Juvenile Courts

A Drug Court is a special court that hears selected felony and misdemeanor cases involving non-violent, drug-using offenders. The San Diego Adult Programs, due to recent funding limitations, are limiting the enrollment to felons only at this time. The program includes frequent random drug testing, judicial supervision, drug treatment counseling, educational and vocational training opportunities, and the use of court-imposed sanctions and incentives. The Judge is actively involved in supervising drug court participants, rather than placing defendants in unsupervised probation or diversion programs. Upon successful completion of the criminal drug court program, which is a minimum of 18 months, probation may be terminated, or in rare instances, based on the recommendation of the prosecutor, the drug charge may be dismissed.

New Alternatives

Provides family focused services to child victims of abuse, neglect and abandonment. These victims frequently suffer from a variety of emotional and psychological disorders due to family histories of child abuse, substance abuse, family violence and mental illness. With treatment, many of these children will be able to break generational cycles of child abuse, substance abuse, family violence, homelessness and poverty. The core of this system of care is a variety of residential treatment settings that range in size from 6-48 beds. Each of these programs has been developed in response to a community need for specialized services for at risk children and adolescents. In addition to this core of residential treatment programs, NAI has developed a continuum of care that includes in-home prevention services, mental health programs, school-based services, foster care and a wide variety of residential programs.

YMCA - Childcare Resource Service (CRS)

YMCA Childcare Resource Service (CRS), a department of the YMCA of San Diego County, is committed to promoting the well being of children and families in San Diego County.

CRS works to assist families in finding quality child care, educate parents as consumers of child care services, assist income eligible families with child care costs, advocate for families and children at the local, state and national level. CRS also collects local child care supply and demand data and applies it to building child care capacity, assisting families of children with developmental disabilities with respite care, and providing child development resources, training and enrichment to child care providers.

YMCA - Youth & Family Services (YFS)

YFS services are organized into four service areas: residential, school-based, community-based and counseling. Residential services include the two Oz shelters for runaway and troubled teens, and the two transitional living programs for homeless youth: Turning Point, Mary's House (young women only), and Tommie's Place (for pregnant and parenting youth 18-21). School-based services, in addition to providing safe after-school programming countywide, provides school-based counseling. Community-based services offer prevention and education-based programs, including the Balboa Youth & Community Center, prevention initiatives focused on violence, gang, drugs and teen pregnancy, as well as clinical counseling, mentoring and healthy lifestyle education. Also operates an independent living skills program for former foster youth, helping them transition into independence. Counseling includes bilingual counseling services for individuals and families. The Teen Link Community Project is a collaborative with a focus on prevention (of teen pregnancy, substance abuse, and gang involvement) encouraging youth to reduce high risk behaviors through education in order to make positive life choice.
