Commission for Arts and Culture

Black History Month | February 26, 2021
Commission Statement

As we celebrate the legacy of Black History during the month of February, the City of San Diego Commission for Arts and Culture would like to acknowledge the spirit of perseverance within African American culture. From the many historical figures to our first African American Vice President of the United States, this spirit has been a strong force in people of African descent throughout the world. This spirit refuses to be broken and like the Nile runs deep in the Soul of America.

We, as a Commission, will continue to uphold this strong legacy in the work that we do. Our Mission reflects just that, and we will move forth with solidifying our commitment to artists of the African Diaspora and exemplifying diversity in arts and culture in San Diego.
