. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, and food, not racist policing. Black, Indigenous, People of Color (BIPOC) are already more impacted by this health and economic crisis, and increasing funding to police makes them even more vulnerable to violence. As issues of police brutality and state violence against Black communities and communities of color are highlighted, we need to talk about what real safety looks like. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. Community safety is equitable access to housing and health care, not tear gas and rubber bullets. Invest in communities, not police.
Ruby palos	Community Review Board on Police Practices	WE WANT CHANGE NOW !!!!!
Kimi Albertson	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Crystal Willcuts	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Reduce police department funding and redirect funds to directly serve communities and adopt 8can'twait policies to decrease police violence.
Omar Federico	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.

Devon Rojas	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Alexa Hornedo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight, demanding: - Independence from the Mayor's office, - Independent legal counsel, - Power to subpoena officers, records and witnesses, - Independent investigators and staff.
Nina Rosen	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Mark Mallari	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor’s Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren’t just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Elizabeth Eckenrod	Community Review Board on Police Practices	In police oversight I demand: -Independence from mayor's office -independent legal counsel -power to subpoena offers, records, and witnesses -independent investigation and staff

Ciarlene Coleman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	My name is Ciarlene (shar-LEEN) Coleman, and I am a lifelong San Diego resident. The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. Our communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. We remember what has happened to Earl McNeil, Raul Rivera, Jonathon Coronel, Aleah Jenkins, Alfred Olango, Sergio Weick, and James Lacey. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Remember, Black lives matter. Thank you for your time.
Nicholas Costa	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Good Evening I'm a 3rd Generation San Diegan and member of District 3. Given the current climate across our country and city we are asking you to recognize this time as a pivotal moment in changing the narrative of equality in this Country. By Setting an example here in San Diego. From my understanding the CRB is meant to review SDPD. But the information the CRB receives is solely collected by SDPD Internal Affairs. This keeps it within a closed system. Closed systems are subject to group / history bias. Any group wants to protect itself. Even the best and strongest people within a group have difficulty going against the collective ethos. The logical changes appear to be creating an independent and community-led commission on Police Practices. Also the power of this independent reviewing process should hold more authority. Currently the CRB can only make recommendations to the Mayor and Chief of Police. Recommendations appear to take a review board's hard work and reduce its tangibility to a merely suggestions. Suggesting reform to a unionized group doesn't give the people much power, even within the bureaucratic system, to make meaningful reform. Thank you, Hugs n' Kisses, (Cause We're all Human
Marlene Gonzalez	Community Review Board on Police Practices	Defund police priorities communities! Our San Diego communities have experienced devastating loss at the hands of racist police. Police today are not here to "protect and serve", they are here to tear gas and shoot rubber bullets at innocent peaceful protestors. During a pandemic, our communities need access to health care, housing, food, not racist policing.

Audrey Tamayo	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and City Hall sticks with their word. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal. Thank you.
Owen Roberts	Community Review Board on Police Practices	As a population, we grant the police a tremendous amount of authority and discretion. That power is only valid if it is subject to meaningful and direct oversight. Please greatly empower the commission - it can be a means of justice for past wrongs, and a vital means of reducing further wrongs.
Rebecca Futterman	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The current CRB structure has failed the community for too long. We cannot allow the police to continue policing themselves, and the politics of City Hall and the Police Officer Association to overshadow the needs of the public. We demand subpoena power, independent investigators, independent legal counsel, and independence from the Mayor's Office. We need to know that these reforms are being taken seriously, and we aren't just getting lip service from City Hall. San Diegans deserve transparency and accountability in policing, and we encourage the members of the current CRB to publicly support the San Diegans for Justice ballot proposal.
Max Cotterill	Community Review Board on Police Practices	The structure of the current CRB has failed. You must support the creation of an INDEPENDENT commission with subpoena power and independent investigators/counsel. You should support the proposal offered by San Diegans for Justice WITH NO AMENDMENTS. Let me be clear that the people will not be fooled. More people than ever are paying attention. Efforts to stifle the proposal and water it down with amendments WILL be taken as lip service by those elected to deliver for San Diegans. We need ACTUAL accountability and transparency. Support the ballot proposal with NO AMENDMENTS. We cannot expect increasing funding for police year after year at the direct tradeoff of investing in housing and health. Police are not social workers. Councilmember Scott Sherman, this constituent is paying attention and taking notes.