Subject: San Diego City Clerk Looks to Improve Access to Municipal Code via Public Meetings

In order to enhance access and capabilities for users of the City's Municipal Code online, the City is soliciting feedback from members of the public on what they would like to have available on a Municipal Code online platform.

The Municipal Code is a collection of City ordinances that have been adopted by the City Council over the years. It is a living document and is continually amended to reflect the needs of the community. Currently, members of the public can access scanned copies of the Municipal Code in portable document format (PDF) on the City's website by searching for words and phrases found within the Municipal Code. The City is looking to enhance and facilitate access to municipal codes, such as the Land Development Code.

"It is critical that we receive meaningful input on how to access, view and read the Municipal Code from all stakeholders, including the building and development community, as we move forward with making decisions to improve the City's Municipal Code online platform," said City Clerk Diana Fuentes. "The information gathered from this outreach effort will provide the City with a strong framework on the needs of the public to access these essential municipal government documents."

The City will host two public meetings in October.
