Youth Leader Nomination Form

Whether it's at the library, a community group or a recreation program, San Diego is fortunate to have strong and confident girls and young women who enrich our communities and demonstrate valuable leadership skills every day. We want to encourage these future leaders to grow by helping them gain access to the best educational and extracurricular opportunities.

In recognition of Women's History Month, Mayor Kevin L. Faulconer, First Lady Katherine Faulconer and Chief of Staff Aimee Faucett are honoring the women who help make San Diego a world-class city for all with the Second Annual Women Elevate SD awards.

City of San Diego employees, many of whom work directly with families in our community, have unique insight into the leaders of tomorrow. City employees are invited to nominate young community members who show promise of being future leaders in San Diego. Ten deserving winners will receive a $500 scholarship from One San Diego toward the extracurricular or educational interest of their choice.

Children and teens living in the city of San Diego aged 5-18 are eligible for nomination. The awardees will be honored by Mayor Faulconer and First Lady Katherine Faulconer for City employees:
