

PROMISE ZONE SUMMARY

The San Diego Promise Zone is a federal designation that brings together different types of organizations to collaborate to support opportunity and investment in specific communities. The San Diego Promise Zone works to address systemic racism and inequities to improve the quality of life of more than 85,000 Promise Zone residents across Barrio Logan, Logan Heights, Southeastern, Encanto, and East Village.

HOUSING AFFORDABILITY WORKING GROUP

The Housing Affordability Working Group's mission is to increase access to quality affordable housing by creating new, affordable, and mixed-income residential units along transit corridors and preserving existing affordable housing within the Promise Zone. The Housing Affordability Working Group is prioritizing keeping Promise Zone residents housed and preventing homelessness, promoting resources to renters, and tracking housing creation and rehabilitation goals established at the start of the designation.
