Planners Solicit (Community) Residents to Identify Facilities and Infrastructure
First Community Meeting Scheduled for (date) to Get Your Input

SAN DIEGO – The (Community Planning Group) needs your help. It is looking for local resident volunteers to assist with a community-wide project to identify existing City facilities, infrastructure, and land use in (Community Planning Group) area neighborhoods. This is a joint project with the City of San Diego's Planning Department, which is collecting data on existing conditions of public facilities (such as fire stations and libraries), infrastructure (such as utilities), and land use (such as housing) in all communities throughout the city. The information compiled will be used to prepare a financing strategy for needed public facilities and infrastructure, amend or update Facilities Financing Plans, update the City's General Plan, and conduct environmental analysis.

"We need local residents to help with this project, because they are the ones who know their neighborhoods the best. They can help the City validate that the data collected is as accurate as possible." said Planning Director Gail Goldberg.

If you are interested in helping and you are a resident who lives between (location) (see map) come to the meeting and/or workshop listed below to participate in this exciting project.
