

Biography by the Borjas Family

Federico G. Borjas was born in Florida. He leaves behind his parents Jose & Petra Borjas, three siblings Raimundo, Ofelia & Anita and his beautiful daughter Yvette Borjas. In 1994, Federico enlisted into the United States Marine Corps, where he began a military life in Parris Island, South Carolina. In Parris Island during boot camp, Federico became Iron Man and made his whole family proud. Federico had enlisted for four years and always wanted to serve outside the United States, but never had the opportunity.

Federico took a change from military life and continued his career in law enforcement. He began his law enforcement career with the San Diego Sheriff's Department. He was given the opportunity to work in George Bailey Correctional Facility located in Otay Mesa, California. There he spent four years serving the community as a San Diego County Deputy correctional officer. Years later, he continued his law enforcement career as a San Diego Police officer.

During his first four years as a San Diego Police officer, Federico challenged himself and was determined to become the best police officer he could be. In 2003, he tested for the Special Weapons and Tactics team (SWAT) and completed the requirements to become a SWAT officer. When Federico set his mind to something, there was nothing that could stop him. He wanted a better life for his daughter, Yvette, and for their future.

Federico enjoyed his time serving the community and always looked forward to helping others. Though working 10 hour shifts, and as a father of a young child, he still couldn't find an ending to his career and accomplishments. He then looked for continuation to excel with his life's work so he returned to school for a different task. In 2004, he received a bachelor's degree from National University in Legal Studies. At this point in his life, he took a breather and gave more time back to himself and his family; especially his precious daughter.

In subsequent years, there was always something in the back of Federico's mind. He felt compelled to seek out a major goal; one that would involve sacrificing all that he had. Federico enlisted into the United States Army Reserve for a term of no less than six years. Federico was always determined to accomplish all his goals even if it meant he would sacrifice his life. He wanted to provide everything for his daughter, no matter what the cost, because she was his world. He was excited to serve his country and fight for our freedom. His daughter was his world, but he also wanted to fight for his cousin, Eric Ramirez, who lost his life five years ago in Iraq.

On September 24, 2008, Federico deployed with the "A" Company, 416th Civil Affairs Battalion as an Army Sergeant to Bermel, Afghanistan. On October 16, 2008, not even a month into his deployment, Federico Borjas was shot and killed in action at the young age of 33. Federico died a hero as a United States Army Soldier and will always be remembered in our hearts.

He was and will always be considered a son to his loving parents, a brother to his siblings, a best friend and father to his daughter Yvette, a friend and family member to everyone he knew. We will all remember Federico in our own special and loving way. To his family he will always be The American Hero. We miss you and will always love you, rest in peace.
