San Diego Leaders to Hold Telephone Town Hall on COVID-19

SAN DIEGO - On Monday at 5:30pm, San Diego leaders will host a Telephone Town Hall to provide residents with the latest information on COVID-19 in San Diego, and answer questions directly from constituents.

The telephone town hall will be hosted by San Diego Mayor Kevin Faulconer, Council President Georgette Gómez, and Congressman Scott Peters.

Residents can participate in the telephone town hall by dialing 712-832-8700 and entering the pin 416802#. Questions can be submitted in advance by emailing SanDiegoCovid19Townhall@gmail.com or on the Council President's Facebook (sdcmgomez) or Twitter (GGomezD9) before 4:00 p.m.

This event is open to both the public and press.

Mayor Kevin Faulconer: "San Diego is mobilizing like never before to protect our city's health and safety. Even though we have to keep a physical distance to prevent the spread of COVID-19, we can still communicate as a community. I invite San Diegans to call in from home to get the latest updates on coronavirus from our local and federal representatives. Information can save lives and help us get through this together."

Council President Georgette Gómez: "In San Diego, we stand together and work together to get through tough times. To keep San Diego safe, city leaders, and different government agencies are coordinating like never before. We want to ensure the public gets real facts on COVID-19 and knows all the resources available to them to get through these trying times."
