APPROVED QUOTE

"No one fulfills their potential unless someone, somewhere, at some time believes in them enough to give a second chance. We are doing just that in the City of Los Angeles, making a concerted effort to hire people from historically underemployed populations — including the formerly incarcerated — into the city's workforce. This symposium is part of a larger movement to lift people up, restore their dignity and give them an opportunity to transform themselves, their communities and our world." — Mayor Eric Garcetti
