

It's been nearly 3 years since the OB Pier closed. Parking regulations are outrageous. Group activities like yoga (the things that bring us together) were banned in our beaches and parks until the California Supreme Court intervened. This is not the vibe.

I'm a proud OB resident, not a detached politician trying to enrich myself. I dug into our multibillion dollar budget and found waste, mismanagement, and a lack of accountability. That's no excuse to raise sales tax or parking rates.

San Diego is my forever home. I want to see it flourish and preserve its character—not become so overpriced and over-regulated that it turns into the kind of urban wasteland many San Diegans left behind.

I'll fight to preserve our unique diverse communities and small businesses, and represent the will of the real community.

I'm a first-generation American. My parents came to the USA as refugees with nothing. They taught me hard work and perseverance. I finished law school without connections, shortcuts, or safety nets. Representing people with fairness and honesty is what drew me into law. I intend to extend these values to everyone who calls this city I love home.
