Ring in the New Year with San Diego Public Library's Winter Reading Challenge

WIN PRIZES AND UNCOVER THE QUIET MAGIC THAT LIVES BEHIND ART

SAN DIEGO – This January, the Winter Reading Challenge returns to the San Diego Public Library (SDPL) with prizes, learning and entertainment for all. The theme of the challenge, “Every Picture Tells a Story,” invites participants to explore the hidden worlds that live within art by bringing creative ideas to life.

“Opening a book is the best way to keep sharp during the winter break,” said Library Director Misty Jones. “But this year’s Winter Reading Challenge offers much more than that. With art-themed events and programs for all ages, everyone can use the season to enrich their lives and continue learning.”

The program runs from Jan. 1 through Jan. 31 and is open to all San Diegans. Participants earn prizes — including entry passes to the Museum of Us and Mingei International Museum, free Wingstop coupons and more — by completing a combination of five books, five hours of reading and five “Every Picture Tells a Story” activities. Participants can also earn up to five digital raffle tickets for an opportunity to win movie tickets and art kits in a grand prize drawing. Activities can be found on the Winter Reading webpage and prizes will be available for pickup from Jan. 6 to Feb. 10, while supplies last.

Kicking off the challenge, a celebration event will take place from 10:30 a.m. to noon Saturday, Jan. 3, at Pacific Highlands Ranch Library, with self-portrait painting, refreshments and surprises. Wrapping up the challenge, a finale is scheduled for Tuesday, Jan. 27, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Museum of Us in Balboa Park. Additional events include the Mini Mingei Storytime and Craft with the Mingei International Museum, Crafty Adults Terrarium DIY and a Dragon Boat Craft with the Chinese Historical Museum.
