

THE CITY OF SAN DIEGO

MEMORANDUM

DATE: December 20, 2021
TO: Honorable Council President Elo-Rivera and Members of the City Council
FROM: Brittany Bailey, Senior Policy Advisor, Office of Mayor Todd Gloria
SUBJECT: FY 2022 - 2023 Sexy Streets Project List

Mayor Gloria is focused on overhauling the way we prioritize road repair, using data to drive our decisions with a focus on equitable quality, long-term fixes for San Diego's most used streets.

This year, as part of the Mayor's Sexy Streets initiative, the Department of Transportation sought input from City Council regarding their priorities for street selection in developing the overlay program for FY22 and FY23. Thank you for your participation in this prioritization process.

Through the Sexy Streets initiative, the Department of Transportation integrated scoring from the Climate Equity Index (CEI) for the first time in its evaluation and prioritization. In addition to the Council's memos and scoring from the CEI, the Department of Transportation also examined pavement conditions, streets classification, traffic loads, maintenance history, and proximity to critical infrastructure or other specific benefits to historically underserved communities when selecting streets for potential resurfacing efforts in order to ensure the greatest and most durable return on investments.

In a time of limited resources with an overwhelming backlog of poor quality roads, this analysis is critical to ensuring that public tax dollars are have the highest return on investment.

In August 2021, City Council approved $293 million in appropriations, including roughly $40 million for the Sexy Streets initiative. The $40 million allocation will allow us to pave roughly 54 miles of road for San Diegans over the next two years, in addition to the $146m in road resurfacing projects currently in progress. However, our City has more work to do to address our infrastructure backlog and ensure that we maintain our roads in good repair for years to come.
