The San Diego Police Department is investigating a peeping series and sexual assaults in Pacific Beach. In each of the crimes, the suspect has been described as a twenty to thirty year old Hispanic male, between 5'6" and 5'10" tall, weighing approximately 130 to 160 pounds. He is described as having black hair, usually pulled back into a ponytail, a slight to athletic build, and may have a thin mustache or goatee. In one case the suspect was described as having a large mole or blemish on his right cheek. The suspect has typically been seen wearing a dark colored baseball hat, a dark colored shirt, blue jeans, and tan work boots.

There have been ten cases reported since April 2006. Most of the crimes have occurred south of Grand Avenue, and west of Ingraham Street. In cases where entry was made into the residence, the suspect entered through an unlocked or open door or window. The majority of the cases occurred between 5 a.m. and noon.

The San Diego Police Department seeks your help with any information regarding the identity of this suspect.

The San Diego Police Department would also like to remind residents to ensure their safety by closing and locking windows and doors, while home or away. This will create an environment to deter criminal activity.
