AWARDS AND RECOGNITION

Environmental Services Sustainability Program Director Receives National Award

Linda Giannelli Pratt, Environmental Services' Community Sustainability Program manager, recently received the National Pollution Prevention Roundtable's Individual Achievement Award. Ms. Pratt was honored for her efforts to raise the profile of pollution prevention and community sustainability. The awards were presented in Chicago during a national conference from Feb. 28 through March 2. The Community Sustainability Program identifies and promotes projects within the City that balance environment, economic and public health objectives. The program also demonstrates how to meet today's needs without compromising the needs of future generations.
