

I had previously contacted the Commission requesting that Clairemont stay the way it is in District 2. Then today I read in the Union Tribune that you were proposing putting Clairemont into four different Districts. The article stated that the Commission expected some complaints from Clairemont, but that did not seem to influence your decision. I suspect that the proposal to put Clairemont into 4 Districts was a "straw man" so that Clairemont citizens would accept a redistricting that was less than optimal, but not as bad as the one proposed.

Why not put all of Clairemont and all of University City into one District? That would be a total population of about 150,000 or about 1/9 of San Diego's population.

--

Judith Muñoz