A Most Unlikely Hero

a documentary by Steve Okino

Wanting to serve his country, Bruce Yamashita entered Marine Corps Officer Candidate School. But because of his race and ethnicity, he was denied the chance to serve. Instead of giving in, he waged a lonely, five-year battle against discrimination in the Marine Corps, uncovering evidence that rocked the Corps. A Most Unlikely Hero demonstrates Bruce Yamashita's commitment to equal opportunity, fairness and justice.

The director of the film, Steve Okino, will be in attendance.
