It appears as though a Neoclassical and California Bungalow were constructed side by side of the parcel and connected at a later date. The corer, Neoclassical style building features a hipped roof with exposed rafter ends, a recessed entry porch and wood sided exterior. The California Bungalow style building features a front-gabled roof and wood-sided exterior.

The building was rehabilitated in 2003; the non-conforming windows appear to have been replaced by conforming windows. It is in Fair condition. The total usable floor area is 1,564 square feet. The total lot area is 3,755 square feet. Contributing.

This two-story building was designed in the California Bungalow style and features a clipped, front-gabled roof, a shed-roof entry porch with round columns, and wood-sided exterior. A three-part wood window is located on either side of the entry. It is in Good condition. The total lot area is 5,001 square feet. Contributing.

A two-story building of similar design is located at the rear of the parcel. Per the current owner, this building was constructed circa 1926 for the nurse who attended to the first owner of the residence. She lived over the garage; the unit was connected to the house by an intercom which is still in place.

This one-story building was designed in the Moderne style and features a flat roof and stucco-clad exterior. The southwest corner of the building is angled, facing the intersection of Upas Street and 30th Street. A long flat canopy with curved edges and metal supports extends from the angled façade to the corner, providing coverage to the area once used for gas pumps. The business signage is located at the top of the canopy. The south elevation contains three service bays. It appears as though the window in the angled elevation and the storefront has been modified over time. It is in Fair-to-Poor condition. The total usable floor area is 1,100 square feet. The total lot area is 6,251 square feet. Non-Contributing.
