

TEEN DATING VIOLENCE

Teen Dating Violence (TDV) is a pattern of violent or manipulative behaviors by a partner (or ex) to gain power and maintain control in a relationship.

The Warning Signs of Teen Dating Violence

PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Changes in appearance

- Unexplained bruises or injuries
- Unexplained or concerning change in weight
- Dressing out of character

SOCIAL / EMOTIONAL

Changes to how student interacts with others

- Isolation from former friends
- Little social contact with anyone but partner
- Making excuses/apologizing for partner's behavior

BEHAVIORAL

Changes in student's classroom demeanor

- Unexplained changes in classroom behavior
- New problems such as bullying or acting out
- Increase in negative self-talk
- Unhealthy sexual behavior

ACADEMIC / EXTRA-CURRICULAR

Changes in student's connection to school

- Recent changes in attendance
- Unexplained changes in schedule

Tips on How to #StartTheConvo

- Build Rapport - It takes time to build trust; youth may open up about their relationships as they are comfortable. If they don't want to talk to you, is there someone else they feel comfortable with?
- Disclose Your Status - Before you engage youth in a conversation, always disclose if you are a mandated reporter and what that means.
- The Goal isn't Disclosure - It is okay if a youth does not want to disclose. The goal is to create a space where students know they can talk to you without judgment or go to you for resources and support.
- Ask Open-Ended Questions - Create opportunities to check in with them and ask open-ended questions like, "I've noticed you've been struggling to pay attention in class - what's on your mind lately?"
- Validate Their Experiences - Let them know they did not deserve to experience abuse and the abuse is not their fault. Don't minimize the effect the abuse is having on the student.
- Involve Them - If they disclose, share what local resources are available to them and support them in their choices. Ask them how they want to move forward.

Remember! You do not have to support a student alone. Write down your designated go-to campus person if you need more support:
