

Quality of Life Team Improves Public Safety

The issue of homelessness is a complicated social dilemma that impacts many parts of San Diego, and not just in downtown. There have been multiple cases in Council District 4, and the San Diego Police Department's (SDPD) Southeastern Division, along with several local organizations have gone to great lengths to notify and assist homeless individuals, as well as clean-up several sites.

Last week, the Southeastern Division's Quality of Life Team responded to concerns from Councilmember Cole and community residents regarding five homeless make-shift camps on Paradise Valley Road, Silk Place, Jamacha Road, Euclid Avenue and Emerald Hills.

Thanks to the efforts of the SDPD's Quality of Life Team, Homeless Outreach Team, City Environmental Services, and Alpha Project, the camps were cleaned of garbage and debris, and individuals were notified of potential violations and provided information for assistance.
