

Unfortunately, the tool at <https://districtr.org/plan/91107?portal> doesn't allow me to make the changes I believe should be made to keep the northeast corner of Mission Bay in the same district as Pacific Beach which will become District 1.

I have attached an approximate map showing the area of Mission Bay that should be moved out of District 2 and into District 1.

Mission Bay is part of the State of California tidelines trust and therefore no one is allowed to live there. Moving the entire northeast corner of Mission Bay from Kendall-Frost Marsh to the on ramp to south bound Interstate 5 keeps the areas of Pacific Beach more intact and ensures that the lower Rose Creek Salt Marsh (south of Grand Avenue) and the upper Rose Creek Salt Marsh (north of Grand Avenue) remain in one council district. Since Mission Bay has zero population there should be no upset to the balance of residents per tract.

As the current Executive Director of the Friends of Rose Creek, we already struggle to address issues of concern with Rose Creek. Having the portion of Rose Creek that is west of I-5 split between two districts is just too much. What happens in Rose Creek ends up in Mission Bay. In the attachment, Rose Creek is the tiny sliver of land that reaches up into the community of Pacific Beach.

I would like to request that this change be put on the agenda for the meeting on December 15th. Drawing arbitrary tracts through what is mostly open water and preventing those tracts from being broken up seems a bit stilly to me. But then again, I'm not an expert on this stuff.

Warmly,

Karin Zirk, Ph.D. (she/her/hers)
