Charter Review Committee

As a retired City worker (29 years), it was always my understanding that the City Attorney is the attorney for City government. The City is his client and he should represent City officials and workers in general. As a supervisor for the City, I had the misfortune to be sued, along with the City, by a disgruntled employee. The City Attorney's office, under previous management, handled everything much to my relief and it was the right thing to do. Mr. Aguirre has misinterpreted his role, just as he does for most issues. It's time to define his role appropriately and then make sure he acts accordingly. Thank you.
