SAN DIEGO FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER OPENS NEW HOME IN KEARNY MESA

Expanded facility at Sky Park Court opens Monday with no interruption in services

SAN DIEGO — After nearly a year of planning, the San Diego Family Justice Center will open the doors to its new home in Kearny Mesa on Monday, September 21, welcoming clients, partners and the community to 9275 Sky Park Court, Suite 300, San Diego, CA 92123.

The move is already underway. The San Diego Police Department's Domestic Violence Unit and the City Attorney's Gun Violence Reduction Unit are settled in, and the SDFJC team makes the move this weekend. The Center closes its downtown location on Friday, September 18.

No business days will be lost in the transition. Clients are encouraged to call and schedule appointments throughout the move at (619) 533-6000.

The new location offers plentiful free parking, convenient access to bus routes and five major freeways, and additional space designed around the people the Center serves. Clients who need help getting there can contact the Center for transportation assistance.

"Getting help should never be the hardest part of someone's day," said City Attorney Heather Ferbert. "This new space gives our team room to do this work the way it deserves to be done, and gives survivors a place that feels safe the moment they walk in."

The San Diego Family Justice Center provides personalized care plans to adults, older and dependent adults, children, and teens who have or are experiencing domestic violence, family violence, older and dependent adult abuse, strangulation, sexual assault, sex trafficking, or gun violence regardless of age, gender, sexual orientation, income, zip code, and immigration status. Services are available Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., with walk-ins welcome until 3:30 p.m.
