

EPA Certified Renovator Training

Effective April 22, 2010, contractors who conduct home improvement activities in housing built prior to 1978 and child occupied facilities must be certified in accordance with the new EPA Renovation, Repair, and Painting (RRP) rule.

Common renovation activities like sanding, cutting, and demolition can create hazardous lead contamination which is harmful to adults and children. The new EPA RRP rule requires "Certified Renovators" be assigned to each project and ensure specific work practices are followed to reduce the risk of lead poisoning to both the workers and occupants who are subject to these types of renovation activities. The use of lead-safe work practices are already required to be used.

The City of San Diego Environmental Services Department is offering EPA's Certified Renovator Training. Upon completion of the course and passing the test at the end of the one-day training, attendees will receive EPA certification as a Certified Renovator. The cost is $135 per person.

April 25, 2012

Trainings are held at:
 Environmental Services Department
 9601 Ridgehaven Court,
 San Diego, CA 92123

Completed registration forms and payment must be received at least three days prior to the scheduled training. You will receive confirmation of your registration after payment and required information on this form is received. If the selected training is full, you will be placed in the next available training and contacted.

Cancellations must be in writing and received in our offices by mail or e-mail at lead-safe@san-diego.gov at least 5 full working days (Monday-Friday not including Holidays) prior to the class in order to receive a refund. The sender is responsible for assuring receipt of all cancellation notices. A $30 service fee will be applied to any check or payment returned for insufficient funds and may result with a claim with the Small Claims Court or any other legal remedy to collect such money. This course is only approved for purposes of certification under Section 402 of TSCA.

To register, please mail this completed registration form with a payment check for $135 payable to City Treasurer to:
