City of San Diego Public Library Now Open on Sundays

14 LIBRARY LOCATIONS ADD SUNDAY HOURS, OFFERING RESIDENTS MORE ACCESS TO LIBRARY SERVICES

SAN DIEGO – In an effort to provide access to in-person library services every day of the week, the City of San Diego Public Library (SDPL) is adding Sunday hours at 14 of its 36 library locations. Starting April 16, the 14 library branches will be open 1 to 5 p.m. on Sundays, the last step to bringing library service hours back to pre-pandemic levels.

“The City is excited to restore these vital library services to residents,” said Chief Operating Officer Eric Dargan. “The success of the recent City career fair allowed the San Diego Public Library to fill the positions that make these Sunday hours possible. More than 200 people applied to work at the library, which is a testament to the great work that SDPL does every day.”

Filling vacant positions has been a crucial step in expanding library hours. Starting this weekend, the following locations will offer Sunday hours:

- Carmel Valley Library.
- Central Library.
- City Heights/Weingart Library.
- La Jolla/Riford Library.
- Logan Heights Library.
- Mira Mesa Library.
- Mission Valley Library.
- North University Community Library.
- Otay Mesa-Nestor Library.
- Pacific Beach/Taylor Library.
- Point Loma/Hervey Library.
- Rancho Bernardo Library.
- Serra Mesa-Kearny Mesa Library.
- Valencia Park/Malcolm X Library.

“We know Sundays are popular with many of our patrons and families who can’t get to the library during the week,” said Library Director Misty Jones. “Restoring Sundays hours helps the library deliver on what our patrons are asking for and allows our staff to expand the services and programs the library offers.”

During open hours, library patrons can browse materials, attend programs, access public computers and check out mobile hotspots to connect devices to the internet. A listing of resources and educational programs for all ages is available on the Library Events Calendar.

All 36 SDPL locations are open 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday and 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Saturday. Book drops are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. For a full list of SDPL locations and services, visit sandiego.gov/publiclibrary.
