POLICE CHIEFS CONVERGE ON SAN DIEGO FOR 115th ANNUAL IACP CONFERENCE

Conference To Feature International Speakers, Latest Technologies, and Education Opportunities Focusing on Solutions for the New World of Policing

San Diego, CA: More than 15,000 law enforcement professionals will gather at the International Association of Chiefs of Police's (IACP) 115th Annual Law Enforcement Education and Technology Exposition in San Diego, CA November 8-12, 2008. This annual gathering features highly rated seminars, forums, and technical workshops. Attorney General Michael Mukasey, Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) Director Robert Mueller, Director General of the French National Police, Frederic Pechenard, and Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff are scheduled to speak during the General Assembly sessions.

In addition to more than 185 workshops covering a variety of topics from homeland security to identity crime, the conference will feature hundreds of exhibits and numerous demonstrations. Attendees will have the opportunity to test many of the exhibitors' products.

Only credentialed members of the media may register for a complimentary press pass. To receive a press pass, all registered journalists must show a government issued photo identification and their press credentials upon arrival at the convention center. For more information about exhibits and workshops and to register, please visit:
