COMMUNITY OF CLAIREMONT TO CELEBRATE NATIONAL DAY OF UNPLUGGING Councilmembers Campbell & Cate to Donate Dozens of Books and Kickoff Technology-Free Scavenger Hunt

San Diego, CA: National Day of Unplugging is celebrated the first weekend in March. For more than a decade, this 24-hour period creates a break from technology and encourages everyone to have a healthy life/tech balance. The community of Clairemont, in partnership with the Little Free Libraries, San Diego Family Magazine, Live Well San Diego, and the San Diego County Bicycle Coalition, will be hosting a free Unplugging Scavenger Hunt from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. All ages are welcome. Participating scavenger hunters will have the opportunity to visit twelve Little Free Library locations throughout Clairemont in San Diego's second and sixth council districts.

The San Diego County Bicycle Coalition will be at Emily Dolton's Little Free Library providing free bike helmets from 10:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Cellphone "sleeping bags" will be given to kids at the kickoff, with a clue map to all the houses. Free books, seeds to plant, and fun games will be available throughout the day, as well as the opportunity to visit local landmarks, like Trixie the Dinosaur and Matt's Aliens.

"Thank you to Emily Dolton for bringing this inventive and socially distant way for neighbors to get some quality time out of their house and visit Clairemont libraries. Thank you as well to the Clairemont Town Council for promoting and supporting this great community activity," said Dr. Jennifer Campbell, Council President.

"Clairemont's National Day of Unplugging Scavenger Hunt is a great way for residents to decompress, unplug, and get outside. I commend the Clairemont Town Council for bringing this event to fruition and am pleased to donate a hundred books to support their endeavor," stated Councilmember Chris Cate, District 6.

Both Council President Jennifer Campbell and Councilmember Chris Cate will be bringing books to donate to the Little Libraries in Clairemont and kickoff the scavenger hunt at 10:00 a.m.
