Free Screening of Benny Goodman Documentary at Central Library Program to Explore the Jazz Swing Era

SAN DIEGO – The City of San Diego Public Library will present Oren Jacoby’s 1993 documentary film Benny Goodman: Adventures in the Kingdom of Swing on Sunday, April 22, at 2:00 p.m. This free event will be held in the third floor auditorium at the Central Library, located at 820 E Street in downtown San Diego. This movie is the definitive film biography of the man who, with clarinet in hand, rose to become of the country’s cultural icons. The viewing and discussion will be moderated by Professor Rick Helzer, Associate Director of Jazz Studies at San Diego State University’s School of Music and Dance. Mr. Helzer will also give a short presentation before the movie. Leo Cates, on-air personality from KSDS-FM, Jazz 88.3, will be on hand to welcome participants. Essays written by eminent scholars and an extensive resource guide for additional reading, Web sites, videos and DVDs will be available to members of the audience.

This program, entitled “The Jazz Swing Era,” is the third in the library’s six-part documentary film viewing and discussion series “Looking At: Jazz, America’s Art Form.” The height of popularity for jazz came with the Swing Era, which lasted through the Depression and World War II. In the 1930s, Americans, facing the greatest economic calamity in their history, drew on swing as a respite from worry. Swing eventually became the popular music of wartime America with dance bands led by Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Artie Shaw, Benny Goodman and others.

“Looking At: Jazz” explores the history of jazz, an art form that evolved in the 20th century to occupy a unique place in American cultural history. The series is a project of Re:New Media in partnership with the American Library Association and Jazz at Lincoln Center, with major funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities, and support from San Diego State University and KSDS. Any views, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed in this program do not necessarily reflect those of the National Endowment for the Humanities. More information about the program is available at www.sandiegolibrary.org.

Additional jazz-related events will be held by the San Diego Public Library and its local partnering institutions in this venture, San Diego State University’s School of Music and Dance, which has the largest jazz studies program in California, and KSDS Jazz 88.3, San Diego’s premier jazz radio station, affiliated with San Diego City College.
